LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are approaching the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Her presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required. Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, from security of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

The New York World advises the N. H. Democrats to nominate new candidates.

The official vote in Nevada gives Grant 1202 over Seymour. The Republicans have thirty-three majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

Disturbances have broken out upon the eastern frontier of Asiatic Turkey, between the Persians and Turks, which have led to the withdrawal of the Ambassador of the Porte from Teheran since these occurrences. Persia has been massing troops on her northwestern frontier.

Spiritualism is said to flourish in Michigan.

Trouble continues in Tennessee, and the Legislature has declared martial law in the State, and has called on Gov. Brownlow to call out the militia.

A grand International Exposition is talked of, to be held in New York city in 1876.

Additional reinforcements for the army in Cuba will soon sail from Spain under Gen. Pelocz. Returns from the provinces increase the overwhelming majority of the Government candidates elected.

Jason Kidder, the oldest member of the Shakers, died at the Second Family of the Enfield Society, Jan. 7. He was born in Alstead in Oct. 1781, being at the time of his death 87 years and 3 months old. When he was three years old his parents came to Enfield, and connected themselves and their children, some four or five in number, with the Shaker Society, where they have all spent their days, Jason being the last survivor. He had been prominent in the spiritual and business affairs of the community.

The Free Press says Irving E. Chandler was arraigned on the 11th for an attempt to rob Luther C. Hurlburt of Hanover, on a Lebanon highway, in Nov. last. He dropped some incautious remarks, and on arrest confessed and implicated his brother Amos, aged 18. He is in Haverhill jail, and now denies his sworn confession. The brothers are said to have done some stealing before. Irving is aged 20, and has been to the Reform School.

Charles Jewett of Peterborough was thrown down and trampled upon by a horse he was shoeing, on the 11th. He was badly bruised by the corks on the horse's shoes, but not seriously injured. Samuel Parker was badly cut by a circular saw. A military company has been organized in Peterborough, numbering fifty.

The catalogue of Dartmouth College for the year 1868–9 is printed, showing an increase in the number of students.

Mr. Robert S. Batchelder, an enterprising and business citizen of Salisbury, was found a few days since crushed under the trunk of an ash tree, eighteen inches in diameter, and badly injured. He was fortunately rescued in time to save his life. He states that in felling the tree it lodged against another, and threw the butt from the stump and struck him. It is not probable he could have lived an hour longer had he not been fortunately discovered.

Some good citizens of Charlestown are laughing, and some scolding, over the little Albums of a great gift enterprise.

Fairbanks' large planing, saw and grist mills at Keene were mostly destroyed by fire Friday night. The loss is estimated at $50,000; partly insured.

One barber at Great Falls broke his promise, not to shave on Sunday,—and the others, very naturally, broke up the bargain, and all lather away on that day as usual. This is the old story, in such and similar cases.

The Ashuelot Woolen Mills failed for a large amount on the 19th ult.

Congress.

On Friday, both Houses were engaged in discussions, and no important business was transacted.

☞ Independence in a paper or an editor, is possible, and not so difficult as some persons might suppose. But neutrality in politics is a very different thing, and it must be very difficult, if not impossible, to preserve such neutrality, without being entirely silent on the subject. We are led to say these things just now, by noticing that a new daily in Manchester, called the News, which began about a fortnight ago, professing to be neutral in politics, now speaks editorially of the "salutary influence of free and independent newspapers, upon the actions of men in official stations," &c. &c.,—and shows, unconsciously, a political leaning, quite consistent with independence, but not exactly so with neutrality.

Chronicle Correspondence.

JUSTICE COURT RECORD, York, Jan. 14, His Honor Justice Putnam, Presiding.—George Bowden v. Bradford W. Blaisdell, action in assumpsit, for one stove had and received of plff. by deft., value $13. Defence, that mother of deft. paid for same, to which mother swore. Plff. proved acknowledgement of debt in presence of officer serving process.

The deft. is a young man now occupied in teaching school. We learn he intends to enter as a student the law office of Hon. Joseph Dame of Kennebunk. He came to court with his plea written, which is a new idea and one that His Honor is inclined to think is without precedent; but he delivered it with that noble eloquence with which few are gifted,—but—yes, but—such a harangue of foul abuse as he heaped upon his worthy brother was enough for one to enjoy for at least 48 hours.

It was really eloquent and able; a splendid admixture of miscreant, vile, scamp, dishonest, unprincipled, and many other pretty words from the vocabulary of epithets. Whether such a course as a debut is praiseworthy is very much doubted. It is fair to presume that if a young lawyer wishes to rise to eminence in his profession, he should deal in no personal abuse, or vile vituperation. A straightforward, manly course is unquestionably the best.

Notwithstanding this eloquent plea, Justice Putnam couldn't see that the demand had been paid, and gave judgment in favor of plff., amounting to $20.53; from which judgment deft. offered an appeal, but failing to get bonds then and there, he was advised to pay up, and accordingly did so. Thus ended this important matter.

Yours. CLERK.

New Publications.

Hearth and Home, No. 5, for this week, is a capital issue of this new family paper—for the steaming, tempting list of contents of which, see advertisement.

The Schoolmate, an Illustrated Monthly for Boys & Girls, for Jan. 1869, begins Vol 23, of a popular and useful magazine. $1.50 per annum.—Joseph H. Allen, publisher, Boston.

Godey's Lady's Book, for February, has among the embellishments, Hush, he Sleeps, steel plate; Frozen Up; Fashion Plates, Children's Dresser, &c. The literature is of a high order.

Peterson's Ladies' National Magazine for February has a steel engraving, "Miss Lilly's Carriage stops the Way," Ladies and Children's Fashions, &c., &c., Chas. J. Peterson, Publisher, Philadelphia.

The Political Manual for 1869, compiled by George E. Jenks, Concord, contains nearly 300 pages of interesting political matter and statistics of our own State, together with valuable national statistics. This Manual increases every year in interest and importance, and has become an indispensable aid and book of reference for every business man, and no politician especially can do without it in New Hampshire. Sold by J. H. Foster, and at the other Bookstores.

THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT has formed the following estimates of the corn and cotton crops for the past year: In corn there has been an increase of 137,000,000 bushels on the last year, and in the aggregate an increase of 67,000,000 bushels larger than in 1859. This does not include the Pacific States, which are not favorable to the production of corn, but is a decrease in proportion to the population. The total product is 905,178,000 bushels. Cotton—since the October returns were received local reports from the cotton sections have been much more favorable, especially in the southwest, where the result in comparison with the average planted is better than in any preceding year since the adoption of free labor. The picking has been unexpectedly prolonged and the autumn was favorable. The estimate gives a total product of 2,380,000 bales, and this is believed to be below rather than above the actual yield.

The treaties between this Government and that of Great Britain on the Alabama claims, the rights of naturalized citizens, and the question arising out of the joint occupation of San Juan, are sent to the Senate. The Alabama treaty is concluded substantially on the original terms presented by our Government. As soon as the treaty was received in the Senate it was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations and ordered to be printed in confidence for the use of the Senate. The naturalization treaty, it is understood, concedes on the part of Great Britain that naturalized citizens shall enjoy the same rights in that country as native American citizens.

PARDONS.—The Gov. of Pennsylvania has released 106 inmates of the penitentiary, by pardon; the Governor of New York a large number, and the Governor of Maine pardoned 21.—Crime abounds and is encouraged when its penalty is thus remitted.—Coppery Ex.

Perhaps so: and if so, what would be the natural effect of Andrew Johnson's wholesale and retail pardons of the rebels?

MARK TWAIN writes that Greely once hired out as a writing master, but the enterprize failed. His first copy was, 'Virtue is its own reward,' and they got it 'Washing with soap is wholly absurd,' and so the trustees discharged him for attempting to convey bad morals through the medium of worse penmanship.

☞ The State Musical Convention at Concord closed on Friday evening last. It was a success in every respect.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would recommend them from his sickbed, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

NOT A BIT OF STAIN OR SMART will Wolcott's PAIN PAINT give; but it removes pain as quick as magic. Wolcott's ANNIHILATOR banishes Catarrh from the system, and all colds in the head. Recollect and get pint bottles, in white wrappers, $1, at druggists. j16 2wsaw.

FRANCE SNUBBED BY AMERICA.—The universal opinion of the American people, that France has never produced a perfume superior to PHALON'S new perfume, "FLOR DE MAYO," has greatly mortified the amour propre of the great toilet chemists of France. Neither French-made perfumes nor French-made potentates are wanted on this side of the Atlantic. Sacre!! Sold by all druggists.

IF SAMSON'S strength actually lay in the length and abundance of his hair, a liberal use of the famous "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" ought to impart many times the strength of that doughty ancient warrior, for there is no limit it will not reach if properly applied.—N. H. Patriot. 23

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE,
NO. 4 BULFINCH STREET,
(Opposite Revere House.) BOSTON.

The Trustees of this institution take pleasure in announcing that they have secured the service of the eminent and well-known DR. A. H. HAYES, late Surgeon U. S. ARMY, Vice President of Corcoran Medical College of Physicians and Surgeons.

This Institution now publishes the popular medical book entitled "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, OR SELF-PRESERVATION," written by Dr. Hayes. It treats upon the EVILS OF YOUTH, PREMATURE DECLINE OF MANHOOD, SEXUAL WEAKNESS, and all DISEASES and ABUSES of the GENERATIVE ORGANS. Thirty thousand copies sold the last year. It is indeed a book for every man,—young men in particular. Price only $1.00.

This Institute has just published the most perfect work of the kind ever offered the public, entitled "SEXUAL PHYSIOLOGY OF WOMAN, AND HER DISEASES," profusely illustrated by the very best engravings. This book is also from the pen of Dr. Hayes. THE MACHINE, CALLED MAN, is a very complicated and delicate one, and is more liable to get out of order, and much more difficult to repair, than any combination of wheels and cranks and levers made by the hands of man. Much care is bestowed on the human body, but of that. It is often calomelized, narcotized, depleted, and otherwise abused, when all that it really needs is a wholesome tonic and restorative, like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to put it in proper trim and keep it so. The stomach is shamefully maltreated. In the first place, the food which its juices are intended to dissolve, is too frequently thrown into it hastily, and in a half-masticated condition, in which state the gastric acid cannot properly act upon it. The result is dyspepsia. Then comes the doctor, and, finding the digestive organs weak and the bowels inert, he proceeds to weaken and paralyze still more with drastic purgatives. These failing—as they always do—to produce a salutary change, he tells the invalid that medical science can do no more for him. This, with the consequent living on slops, offers one of those mistakes which Talleyrand said were tantamount to crimes. What the dyspeptic needs is something to strengthen the stomach with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and the stomach will strengthen every other part of the human machine, and make it, in common parlance, as good as new. Upon the state of the digestion depends, in a measure, the condition of the whole system. Now, the Bitters are the most admirable tonic known. They consist of the finest vegetable invigorants and restoratives, combined with an unadulterated stimulant. The dyspeptic needs nothing else to effect a cure, except a light, nutritious diet, and a fair amount of exercise. Even in the absence of these last mentioned accessories, the tonic and alterative properties of the preparation will work wonders, enabling the dyspeptic to digest inferior fare with comparative ease, and to maintain a good habit of body, in spite of the drawbacks of a sedentary occupation.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—CONSTIPATION.—Violent cathartics aggravate this disease. When their action ceases, the vitiated and weakened bowels are less capable than ever of fulfilling their functions properly. In HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, sufferers from costiveness have a mild, genial purgative exactly suited to the exigencies of the case.—Instead of weakening the intestines, the pills brace and invigorate, as well as cleanse and regulate them. In the worst chronic phases of the complaint, they soon produce a permanent change of habit. Sold by all Druggists.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the patient, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d28

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, natural throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, makes the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to dry the throat, stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of themselves record. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach has lost its digestive power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to get flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, has increased 25 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery complaints similarly afflicted have applied to Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 36 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

CERTIFICATE FROM A. F. STERLING, ESQ.:

For two years I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia in the head, and found only temporary relief from all the various remedies that I have tried, until I applied one of "ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS." I cut it into three strips, placing one under each shoulder blade and the other over the small of the back, and for the past three months I have had scarcely a twinge of the old pain. I advise all who suffer from nervous diseases to lose no time in making a trial of the wonderful plaster.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE THESPIANS make their first public appearance in their own behalf, on Wednesday evening, and have prepared a very entertaining programme for the entertainment of their friends. Their creditable performances at the G. A. R. Fair advertised them extensively, and now that they have incurred great expense in rehearsals, procuring costumes and scenery from abroad, &c., we hope our fellow citizens will patronize them liberally, and help build up a flourishing Association. Our home talent should be encouraged, and we are pleased to learn that the tickets are selling rapidly. The net proceeds are to be reserved for a fund with which to buy scenery (which Portsmouth needs sadly,) to be used at other performances. We trust the Thespians will be greeted with a crowded house.

THE BLOWING OF HORNS.—The Exeter News Letter copies our item about the Internal Revenue crowd of that town, and replies to the effect that Portsmouth Republicans always blow their own horns; "in fact;" quoth the gentle Exeter editor, "we never knew of a horn that they could not blow." Now that's a compliment (from such a source) that would not be appreciated did it not come from adepts at the art of exalting one's horn. Our Portsmouth Republicans have yet to learn the Exeter sleight of hand trick of blowing in both ends of a horn at once, and have never yet found the new mathematical rule by which swinging round the circle is proved to be square. To be sure a corporal's guard sloughed off in a tangent like meteors on a November night, but the rank and file stood firm, and not only shamed them by example, but when the time came the meteors found themselves "sot back", to use the expressive and forcible language of the late Sam. Houston. Had Portsmouth Republicans swung about as did the Exeter meteors they would never have undertaken to rule conventions by force of impudence.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—I was in at the Mercantile Library Rooms on Friday evening last, and spent a very pleasant hour in noticing the interest which has lately sprung up in it. There were six new members admitted, and thirty new names proposed for membership, which will be added at the next meeting.—The secretary informs me that many more are about to join the ranks, and a general invitation is extended to all young men of good moral character to join this literary association, and enjoy its advantages for improving their minds; and it seems to me that sensible young men can do no better than to fall in and enjoy the debates, essays, and other exercises of this society.

I listened with great pleasure on Friday evening to a debate which took place at their hall, on the subject of life insurance. It was brought out in full force, and the affirmative and negative were well sustained by nearly all the members present; and it is the purpose of the members to have some question for debate on the bill for every evening of the season. I hope the Mercantile may live and thrive, as in the former days, and stand among our best institutions.

☞ Sunday and Monday were clear and bright, but cold. Thermometer Monday 8 above zero. The sleighing here is good, though very thin. We think we never before knew so much good slipping for so little snow. Newburyport has a little, but beyond that, the wheels are in demand.

☞ Mr. Scriggins, the well-known excellent Carriage Painter, has removed to the Chambers of the large wooden building on Fleet Street, west of Congress, opposite the Franklin Stables, formerly occupied as a stable loft by Mr. Webber and others.

☞ The late Mrs. Ann E. Salter Toppan of this city gave to Harvard College five thousand dollars, to found a scholarship, out of respect to her late husband, the Hon. Christopher S. Toppan; to be called the Toppan Scholarship.

☞ Aid Robert B. Palfrey of this city, has been ordered to report for duty in the U. S. Coast Survey, with Mr. Webber's party at the mouth of the Mississippi.

A TRAVELLING PUDDING.—On Thursday morning a package was received at the United States Express office having the following unique direction: "Stop? Handle me carefully. I'm an English pudding.—Don't you wish you had some? Trot me through by New Year's to Horace Wolcott, Farmington, Trumbull county, Ohio. From Wyoming, Kansas."—Cleveland Leader.

☞ Newburyport is desirous of having an express train from that city to Boston in the morning, and back at night.

From the Journal.

THE NAVY YARD.—Six laborers in the Civil Engineer's department were discharged from the yard on Tuesday—all Republicans, and five of them ex-soldiers in the rebellion war. Justice to Mr. Chandler, who lawfully has the election as to his employees, and to Mr. Moran, the foreman of the laborers, demands the statement that these men were discharged at the imperative demand of Admiral Lanman, while many Irish copperheads are retained in employment.

It is reported that Commodore Lanman has been ordered from this post, to be succeeded, on the first of March, by Commodore John R. Goldsborough, whose return will be gladly welcomed by all who know that gallant and gentlemanly officer.

HO! FOR LAIGHTON'S!—When people do make such a display of shelf goods as our friend Lafayette Laighton left on our table this week, we feel constrained to commend upon their merits more largely than our space permits. His advertisement this week must speak for itself.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—The following are the Rockingham County members of the Republican State Central Committee elected at the Convention at Concord on the 8th instant:—C. G. Conner, Exeter; W. H. Brickett, Hampstead; O. P. Patten, Kingston; Henry E. Eastman, Derry; J. Hodgdon, 2d, Portsmouth; W. N. Dow, Epping; S. A. Haley, Newmarket. The committee held a meeting for organization, and, chose Hon. E. H. Rollins of Concord, President, and J. F Pattee of Enfield, Secretary.

The Exeter News Letter gives publication to the exaggerated statement that "every third Republican in Portsmouth is circulating a petition for government office, from gatekeeper at the navy yard to assessor of internal revenue." It is true that Portsmouth is not exempt from office-seekers, but of a certainty Exeter is not so sinless in this respect as to be entitled to "cast the first stone."

The felicity in satire of B. P. Shillaber (Mrs. Partington) has been much admired, but his greatest achievment is in a private letter to the expiring President Johnson, in which he says his forbearance under abuse should assure him a niche as high as that of Job himself. Andy swallows the dose and gives the letter to the press, and "Perley" says it is rumored that the President has directed Secretary Seward to appoint Ike Partington to the first vacancy among the Consular pupils.

Chelsea bridge is to have the tolls removed in a few months, and then there will be no avenue of travel on which there is a private charge in all Massachusetts.

HORACE GREELEY was extensively lionized in Montreal, a short time since. He won a race with the Mayor on skates around the skating rink, when three bushels of bouquets were thrown at him, one of which tripped him up, and he went headlong, but happily escaped injury. The Canadians thought Horace a big thing on ice.

The confessions of Arnold and Atzerodt, two of the conspirators in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, are just published. They declare that they knew of no plan to murder the President, but that Booth's intention was to capture and kidnap him.

HEARTH AND HOME,

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY of 16 pages, FOR THE FARM, GARDEN AND FIRESIDE, EDITED BY DONALD G. MITCHELL AND HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

No. 5 NOW READY.

In this number is begun the publication of a new story of domestic life, written expressly for HEARTH AND HOME by MRS. REBECCA HARDING DAVIS, author of "Life in the Iron Mills," entitled

THE TEMBROKE LEGACY!

It will be copiously illustrated by STEPHENS, and will run through several numbers. The genius of Mrs. Davis, in its intensity and sombreness, strongly resembles that of JANE EYRE, and "THE TEMBROKE LEGACY" will be found to possess the highest interest.

No. 5 is a number of unusual richness, and we ask the lovers of good reading and fine engravings to buy and examine it. Read the

CARTER'S COMBINED WRITING AND COPYING INK.

This Combined INK has been awarded the Highest Premiums over all others in NEW YORK, BOSTON, BALTIMORE, and pronounced by the most celebrated chemists the best Ink ever offered to the public.

It is used by many of the largest Commercial Houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations in New York and Boston, and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks are:

First. It flows freely from the pen, and does not thicken by exposure to the air.

Second. It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy.

Third. It will not mold.

Fourth. Being equally as good for Copying as for Book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of Ink.

Fifth. It is more permanent than common Inks.

Sixth. The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a BRILLIANT JET BLACK—not a brownish black.

Seventh. It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and always "makes its mark."

This Ink is warranted as free as freely as Arnold's, or any other Writing fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any Copying Ink; and not to mould. For Sale by

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES

Of the "line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole

Grand Line to the Pacific

Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.

The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:

"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 157 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on the line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,158,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.

Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS (to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. If a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.

The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

THE AUBURN HORSE.

BY HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Mr. Bonner: I see by your papers that the Auburn Horse is dead! That was the very horse with which you promised to take me out to ride; and now,—it can never be! No such ride of course as Gen. Grant would expect at your hands, no wild dash around the course, no pulling up for me, amid a crowd of sporting gentlemen who would feel obliged to put on their good behavior, and nudge the too-free-speaking blades, saying; "Take care Tom, —there's a minister present!" You know that I do not think swearing is proper anywhere but in Courts, and of but little use there; yet, I confess to more respect for a bluff fellow who don't stop for a minister or anybody else, than for the virtue of that politeness which don't care for the Divine Presence, but draws a tight rein if a minister is present.

I never beheld a horse-race in my life, nor a regular trotting-match. You must not ask me whether I should hanker after it, provided there was no betting, no gambling, and no cheating or cruelty to animals! At any rate, I can well understand how one might be delighted to see a fair and honest competition between two strong and fleet steeds, which, like noble athletes, put their whole hearts into the strife. I should like to see an eagle swoop after his food, flinging himself down with headlong rush through the air, full away a thousand feet, with wings so controlled that he could strike to an inch, or if missing his quarry, that he could check the downward lunge, and silently rise again to his solitary hunting-grounds far beyond the reach of human eye! Why would not have a shuddering pleasure to see an old lion at bay among hunters? Or to see a salmon fairly mastered by a line finer than the finest silken thread. But, in all these there is an element of suffering which lessons the pleasure, though it may heighten the excitement. But a strong and healthy horse, well driven, presents the very maximum of physical energy and will, with a maximum of pain or even of fatigue. A skilful driver is always a kind driver. The most skilful driver is also always the kindest driver.

The Auburn horse is gone! Well, that ride which I have long tucked away among my good intentions can never come off! It was to have been on some quiet road, edged with trees, the sun lying in the west, and splashes of sunlight and shade lying in checkered heaps all along the road, and a whiff of sweet briar or of grape-blossoms coming across my face with every gentle puff of wind!

We have been walking slowly up a little hill. The descent, too, is over. A long level plain stretches out, full half a mile before us. The great creature knows as well as you do what is coming. His eye gets brighter. He is already excited. He is fretting for the word. He gets it, and quicker than an arrow leaves the bow, he is shooting with prodigious strides, lowcrouching. Out bolt his fore feet like smiting hammers, and yet, so elastic in his step that the ground is not pounded, his hoofs battered. The wind is rising! Your neck ribbon whirls and throws in the wind. Hold down your hat! Too late! Let it go! Where are the wheels? There are none; only four hazy blears! Sit easy, you cry—don't stiffen up and hold hard on to the seat—sway to the motion with elastic body, Who thinks of danger? Who sees anything but that amazing action, that play of muscle, all over quicker and finer than the play of keys in a piano. You lose yourself in the excitement. The buggy is horse. You are horse, all creation is horse, for the wild moment; and fences, bushes, houses, and doubtless the sun and moon, are all in this race.

As a word, it is all up! A faint quiver of excitement yet plays along his muscles, that have folded themselves and all lie at rest in their peaceful sheathes. You resume your identity. After all there are two—the horse and I! We are not mixed up then, beaten together like two eggs. No, the horse is horse and I am I. Well, that is a consolation —stop! I forget—Auburn is throwing his head uneasily. I have not spoken to him. "Good fellow!—nobly done! —splendid!" He knows what I say, and lays his nose somewhat confidentially on my shoulder.

Ah! Mr. Bonner, I hope you have not pulled off his shoes, sold him to the knackers, suffered his skin to go to the tan-vat, his hoofs to the glue makers, his meat to the soap men, his bones to the superphosphate factories. Ought he not to have respect in death, especially as he has no chance hereafter.

But are we so certain about that? Does not moral justice require that there should be some green pasture-land hereafter for good horses? say—old family horses that have brought up a whole family of their master's children and never run away in their lives? Doctor's horses, that stand unhitched, hours day and night, never knowing the post or fence, while the work of intended humanity goes on? Poor men's poor horses, that everybody laughs at on earth, and that yet give all their feeble power to keep their poor master comfortable? Omnibus horses that are jerked and pulled, licked and licked, ground up by inches on hard, sliding pavements, overloaded and abused? Horses that died for their country on the field of battle, or wore out their constitutions in carrying their noble generals through field and flood, without once flinching from the hardest duty. Or say horse, my old Charley, the first horse that I ever owned; of racing stock, large raw-boned, too fiery for anybody's driving but my own, and as docile to my voice as my child was! We were crossing the prairies more than twenty-five years ago, another horse by his side, and in the carriage wife, cousin and child. The road had been thrown up for thirty rods on either side, of a low rail bridge, across a sluggish stream; the ditch on either side full of water prevented any turning off the road if once you got upon it. I did get on it before I saw that the soil was the stiffest, greasiest, of blue clay, and that it was wet with recent rains. My horse saw the trouble before I did. He was nervous and troubled. There was reason. In the middle of the wide prairie, with no house within six or seven miles, and a wife and children behind you, no fences nor wood where, if stuck, you could get a lever to pry out.

I spoke gently, growing at each second a little more earnest. Every lift of the hoofs pulled out of the sucking mud sounded like a pistol. We neared the bridge. The road grew deeper—the mud more tenacious. For a second Charley seemed to despair. The black horse by his side was for giving up. I rose in my seat with a yell that startled Charley like breath on coals of fire. I brought down my whip on flanks seldom dishonored with a blow. In an instant he gathered himself like a buck for mighty leaps. He had the strength of ten horses. The muscles lay like knots and cords along his body. Away went the carriage, jerk by jerk, carriage and block horse, too—all dragged by the terrible earnestness of my brave Charley, till the bridge was reached and crossed, and the road on the other side, and the dry grass road once more gained! Did I not bless the ox whose hide made that harness? Did I not bless the men who put in those stout stitches?

Did I not dance and shout, and caress old Charley—yes, kiss him too! Did we not all get out, women and children, and pat and praise him, and did he not, like a prince as he was, yet trembling all over with excitement, receive our gratulations with proud intelligence? Charley was sold, on my removal, to a minister; somebody stole him and sold him to the Indians. I don't know what ever become of him. I should know him among ten thousand. Do you think that he is entirely put out?

If horses don't have another chance in a land of tender grass and infinite oats, then I think we ought to treat them a deal better than we do in this world.—New York Ledger.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

SECRETS OF THE GREAT CITY,

A Work descriptive of the Virtues, and the Vices, the Mysteries, Miseries and Crimes of New York City.

If you wish to know how Country Merchants are made and lost in a day; how Shrewd Men are ruined in Wall Street; how Countrymen are swindled by Sharpers; how Innocent Young Merchants and Blacksmiths; how Dance Halls and Gambling Saloons are Managed; how Gambling Houses and Lotteries are conducted; how Stock and Oil Companies Originate and how the Bubbles Burst, read this work. It contains over 30 fine Engravings, tells all about the Mysteries and Crimes of New York, and is the Spliciest and Cheapest work of the kind published.

ONLY $2,50 PER COPY!

☞ Send for Circulars and see our terms, and a full description of the work. Address JONES BROTHERS & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

Caution.—Inferior works of a similar character are being circulated. See that the books you buy contain over 30 fine engravings, and sell at $2.50 per copy.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rates ten cents each, per dozen, dollar, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of over three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BIRD QUILT, or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishments of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the leading paper of the Northwest. Their DIME system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of dry goods articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, twilery goods to their order are made in England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. ($3.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving Pearl barrel Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Casimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Alhambra Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Gent's Morocco Gloves.

CLUB OF SIXTY. ($6.) 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth Fashionable Dress Pattern. 2½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable Dress Pattern of Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair Gray Wool Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Patern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Broadcloth. Rosewood Brass trimmed Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($10.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Style Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair of good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club started, intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND NEW PRICE EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE-DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders. Address all orders and communications to the

ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY,

85, 87 & 89 COURT STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—As a matter of convenience to our distant customers, we are arranging with Apothecaries and other Merchants all over the country to act as Agents for distributing our Goods in their locality at our Warehouse Prices. We want one such Agent in every town in the Union. Traders desiring to be in towns where we have not already appointed one, are invited to correspond, as above, concerning it.

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

STATE RIGHTS: A DIALOGUE.—Coppery Exchange.—It is true that the question of the right of a State to secede from the Union, was referred to the arbitrament of arms, and the decision was against that right. But no other right of the States was decided by the contest; no other was in issue.

Uncle Toby.—Pres. Buchanan decided that a State had no right to secede; and arms decided it over again the same way. President B. also decided that the United States had no power or right to coerce a State. But the people of the United States had the power to coerce Rebel States,—and they did so, in spite of the copperhead hiss and the rattle-snake bite.

The howling over miscalled State Rights, is so much wasted breath. The democratic voters of New Hampshire, with few exceptions, neither know or care much about it; tho' their demagogues do so, and they try to frighten their dupes; but most of them are not very much frightened, after all.

SLURS ON WOMEN.—At a recent dinner, at which no ladies were present, a man, in responding to the toast, "women," dwelt almost solely on the frailty of the sex, claiming that the best among them were little better than the worst, the chief difference being in their surroundings. At the conclusion of the speech, a gentleman present rose to his feet and said:

"I trust the gentleman, in the application of his remarks, refers to his own mothers and sisters, not to ours."

The effect of this most just and timely rebuke was overwhelming; the maligner of women was covered with confusion and shame. This incident serves an excellent purpose in prefacing a few words on this subject. Of all the evils prevalent among men, we know of none more blighting in its moral effects than the tendency to speak slightingly of the virtue of women. Nor is there anything in which young men are so thoroughly mistaken as in the low estimate they form of the integrity of woman, not of their own mothers and sisters, thank God, but of others, who, they forget, are somebody else's mothers and sisters.

Plain words should be spoken on this point, for the evil is a general one, and deep-rooted. If young men are sometimes thrown into the society of thoughtless or lewd women, they have no more right to measure all other women by what they see of these, than they have to estimate the character of honest and respectable citizens by the developments of crime in our police courts.

Let young men remember that their chief happiness in life depends upon their faith in women. No wordly wisdom, no misanthropic philosophy, no generalization can cover or weaken this fundamental truth. It stands like the record of God himself—for it is nothing less than this—and should put an everlasting seal upon lips that are wont to speak slightingly of women.—Packard's Monthly.

THE WEATHER HAS MODERATED.—We heard of one individual whose wife had long importuned him to buy her a pair of skates. On leaving the house after tea, Christmas eve, he promised to bring her the coveted articles that night as a Christmas present. Of course she was delighted. Visions of daily trips to the Rink (and trips on the ice perhaps) ran through her head throughout the evening. But the hours wore away and no husband, and what was worse under the particular circumstances, no skates. Along about two o'clock in the morning the truant husband came stumbling in. It was a terribly cold night, but he was all aglow. In a voice, rendered exceedingly thick by the egg-nogg he had been taking, he said:

"Midear, (hic) wissomerry (hic) Chris'us."

The good woman's thoughts were too intent upon skates to fully comprehend his situation.

"Where are my skates?" she exclaimed.

"Wha' skates, my dear?"

"Why you told me you would bring me home a pair of skates for a Christmas present."

"So I did, my love," suddenly recollecting, "so I did; but you see ska'nz gone, the we'er's (hic) mo'erated."

THE LATEST SWINDLE is described by the Lowell Courier: "A man hires a horse and sleigh and sets up as a produce vender, only his produce is imaginary. He drives up to a store and desires to borrow money to change a ten-dollar note, having sold a tub of butter to the man next door. If the trader demurs at lending money to a stranger, the stranger frankly offers to leave his buffalo robe, or his horse blanket, or whip as security. Having realized four to six dollars on this collateral he drives away and never returns to take his goods out of pawn. Of course an examination discovers the mark of the owner of the property, and the trader finds himself vicimized. A well known trader was induced to loan the rascal six dollars 'to break a ten-dollar note with,' and to watch the horse of the borrower "for a moment," as security. Having carefully watched the horse from early in the forenoon until supper time, it was discovered that the team belonged to a livery stable there, and that the accommodating trader was six dollars out. A similar game is reported as having been played at Providence.

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable one of division, and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES. Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Feeling, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is the great constitutional nutritive make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]

LICENSE, PROHIBITION, AND POLITICS.

A Dialogue.

Manchester Union.—When the Democrats were in power in this State, it will be remembered that that they maintained a license law, which was rigidly enforced.

Uncle Toby.—We would be greatly obliged to the Union or its editor, or to anybody else, who will tell when it was, that any license law was rigidly enforced in New Hampshire. We have been somewhat interested in the subject of Temperance for the last forty years and more; and have paid some attention to the laws; but we do not remember any time when the above statement could be made with truth.

Union.—In fact, it was a system which the liquor dealers themselves were careful to see enforced. Considerable revenue was derived from it, and twenty years ago liquor was not sold at over a dozen places in this city. If liquor sales were taxed as they used to be, they would nearly or quite pay our annual expenses; yet we now get neither revenue or reform.

U. T.—We would like some proof that the body of liquor dealers, ever, any where, were careful to see the restrictive part of a license liquor law enforced. The license or liberty part of it, was used and approved, years ago, by liquor dealers in Portsmouth, and so in Boston, about 50 years ago; but we never saw or heard of any complaint by the licensed against the unlicensed; and we cannot believe there were any considerable numbers of such complaints, unless we see the proof of it.

As to revenue,—all the revenue that Portsmouth has derived for licenses to retail spirits during the last 40 years of license, (previous to prohibition,) would not pay the board of one pauper in the Almshouse during the same time. If Manchester did better, we would like to know it.

As to the places where liquor was sold,—these, in Portsmouth, were reduced, at one time, to 40 (nominally to 37,) for a few days,—not by a license law, but by the Washingtonian effort, about 28 or 29 years ago,—and very soon, after it was seen that the Washingtonians could not prevent license or sale, as they tried to do, the number rose to 60, and remained so for years.

Manchester News.—We commend these statements to the attention of the many loud-talking and do-nothing temperance men and temperance organizations in this city. We should like to know what good men accomplish by talking temperance at temperance meetings, to temperance people, and steadily refusing to stop liquor selling, when the laws and public opinion would both sustain them in enforcing the laws.

U. T.—If the writer or editor of the News, had ever tried to enforce the liquor laws, or to have them enforced, he would not talk in this random style. The loud-talking temperance men of Manchester, similar men in Portsmouth and in other places in New Hampshire, who did try, earnestly and persistently, to enforce the laws now in existence, and who were successful sometimes, but often failed, did not find public opinion unanimous in their favor; but were met with threats, with actual and violent assault, and with all the obloquy which the democratic press could cast upon them; and they found but a feeble support from the timid but real friends of temperance.

They naturally became weary of this work; but being attached to temperance as a principle, they have been, it appears, in Manchester, organizing and "talking temperance to temperance people." It seems this is exactly what the rum papers have been recommending, viz., moral means, in preference to legal.

We do not believe that any of the leading temperance men of Manchester refuse to stop liquor selling;—but experience has taught them that they cannot do as they would. Therefore they do what they can—but they do not expect any temperance measure to please their opponents, who have either a party or a pecuniary interest on the other side. Let them talk on:—and when public opinion will sustain them and the Law, it will be enforced, either as it is, or improved. But they do not mean to "beat the air."

A few days ago a lad about 12 years of age, beastly intoxicated, attempted to throw himself from the bridge into the river at Lewiston, Me., but a gentleman rescued him from his desperate situation just as he was about to make the leap.

—A very important question will soon demand the decision of Secretary Rollins. It is: Will a man who hires velocipeds be compelled to take out a livery stable keeper's license?

By-Laws of Dover Building Association.

This Association shall be called the Dover Building Association, and shall have for its object the building, selling and renting of houses in Dover.

SECTION 1. Any person may become and remain a member so long as he shall pay into the Treasury the sum of five dollars per month, and shall have as many votes as he has shares of five dollars each.

SEC. 2. The officers shall consist of five Trustees chosen by a majority vote of the shares, and a Secretary and Treasurer chosen by the Trustees, who together shall constitute a Board of Directors, who shall have entire charge of the money and business affairs of the Association, four of whom shall constitute a quorum. The Directors may employ a Business Manager, under whose direction the buildings may be erected, if they shall deem it best for the interests of the Association to do so.

SEC. 3. All monies paid in shall be put upon five per cent. interest on the first day of January and July, and certificates of the money value of the shares may be issued at any time to those who desire, which amount shall be paid by the Treasurer six months after the issue of the certificate.

SEC. 4. The houses erected by the Association may be sold, by vote of the Directors, to the member offering the largest bonus over the cost of erection, and in no case no offer is made equal to the cost to the Association, the houses may be rented on lease to the member offering the most bonus for the lease.

SEC. 5. The terms of payment shall be as liberal as is consistent with security, and all money and interest to the credit of the purchaser shall be credited to him on the purchase, and all that may accrue to him from his payments and interest shall be credited to him on the first days of January and July thereafter, until he has paid for his house. The money of the Association may be loaned to a member desiring to build, upon such terms and securities as the Directors may deem advisable.

SEC. 6. The Association shall take an account of its assets on the last week of December in each year, and shall credit each share its pro rata of profits over the interest in proportion to the number of months it has been paid upon, but such profits shall not be divided until three years from the date of organization, unless a majority of the shares shall vote to do so.

SEC. 7. The meetings for the election of Directors, and other business requiring the sanction of the Shareholders, shall be holden on the last Wednesday of December in each year, when the report of the Treasurer and Directors shall be read and acted upon.

SEC. 8. These By-Laws may be amended by a vote of two-thirds of the shares of the Association represented at any regular meeting, and the Directors shall call a meeting of the shareholders upon a petition signed by one-fifth of the shares.

THE WASHINGTON CHURCH.—Some of the enemies of Gen. Howard have hit upon a new way of justifying themselves in their church quarrel. Dr. Boynton's son being the Washington correspondent of several Western dailies, their 'specials' have been flooded for some time with charges of fraud, corruption and mismanagement in the Freedmen's Bureau. As one after another is regularly proved to be false a new one is concocted, and, from the diligence with which this is persevered in, great faith is evidently attached to this new method of harmonizing church difficulties.—Advance.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the sideboard, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

(Opposite Revere House,) BOSTON.

The Trustees of this institution take pleasure in announcing that they have secured the service of the eminent physician, DR. A. H. HAYES, late Surgeon U. S. Army, Vice President of Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons, &c.

This Institution now publishes the popular medical book entitled "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, OR SELF-PRESERVATION," written by Dr. Hayes. It treats upon the EVILS OF YOUTH, PREMATURE DECLINE OF MANHOOD, SEXUAL WEAKNESS, and all DISEASES and ABUSES of the GENERATIVE ORGANS. Thirty thousand copies sold the last year. It is indeed a book for every man, —young men in particular. Price only $1.00.

This Institute has just published the most perfect treatise of the kind ever offered the public, entitled "SEXUAL PHYSIOLOGY OF WOMAN, AND HER DISEASES," profusely illustrated by the very best engravings. This book is also from the pen of Dr. Hayes. Among the various subjects may be mentioned, The Mystery of Life,—Beautiful Offspring,—Beauty, its Value to Woman,—Marriage,—Criminal Hygiene of Woman,—Puberty,—Change of Life,—Excesses of the Married,—Prevention to Conception, &c. In beautiful French cloth, $2.50; Turkey Morocco, full gilt, $3.50. Either of these books are sent by mail, securely sealed, postage paid, on receipt of price.

The "PEABODY JOURNAL OF HEALTH," a first-class Quarto of Sixteen Pages, with Illustrations, —published on the 1st of February, and every month during the year. Subscription price per year only 50 cents. Specimen copies sent free to any address, on application to the Peabody Medical Institute.

THE MACHINE, CALLED MAN,

is a very complicated and delicate one, and is more liable to get out of order, and much more difficult to repair, than any combination of wheels and cranks and levers made by the hands of man. As a rule it is bankered too much, and badly tinkered at that. It is often calomelized, narcotized, depicted, and otherwise misused, when all that it really needs is a wholesome tonic and restorative, the HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to put it in proper trim and keep it so. The stomach is shamefully maltreated. In the first place, the food which its juices are intended to dissolve, is too frequently thrown into it hastily, and in a half-masticated condition, in which state the gastric acid cannot properly act upon it. The result is dyspepsia. Then comes the doctor, and, finding the digestive organs weak and the bowels inert, he proceeds to weaken and paralyze still more with drastic purgatives. These failing—as they always do—to produce a salutary change, he tells the invalid that medical science can do no more for him. This, with all due deference, is a mistake—one of the many mistakes of Allopathy, and were tantamount to crimes. What the dyspeptic needs is invigoration. Strengthen the stomach with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and the digestion depends, in a measure, the condition of the whole system. Now, the Bitters are the most admirable tonic and stimulant in all the pharmacopœia, combined with an unadulterated stimulant. The dyspeptic needs nothing else to effect a cure, except a light, nutritious diet, and a fair amount of exercise. Even in the absence of these last mentioned accessories, the tonic and alterative properties of the preparation will work wonders, enabling the dyspeptic to digest inferior fare with comparative ease, and to maintain a good habit of body, in spite of the drawbacks of a sedentary occupation.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter rises in the lungs and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, causes them to cut it by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon ripe-ripe; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice, to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, heetic fever, and to stop what they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make good blood out of the food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but not a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yj14

Was there ever published stronger evidence than this?

CERTIFICATE FROM A. F. STERLING, ESQ.:

For two years I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia in the head, and found only temporary relief from all the various remedies that I have tried, until I applied one of "ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS." I cut it into three strips, placing one under each shoulder blade and the other over the small of the back, and for the past three months I have had scarcely a twinge of the old pain. I advise all who suffer from nervous diseases to lose no time in making a trial of the wonderful plaster.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years has been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

FUNERAL AT RYE BEACH.—A very large concourse of neigbors, citizens, and residents of adjoining towns, gathered at the Farragut House on Tuesday afternoon, to pay the last sad office of respect to the memory of Mr. John C. Philbrick, the late landlord of this well-known hostelry—which was now changed from the house of feasting, to that better habitation of mourning. It was said to be the largest gathering of the sort ever held in the old town, and the procession (on foot of course) to the grave, numbered three or four hundred persons.

Rev. Mr. De Normandie, of the Unitarian Church in this city, officiated, in his usual hopeful, comforting, cheering manner; the services consisting of Scripture selections, prayer, a brief sermon or exhortation, reading the beautiful hymn, "Nearer, my God, to thee," and benediction.

Mr. Philbrick was a Free Mason, a member of St. Andrew's Lodge of this city; and members of the Order from Portsmouth, to the number of about forty, escorted the body to the family burying ground, a few rods from the House, on the opposite side of the road—Mr. Charles W. Gardner reading the service at the grave, in the absence of the Lodge Chaplain.

Rye may well mourn Mr. Philbrick, on public grounds as well as socially, for he was a most prominent and enterprising citizen—and with his father, was one of the first to perceive and develope the advantages and attractions of Rye Beach, from which has arisen great benefit to that town, and not a little to Portsmouth. His plans for the future, as we have heretofore stated, were on a still larger scale,—but death has taken him, and others must carry on the work he did so well.

The deceased was an especial and cordial friend of the writer for many years; and as we stood on his beach for a moment on this lovely winter's afternoon, looking toward the burial place of the King of Appledore on the one hand, and Boar's-head on the other, with the Ocean House nearer in the view—the swashing of the cold waves brought Tennyson strikingly to mind:

At the foot of thy crags, Oh Sea!
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Can never come back to me."

David Nudd of Hampton, Job Jenness and John C. Philbrick of Rye, and Thomas B. Laighton of the Shoals, were mighty men, each in his province; but Mr. Jenness (long may he abide) is now alone left of all the quartet—and for the others, the sea sings an everlasting requiem to their memory. To which, Peace! F.

DON'T FORGET the Entertainment at the Temple, this (Wednesday) evening, in which the Thespians, who are always willing to aid charitable institutions by their performances, have a word or two to say for themselves. The Maid of Croissey, which is first on the bills, has never been publicly performed in this city, and is a very excellent minor drama; and we think will be creditably brought out. Among its pleasing features will be the singing and dancing of the villagers, in which a dozen or more young ladies and gentlemen appear. The scenery and costumes arrived from Boston, Tuesday evening, and will add much to the general effect of the presentation of this drama. DeWitt's full Quadrille Band are to furnish the music.

The reading by Miss Annie Louise Fitts and singing by the double quartette,—Messrs. J. C. and L. F. Butler, L. D. Spalding, E. P. Davis, A. A. Fernald, W. N. Tisley, T. S. Nowell, and J. C. Goodrich, (who have kindly volunteered to assist,) will be especially interesting.

The laughable farce, Servants by Legacy, will close the performance,—in which a troublesome colored individual figures extensively with Dan. O'Neil, a mischievous Irishman, in making merriment. The irrepressible McIntire is cast as Dan., which is saying enough to those who have seen him once. We predict that the audience present will be greatly amused, and if the varied programme does not thoroughly satisfy them, it will not be in default of efforts on the part of the amateurs to present faithfully and creditably the plays which they have chosen in which to make their opening bow to the public.

☞ We learn that Rev. Mr. Beebe, who has been for many years the Missionary and Physician at Gosport, came very near losing his life; being out on the Island in the severe storm of January 1st, he was prostrated by the furious gale, and remained for nearly an hour by the roadside, in a semi-unconscious condition. He still feels some effects of the exposure, but attends to the duties of his charge as usual.

Communication.

CARTER'S COMBINED

WRITING AND COPYING INK.
This Combined INK has been awarded the Highest Premiums over all others in NEW YORK, BOSTON, and BALTIMORE, and pronounced by the most celebrated chemists the best Ink ever offered to the public.

It is used by many of the largest Commercial Houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations in New York and Boston, and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks are:
First. It flows freely from the pen, and does not thicken by exposure to the air.
Second. It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy.
Third. It will not mold.
Fourth. Being equally as good for Copying as for Book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of Ink.
Fifth. It is more permanent than common Inks.
Sixth. The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a BRILLIANT JET BLACK—not a brownish black.
Seventh. It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and always "makes its mark."

This Ink is warranted to flow as freely as Arnold's, or any other Writing fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any Copying Ink; and not to mould. For Sale by

THE UNION PACIFIC
RAILROAD COMPANY
OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.
NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES
Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole
Grand Line to the Pacific
Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.

The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:

"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.

Besides a donation from the Gov. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,158,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.

Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Moregage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. If a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.

The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—
JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,
And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing all report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

Abraham Drake.

A STORY OF INDIAN WAR.—Many years ago, amongst a quantity of old letters, I found one detailing minutely the attack of the Indians on Hampton, which took place about the close of King Phillip's War; namely on the 13th of June, 1677.

The letter was written three days after the attack, and the following is the substance of it. The Indians who committed the depredation were led by an Indian known among the English settlers by the name of Simon, who was well acquainted with many of them, having lived some time with them before the war. His attack on Hampton was not his first exploit for he had performed several before that, after which he with his followers would cross the Pascataqua and elude pursuit. Some little time before he fell on Hampton, with about twenty of his men, he recrossed the river and lay hid in the woods between Greenland and Hampton.

The town had kept a sharp lookout for Indians by its wards, and knew by the tracks discovered on the 17th of June that some were in the vicinity. A number of Hampton men had been detached to serve in garrisons in neighboring towns, some of whom were just returned from points where the danger was considered over. Three men who had been on duty in the garrison at Oyster River, being on their return to Hampton, stopped on a plain about four miles from the most advanced house of the settlement, and seated themselves on the ground "to take tobacco." They had doubtless been watched by the enemy, who surprised and shot two of them, namely, Benjamin Hillard and Caleb Towle, whose dead bodies were the next day found, which exhibited shocking marks of torture. The other man, a friendly Indian, barely escaped with his life; being pursued by Simon in person, was seized in a swamp by his clothes, but succeeded in freeing himself by leaving all his garments in Simon's grasp, and continuing his flight naked to the town.

This gave the alarm, men were called home from their labors in the fields, who without loss of time seized their arms and sallied forth to meet the enemy. There was but a single exception. Abraham Perkins, who lived near the plain where the two men before mentioned were slain, perished in going to his house against the remonstrances of his neighbors, and there fell a victim to his temerity, being shot by the Indians as he was going out at the back door of his house, falling dead upon the door sill.

In the meantime such of the "troops" as could first hurried to the scene of action. These were about twelve in number, among whom were Abraham Drake and Edward Colcord. On arriving at Abraham Perkin's house they found the Indians posted behind a stone wall, who opened upon the troopers with a heavy volley. But nothing daunted, these horsemen charged upon them, firing upon every Indian head they could discover, till they were relieved by the arrival of the foot soldiers. Early in the fight, Drake and Colcord being in the advance, the former received a shot in his right hand, which so shattered it that his gun dropped from it, and Colcord was mortally wounded by a shot in the bowels. He died the night following, after riding home with his companions.

At length by the aid of a reinforcement of foot under Henry Roby, the Indians were put to flight, and pursued to a place called North Hill Bridge.—Here they were come up with and vigorously attacked, but soon fled, leaving their packs and other plunder behind them. From the traces of blood, several of the enemy were supposed to have been killed or badly wounded.

Dr. Belknap in his History of New Hampshire barely mentions this attack on Hampton, but quite erroniously. My chief authority for the above narrative is the above mentioned letter, dated three days after the fight, written by the Rev. Seaborn Cotton, then minister of Hampton. It cannot but be perfectly reliable, as he had sufficient time to hear from the actors in the affair all the particulars.

There are several of the great-great-grandsons of Abraham Drake now living in Pittsfield, not one of whom are aware, probably, of the narrow escape of their ancestors from death at the hands of the Indians as here narrated. Abraham Drake was at that time hardly twenty three years of age. He died in 1814, aged 70.

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The following are the resolutions of the Republican State Convention holden at Concord on the 7th inst., which were unanimously and enthusiastically adopted:

Resolved, That the Republicans of New Hampshire through their delegates in Convention assembled, congratulate the people of the Union upon the recent glorious triumph of Liberty, Loyalty and Peace, in the election of Grant and Colfax.

On the one side stood arrayed those who had been recent glorious triumph of Liberty, Loyalty and Peace, in the election of Grant and Colfax.

On the other side were marshaled all patriotic citizens who had sustained every measure designed to put down the rebellion, and were determined that those who had aided and countenanced the rebellion should control the nation and thus make another rebellion impossible. Nine tenths of the brave soldiers who fought under the stars and stripes voted for the Republican banner and declared that Union Soldiers and not rebel leaders should stand foremost in the redeemed Republic. By the unanimous suffrages of Union citizens and soldiers the revolutionary platform of the New York Convention and all its supporters were defeated and utterly destroyed, and as the Grand triumph of a Republican, so by his election as President was achieved a victory of the Union, the Constitution and American Liberty, over Rebellion, Oppression, and the worst forms of Despotism.

Resolved, That the people expect and require, as the result of the election, that a patriotic President and a radical Congress will put an end to the murders of Southern Unionists for no other offense than that of being Republicans and laboring for General Grant's election; that disorganized districts and the murderers by military power if necessary; that they shall maintain to the fullest extent the right of suffrage for the loyal black man; that they shall continue the disfranchisement of the desperate and dangerous rebels, and enact and enforce martial law throughout the South, until Freedom of Speech, Freedom of the Political action, shall be secured to every citizen, white or black, of Northern or of Southern birth, on every foot of Southern soil which has been conquered and declared Loyal to Freedom by the valor of the Soldiers of the Union.

Resolved, That we are in favor of Impartial Suffrage, for all loyal citizens, in the election of Members of Congress and Presidential Electors, and we call upon Congress to secure it by enacting the necessary laws, or by sending to the Legislatures of the States the necessary constitutional amendment.

Resolved, That the very existence of republican institutions is endangered by frauds upon the ballot box and we therefore call on the general voter of the State of New-York was wrested from Grant and Colfax and recorded for Seymour and Blair, and that it is the duty of Congress to investigate such frauds, to cause them to be punished, and to enact laws to prevent their future perpetration.

Resolved, That the people have emphatically declared against lavish expenditure of the national debt incurred to save the Union, and that they will tolerate no form or device of repudiation; that for the purpose of lightening the burdens of the people, and of restoring the business of the country to a sound basis, the government should adopt the speediest means to make the payment of all the United States worth a dollar in gold, and to fund the outstanding obligations of the government in new bonds bearing a lower rate of interest.

Resolved, That the interests of New Hampshire require that the earnest attention of its people, of its legislatures and of its public men, should be directed toward a fuller development of the great resources of the State; of its agriculture, of its mines, of its manufactures. With the great West constantly in rebellion against agricultural products, and with the South opened to free labor and to manufactures heretofore excluded, it will be necessary to the continued growth of the New England States that they should study and develop their natural resources to the fullest possible extent. To this end we demand liberal legislation to encourage the investment of foreign capital in New Hampshire, the continued progress of our railroads within the State, attended by economical management and the cheapest possible fares and freights, and the extension of every practical encouragement to all attempts at the improvement and development of the many natural resources of the State.

Resolved, That we cordially indorse the administration of his Excellency Governor Harriman, his devotion to the best interests of the State, his efforts for its development, his patriotism as a citizen, as a soldier, and a Governor, merit and will receive the lasting gratitude of the people of New Hampshire.

Resolved, That we present, with the utmost union and harmony our candidates for the coming election,

OXSLOW STEARNS, for Governor,
BARTLETT B. D. CHARLES, R. R. Com. on d
JACOB H. ELA,
AARON F. STEVENS, and JACOB BENTON,

for re-election to Congress.

We challenge criticism upon their character and fitness for the positions for which they are nominated. We have faith in their integrity, their ability and their patriotism. As the candidates of their choice the Republicans of New Hampshire propose to elect them by overwhelming majorities.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,
65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,
LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.
Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, or nine cents, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks will be exchanged for a Gold Watch, Ball Bat, Quilt or a Silver-Plated Revolving Table Castor, with Five Bottles. Read what the Rev. Mr. Northrop, of Toledo, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL. Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become a familiar as household words throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the leading merchants of Boston. Their GIFT system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of goods than any other agency, if not all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order by Rogers' Saloon and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in to us. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one selling goods in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. ($3.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving Pistol. Silver-Plated Table Spoons, 6 beautiful Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cashmere Dress Pattern. Large Size Ball Bat. Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. A thumbra Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Gent's Pocket Stock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. ($6.) 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 34 yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable Dress Silk. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Proofing. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($10.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's Fashionable Fur Cape Wrap. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. One pair of good white woolen Blankets, large size. Fancy Shawls Double width Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar. One dozen Ivory-Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Table Spoons. White Marseilles Counterpane and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you want a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH STREET CHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clube to GARMENTS of every description MADE up in the LATEST STYLE, or according to the fancy of the purchaser, and perfect satisfaction given.

For COATS, PANTS and VESTS, his stock of Goods embraces all varieties of Fine, Plain and Fancy Patterns—something to suit every taste.

Particular attention is paid to the making of REGULATION UNIFORMS, for Navy or Army.

He has a remarkably complete stock in the department of

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,

Comprising Drawers, Shirts, Bosoms and Collars; Buck, Kid, Silk, Lisle Thread and Woolen GLOVES; Pocket and Neck Handkerchiefs, Neck Stocks and Scarfs, Suspenders, &c.

Every article is made faithfully, of the best materials.

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed the "fine price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders. Address all orders and communications to the

ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY,

85, 87 & 89 COURT STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—As a matter of convenience to our distant customers, we are arranging with Apothecaries and other Merchants all over the country to act as agents for distributing our Goods in their locality at our Warehouse Prices. We want one such Agent in every town in the Union. Traders desiring it in towns where we have not already appointed one, are invited to correspond, as above, concerning it.

We have appointed

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. It is composed of vegetable ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,
S. DANA HAYES,
State Assayer of Massachusetts.

The Chronicle.

Wanted—A Clerk.

A few days ago a gentleman advertised in this paper for a clerk, and requested applicants to address their notes to him at the Ledger office. By the close of the first day on which the advertisement appeared there were four hundred and eighteen applicants for this one clerkship. This afforded a most forcible illustration of the extent to which the occupation of clerking and book-keeping is overstocked in this city.

But a few months previous the head of a business establishment, who wished some help in the way of writing, but in which some literary ability was required, advertised for an assistant, at a moderate salary, and having incidentally mentioned that the position might suit a lawyer or physician not in good practice, got more than a hundred applications, of which fifty-three were from young doctors or lawyers. Here was another instance of the over supply of the professional or "genteel occupations."

Another advertiser in the Ledger, who wanted a person to take charge of the editorial department of a weekly paper, got fifty-seven applications, not more than half a dozen of the applicants being recognized newspaper writers, but nearly all of them being clerks, book keepers and professional men.

Still another advertised for two apprentices in a wheelwright and smith shop, in one of the semi-rural wards of the city, requesting applicants to give their address and age. He got three applications, but in every case the applicant was too old, two of them being over eighteen, and one nearly twenty.

Still another advertised for an office boy, about fourteen years old, and had so many applicants that his place was crowded for more than five hours, and the applicants were of all ages, from mere children not more than twelve years old to full grown men of twenty-five.

These are not very cheerful or encouraging signs. They are such, however, as every man and woman in Philadelphia should give attention to. The present generation of young men seem to have a strong aversion to every kind of trade, business, calling or occupation that requires manual labor, and an equally strong tendency towards some so called "genteel" employment or profession. The result is seen in such lamentable facts as those above stated—a superabundance of elegant penmen, book-keepers and clerks of every kind who can get no employment, and are wasting their lives in the vain pursuit of what is not to be had; and a terrible overstock of lawyers without practice and physicians without patients.

The passion on the part of boys and young men to be clerks, office attendants, messengers, anything, so that it is not work of the kind that will make them mechanics or tradesmen, is a deplorable sight to those who have full opportunities to see the distressing effects of it in the struggle for such employments by those unfortunates who have put it out of their power to do anything else by neglecting to learn some permanent trade or business in which trained skill can always be turned to account.

The applications for clerkships and similar positions in large establishments are numbered by the hundreds, and that would be thought of by those who have no chance to witness it. Parents and relatives, as well as the boys and young men themselves, seem to be afflicted with the same infatuation. To all such we say, that the most unwise advice you can give to your boy is to encourage him to become a clerk or a book keeper. At the best, it is not a well paid occupation. Very frequently it is among the very poorest.

This is the case when the clerk is fortunate enough to be employed; but if he should happen to be out of place, then comes the weary search, the fearful struggle with the thousands of others looking for places, the never-ending disappointments, the hope deferred that makes the heart sick, the strife with poverty, the humiliations that take all the manhood out of the poor souls, the privations and sufferings of those who depend upon his earnings, and who have no resource when he is earning nothing. No father, no mother, no relative should wish to see their boys or kindred wasting their young lives in striving after the genteel positions that bring such trials and privations upon them in after life.

How do these deplorably false notions as to choice of occupation get into the heads of boys? Why do they or their parents consider it more "genteel" or desirable to run errands, sweep out offices, make fires, copy letters, &c., than to make hats or shoes, or lay brick, or wield the saw or jack-plane, or handle the machinist's file, or the blacksmith's hammer?

We have heard that some of them get these notions at school. If this be true, it is a sad perversion of the means of education provided for our youth, which are intended to make them useful, as well as intelligent members of society, and not useless drags and drones. Should it be so, that the present generation of boys get it into their heads that, because they have more school learning and book accomplishment than their fathers had, they must therefore look down upon the trades that require skill and handicraft, and whose productions make up the vast mass of the wealth of every country, then it is time for the Controllers and Directors to have the interior walls of our schoolhouses covered with maxims and mottoes warning them against the fatal error.—Philadelphia Ledger.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Searing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Restlessness, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the uleration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, said she, so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee are scourged by the small pox.

Maine is to have an Agricultural Convention.

A shock of an earthquake was felt at St. John, N. B., on Saturday morning, lasting about one minute, during which time vibrations were quite perceptible.

The London Times alludes in terms of the highest praise to the treaty which has just been concluded between Great Britain and China through Mr. Burlingame and the Chinese Ambassadors.

Dispatches from India report that sharp shocks of an earthquake have been felt in Calcutta and Assam.

Complete returns of the elections in Spain, just concluded, for members of the Constitutional Cortes, show that an overwhelming majority of the people are in favor of a government monarchical in form. The cities of Seville, Barcelona, Saragossa, and some others, however, have been carried by the Republicans, and the strength of that party in the new Cortes will be about 100 members.

The universal suffrage decreed by the revolutionary authorities of Spain raises the number of voters in the country from 318,271 to 3,619,642—all of them Spaniards, and all over 25 years of age.

One of the heaviest snow storms ever known at the South visited Alabama and Mississippi last week.

Among the persons killed by the explosion of the steamer Glide, near New Orleans, a few days ago, was Major Matthew R. Marston of the First U. S. Infantry, and a son of Commodore Marston of Philadelphia.

The National Woman's Rights Convention is in session at Washington.

Hon. Zachariah Chandler of Michigan, Gen. Carl Schurz of Missouri, and Senator Pomeroy of Kansas, all Republicans, were elected Senators from their respective States on Tuesday.

A Bangor dispatch says, the friends and neighbors of Hannibal Hamlin, numbering nearly one thousand, and accompanied by a band of music, met him at the depot upon his return from the successful Senatorial campaign at Augusta. He was received with deafening cheers and escorted to his residence.

The New England pioneers, who left the Eastern States for California in 1848 and the two or three subsequent years, are arranging for a grand trip homeward on the opening of the Pacific railroad next summer.

Congress.

In the House on Monday, Mr. Coburn of Ind., on behalf of Mr. Ela of New Hampshire, offered a resolution directing the Committee on Public Expenditures to inquire into and report the facts and circumstances concerning the contract with Wells, Fargo & Co., for carrying the United States mail between the termini of the Pacific Railroad, the character of the contract, its terms, probable cost of service and the manner in which the service has been and is being performed. Adopted.

Mr. Holman of Ind., offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That in the present condition of the national finances no further subsidies ought to be given by Congress, either in bonds or money, to railroad or other corporations, or to promote private enterprises, but the whole resources of the country ought to be applied to the pressing necessities of the public service, in such a manner as will relieve the people from the burdens of taxation.

The resolution passed 90 to 67. Messrs. Ela and Benton of N. H., voted yea.

The Senate on Tuesday passed the Copper bill. The New England Senators succeeded in carrying amendments to it imposing an ad valorem duty of 45 per cent on manufactured copper; imposing a duty of 5 cents a pound on blue vitriol; and providing that ore shipped now shall not be liable to increased duties.

A CALIFORNIA MILLIONAIRE.—A letter from San Francisco, speaking of the richness of the White Pine Mining district in Nevada, says there is now in that city a middle-aged man who a year since was at work by the month as a mechanic, and not worth a dollar. To-day he is worth at least $1,000,000 in hard coin, and his income from one mine alone in White Pine is over $1500 per day. He is investing his money in real estate in San Francisco. The other day a friend was joking him on the subject of marriage, remarking that he could now marry any young lady in San Francisco, to which he replied:—"Well, I knew a gal out West who was willing to marry me when I hadn't a cent, and now I'm able, I'm going to marry her."

MURDER AT CLAREMONT.—On Monday evening, at Claremont, George Woodel, a farmer, living in a remote part of the town, was murdered between 5 and 6 o'clock in his own house, by his nephew, William N. Kenney, without provocation and with no apparent motive. Kenney entered the house while Woodel and his wife were at supper, and attacked Woodel with a knife, inflicting three terrible wounds—one on the face and two on the throat—one of which severed the jugulr vein. He lived but a few moments. K. then took an ax and inflicted four more terrible wounds upon his victim's left shoulder, arm and hip. He then attacked Mrs. Woodel with the ax, inflicting a terrible gash upon her head, cutting through the skull. She made her escape, with her babe, to her husband's father's near by, and gave the alarm. She is now alive, and may recover. She was able to testify before the Coroner's jury. Kenney escaped without coat or hat, and is now at large, but will probably be captured. He is 23 years old, has three half brothers living in Boston, and was, during the summer, engaged in lumbering in Maine.

City Marshal Johnson of this city arrested a man named James Horton, hailing from Hanover, on the arrival of the train from Concord, Tuesday evening, and still has him in custody. He answers to the description given of the murderer and gives no satisfactory account of himself.

New Publications.

HOW TO MAKE THE FARM PAY; or the Farmer's Book of Practical Information on Agriculture, Stock Raising, Fruit Culture, Special Crops, Domestic Economy, and Family Medicine. By Charles W. Dickerman, of Pennsylvania, assisted by Charles L. Flint of Massachusetts, and numerous other celebrated and practical agricultural writers. Illustrated with one hundred and forty engravings. Published by Zeigler, McCurdy & Co., Philadelphia.

This is a large and handsome volume of 750 pages, crammed full of interesting and valuable information for the Farmer's use in doors as well as out; and sold by Mr. Harrison J. Philbrick of Kittery, who is the Agent in this vicinity, for $3.75 or $4.50, according to binding.

Our Rulers and Our Rights, or Outlines of the U. S. Government, is a different sort of a Book, (of 500 pages or more) but also valuable and so handy to have at call—and this is likewise for sale by Mr. Philbrick, as above. It is finely illustrated, and sold for $2 or $2.50, in different styles.

It is a useful and valuable book, as an aid to Families, Teachers, Students, Business men and persons of all classes in understanding the origin, progress, development, theory, practice, and machinery of the United States Government, in all its departments. It contains in compact and methodical form, and in language within the comprehension of all, a complete epitome of our institutions, their origin, history, character, philosophy, and results.

It also contains for ready reference a very complete Historical compendium of the principal events in our National career. As a book of reference for the library, and of every day utility, it is unsurpassed by any work of its size extant.

The American Year Book and National Register for 1869. This is the title of a new and useful book, soon to be issued in a volume of 800 pages, by O. D. Case & Co., Hartford, Conn.; who have sent us, in advance, several sheets of the work. The volume will, when complete, furnish a large fund of late and valuable information respecting the United States, the affairs of the State and General Governments and public institutions; the finances, industrial interests, and resources of the country; the political, financial, and commercial condition of foreign countries; and various other subjects of general interest.

We used to set a high value on the United States Almanac; then on the American; and lastly on the National Almanac;—and the old numbers are before us now.—But nothing of the kind has been published since 1854, on a larger scale than the Tribune Almanac. The American Year Book is designed to fill the vacancy; and no doubt will do it well. The work will be sold by travelling Agents, and those desiring to secure agencies, should apply to or address O. D. Case & Co., publishers, Hartford, Conn.

—In order to amuse the children on a Sabbath, a lady was engaged in reading from the Bible the story of David and Goliah, and coming to that passage in which Goliah so boastingly and defiantly dared the young stripling, a little chap, almost in the first trousers, said: "Sister, skip that; he's blowing; I want to know who licked."

THE GREAT SEAL OF ENGLAND is one of the ludicrous relics of the olden time. The Concord Patriot mentions that Mr. Joseph Pallaiser of that city has received a most ponderous parchment from England, in the shape of Royal letters patent for "improvements in the manufacture of elliptic springs for carriages and other vehicles." It then goes on to describe the curious document as follows:

There are two parchments, one about two feet by three, and the other two thirds the size of the first. Both are surrounded by ornamental borders and the usual allegorical representations of Peace, Plenty, Justice, and the coat of arms of the United Kingdom. The parchments are united by the string of the seal. The seal is the main curiosity. It is of wax, of the color of mustard, and in size much resembles a pie. Its weight is at least three pounds. On the principal side is a representation of the Queen on her throne, wearing the crown and holding in her hands the sceptre and orb. Figures representing Justice and Religion are at her side, and the whole is surrounded by a wreath of roses, with oak leaves. The reverse side has a representation of the Queen on horseback, with a page.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

THE MACHINE, CALLED MAN,

is a very complicated and delicate one, and is more liable to get out of order, and much more difficult to repair, than any combination of wheels and cranks and levers made by the hands of man. As a rule it is deadered too open at all times of of that. It is often galomelized, narcotized, depleted, and otherwise misused, when all that it really needs is a wholesome tonic and restorative, like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to put it in proper trim and keep it so. The stomach is shamefully maltreated. In the first place, the food which its juices are intended to dissolve, is too frequently thrown into it hastily, and in a half-masticated condition, in which state the gastric juice cannot properly act upon it. The result is dyspepsia. Then comes the doctor, and, finding the digestive organs weak and the bowels inert, he proceeds to weaken and paralyze still more with drastic purgatives. These failing—as they always do—to produce a salutary change, he tells the invalid that medical skill can do no more for him. This, with all due deference, is a mistake—one of those mistakes which Talleyrand said were tantamount to crimes. What the dyspeptic needs is invigoration. Strengthen the stomach with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and the stomach will strengthen every other part of the human machine with which it harmonizes and sympathizes, as good as new. Upon the state of the digestion depends, in a measure, the condition of the whole system, and well-directed efforts to aid it are sure to be tonic known. They consist of the fine t vegetable invigorants and restoratives, combined with an unadulterated stimulant. The dyspeptic needs nothing else to effect a cure, except a light, nutritious diet, and a fair amount of exercise. Even in the obstinate case of those last mentioned accessories, the tonic and alterative properties of the preparation will work wonders, enabling the dyspeptic to dispense inferior fare with comparative ease, and to maintain a good habit of body, in spite of the drawbacks of a sedentary occupation.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration. Or when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to digest the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, heats, fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make good blood out of good food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely to all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was weakening down to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and advised him to make his will. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish the lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 33 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Monday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yjs4

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

MIDDLE ST. BAPTIST CHURCH.—The Journal Annual Meeting of the Parish was holden on Tuesday evening, when the following gentlemen were re-elected to serve as Wardens for the ensuing year: Horton D. Walker, Jos. D. Akerman and J. Chaplain Carr. Mr. Walker was also elected Treasurer, in which capacity he has served for the past 26 years. The report of the Treasurer—which shew the Parish to be in a flourishing condition and entirely free from debt, with $144.75 in the treasury—was read and accepted.

By the report of Mr. T. S. Nowell as organ Committee, it was shown that the Ladies' Fair contributed $614, J. C. Carr $500, Mayor Jones $500, Horton Walker and Thos. S. Nowell $300 each, Organ Concert $113.50, Samuel Leaves, Geo. W. Plumer, and Frank Johnson $100 each, Josiah G. Hadley, L. W. Brewster and Wm. R. Preston $50 each, Edw. D. Coffin $25, and all others had contributed in smaller amounts sufficient to pay the whole price of the Organ.

Mr. J. C. Carr, as Chairman of building committee, reported the cost of remodeling the Church to be $7100, which amount had been liberally subscribed by several gentlemen with the expectation of being partially re-imbursed at least, by the sale of pews.

A preamble and resolutions were read—and adopted by the Society tending thanks to the building committee and Thos. S. Nowell for their successful exertions; also to the Unitarian Society for the liberal use of their Chapel. After the business of the Parish had been transacted the sale for choice of pews commenced. The first choice for $1005, and second for $700 were taken by Mayor Jones—being pews No. 49 & 9. The third choice to Horton D. Walker for $462, pew No. 74; fourth Thos. S. Nowell for $300, No. 48; fifth to J. C. Carr, for $350, No. 9; sixth to Edward D. Coffin for $100, No. 3; and so on down as low as $5 for a choice. A large number were sold and there are a few more left.

The whole cost of remodelling this church edifice, including the Organ, carpets, gas, &c., &c., is $13,000; and the Society re-occupy their beautiful house of worship with the satisfaction of knowing that it is entirely free from debt—every dollar of it being paid, and insured for a term of years.

☞ We have made arrangements with a former contributor to the columns of the Chronicle and Gazette, for a series of articles descriptive of incidents and accidents by sea and land in which the writer participated during his travels in all quarters of the world. We have already received the opening chapters of the series, entitled "A Boat Excursion" (in which the writer has a thrilling account of his experience at whaling), which will appear shortly.

NAVY YARD MATTERS. — 16 Boiler Makers, 14 Blacksmiths, 3 Brass Founders, 1 Iron Moulder, 4 Coppersmiths, 8 Pattern Makers, 2 Painters, 4 Storekeepers, and 54 Machinists,—106 in all, were discharged from the Yard on Wednesday, by orders from the Bureau of Steam Engineering.

THE ROBBINS PROCESS.—There is something wonderful in the immense success achieved by Mr. L. S. Robbins and his process for preserving wood. The matter is attracting attention the whole world over. There is hardly an inventor who has not considered it, and not a scientific society by whom its merits have not been discussed. It is universally deemed one of the greatest inventions of modern times, since it applies in a most practical manner to nearly everything in use.

Mr. Robbins, who has an unpretentious office at No. 68 Broadway, and who has been an inventor for a number of years, taking out probably more patents than any other American, had studied for years over the idea of a process for preserving wood through centuries. At last he made the lucky hit, and one that all agree must be a perfect success. A company was formed, State rights have been sold—in one instance for one hundred thousand dollars—and all the workers in wood everywhere are after the privilege. Inventors are not always left to see others carry away the profits of their labors. Mr. Robbins is surely happy in witnessing the fruits of his years of experiment, and in participating in its splendid success. Just now the wooden pavements are especially interested in securing the privilege. But it applies to nearly everything made of wood.—The City," New York.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—Mr. Thos. Jamison, 20 years of age, a fisherman at the Shoals, split open his left eye with a fish knife, accidentally, on Sunday, while cutting a rope. The humors of the eye ran out and the sight was destroyed. Much sympathy is felt for the sufferer by his associates, among whom is a great favorite. By the advice of Dr. Beebe, he was taken to the Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston, where his employer, Mr. Alvin Newton, has secured the best of treatment for him.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT, Jan. Term. The court commenced its session before Doe, J., at Exeter on Tuesday. Prayer by Rev. J. Learned of Exeter. First action tried was Morris J. Lamprey vs. Joseph Jenness. This was a suit to recover for services rendered Jenness in carrying on his farm and supporting him under a contract to have the farm at his death, which contract was broken by defendant as L. contends without cause and for which the pliff. seeks damages. Given to the Jury Tuesday evening. Hackett for pliff. Hatch for dft. Verdict for pliff., $263.86.

G. A. R.—Department of New Hampshire.—The delegates of the Grand Army of the Republic of the Department of New Hampshire met at Memorial Hall, in Manchester, Tuesday evening, to transact general business and for the election of department officers for the ensuing year.

The attendance from the different sections of the State was very large, and the Convention very spirited and harmonious. The following named Comrades were unanimously elected: Grand Commander, Daniel J. Vaughan of Portsmouth; S. V. G. C., James E. Larkin of Concord; J. V. S. C., I. W. Babbitt of Keene; Assistant Inspector General, J. W. Crosby of Milford; Assistant Quartermaster General, L. E. Wallace of Manchester; Assistant Surgeon General, S. C. Whittier of Great Falls; — Chaplain, Reuben Dodge of Manchester; Council of Administration—Chas. Scott of Peterborough, A. H. Bixby of Francestown, J. B. Cooper of Newport, T. W. Chellis of Manchester, John W. Parsons of Portsmouth; Delegate at Large, George T. Carter of Concord;—Special Delegate. S. F. Murray of Manchester. J. Horace Kent of Portsmouth declined the election of the latter in favor of Comrade Murray.

The Department is in a flourishing condition, and will number 5000 members at the next semi-annual meeting.

The headquarters of the Department will be at Portsmouth for the next year and the meetings at Manchester.

☞ The State Convention of the Democratic party, at Concord, on Wednesday, nominated Gen. John Bedell for Governor, and Gen. M. T. Donohue for Railroad Commissioner.

THE TREATY WITH ENGLAND.—The commission is to consist of four members, two to be appointed by England, and two by the United States. The commission will hold its sessions in Washington. Its first business will be to select an umpire. Failing in a choice, each side will appoint an umpire, and when the Commissioners are equally divided, they shall select by lot one of the two umpires to render a final decision. One of the Sovereigns of Europe is to be selected by the commission to arbitrate on points of international law, including the question of the Southern States as belligerants by Great Britain. Each government is to formulate and advocate the claims of its citizens. No individual claimant will be heard before the commission, and all claims must be presented within six months of the first day of the meeting of the commission, and all indemnities are to be paid within eighteen months from the same day. One year is allowed for the ratification of the treaty.

—Who is the man that sent an anonymous contribution in bank notes to the amount of over five thousand dollars to Dr. Hall, to make up a collection to ten thousand dollars? Was it not Mr. Fisk of Fisk & Hatch? We do not know, but he has done such things before in that same church, and we have our suspicions. It was noble, anyway.—N. Y. City.

— A lady in Paris was out of all patience and spirits at hearing nothing but French, day after day. One morning she heard a cock crowing, and exclaimed: "I'm thankful there's somebody who speaks English."

This INDISPENSABLE ARTICLE supplies a want felt in every family, being useful in raising Bread or yeast, for holding Dishes when cooking; for drying Tin, Wooden Ware and articles of every description; for keeping Drinks and Food Warm without injury to the dish or food. It is also convenient to place a Lamp upon while cooking, in fact various and numerous are the uses to which it is put, proving itself a blessing which every housekeeper appreciates.

PHYSICIANS RECOMMEND IT. One of the greatest sources of Consumption and Colds is wet or damp feet. Upon these Shelves Boots, Shoes, Stockings, Rubbers, Gloves, &c., are thoroughly Dried and Warmed, without danger of burning or scorching, as is often done for want of a suitable place to put either.

It is also of great advantage in Offices and Stores for warming and drying various articles without danger of burning.

Many are the TESTIMONIALS in its favor. It will speak for itself, and those who once have it will never be willing to part with it, and wonder how they ever did without it.

CARTER'S COMBINED

WRITING AND COPYING INK.

This celebrated INK has been awarded the Highest Premiums over all others in NEW YORK, BOSTON, and BALTIMORE, and pronounced by the most celebrated chemists the best Ink ever offered to the public.

It is used by many of the largest Commercial Houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations in New York and Boston, and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks are:

First. It flows freely from the pen, and does not thicken by exposure to the air.
Second. It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy.
Third. It will not mold.
Fourth. Being equally as good for Copying as for Book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of Ink.
Fifth. It is more permanent than common Inks.
Sixth. The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a BRILLIANT JET BLACK—not a brownish black.
Seventh. It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and always "makes its mark."

This Ink is warranted to flow as freely as Arnold's, or any other Writing fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any Copying Ink; and not to mould. For Sale by

THE UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD COMPANY

OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES

Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole

Grand Line to the Pacific

Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.

The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:

"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered, to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,156,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.

Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. It is bound with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.

The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 50 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

Morning Chronicle.

THE MAYOR OF NEWBURYPORT, Hon. Nathaniel Pierce, is another of the few Democratic Mayors of New England. But in his Inaugural Address he does not seem to exactly agree with some other Mayors who make proclamations a little farther downeast. We make a few extracts. He commences by suggesting to the City Council that they May perhaps be studious not to imitate those who have flourished in all ages, whose only strength is in vociferation, whose Lilliputian acts bear strange contrasts with their enormous pretensions, who as if big with the fate of Cæsar and of Rome, and on a special mission, rave at the amount of a fourpenny expenditure and attempt the superintendance of the various departments, whose fate has ever been to point a moral or adorn a tale; nor those who would block up the road to improvement, stop all enterprise, discourage all new things, who have eyes for pennies alone, and whose only forte is saying No, No, No. * * *

Whether the Public Library of Newburyport is doing a great work, I do not profess to be able to decide. It may be that the action of the Directors tends to the accumulation of books for quietude rather than circulation. Perhaps libraries should be the books which represent the ideas and portray the facts of the times of their collections as well as of preceding periods. Perhaps there should be books which will be sought after centuries hence, to show the rise and early progress of the novelties of to-day, which will live, and also those which will die—as well as books of the earlier times, which tell us of the virtues and follies of former generations—of books that display the visions and dreams of Germany of to-day, as well as of those which are full length portraits of John Calvin and others of that suit. * * *

The Highways of the city are generally in a bad condition, and yet maintained at an apparently great annual expense. Last year though some seventy-five hundred dollars were expended, this sum was not sufficient to put the roads in good order. These streets principally used should be paved as soon as labor and material can be obtained at the cheapest rate. The streets of Newburyport will assume a creditable appearance as soon as the distance between it and Boston is decreased, time the measure—by the use of a double track on the same road between the two cities. Lying under shadow of the great city of New England, at less than an hour's journey therefrom, her vacant lots will be built upon. She will become the residence of business men, her valuation will be increased, and her resurrection begun, her natural advantages fully improved, and she the happy home of thousands more.

It is a misfortune that while material and labor are at so high a rate, and the public debt so large, (nearly twenty thousand dollars interest annually to pay) that the valuation, so-called, of the city of Newburyport, is so small. Our expenditures are no more than they should be, but our means being limited the proportion is comparatively great. We have only to double our valuation and have our rate of taxation down to some nine dollars on a thousand. This is a very simple truth, almost too plain to support a statement. The residence of some dozen Boston merchants here would do the business, and a reasonable advertisement of a city where the taxes are less than ten dollars on a thousand, with suitable railroad accomodations, would tend to double our population, multiply our valuation, and advance our rate of municipal living to a respectable degree.

When I suggest the propriety of bringing the territory of Newburyport into the Boston market, of making it the residence of wealthy men, who live while they live, I would not be considered to ignore our shipyards, our cotton and comb factories, or even the hat, barrel and collar ones; but in addition to these I would invoke the aid which may be derived by means of a double track to Boston; a new railroad from Newburyport through Amesbury to Exeter; the opening and navigation of the Merrimack river; and a horse railroad to Salisbury and Amesbury.

But these enterprises need, in order to be started or carried on, greater industrial means than generally are to be found in Newburyport, and a disposition to increase the valuation of the city greater than exists among the few comparatively wealthy people of Newburyport. The first thing to be done in order to increase our valuation and introduce improvements, is to import some citizens who have the means and disposition to do it. It should not be expected that two or three merchants and their capital; a few retired sea captains and their bonds, will tend in a very great degree to the amelioration of the physical, moral or pecuniary condition of this city; but for whatever measures will tend to that end, I ask your support.

All the debts of the city are now by bond, with the exception of some thirty-five thousand dollars, which with economy and he increase of the city's valuation can soon be paid. Taxation at the present valuation never will do it, and allow of ordinary improvements.

The Fire Department under the rules and regulations of December 21st, 1867, with its steam fire engines destitute of suitable powers of locomotion and with out supplies of water to be of service in many parts of the city, laboring under the incubus attendant upon ill-advised and hasty resolutions, has demonstrated the inferiority of steam fire engines for general use in such a city as Newburyport. Reservoirs of water and locomotive powers must be introduced at great expense, or else the Department made what it was in former days, with a sufficient number of hand fire engines and companies sufficiently large to combine the qualifications which it then had, for which it has been so justly celebrated.

The amount paid as salaries are small compared with those of other cities—the Assessors only $250 apiece. The due exercise of their powers under the statutes of the commonwealth requires a degree of information on market values and a power of estimation by comparisons of the first order, for the use of which that sum is not a sufficient remuneration.

The Treasurer and Collector has a great responsibility. He receives and pays out some three hundred thousand dollars of the city's money. He and his sureties have given bonds in the penalty of some $30,000, and he is paid the petty sum of some $1,000 for his services. The Treasurer and Collector of a little town like Newburyport occupies a much more onerous position than the one of a much larger city—the latter attends only to the duties of his office, while the former is called upon to perform many duties wholly foreign to it, which by reason of custom, and the courtesy among daily friends and acquaintances, are imposed upon him. I would suggest your careful consideration of the matter of salaries.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made into American and Foreign Patents, to ascertain the validity or utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in this county, of his large practice, made twelve rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

100 PER CENT!

Saved by clubbing together and buying COTTON CLOTH, DRESS GOODS, WOOLEN GOODS, HOSIERY; BLANKETS, SHAWLS, &c., &c., together with BOOTS and SHOES, REVOLVING TABLE CASTORS, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Neely's paper), says of our Castors:

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their store has become immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become a familiar one in every city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in orders. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in a club:

CLUB OF THIRTY. [$3.] 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving Table Castor, with Silver Plated Frame, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane, 20 yards Calico. Alhambra Red Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. [$6.] 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Hat. Gent's Fashionable woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Patern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Blanket. Ladies' Silver Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Hat and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. [$10.] 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one good wide Lady's Cashmere Shawl. Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair o. white wool Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. One Set Gentlemen's fur suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR TERMS TO AGENTS, AND CLUB CHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, sad we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which prove to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

A Awful Predicament of a Bashful Benedict in a Railroad Sleeping-Car.

A few days ago, a newly married man, called North on pressing business, got aboard the evening train at Nashville. On taking the cars he went to the conductor of the sleeping coach, and after making express stipulations that he should be given one of the best ank widest berths for the night, made ready to turn in. Swinging his gilded satchel on the nearest hook, he soon dumped himself beneath the cosy coverlets, and settled for a glorious snooze. The soothing music of the swiftly rolling tracks soon lulled him into a sound sleep, the sonorous notes from his nasal organ telling his fellow-passengers how deep were his slumbers. Very late in the night he awoke sufficiently to notice the stopping of the train at some station, but before it started he was again fast asleep.

It has often been asserted that when two persons are together in the same apartment, and neither knows the presence of the other, that there is yet with each an inmate consciousness of the presence of a second party which cannot be shaken off. Perhaps it was this feeling that led the young Benedict to turn over in his bed about an hour after the train had left the station at which he had been partially awakened. At all events, he turned over, and he almost leaped out of bed as he did so, for right there at his side appeared the upturned face of a beautiful young woman. She was sleeping sweetly, and there was a look of peace and contentment resting upon her fair features that would have graced the face of a shining angel.

Horrified he sat half upright. He could not have cried out had he dared do so. He ventured to peep down toward the foot of the berth. The covering had been displaced just enough to reveal the prettiest pair of ankles he had ever seen, but in that moment of horror he had lost every feeling of his nature save that which told him of his imminent danger. What would his wife say were this known? Surely he could not be awake. Yet he was. Never before had he been placed in such a predicament. Always a bashful man, his terrible situation nearly drove him to distraction. Evidently the young woman was somebody's else's wife, and had mistaken our hero's quarters for those of her husband.

The only resource left for the unfortunate man was to lie perfectly still and pray for deliverance. And he did pray as he had never prayed before. He shut his eyes tightly and repeated all the prayers he had ever been taught, and composed some himself more applicable to the occasion. At the height of his devotions, he suddenly felt a pair of arms encircle his neck. He opened his eyes. Horror of horrors! The woman was fast asleep, and in her dreams she was caressing him—"little dreaming" of her mistake. The poor fellow's blood was at freezing point. He prayed harder than ever. As if in answer to his prayer, the fair intruder at length fell into a deeper sleep, and her arms relaxed. Instantly he crouched back close up to the wall, trembling in every limb. Every moment as he lay there seemed to him an age. How soon would the enraged husband pounce upon him with a brace of bristling revolvers? How soon would the fair one awake, and, discovering her mistake, set up a bedlam of yells and screams for help, and how would he ever explain it? He would have given all he possessed in the world, and a lien on all he had ever hoped to accumulate, to have been off that train.

An hour dragged wearily on, and the lapse of time gave him opportunity for thought. He revolved the matter in his mind over and over again, and finally concluded to make the best of it and die hard, should he be called upon that night. Then he gradually fell into a doze, and when he awoke the train was about to enter the depot at Louisville. His memory came back to him. Opening his eyes with a shudder, he glanced around. To his infinite relief, his nocturnal visitor had disappeared. And she hadn't yelled, either, or he would have heard her. She had wakened, and discovering that she had strayed into the wrong quarters, had, like a sensible woman, held her peace and quietly retired, believing that the mistake was known only to herself.

When he left the train to take the 'bus for Jeffersonville, he saw the lady of his unpleasant adventure leaving the sleeping-coach, supported by the arm of a gentleman he took to be her husband, and he drew his hat far down over his eyes. He hurried on, and just as a sturdy Jehu shouted, "Here's your 'bus for the Jeff. Railroad!" he disappeared, satchel and all, into the vehicle, again thanking his stars for the lucky escape.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give much trouble to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a reconstruction of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory to produce effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told. The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required. Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She reported herself as well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrector of the female constitution that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.
OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

The President has sent to the Senate the nominations of Cols. Buchanan and Gillem to be Brigadier Generals in the regular army, in place of Gen. Hooker, retired, and Gen. Rosseau, deceased.

Spain is said to be anxious to sell the Island of Cuba to the United States.

Weston has re-commenced his five thousand mile tramp, starting at four o'clock Monday afternoon, from Bangor, Me., in the best of spirits, and apparently fully confident of success. He reached Hallowell Thursday morning.

The Cuban insurgents have burned the town of Datil. The inhabitants before and after the firing of their homes at Bayoun fled to the woods and Guiera mountains. Afflicting details are given of the want and suffering of fugitive citizens in the mountainous districts, which are uninhabited and destitute of provisions.

Reports from Spanish sources state that Count Valmasada is advancing with his whole force upon the rebels in the mountains. The Diaro is informed that the rebel General Jesus Perez has offered to surrender himself and the forces under his command, provided an unconditional pardon is granted. The Spanish General at Santiago has conceded these terms, and it is expected that Perez will soon give himself up.

The President of the Cretan Provisional Government has escaped from Candia and will come to the United States, where he will endeavor to raise a loan and purchase iron clads, with the object of making one more effort to free Candia from the dominion of the Turks.

Ellery A. Hibbard of Laconia, was nominated at Dover, on Thursday, as the Democratic party's candidate for Congress in Dist. No. 1.

Advices from New Zealand report a frightful massacre of whites by the natives at Poverty Bay.

Congress.

Senator Wilson has introduced two very important bills in reference to the army. The first provides that hereafter there shall be one full General, with pay as at present; three Lieutenant Generals, with pay slightly above what a Major General now receives; nine Major Generals, who shall take the place of the present Brigadier Generals. The rank of Brigadier General is abolished entirely, but the proposed bill provides that in time of war brigades shall be commanded by Colonels, detailed for that purpose, who shall receive the pay of a Brigadier General.

The second bill provides that hereafter enlistments of men shall be for 5 years instead of 3. It prohibits a review of troops or drills on the Sabbath, provides that a common soldier shall have all the rights accredited to officers in court-martial cases, viz.; a prompt trial without being imprisoned for months awaiting such trial, as at present.

Both Houses did but little business on Wednesday, and much time was consumed in the discussion of railroad schemes.

☞ Wm. N. Kenny, who murdered Geo. Woodell at Claremont on the 18th, returned to his grandfather's house about midnight Wednesday night the 20th. He had been concealed in a barn about 10 miles from home all the time since the murder, was without cost or hat, and his clothes were soaked with blood. He was arrested, of course, and on Thursday examined, pleading Not Guilty: and is in jail at Newport.—The man who was apprehended in this city, was of course discharged, on receipt of the news. The resemblance between the two is said by the Claremont officer who came here, to be great.

☞ A Concord correspondent of the Boston Journal thinks "A thin vote will be cast in New Hampshire at the coming March election. Mr. Stearns, the Republican candidate, is favorably regarded by his political opponents, and will be chosen by a larger majority than has been given in any Gubernatorial election within thirty years."

His estimate of the population of the five chief cities in the State, numbers very nearly as follows; Manchester 25,000, Concord 15,000, Nashua 13,000, Portsmouth 11,000, Dover 10,000.

Scranton & Co., publishers, Hartford, (as will be seen in our Advertising columns,) wish for Agents to circulate and sell the People's Edition of the Life and Epistles of St. Paul, by Conybeare and Howson, with a Dissertation by Dr. Bacon of Yale College. It is a standard work of great merit.

THE EASTERN RAILROAD.

At this season of the year, when the business and convenience of the community are so dependent upon the efficient management of railroads, it becomes an act of justice to call attention to one which is particularly important and interesting to us, as keeping us in quick and unfailing connection with our metropolis and the rest of the outside world. Any one, who looks into the subject in its details, will realize what advantages the people along our seacoast line, from Boston to extreme "down east," have derived from our railroad and its branches. The matter is well understood by the community. The road is felt to be a great public institution. It has outlived all opposition, and won its way to general favor. A few words in reference to its history, achievements, and present condition, will, we are sure, be welcome to our readers.

The rapid growth of this road, which is recognized as one of the finest in the country, and of great value to those on its line, is shown in the immense travel and the vast amount of freight daily transported to and from Boston, and over its track between here and Portland, and by the beautiful and commodious station houses all along its location. One cannot be at our depot any morning without fully appreciating the usefulness of this road, and the great amount of business, and the incalculable convenience, it promotes and provides for. A glance at the past and present of the Eastern Road excites a feeling of wonder, at its rapid and surprising growth.

Col. John M. Fessenden, the engineer who projected this road, made his first report to the committee for obtaining money, and maturing plans for startling it, saying, "As to the amount of business which it would be safe to calculate upon, for revenue of the road, at the commencement of its operations, I have no means of judging, except from the reports heretofore made to the Legislature, and from the business done on other roads in the vicinity; the latter showing only the disposition of the public to avail them of the advantages which railroads offer; and from these data it would be quite safe to expect it to equal, per year—as follows: 110,000 passengers, 15,000 tons of merchandise, yielding a gross income of $191,000.

Expense off	60,000
Net income	$131,000

This was calculated for the whole line of road, and only 6 trains a day were to be run between Boston and Salem.

The original equipment consisted of 8 locomotives, 25 passenger cars, and 100 merchandise cars, all of which were very small compared with those of the present day, and inconvenient and uncomfortable as they were small.

In 1859, about 20 years after the road was put in operation, the increase of its business had been great. Its gross income was, this year $693,000

Expenses	367,000
Net income	$326,000

The equipment then was, 20 engines, 46 passenger cars, 300 merchandise cars. There were carried over the road, 1,415,600 passengers, and 114,500 tons of merchandise.

The greatest increase of its prosperity has been during the last ten years, under the administration of its present officers.

This road, 30 years old, and 56 miles long, carried the last year, 1868, over its own proper track, and its branches, over 3,500,000 passengers, and 281,800 tons of merchandise. The present result is more than 28 times the originally estimated passenger travel, and more than 15 times the then estimated freight of merchandise.

The gross receipts last year, 1868, were $1,452,000, being more than seven times the estimate.

The company now owns 43 locomotives, 73 passenger cars, and 666 merchandise cars. During the last few years, it has built over all its bridges, and laid much double and side track. It has a machine shop at East Boston, equal to any in the State, building its own locomotives, which are the best on the road.

At the car shops on Bridge street, in Salem, it builds superb cars. The establishment there is very complete, in which have been built, rebuilt, and repaired, 900 cars of all kinds. There now run on this road daily, 16 trains of passenger cars each way, equal for strength, beauty, and comfort, to any in the country.

Altogether, the managers of the road, we think, have shown an enterprise and realized results richly deserving the high commendation they daily receive.

The prosperity of the Eastern Railroad, during the past ten years, is mainly owing to the policy pursued under its faithful and able President, and his associates in its Board of Directors—combining caution with courage, a vigilant care for the rights of its stockholders, with a liberal regard for the public accomodation. Whatever improvement is needed is not postponed until a surplus is accumulated to meet the required expenditure, but the credit of the road is used to make it without delay. An increased business not only discharges the temporary burden, but with it a portion of previous indebtedness, so that the prospect of an entire ultimate discharge of its obligations is rendered more sure, and the time brought nearer when the whole property will be unincumbered. Fares will be reduced without wrong to the owners, and incalculable benefit to the public in all its interests.

The good feeling with which the road is regarded by the travelling public, and the communities along its route, is also, in a great degree, owing to the promptness, energy and courtesy of its Superintendent, and the attention to the wants and comfort of passengers constantly paid by its civil and gentlemanly conductors and all employed in the business of transporting passengers or freight.

How far the growth of this seaboard section of New England in population, business and wealth, is owing to the Eastern Railroad and its branches, is an interesting inquiry. All districts of country and the railroads that intersect them, keep pace in prosperity, and bear each other on indefinitely.—Sal. Gaz.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Beal & Hooper of Boston in another column. The manufacture of Black Walnut Chamber Sets and Parlor Sets has for many years been made by them a specialty. About a year since we gave in our paper a description of their new factory in East Cambridge, in which we stated that "it was probably one of the most perfect establishments of the kind ever erected in this country for the manufacture of furniture, and that Messrs. B. & H. proposed to devote the whole premises to the manufacture of sets for the parlor and chamber of solid black walnut." This they have done, and by perfected machinery, system and experienced workmen, employing between two and three hundred hands, they are producing the best work of the kind ever offered in this or any market. The depot for the sale of their productions is at their old stand, Haymarket Square, Boston, where they have been known for the past twenty years, and an elegant assortment of their productions are here kept constantly on hand for the dealer and consumer, and the extent of their stock in these specialties enables them to offer a better variety than can probably be found at any similar establishment in the country.

For those who do not wish to purchase sets of the most elaborate designs and finish, they have equally strong, durable and well made articles at the most moderate prices. In short, we can recommend our readers in conclusion of price, who wish to adorn their homes with a set for the chamber or parlor, to visit this establishment.

THE MACHINE, CALLED MAN,

is a very complicated and delicate one, and is more liable to get out of order, and much more difficult to repair, than any combination of wheels and cranks and levers made by the hands of man. As a rule it is tinkered too much, and badly tinkered at that. It is often calomelized, narcotized, depleted, and otherwise misused, when all that it really needs is a wholesome tonic and restorative, like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to put it in proper trim and keep it so. The stomach is shamefully maltreated. In the first place, the food which its juices are intended to dissolve, is too frequently thrown into it hastily, and in a half-masticated condition, in which state the gastric acid cannot properly act upon it. The result is dyspepsia. Then comes the doctor, and, finding the digestive organs weak and the bowels costive, he proceeds to weaken and paralyze still more with drastic purgatives. These failing—as they always do—produce a salutary change, he tells the invalid that medical science can do no more for him. This, with all due deference, is a mistake—one of those mistakes which Talleyrand said were tantamount to crimes. What the dyspeptic needs is invigoration. Strengthen the stomach with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and the stomach will strengthen every other part of the human machine, and make it, in common parlance, as good as new. Upon the state of the digestion depends, in a measure, the condition of the whole system. Now, the Bitters are the most admirable tonic known. They consist of the finest vegetable invigorants and restoratives, combined with an unadulterated stimulant. The dyspeptic needs nothing else to effect a cure, except a light, nutritious diet, and a fair amount of exercise. Even in the absence of these last mentioned accessories, the tonic and alterative properties of the preparation will work wonders, enabling the dyspeptic to digest inferior fare with comparative ease, and to maintain a good habit of body, in spite of the drawbacks of a sedentary occupation.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—CONSTIPATION.—Virulent cathartics aggravate this disease. When their action ceases, the vitiated and weakened bowels are less capable than ever of fulfilling their functions properly. In HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, sufferers from costiveness have a mild, genial purgative exactly suited to the exigencies of the case. Instead of weakening the intestines, the pills brace and invigorate, as well as cleanse and regulate them. In the worst chronic phases of this complaint, they soon produce a permanent change of habit. Sold by all Druggists.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the system becomes good; the blood is healthy and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient coughs, the phlegm and pus are well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration. Or ripen the phlegm and matter in a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing the obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver as Schenck's Mandrake Pills do.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing locks up the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fevers, but to remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either ulcerated, tubercles, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make the blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the blood begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, which for this purpose will be profoundly at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 1 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 36 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. These are the days for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja14

BUCHU.

[From Dispensatory of the United States.]

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in the act of urination. The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Sickness; Bad Habits; Loss of Power, &c.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the organs to healthy action, removing the Watery or Calcareous depositions and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of the Urine, Diseases of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposits, and Mucous Discharges, and for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following Symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and cures all Diseases arising from the habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life. Impurities of the Blood, &c., superceding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gleet, Stricture of long standing, and all Diseases Affections—in these diseases, used in connection with HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. PRICE—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS

ACCUMULATE ELECTRICITY,

whereby the circulation of the blood becomes equalized upon the part where applied, causing pain and morbid action to cease.

Was there ever published stronger evidence than this?

CERTIFICATE FROM A. F. STERLING, ESQ.:

For two years past I have been almost from neuralgia in the head, and found only temporary relief from all the various remedies that I have tried, until I applied one of "ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS." I cut it into three strips, placing one under each shoulder blade and the other over the small of the back, and for the past three months I have had scarcely a twinge of the old pain. I advise all who suffer from nervous diseases to lose no time in making a trial of the wonderful plaster.

DENTAL CARD.

JANUARY, 1869.

DR. GOODALL is pleased to inform his patrons and the public that his new PATENT SPRING PLATE is meeting with great favor wherever it has been adopted. He has a large number of affidavits and letters from highly educated and reliable parties, commending this great improvement and wishing him success.

He has recently visited Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and there presented his method to the Demonstrators of Mechanical Dentistry of the several Dental Colleges in the above cities, receiving their frank acknowledgement of its novelty and hearty endorsement of its merits. Every day brings new testimonials of the satisfaction of those who are wearing his Spring Plate, which is the best evidence of its success.

Those who now wear partial dentures with clasps or suction for securing the plate, are recommended to try the new method and experience in their daily satisfaction the happy results. j15

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the close of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use thousands suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE THESPIAN ENTERTAINMENT.—Our Portsmouth amateurs gave excellent performances on the occasion of their first public appearance, at the Temple, Wednesday evening, and have shown that we have plenty of home talent capable of rendering acceptably, to those who are not hypercritical, the minor dramas and farces from which the plays they have brought out so successfully, were selected. To particularize would require too much of our space, and it is sufficient to say that all the ladies and gentlemen acted well their parts, and are to be commended for the attention paid to details, which always ensures success. The Entertainment, Wednesday evening, was far above that furnished by the average of travelling professionals, and we are glad to announce that the Thespians will again appear in public in about a month.

The double quartet of gentlemen sang "The Ruined Chapel" with acceptation, and Miss Fitts added to her former high reputation as an elocutionist by reading impressively the beautiful poem, "The Missing Ships," by Albert Laighton. The lady was laboring under a very severe attack of sore throat, but rather than disappoint her many friends, consented to make her appearance, at the risk of her health. She acquitted herself of the difficult task of reading, finely, and the audience manifested their approval by hearty applause.

The energetic President of the Association delivered himself of a very neat little speech of thanks to the audience, but rather startled some of them by a lapsus linguæ, inadvertantly announcing that the Thespians intended giving "weekly" public entertainments, when he intended to have said "monthly."

The audience in attendance were evidently well pleased at the performances, and were very quiet during the entertainment, showing we think more appreciation and interest by their evident desire to hear than by boisterous applause, which very often spoils the best points of a play.

Financially, the entertainment was not of much benefit to the Association, as their receipts were little, if any, above expenses, but they have advertised themselves by their creditable first appearance and have the satisfaction of knowing that they succeeded in their efforts to please, which is better than if their profits had been $200 and the entertainment poor. They are making preparations for a new series of plays, and we trust that their second appearance will be as great a pecuniary success as their first was, professionally speaking.

THE REPUBLICANS of Portsmouth are thoroughly awake to the importance of carrying this city and Senatorial district at the State election, which is but about six weeks distant. The old headquarters at the Grant club rooms have been re-opened for the campaign by the Republicans of Wards Two and Three, and will remain so, day and evening, until after election. The live Republicans of the first Ward have also opened a club room, having secured one of the chambers in the building, corner of Daniel and Market streets.

This action means business, and the Democratic nominee for Senator in District No. 1, (whoever he may be), will find it rather lively work to save his distance. An active canvass of the State will be made under the superintendence of the Republican State Central Committee, with the indefatigable E. H. Rollins at their head, and the work will be thorough. Senator Stevens' majority in this District last March was 75, and Gen. Grant's majority in November was 375. Senator Stevens had 2549 votes; Hon. Frank Jones 2470; scattering 4. Gen. Grant had 2484 votes, and Seymour 2109.

Communication.

☞The subscriber having accepted his old position as City Missionary or Minister at large in this city, would most earnestly solicit the friends of the poor and of suffering humanity in our city, to send to his office, No. 8 Ladd St., any cast off garments of any kind—partly worn shoes, &c.

In so doing they will greatly aid us in our work. We have very numerous calls for all such articles, and at present we have scarcely anything on hand to enable us to support our wants.

Jan. 21. N. MEDBERY.

☞Rarely if ever, have we seen a more brilliant and beautiful display of Northern Lights, than was witnessed on Thursday morning. The flashes were frequent and almost incessant, from 4 o'clock to sunrise, extending from N. W. to N. E.

Senator Tipton of Nebraska was re-elected on Wednesday.

City Council, Thursday Eve., Jan. 21.

In Board of Aldermen, the bonds of the City Marshal and Police Officers elected, with the exception of Mr. Foye, who declines.

The application of Mr. Wm. Plaisted, to pump water from the salt water reservoirs, for street sprinkling, was granted.

An Ordinance to increase the pay of the City Messenger to $550, was accepted and referred to the Joint Com. on Finance.

The request of the occupants of the Spring Market, for repair of City Scales, was referred to Com. on Streets.

Application of the Collector of Taxes, for the power of appointing Deputy Collectors, was granted—without extra expense to the City.

The City Clerk stated that the rent of the Spring Market had been promptly paid, on the bill being sent to Mr. John Marston, of Boston, who is the lessee, and not Messrs. Marston, Randall & Co., as before stated.

It was voted that the Com. on Police, with the Mayor added, procure plans and estimates for the remodelling of the Lock-up.

The Common Council announced that they were ready to go into Convention if desired. It was stated that Mr. Wm. B. Randall declined to accept the office of Assistant Engineer; but it was voted to postpone for one week the filling of the vacancy.

Alderman Pender suggested the procuring of runners for the Steam Fire Engines, for use in deep or soft snow. The cost was stated at $55 for each steamer. The plan did not seem to meet much favor.

A communication from the City Treasurer stated that he had tendered Dr. Rundlett the amount of land damages voted by the Aldermen, for running Summer Street through his land: ($260 we believe,) but he declined to receive the same. Perhaps he deems the sum too large, as his father, forty years ago, was desirous to pay a like sum for the same road, as well he might.

The Mayor suggested that Portable Fire Extinguishers be procured for the City Farm, Station House, &c.; and it was voted that the Com. on Fire Department inquire concerning the same, and report at next meeting.

The Com. on Fire Department was authorized to purchase a cord or two of pitch-pine kindlings for the steamers.

A number of bills approved, including the Asst. Engineers at $20 each.

Two school-desks left over from fitting the Academy, were authorized to be placed in the Cabot St. School.

Application of Mr. Chas. H. Joy, to remove or prune the trees on Brewster St., near the Jail, referred to Com. on Streets.

The Street Commissioner reported that the City Horsecarts are badly out of repair, and recommended that new ones be purchased. Referred to Com. on Streets. The best plan would seem to be, to work a pair of horses on a cart with pole, so as to be in readiness for the fire steamers.

In Common Council, Voted to concur with the Aldermen, in authorizing the Collector of Taxes to appoint Deputies for the years 1867 and 1868.

Also, in refering the proposed amendment of Ordinance 104 to the Joint Com. on Finance.

CATTLE MARKET AT BRIGHTON.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, JAN. 21.
[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

At market for the current week—Cattle 1814;—Sheep and Lambs 7,397; Swine 100; number of Western Cattle 1349; Eastern Cattle 214; Working Oxen and Northern Cattle 250.

Prices Beef Cattle—Extra $13 50 @ $14 00; first quality $12 50 @ $13 25; second quality $11 25 @ $12 25; third quality $9 50 @ $11 50; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $6 00@ $8 $ 100 lbs;—(the total net weight of the dressed beef.)

Brighton Hides 10 @ 10½ ₱ lb; Country Hides 10 @ 10½ ₱ lb.

Brighton Tallow 8 @ 8c per lb; Country Tallow 7½ @ 8c ₱ lb.

Lamb Skins $1 @ $1 50 each; Sheep Skins $1 @ $3 00 each; Calf Skins 20 @ 25c ₱ lb.

The supply from the West was larger than has been brought from that section for several weeks; the quality was mostly of an ordinary grade. The best grades of Beef cost full as high as they were last week, but upon the poorer qualities prices were from ½ @ 1 cent ₱ lb lower. There were some nice Cattle from Maine sold at 12½ @ 14c ₱ lb. Most of the best Cattle were taken at a commission. Buyers from the western part of the State bought freely of the Maine dealers to take back to feed.

Stores—Yearlings $18 @ $26; two-year olds $28 @ $45; three-year olds $45 @ $65 ₱ head. Most of the small Cattle that are in a fair condition are sold for Beef.

Working Oxen—The demand has not been very active. There was a good supply in market. We quote sales at $168, 2 5, 225, $250 @ $290 ₱ pair.

Milch Cows—Extra $85 @ $110; Ordinary $50 to $75; Store Cows $35 @ $50 ₱ head. There are but few nice Cows in market, most of them being of an ordinary grade.

Sheep and Lambs—The demand was good. Most of the Western Sheep were taken at a commission, costing from 5½ @ 7½c ₱ lb. We quote sales of Northern Sheep at 4½, 5½, 6½, & @ 7c ₱ lb.

Swine—There were but few in market; prices, wholesale 11 @ 12c ₱ lb; retail 11½ @ 12½c ₱ lb.

CARTER'S COMBINED

WRITING AND COPYING INK.

This Combined INK has been awarded the Highest Premiums over all others in NEW YORK, BOSTON, and BALTIMORE, and pronounced by the most celebrated chemists the best Ink ever offered to the public.

It is used by many of the largest Commercial Houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations in New York and Boston, and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks are:

First. It flows freely from the pen, and does not thicken by exposure to the air.
Second. It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy.
Third. It will not mold.
Fourth. Being equally as good for Copying as for Book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of Ink.
Fifth. It is more permanent than common Inks.
Sixth. The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a BRILLIANT JET BLACK—not a brownish black.
Seventh. It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and always "makes its mark."

This Ink is warranted to flow as freely as Arnold's, or any other Writing fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any Copying Ink; and not to mould. For Sale by

OF THE NEW TESTAMENT: from the Greek Text of Tischendorf, by GEORGE R. NOYES, D. D. For sale by J. H. FOSTER.

THE UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD COMPANY
OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.

NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES

Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole

Grand Line to the Pacific

Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.

The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:

"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equaled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,600 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,158,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.

Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, an an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. It a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.

The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—
JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,
And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

JOHN J. CISCO, TREASURER, New York.

A Boat Excursion.

At daybreak, one bright Monday morning about fourteen years ago, the hands of the whaleship H——(since burned by the Anglo-rebel pirate Shenandoah,) were roused by the loud call "All hands out in, ahoy! turn out—turn out!" followed in a few moments by the cheering sound of "Grog—O!" The command was not to be slighted; but the reminder that Old Jamaica was on deck, waiting to be drank, was an additional inducement to hurry, and all hands, from captain to cook, were soon busy at the day's work. The occasion of our early all-hands' muster was this: the day previous (Sunday) we had fallen in with a school of cow sperm whales, and when the sun went down we had five 20 bbl. fish alongside, (three of them counting to the third mate, whose boatsteerer I was,) and now we were to "cut in" our prizes.

The method of capturing, cutting-in and trying-out whales, has been so often (though never exactly to my satisfaction,) described, that I will only say that our windlass clanked and cutting-falls creaked and surged, and we sang and joked until about 5 P. M., at which time the blubber of five sperm whales was safe under our main hatches, their "cases" (the case is a cavity in the fish's head, and the most valuable part of the whale) on deck, ready to be bailed out next morning, and many of the crew were rather more than half seas over, and ready for almost anything that could be named or thought of—among the worst of of the lot being the third mate, Mr. S., his boat's crew, and—his boatsteerer.

Everything was in a mess, and those who were sober enough were engaged in clearing up the deck as far as was practicable, when the black cook looked over the rail intently for a moment, and then gave the long-drawn, musical cry which announces a fish in sight—"Ar-r-blo-o-ows—whew! spout like a furze bush—hundred barrel sperm, and no mistake," and sure enough, not two miles to windward, there laid a huge lone bull, leisurely spouting, and with not the least idea of his proximity to danger. The gear was rapidly placed in the boats, and the first and second mates were soon laying on their oars at a short distance from the ship, waiting for the captain, who, perceiving the state of our boat's crew, desired Mr. S. to remain on board, saying he would lower his own boat instead. "If we fasten," said he, "keep as close to the boats as you can;" and in a few minutes the three boats were pulling silently but swiftly, in a circuitous course, to get to windward of the whale so as to bring the sail to bear on him, for 'tis a well nigh hopeless task to attempt to get near enough to a whale to strike, by using oars—the sail must do it, as the fish is very quick to hear, and to run away.

Mr. S. was in a rage at being ordered to remain on board. So were the oarsmen. So was I. Hadn't we taken three fish the day before? Of course we had—and fancied we were now able to take six. The men grumbled and used the most expressive adjectives, Mr. S. remarked something about the captain's eyes, and I'm afraid the writer's language wouldn't stand a close investigation,—till at last, having persuaded ourselves that we were all right and the skipper a perfect Dionysius, down went our boat, and we pulled (the oars appearing sometimes slightly confused) about a mile ahead of the ship, clear away from the other boats, I did not pull, as I was fully employed in bending the whale-line to the "iron" (the technical name for a harpoon) and Mr. S. was steering. Perhaps I may as well explain a little before I proceed farther.

The boatsteerer sits in the extreme bow of the boat, and pulls the "Harpooner" oar, the bow oar being the second one from the stem. The boatsteerer's duty is to assist in pulling, to harpoon the whale if he can manage it, and then to go to the stern of the boat and steer or tend the line as may be required; the officer in command, who steers the boat until the whale is struck, going forward and dispatching him with the lance.

I had got one harpoon bent, and the crew were laying on their oars, when suddenly a ripple showed on the water close to the boat, and a moment after the whale's square head appeared above the surface, the low, bushy spout shot into the air with a noise like the blowing off of steam from a high-pressure boiler, and then the huge, black side rose as the startled monster (too late for him and for us, as it turned out,) attempted to escape by sounding. "Dart! dart—boatsteerer! Dart!" fairly yelled the third mate, but the words were still in his mouth when I heard the s-s-sug of the iron as it went "chock to the hitches" through the blubber just abaft the fish's fin. "Fast!" I roared, but nobody moved an oar. Were we going to stern clear of a whale? No, we certainly were not—for we didn't. I remember that for a moment we were deluged with the spray dashed up by the wounded whale in his sudden struggle to escape, and then, as the line drew taut and the boat started ahead with a jerk, the bow-boatsteerer found himself on his back between the bow and midship thwarts, with his legs sticking up in the air, having fallen over the bow-oarsman—pretty nearly smashing that gentleman flat. "Tumble aft and take the line, boatsteerer," said Mr. S., and tumble aft I did, and he went forward to lance the whale, who was running to windward (as all wounded whales do) like a race-horse.

Fortunately for us the whale was not only kind, but he did not sound to any great depth, not taking out more than 100 fathoms of line at any time; had he fought or sounded our boat excursion would not have lasted long.—When we fastened to him it was just at sunset, and our position now was perilous enough—six drunken men in a frail boat, fast to a jetty-barrel whale, out of sight of the ship, and going away from her as fast as our mighty victim could drag us, and the darkness of the tropics around. But the moon rose shortly, and, like the obstinate fools we were, we still held on.

When the whale rose for the first time after being struck, we had hauled up to him by the line, and Mr. S., a splendid whaleman, had lanced him; had he been sober, with the opportunity he had, (the whale's whole broadside being out of water as he pitched to go down,) he would have killed him. As it was, he only pricked the whale, just enough to let him know that the insignificant creatures in the cockle shell were uncomfortable neighbors, and to make him go down. He took good care to keep clear of us afterward. He would take out 40 or 50 fathoms of line, run steadily on to windward at that depth, till he wanted to breathe, then come to the surface and spout regularly, while we hauled in again on our line until we were as close as he liked, when down he would go—he soon found out we didn't chase him down there.

GONIC HALL.—The wide-awake village of Gonic, N. H., inaugurated their new hall just completed by its public-spirited townsman, N. V. Whitehouse, on Tuesday evening. The committee of arrangements, are thoroughly live men, and the affair was "jolly." Tickets including supper, $2.50, with Band, &c. Gonic is sensible and civilized, as per card of invitation. "Euchre tables were provided for all those who wished to indulge in this pastime." Well done for Gonic. She considers euchre a "pastime." Also a smoking room for gentlemen was found under the "small hall." Henceforth we shall put this lovely little village down in our pocket album as worthy of a call, with her pretty woman, clean euchre packs and fragrant Havanas. Long life to the Gonickers, and may they never be euchred in the game of life.—Dov. Em.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to act for those in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign Patents, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by mailing one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

The Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

Saved by clubbing together and buying COTTON CLOTH, DRESS GOODS, WOOLEN GOODS, HOSIERY, BLANKETS, SHAWLS, &c., &c., together with BOOTS and SHOES, CLOTHING, CUTLERY, SILVER-PLATED WARE, CASTORS, FANCY GOODS, &c., of

EASTMAN & KENDALL,
65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,
LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.
Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BEE HIVE WITH ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, as their fair and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has for many years, been during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in Clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF TWENTY, ($20.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving oval band. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Alhambra Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY, ($60.) 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. 10 double-width waterproof Cloaking. 5 yards Farmers' good wool Flocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Minerals. Fur Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($120.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Silver Brass Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. One pair o. good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double Cloth Sacque, Fur Trimmed, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 5 yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 12 yards double width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. We are constantly ready, or intend to raise one for any other house. DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B.—Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street, Boston.
MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,
S. DANA HAYES,
State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO.,
No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.
JOHN E. ROBERTS, Agent for Portsmouth.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR!
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
PRACTICAL AND ANALYTICAL CHEMISTS,

The Chronicle.

For the Chronicle.

Messrs. Editors:—In regard to the recent very lengthy and windy articles called an 'Expose' of the American Protestant Association, its aim and objects; and in reply to a challenge to the writer of certain items which have lately appeared in your columns, and the assertions that the author has not the temerity to deny this Grand Expose—we do hereby pronounce said articles an unmitigated falsehood, a base, slanderous Lie, from beginning to end, every word of it, as far as the A. P. A. is concerned; and we are pleased to learn that the truths we have spoken through your columns, make the galled jade wince.

We would inform the would-be Great Exposer that we are well aware from whom emanates the pretended Expose, and the manner in which he obtained it; we would also suggest to the writer, that he might be believed quicker, should he put his brain through a hardening process, whereby he might make it of some use, instead of copying from the Privacies of other Lodges or Associations from which he has been ignominously expelled, and refused admittance. Knowing the past and present history of the author, we consider it beneath our dignity to have a wordy quarrel with such Vipers. We are well aware that their object is to create hard and bitter feelings on the part of our foreign citizens, in order to secure their votes for the Copperocracy; but no honest candid thinking man will take any notice of their vile vituperations on an Order that has for its grand object, the relief of the Poor, the sick and distressed; although there are some poor gullible ignoramuses who swallow their foul slander, for law and gospel. [SQUIBS.

ONSHURINCE IMPOSHTERS.—The Baltimore Underwriter is responsible for the following:

A son of Erin entered the office of a fire and life insurance agency, of the first respectability, and excitedly exclaimed, "The top o' the mornin' to yer honor; but me old wooden stable was burnt down last night, and ye'll be afther paying me the nine hundred dollars onshurince on the same."

"All right," was the reply, "we'll attend to it."

Pat insisted that "no attintion was wanted," but demanded the money, as the stable was "clean gone entirely."

He was informed that, as the building cost only three hundred dollars, and as the city ordinance now required brick or stone buildings, according to the terms of the policy, the company might elect to build a new one, which could be erected for five hundred dollars; besides, the company is entitled to sixty day's grace in the settlement of claims."

Pat rushed out of the office exclaiming, "Onshurince is a divil of a humbug!"

Within a month a new brick stable occupied the site of the old one, but Pat was not satisfied; for a few days later he again appeared at the office, saying his policy called for nine hundred dollars, "an' bedad, ye'll be afther payin' me the balince."

When he found that his case was helpless, he indignantly turned his back upon the officers, bitterly cursing all "Onshurince imposhters."

A day or two later Pat made a third visit to the same agency, and contemptuously throwing upon the counter a thousand dollar policy on the life of his wife, declared that he was "done with onshurince intirely, and that if Biddy should chance to die (which the Lord forbid,) divil a cent would ye pay, more nor five hundred dollars, if it so plazed ye; an' thin ye would say that 'she's nothing but an ould woman, and that was all she's worth,' an' if I didn't please to take the five hundred, be jabers, all ye'd do would be to get me another ould woman for a wife, may be a nagur, in the place of Biddy. Bad luck to all onshurinces that don't pay the cash when they loses."

Pat went muttering in his wrath from the office, but no more superficial and absurd on the subject of insurance than many a learned Saxon.

SOFT-HEADS.—The Hartford (Ct.) ministers' meeting has been discussing woman suffrage, and all but two out of forty opposed it as unscriptural.

—Whittier, who ought to know, says that the name of his heroine, Maud Muller, should be pronounced Mull-er, and not Mule-er.

—"Genius will work its way through," as the poet said, when he saw a hole in the elbow of his coat.

—The individual who watched an opportunity is supposed to have strained his eyes.

—Nights with Burns—Sitting up with scalded babies.

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.
All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.
Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.
Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.
Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)
Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)
The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.
All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.
No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Principally the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Lethargy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but intuitive. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Thus it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly and grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She failed to exhibit insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the exploration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely fulfilled my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the nightsweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Health or recovery I have seen her now twice. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

SATURDAY, JAN. 23, 1869.

The News.

Senator Morill of Vermont, Representative Ela of New Hampshire and Mr. Sporids of Chicago, who bid for the overland mail contract in the first instance, have been summoned to appear as witnesses in the Wells—Fargo investigation, at Washington.

It is reported that Minister Hale has written to President Johnson that overtures have been made to him by the Spanish Government for the sale of Cuba to the United States for about twenty-five million dollars in gold.

Speaker Colfax has appointed Messrs. Garfield of Ohio, Banks of Massachusetts, Allison of Iowa, Laflin of New York, Heaton of North Carolina, Axtell of California and Golloday of Kentucky, the Committee to make arrangements for taking the next census.

The revolutionists seem to be gathering ground everywhere in Hayti.

Congress.

In the House, on Thursday, Geo. W. Anderson of Mo., was declared entitled to his seat, which was contested by Wm. F. Switzler.

New Hampshire Items.

Timothy Eastman, Esq., of Plymouth, whose death at the age of 82 we have mentioned, died while attending the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Ruth Bailey, of the same place, aged 84. He was for many years Postmaster of Plymouth.

Mr. Daniel Scott, of Lebanon, has killed seventeen foxes the present season. Eight of them were shot in four successive days.

The barn of Wm. S. Brown of Exeter was broken into on the 13th inst., and a quantity of grain stolen. Tracks in the snow indicated that the robbers were a man and a boy.

The town of Croyden has voted $5000 toward the completion of the Concord and Claremont Railroad, and Goshen $3000 for the same object.

In Manchester, on Monday, Augustus Hardy, a one armed man belonging to Goffstown, was thrown from his sled by a frightened horse, and his head badly hurt, perhaps fatally. The horse took fright because the sled struck his heels.

Wm. Hall of Washington, recently shot a cat owl which measured 4 feet and 8 inches from tip to tip.

In Nashua, on the 16th, Edward Murgatroyd, while running a wool-picking machine in his dye house, caught his right hand in the picker, breaking the first finger at the first joint, and tearing the second finger entirely off up to the third joint, and otherwise injuring his hand.

A lad named Emerson of Amoskeag, was badly bruised by coasting into a fence. The date given is Sunday.

Charles C. Hartshorn, son of Charles Hartshorn of Lebanon, struck his head against some frozen snow while coasting, on the 11th instant, and was so badly injured as to cause a paralytic shock soon after, which resulted in death.

A little girl, while visiting in Concord, fell down some stairs on Friday, but thought she was not hurt. On Saturday she became sick, and died on Sunday morning.—She was a daughter of Dr Clark, of New Boston.

Hon. Edward W. Harrington of Manchester has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for Representative to Congress in the 2d District.

SOUTH NEWMARKET.—The Boston & Maine Railroad have just erected at this flourishing village, a commodious and neat station, well adapted to the wants of the place. Among the Directors of this Road, none seem to show a greater appreciation of the business of the line, than the New Hampshire Directors, Messrs. Paul and Bickford, who are keenly alive to the wants of the public on the Eastern part of the Road. The selection of practical men like these gives vitality to the corporation, and is an example that might be well adopted by other Roads that centre in Boston.

☞ J. Louis Harris of this city, late of the U. S. Navy, has received an appointment from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad as one of their officers, at a salary of $2500 per annum. He will leave for Chicago in March. He is a brother of the General Superintendent, Robert Harris.

GENERALS GRANT AND BANKS.—Some curious revelations have lately come out at Washington, and the announcement that General Grant has recently learned, for the first time, of an attempt made by Stanton and Halleck in 1863, to have him superceded by Gen. Banks, has created a decided, sensation especially among the friends of the ex-Secretary of War.

By these revelations it appears that during the entire campaigns of Gen. Grant there was much dissatisfaction expressed at his course at the War Department, and that Halleck, McClernand and others complained of him greatly. He was about to be removed two or three times, when some fortunate circumstance occurred in his favor. This dissatisfaction continued down to the siege of Vicksburg, when in the month of May of that year Grant, having a second time failed to carry the works by an assault, an order was sent to Gen. Banks then investing Port Hudson, directing him to go and take the command of the army from Gen. Grant and to assume it himself.

Many more particulars were stated, in a Washington letter to the New Times,—but in a Washington special of Jan. 21, they are contradicted, as follows:

Ex-Secretary Stanton authorizes an explicit and direct denial of the essential points in a letter to the New York Times of yesterday, viz: that General Banks was ever ordered by him or with his knowledge, to supersede General Grant, and that he was censured for not doing so.

☞ The Washington special of the Boston Advertiser says:

It is understood that ex-Governor Harriman of New Hampshire is a candidate under the next administration for the consulship at London, and that his papers are favorably endorsed by many citizens of New England in and out of his own State.

☞ Pres. Orton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has made to the Congressional Post Office Committee, a Report and Statement against the proposed union of the Post office and Telegraph, under control of the United States Post office Department.

☞ The N. Y. Tribune predicted Mr. Morgan's defeat, at Albany, in running for the U. S. Senate, on account of his conservative supporters and tendencies. The prediction was verified, and the reason given is probably true in the main.

RESOLUTIONS of the Grand Army of the Republic, as passed by the New Hampshire Post, at the late meeting in Manchester:—

Whereas, our country was saved from treason, rebellion, anarchy and despotism, by the heroism, patriotism and suffering of the gallant men who so nobly responded to her call in the hour of peril; and whereas it was the unanimous expression of loyal hearts throughout the North, that when peace should have crowned their efforts, all positions of honor, trust and profit should be given them when competent to discharge the duties; and whereas we now believe that the majority of our citizens still desire to redeem that pledge in good faith; therefore, be it.

Resolved, That we claim at the hands of the people a fair and reasonable fulfilment of their pledge, and that such offices in the gift of the Executive of State and Nation, as can be filled by soldiers, sailors and marines, be given to them, and especially to those who have been disabled by wounds or disease; and that to this end we will use our best endeavors, and will not be satisfied until the services of the soldier are thus acknowledged.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the several newspapers of New Hampshire for publication.

ERROR CORRECTED.—The Concord Patriot, in its issue of the 13th inst., speaking of the "Radical Convention" and the nomination of Col. Quarles as R. R. Commissioner, says:

"Ex-Gov. Smyth said he happened to be near Col. Q. when he was wounded, and was the first to bind up the wound. Hence we infer that the Colonel was not wounded in battle."

This error is corrected, and history set right, by the Dover Enquirer in the following statement:—

Col. Quarles was not only wounded in battle, but while in the very act of shooting down a rebel sharpshooter, with a musket seized from one of the men he was leading in the fight. The ball from the gun of the rebel, who fired at the same instant, passed along the barrel of the Colonel's musket, tearing off the lock, passing through his hand into the side of his face, knocking out his teeth, lacerating the roof of his mouth, and finally coming out of his throat, leaving a fearful wound which is, as yet, but partially healed.

The Colonel was not only a brave and efficient officer, but also one who remained in actual service until the close of the war, being in the service some four years. He was promoted from Captain to Major and Lt. Colonel for brave and gallant conduct on the field of battle. The Colonel is at present in the practice of law in Carroll County, and ranks at the head of that Bar.

HOW THEY PREVENT INCENDIARISM AND CARELESSNESS IN JAPAN.—The Mikado has issued an edict ordering the decapitation of all the inmates of the dwellings in which a conflagration originates, accidentally or otherwise.

The American Agricultural Annual for 1869, is just issued by Orange Judd & Co., New York, in a neat style, 150 pages, illustrated; 50 cts. paper cover, 75 in cloth. A handy, useful book, for farmer or gardener.

☞ At a party in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently, forty persons were poisoned by colored confectionery; and a little girl died from poison in painted bonbons, a few days ago.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

Tobias' Derby Condition Powders are warranted superior to any others, or no pay, for the cure of Distemper, Worms, Bots, Coughs, Hide-bound, Colds, &c., in Horses; and Colds, Coughs, Loss of Milk, Black Tongue, Horse Distemper, &c., in Cattle.

They are perfectly safe and innocent; no need of stopping the working of your animals. They increase the appetite, give a fine coat, cleanse the stomach and urinary organs; also increase the milk of cows. Try them, and you will never be without them.

Col. Philip P. Bush, of the Jerome Race Course, Fordham, N. Y., would not use them until he was told of what they are composed, since which he is never without them. He has over 20 running horses in his charge, and for the last three years has used no other medicine for them. He has kindly permitted me to refer any one to him.—Over 1,000 other references can be seen at the depot. Sold by Druggists and Saddlers. Price 25 cents per box. Depot, 10 Park Plate, New York.

SAVE YOUR CHILDREN!

DIARRHŒA, Dysentery and Cholera Morbus, so frequent at this season of the year, are sure to be cured at once with SMITH'S CURATIVE COMPOUND. The Proprietor has it in numerous cases within twenty years past, never failing.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

"A LITTLE BILIOUS."

How often this is the response to the enquiry after a friend's health; as if to be bilious was a trifling matter, hardly worth thinking about. But let it be remembered that, as "tall oaks from little acorns grow," so formidable diseases arise from being "a little bilious."

Severe bilious attacks are more common in Spring, Summer and Autumn than in Winter, but the serious disorders of the liver which so often occur at those seasons, might be traced, in hundreds of instances, to Winter indulgences and their neglected consequences. More highly-seasoned food is taken, more fiery drinks imbibed, in cold than in warm weather, and thus the biliousness is produced which, under a warmer temperature, culminates in remittent and intermittent fevers.

The very best medicine for persons who are either a little or a good deal bilious, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. No blue-pill or calomel is required in such cases. Those powerful mineral medicines cut two ways, like a double-edged sword. They act, it is true, upon the liver, but re-act most deleteriously on other parts of the system. They "stick" there, and cannot be got rid of. The Bitters contain vegetable agents of an anti-bilious tendency, that produce a specific and most genial effect upon the biliary organ, without entailing any evil consequences whatever. They are altogether wholesome, and act favorably and simultaneously upon the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the nervous system and the brain.

A CLEAR HEAD

is not to be had with a foul stomach. Nothing will so surely restore the system to its proper state as SONOMA WINE BITTERS. Sole Proprietors, C. A. RICHARDS & CO., 99 Washington Street, Boston. 77

THE PLASTER OF THE "TIME,"
ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden lar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Nothing is harder to deal with than a deeply-seated purulent sore.—This all surgeons admit. And yet the worst species of sores—some of them of ten and twenty years standing—have been cured absolutely and entirely, in a few weeks, by HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. Hospital practitioners, who have used it, acknowledge that none of the officinal salves possess the same healing properties, and the public long ago arrived at the same conclusion. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digesting process, tending up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1ja4

BUCHU.

[From Dispensatory of the United States.]

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor; and Red-Wetting in Children.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhea, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of the Urine, Diseases of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposit, and Mucus or Milky Discharges, and for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and cures all Diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life, impurities of the Blood, &c., superceding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, and long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in these diseases, used in connection with HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. PRICE—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—History teaches us that in ancient times epidemic crimes, follies and diseases played their full part in annoying, impoverishing and reducing the number of the human race: as, for instance, the plague and black death, the Mississippi and South Sea "bubbles," the witchcraft, Popery and No-Popery persecutions. But the ancients had not all the epidemics to themselves, for many moderns can remember the ravages of smallpox, yellow fever and cholera; the prevalence of garrote robberies; the universal adoption of the chignon; and something very like a mania for suicide which prevailed in some parts of this country ten or fifteen years ago. I, myself, recollect when nearly every place in New England was infested by idiots who thought it brave or funny to destroy shade trees, tear down signs and steal window blinds.

But beside these extended scourges, different cities and districts have now a bad pre-eminence for some particular, local pest. Chicago married people are divorced once a year, on an average; an Indiana town for a long time had no other occupation for a portion of its citizens than to rob express trains and banks—and latterly the other portion has been engaged in the laudable amusement of hanging the robbers up, without the tedious, antiquated and useless formalities of a judge-and-jury trial; "Newburyport has the champion incendiary;" New York has Judge Barnard; Old York gives Democratic majorities; and Portsmouth—quiet, slow, hundred-years- behind, old Portsmouth, has got the Corner Loafer.

The corner loafer is a character. He don't like cold, bleak nights, but he is fond of whiskey and cheap cigars—he likes costly cigars, too, but he objects to paying for them. On some corners he wears good clothes, on others, the cheapest; but he's the same corner loafer, no matter how he is dressed. He talks loud, swears louder, and laughs loudest, to attract attention. He knows a policeman at sight, and keeps quiet as long as one is around. He never insults farmers with scythes, nor ship-carpenters, with broad axes—he scorns the action; besides, they'd very likely fight. But let an unprotected woman dare to pass him, on some pleasant, mild evening when he is out in force, and if she gets by without hearing language that a drunken man-o'-war's-man would blush to use in a brothel, she may consider herself fortunate.

Another little amusement of the corner loafer is, to make various hems, coughs, snorts and indescribable noises at those whom he does not think it quite prudent to insult outright. When a lady and gentleman pass, the loafer makes remarks to his friend which are calculated to smooth the gentleman's feelings, very much—doesn't he know very well the gentleman won't come back? and that if he does the whole corner will bravely assail him? I am firmly convinced that he does. Now, Messrs. Editors, I am not a grumbler. I never hold up a grievance without pointing out a remedy; and I now propose two plans for extinguishing that intolerable nuisance, the corner loafer.

1st. Let the city offer a liberal reward for his scalp. I think that would do the business—I know I'd go hunting myself, from pure patriotism, and find my own powder and shot; and if I managed to rub out the loafer I wouldn't take a cent of the bounty, but would present it all to some charitable institution. Others, whose lady relatives and friends have been annoyed and insulted, would no doubt join in the good work, and the corner loafer be abolished very economically.

2d. Let the City Fathers go on the war-path themselves. What a glorious example for the unfaithful corporations of other cities, to show them our Board of Aldermen taking the field under the skillful leadership of His Honor the Mayor, (if they'd let him lead them anywhere,) with the Councilmen thrown out as skirmishers and flanking parties, and the City Marshal's brigade bringing up the rear in single file, with wheelbarrows, to pick up the pieces! My order of battle may not be strictly scientific, (the only education I ever had in military affairs was seeing a militia muster on Mason's hill, one Saturday afternoon more than twenty years ago,) but I think my plans, if put in practice, would soon enable an unprotected female to walk from the Creek to Market street, in the evening, without being very grossly insulted—which is now well nigh an impossibility. PAREHA.

☞ At the annual reunion of the 24th Massachusetts Regiment at the Parker House in Boston on Wednesday evening, Dr. John W. Parsons of this city was chosen President for the ensuing year.

For the Chronicle.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Guardian Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Philadelphia. The company does business in Pennsylvania, and has recently consented to extend its business to this State. It does not belong to any Board of Underwriters, either national or local. This Company insures all kinds of property at the lowest rates consistent with safety. By its charter it is prohibited from taking a line of more than $25,000 on special risks. Its capital is all invested in 5-20 government bonds, and its officers are men of good standing. The President, A. N. Atwood, is owner of one of the largest wholesale furniture establishments in the west. The Secretary, Hon. H. E. Hudson, was formerly Adjutant General of Missouri, and is well known to some of the citizens of this place.

All business men wishing for Insurance, can have their property rated according to the hazard, and insured at as low a rate as is consistent with safety to the insurer and insured, by calling on the Agent, Mr. A. T. Howard, opposite the Post Office.

THE NAVY YARD.—The four prosecutions instituted in the Supreme Court of Maine against Lieut. Commander Carpenter and others for alléged obstruction of the Deputy Sheriff in his attempts to serve writs in the Navy Yard, have been disposed of at Saco, as follows: three of them have been nol pros'd by the County Attorney, and one of them carried by exceptions to the full bench of that Court, which holds its July term in Portland.

The Naval Solicitor took the ground that State Courts cannot take cognizance of crimes or offences committed within navy yard limits, upon land purchased for that purpose by the United States, with the consent of the State in which the land lies. Judge Tapley, in order to bring this question of jurisdiction before the whole court, instructed the jury to give a pro forma verdict against Lieut. Com. Carpenter, ruling, for the purpose of the trial, that the State Courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the Federal tribunals.

This question has not been considered open to discussion since Judge Story, in 1819, in the U. S. Circuit Court, on the trial of Cornak for the murder within the limits of Fort Adams, in Newport harbor, ruled that the Federal Courts alone had jurisdiction in such cases. Doubtless the Supreme Court of Maine will so rule. If it should not, the case will be carried, by writ of error, to the United States Supreme Court.

The four prosecutions here referred to were instituted on complaint of Deputy Sheriff Bartlett, of York county, Maine, who refused, when coming to the Navy Yard for the alleged purpose of serving process, to exhibit his precept to the officer in command, in conformity with the orders and regulations of the navy. On his refusal to exhibit his precept he was ordered out of the yard, and refusing to go, was quietly expelled.

☞ Col. Mark F. Wentworth of Kittery, has been chosen delegate from Maine to the National G. A. R. Convention.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.
Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

THE UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD COMPANY
OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.
NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES
Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole
Grand Line to the Pacific
Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.
The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:
"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.
Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,158,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.
Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.
By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. If a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.
The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in
PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—
JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,
And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.
Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.
A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

A BOAT EXCURSION.

Continued.

"Boatsteerer, open the lantern-keg." "Aye, aye, sir." said I, and open it was, quick. This "lantern-keg" contained a lantern, a pound of sperm candles, a tinder box, matches, a pound of tobacco, a bunch of cigars, five or six pounds of ship bread, and a bottle of rum!—That was what was wanted, and our throats were soon moistened afresh with the infernal poison, the use of which had brought us where we were. Valiant men were we. We abused the whale, and dared him to stop and fight it out—called him fool and coward when he didn't do it; Mr. S. said he would hang on to him until the girl-baby he had left at home was a grandmother.—and we boasted, quarrelled, laughed, drank and slept, until the moon rose high and full, and the fine faint streaks of daylight warned us that we had spent a night in the boat.

Suddenly the boat lost her way, and a general cry of "loose," and "line parted," was answered by the third mate—"not parted—cut. I've cut it—where's the ship?" To say that we were sobered would exceed the truth; but the officer's question, "Where's the ship?" did startle us into a semi-consciousness of our position, and our disorderly crew became suddenly silent: Mr. S. was sober. "Boatsteerer, get out the compass, and see how the wind is," said he, and I at once obeyed. We knew that the whale had been going dead to windward all the time, and we supposed we had only to run down before the wind to find the ship. But boats whose chances had been better than ours had been lost, and there was certainly a possibility that ours might add one more to the number, and this was enough to make us each secretly uneasy, as we ran down at the rate of five or six knots before the wind, with our spirit-sail boomed out with an oar.

The sun rose clear and hot, and as he climbed higher and higher, the heat, and the expiring effects of the accursed rum, made us thirsty almost to torture. We had water in the boat-keg—six gallons; but the officer, who realized the position which our inexperience could not fully comprehend, would only allow us a small quantity each, and at what we thought unreasonably long intervals of time. We took turns in sleeping, Mr. S. and I relieving each other at the steering oar, until noon, after which no one seemed to be inclined to close his eyes—all were looking out eagerly for the good ship H——.

The sun reached the zenith and we saw no ship. Hour after hour wore on, and as the sun went down in the afternoon sky, so did our spirits droop, and the expression on more than one face changed from hope to anxiety,—from anxiety to something near akin to despair. For a long while the third mate did not speak, but with the practised gaze of an old seaman swept the horizon for a speck, until the sun had set; then he ran the steering oar in, hauled in the sheet, and as the boat came to the wind sat down on the loggerhead, and said, quite coolly, "It's no use, men. We're past her, and you may as well make up your minds to take it easy!"

We were adrift, sure enough. Had we known (what we afterward learned) that the wind had hauled four points, that is, forty-five degrees, at midnight, we could probably have found the ship. As it was, we ran a long way astern of her; while the captain and officers, convinced that some disaster had destroyed us, were beating the ship to windward, and keeping a sharp lookout for anything in the shape of an overturned boat or a dead whale, neither of which they found. For two days the ship was turned to windward, and then her course was shaped for another cruising ground, and the third mate and his boat's crew logged as lost.

Lost we certainly were. We had no instruments with which to determine our position, and if we had, should have been no better off, for not a man in the boat could have used them; the third mate, although a good sailor and a good whaleman, (two qualifications that do not necessarily go together,) being no navigator. We had a good compass, and we knew that Peru was some twelve hundred miles to the eastward, but that was a long distance to puff on short allowance of water; and the southeast trade wind was an obstacle to our progress, instead of a help. We hoped to reach the Galligapos or Turtle Islands, which we knew to be but half as far distant as the main land; but we did not know that they were hundreds of miles to the northward, and of course we came nowhere near them.

It could interest no one were I to attempt a record of our hopes and fears, our failing strength and weary progress, the gradual reduction of our rations of food and allowance of water, our comparatively slight sufferings from hunger, or the indescribable tortures of excessive thirst,—so I will pass over the time from our giving up the ship until the Tuesday following,—the eighth day of our excursion. In the meantime we had been working our way, with oars or sail, in a northeasterly direction, and hoped we were now in the track of California bound ships; we had caught a dolphin, two boobies, and a number of flying fish, which had helped eke out our bread, of which we still had some left; but the last small taste of water—just enough to moisten our hot tongues and throats—had been shared out, and we were within one drop now, no land nor ship in sight, and within fifteen degrees of the Equator.

On more than one occasion since that time I have suffered from hunger—far more than I did in the boat: I have been so far gone that I felt no particular craving for food, but only a sinking hollowness and indifference, and was only restored by great care and skill; but as far as physical suffering is concerned I would prefer to starve to death fifty times, were it possible, than to again undergo the tortures from thirst of the last twenty-four hours in that whaleboat.

The eighth day opened, like the other days, clear and hot. No one rowed—hope was nearly gone. The midship oarsman, by far the strongest man in the boat, was talking nonsense to himself half the time, but the rest spoke but little. Mr. S. still maintained his seat on the sternsheets of the boat, and, as the wind freshened with the day's advance, he steered as well as he could the course we had been making. How the day wore away for the others I don't know, but I had sense enough left to feel that I was going mad—strange fancies and sights were present—rivers of fresh water, wells from which I had drank, and brooks I had dammed up when a boy, and every delicious drink I had ever tasted,—but no thought of home or friends, time or eternity—nothing but water! water! before my imagination all the time.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our price list. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WATCH RING GUARD or a SILVER-PLATED NAPKIN RING CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Ohio), has to say of this:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Circulars (sent on selling goods) are done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England; and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY, ($31.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving vel band. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cashmere Dress Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. A handsome Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY, ($61.) 40 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woven Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. Gentleman's stylish waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Frocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Mineral Pins. Fur Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($10.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Rosewood Brass Eight-Day Clock. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair of good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Fur Muff and Collar. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large steed Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. Fine Cassimere for one suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks or White Metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you want goods only, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND DIAMOND EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends as we can make it for their advantages to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1863. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
10 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,
S. DANA HAYES,
State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO.,
No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.
JOHN E. ROBERTS, Agent for Portsmouth.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the glossy freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
PRACTICAL AND ANALYTICAL CHEMISTS,
LOWELL, MASS.

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.—General John Bedel, the nominee of the New Hampshire Democrats for Governor, was born in Indian Stream Territory, Pittsburg, N. H., 1822. Educated at Newbury Seminary, Vermont. March 25, 1847, he enlisted as private in the 9th reg. U. S. Infantry, in the Mexican service, and was discharged for physical disability at Vera Cruz, in August, same year. He recovered his health in a few months, and was appointed Second Lieut. in his old regiment, and returned to Mexico. Subsequently he was promoted to a Captaincy and was with his regiment until August, 1848. After returning to New Hampshire he read law, was admitted to the Grafton County Bar, entering upon the practice of his profession at Bath, in Company with Hon. Harry Hibbard. In 1853, he went to Warhington, where he was for a time a clerk in the Third Auditor's office, and afterward filled an important position in the Comptroller's office in the Treasury Department.

On the breaking out of the rebellion he tendered his services to the Governor of New Hampshire, and was commissioned Major of the Third Regiment, and was successively promoted to the Lieut. Colonelcy and Colonelcy, and remained in the service till the close of the war. For gallant and meritorious services he was breveted a Brigadier General. He was captured by the enemy in the night assault upon Port Wagner, July 18, 1863 and was a prisoner of war at the South Carolina State Penitentiary until December, 1864. During five months of that time he was in solitary confinement. Since the war he has resided at Bath, which town he represented in the last Legislature. He is a son of Gen. Moody Bedel, who was a private in the Revolution and an officer in the war of 1812, and a brother of Hon. Hazen Bedel of the Governor's Council.

General Michael T. Donohoe was born in Lowell, Massachusetts, Nov. 22, 1838. He was an operative in the print works and a post office clerk and a bookkeeper at Lowell, and was educated at the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester. On the commencement of the secession war he was a clerk in a clothing store in Manchester. Immediately after the call for men, he raised an Irish company for the Third Regiment, and was made captain. In August, 1862, he was appointed Colonel of Tenth (Irish) Regiment, which the Governor then decided to raise.

He returned to New Hampshire, recruited and organized the regiment, and went back to the field in September, 1862, and remained in the service till the close of the war, and was mustered out with his command. He served for some months as an acting Brigadier General, and was brevetted with that rank for gallant conduct in the field. He received honorable mention by General Butler for the gallant manner in which he advanced his skirmish line from Aiken's Landing having had his horse shot under him, and being himself afterward severely wounded. General Donohoe is now well known as a railroad conductor between Concord and Boston.

☞ What a compliment it must be, for brave soldiers who perilled their lives to quell the great rebellion,—to be set up as representatives of the Copperhead party, whose sole and only characteristic was and is, opposition, condemnation of the war to quell said rebellion! Nor does it improve the matter, as we see is, that there is not the least chance for their election—only for their gratuitous disgrace.

This selection and elevation(?) of two soldiers, is intended for a shrewd move, to draw votes from the Boys in Blue—by enabling the Coppers, as usual, to bark up both sides of the War tree. But it remains to be seen, whether the party will do any better with this hatched up mongrel War ticket, than with the legitimate copperhead, pretensious pettifogger and arrant demagogue, who was talked of for their file leader to another inevitable defeat.

FROZEN PLANTS.—The Gardener's Monthly says: "Should any of our fair readers find her plants, by some unlucky calculation frozen in the morning, do not remove them at once to a warm place, but dip them in cold water and set them in a dark spot, where they will barely escape freezing. Sunlight will only help the frosts's destructive powers."

THE EQUITABLE
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,
Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,
The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.
All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.
Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.
Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.
Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)
Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)
The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.
All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.
No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.
Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if they are lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

NATIONAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
Washington, D. C.
Chartered by Special Act of Congress.
APPROVED JULY 25, 1868.
CASH CAPITAL - - - $1,000,000.
PAID IN FULL.
Branch Office:
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA,
Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.
OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

A horrible accident occurred in Falmouth, Me., on Thursday. A man named Swett was cutting trees, when his axe glanced and buried itself in the body of a lad named Marston, killing the boy almost instantly. They were alone, and Swett was so horror-struck that he went into convulsions. He was found writhing in the snow in that condition, and the dead body of the lad near by, the liver protruding from the wound. It is feared that Swett will also die from the effects of the shock.

Australian letters fully confirm the terrible story of the massacre by the Maories at Poverty Bay. Thirty-three whites and about twenty friendly natives were killed, and the previous settlement was entirely blotted out.

A Rio Janeiro letter confirms the route of Lopez at Villeta. The Brazilian loss is placed at 2000, but it is understood that the Emperor admits it to have been much heavier. Angostura had not yet been attacked, but a division was marching against it. Minister McMahon is reported to have come to an understanding with Lopez, and the steamer Wasp had returned to Buenos Ayres.

There is to be a partial eclipse of the moon on Wednesday next, commencing at quarter before eight o'clock and ending about ten. Nearly half the moon's surface will be hidden.

In Minnesota they have "torch-light sleigh-rides," made brilliant by transparencies and enlivened by music.

Weston reached Pittsfield, N. H., on Saturday, on his 5000 mile walk.

The Navy Department is in receipt of dispatches relative to the surrender of Messrs. Bliss and Masterman by the Paraguayan authorities. On the 3d of December, Rear Admiral Davis, in his flag-ship, anchored under a Paraguyan battery at Angostura, and immediately communicated with Lopez, whose headquarters were 6 or 7 miles in the interior. Lopez appeared at the lower battery, and an interview of three hours duration was had with the Admiral.

All the points bearing upon the matter were discussed, and the Admiral reports that throughout the interview the manners of Lopez were conciliatory, courteous and frank, while he continued to declare from time to time his intention to accede to the request for the delivery on board of the U. S. vessels of Messrs. Bliss and Masterman.

Some correspondence ensued on subsequent days and on the night of the 10th of December, at eleven o'clock, Messrs. Bliss and Masterman were bro't to the Flag Ship in a native canoe. — These persons having been delivered to the United States, Gen. McMahon made preparations to land on the subsequent day and present his credentials, but a battle on that day prevented. He, however, landed on the 12th, and was received at the landing by several officers of President Lopez's staff, and mounting his horse, proceeded directly to Lopez's headquarters.

Admiral Davis reports that the number of iron-clads in the Brazilian fleet at present in the waters of the Paraguayans is sixteen, including single and double turreted monitors and casemated vessels, mounting from one to eight guns, and adds:

"On this occasion I was treated with perfect cordiality by the Brazilian officers with whom I had intercourse, but was much annoyed by finding myself constantly on line of fire of the belligerents, and would have felt more comfortable had I been accompanied by two of our iron-clads."

The Admiral went up the river in the Wasp and had returned to Montevideo.

A Sensible Dreamer.—A gentleman connected with one of the largest business firms in St. Louis recently called at a newspaper office and left a $600 advertisement. He said that he had dreamed the night before that he had done so, and he felt that he ought to follow out the suggestion of his dream.

☞ A large wooden building belonging to the Exeter Manufacturing Co., situated on the Squamscott river, two miles and a half from Exeter, was burned on Friday evening, and was occupied by L. G. Prescott as a hub spoke, and shingle manufactory, and grist-mill.—The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary. Loss will exceed $1000, with no insurance. Building was insured.

Patent Granted.—To Timothy H. Hotchinson of Gorham, for improvement in churns.

☞ A horse from the livery of Stoddard & Beacham created some excitement Saturday afternoon, by running down Islington and through Market St., rather faster than the law allows. The sleigh was capsized, and the young man driving thrown out at the start, near the Academy; but it righted, and all went clear,—whiz thro' Portsmouth Bridge gate, which was open, and round the school-house corner, (where the whip was thrown out and found by those in pursuit,) and over into Eliot, till the team was stopped by some men, on the hill this side the Academy—no great harm done, but the Wendell mare a little blown.

S. J. Court.—At Exeter, the case on trial, Wednesday morning, was an action by Henry H. Smith, keeper of a livery stable at Newmarket, against Lydia Hayes of Newmarket, for use of divers horses and carriages, &c., hired by her son and a Mr. Parker, since deceased. Defendant claimed, if hired, they were without her knowledge and consent. Verdict of $2100 for plaintiff.

The case next on trial was Town of East Kingston v. Darius Towle. The claim was for sheep killed by defendant's dog. Verdict for Deft. Stickney for Piff. Hatch & Wood for Deft.

The case of Currier vs. Clifford was given to the Jury, Friday morning. This was an action by a woman, against a Deputy of the Sheriff, to recover for goods taken by him upon a verdict against the Piff's husband, and which she claimed belonged to her in her own right. After the case had made some progress, a verdict was taken by consent, for $284 for Piff. Stickney for Piff. Frink & C. Upham Bell for Deft.

The case of Clark, vs Fogg, (which is also a case against a Deputy unfortunate Deputies,) was assigned for Monday. Frink & Towle for Piff. Hatch & Wood for Deft.

Exeter Railroad.—In Boston, on Friday, the Legislative "Committee on Railways were in session, hearing parties interested in the extension of the Eastern Railroad to New Hampshire line, or from Salisbury to Exeter. The petitioners are nominally citizens to be benefitted by the new line, but the real parties are claimed to be the Eastern Railroad, by the Boston and Maine Railroad, which opposes the granting of the petition. The Committee have finally closed the hearing and decided upon the subject."

This quotation which we make shows the animus of the reporter; and the decision, as we infer from the item, is to deprive the people of Amesbury and Salisbury Village of their desired connection with Exeter and the country back of it. But why? Lest the dividends of a very rich and prosperous Railroad Company might possibly (tho' not probably) be diminished.

Elopement Extraordinary. — A young lad and his lassie, of Exeter, not yet arrived at their majority, the lad being fifteen and the lass fourteen, are anxious to be bound together in matrimony. So, thinking their mammas might object to such a presumptuous proceeding, they severally and individually dressed themselves for the occasion, the young gent putting on two or three pairs of pants, with extra coats and vests, and the damsel stepping inside of two or three dresses and as many skirts they. Started on foot and trudged six miles to Newmarket Junction, when an envious brother, who found they "were out," overtook them with a horse and sleigh, and consequently, "the twain were not made one flesh" but returned to Exeter in a state of single blessedness.—News Letter.

Grant and the Baltimore Rebels. Perley says, writing from Washington on Thursday:

Gen. Grant was notified this morning by an aid-de-camp of Gov. Bowie that on his arrival at Baltimore at 11 15, he will find the Fifth Regiment Maryland National Guard, Col. Herbert, under arms, to escort him to the house of Mr. Abert, where he is to be a guest.

The Baltimoreans expect to demonstrate to General Grant that they always expect to be truly loyal and peaceable citizens. They intend to show him their oyster packing shop, their tobacco works, and the iron rolling mills of the Abbot Iron Company at Canton; but whether they will take the General over the bloodstained route of the Massachusetts Sixth is not announced.

The latter part is not likely;—and though it sounds bitterly, it is deserved. The loyal people in Maryland, when they had the power, foolishly let it slip back into rebel copperhead hands;—and hence, Gov. Bowie and such as he, bear rule there.

Gen. Grant of course, we suppose, will accept the escort. But he must dispise the hypocrisy, however veiled by official courtesy.

☞ Mr. Ira Haselton of this city, who has been suffering from softening of the brain for several months, left his residence about half past twelve o'clock, Sunday morning, having slily eluded his watchful attendants. — Marshal Johnson soon had the entire police force and a large corps of citizens in search. Others were detailed to patrol in the vicinity of the wharves and ponds, until it was ascertained from the watchman at the Eastern depot that a person answering to the description of the missing man, had gone to Portland in the night freight train. Marshal Johnson telegraphed to the Portland Chief of Police, a few hours later, but on Sunday afternoon Mr. H. was found at Saco.

☞ Rev. R. P. Ambler, of the Universalist Church in this city, has tendered his resignation of the Pastorate here, to take effect in the ensuing spring.

Gen. Grant does not write big speeches, nor write long letters; and it will be seen, by the following little note, dated Jan. 21, that he does not wish for an Inauguration Ball.

Thomas L. Tullock, Esq., Secretary, &c. Dear sir: Understanding that the committee of which you are Secretary meet this evening for the purpose of arranging for the inauguration ball, I venture to drop you a line to say that if any choice is left to me, I would be pleased to see it dispensed with. I do not wish to disarrange any plans made by my friends in the matter of ceremonials attending the inauguration, but in this matter it will be agreeable to me if your committee should agree that the ball is unnecessary.

"A LITTLE BILIOUS."

How often this is the response to the enquiry after a friend's health; as if to be bilious was a trifling matter, hardly worth thinking about. But let it be remembered that, as "tall oaks from little acorns grow," so formidable diseases arise from being "a little bilious."

Severe bilious attacks are more common in Spring, Summer and Autumn than in Winter, but the serious disorders of the liver which so often occur at those seasons, might be traced, in hundreds of instances, to Winter indulgences and their neglected consequences. More highly-seasoned food is taken, more fiery drinks imbibed, in cold than in warm weather, and thus the biliousness is produced which, under a warmer temperature, culminates in remittent and intermittent fevers.

The very best medicine for persons who are either a little or a good deal bilious, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. No blue-pill or calomel is required in such cases. Those powerful mineral medicines cut two ways, like a double-edged sword. They act, it is true, upon the liver, but re-act most deleteriously on other parts of the system. They "stick" there, and cannot be got rid of. The Bitters contain vegetable agents of an anti-bilious tendency, that produce a specific and most genial effect upon the biliary organ, without entailing any evil consequences whatever. They are altogether wholesome, and act favorably and simultaneously upon the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the nervous system and the brain.

THE PLASTER OF THE "TIME,"
ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up the tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

BUCHU.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS

whereby the circulation of the blood becomes equalized upon the part where applied, causing pain and morbid action to cease.

Was there ever published stronger evidence than this?

Certificate from A. F. Sterling, Esq.:

For two years I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia in the head, and found only temporary relief from all the various remedies that I have tried, until I applied one of "Allcock's Porous Plasters." I cut it into three strips, placing one under each shoulder blade and the other over the small of the back, and for the past three months I have had scarcely a twinge of the old pain. I advise all who suffer from nervous diseases to lose no time in making a trial of the wonderful plaster.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

MUSICAL.—The Philharmonic Society's presentation of the Cantata of Esther, as an Opera, will without doubt be the most pleasing and successful performance of the sort, or of almost any kind, ever given here. It will probably be brought out in February. This Cantata is constantly being given in all parts of the country, and is popular beyoud precedent.

We understand that the Portsmouth Cornet Band are to give a Concert, with first class vocal aid, in the course of a few weeks. The Band has volunteered for the benefit of every good cause, all the season; and now it is fairly their turn for a Benefit — and they ought to have a rouser, too,—with a round $100 net, at least.—The inevitable expenses of almost any kind of an entertainment at the Temple, now-a-days, exceed a hundred dollars.

We had the pleasure, a few evenings since, of witnessing the presentation, at Newtonville, Mass., of the Opera Bouffe, the "Doctor of Alcantara," written by Julius Eichberg. It was well put on the stage, with rich costumes, appropriate scenery, and the dialogue and action in full— and was a very agreeable and successful entertainment. Mr. John G. Tompson, jr., was director and general manager, and also took the (baritone) part of Dr. Paracelsus, with Miss Cornelia Stetson as Lucrezia his wife, and Miss Nelson of Michigan as Isabella their daughter; Miss Kimball as her maid, and Mr. D. F. Fitz (the only professional singer) as Carlos. Miss Stetson made a splendid appearance, sang finely, and acted well her part of prima donna, and all did exceedingly well for amateurs—in fact, almost as well as the best professionals. The plot of the Opera is highly amusing, and the whole entertainment very agreeable, and the manner of conducting it highly creditable to all concerned.

The Strafford Musical Convention, at Dover last week, was very successful. The new and spacious City Hall (speak not that word aloud!) was well filled at the Concerts.

—Portsmouth wants to know what it had better do with its public library—replenish it and keep it up, or give it away.—Exchange.

Put a bible in it by all means, for the use of the Mayor and City Council.—Exeter News Letter.

Portsmouth never had a public library, the more's the pity,—and we doubt whether the Mayor and Council could agree on the same bible, though several members of both boards do attend the same church with him,—not to mention the City Marshal, Street Commissioner, and other officers,—and several more who almost got elected.

☞ An item in the Boston Transcript reads: "There are said to be two classes of editors—one that gathers facts together for the readers—the other that finds fault with contemporaries. The latter class seems to be the most numerous." Yes, and we add, that the class which is always finding fault and interfering with the business of others, thereby show that they have not much of their own to attend to. For our part, we always have so much to do, that we never know or care much what other people say about us or our business.

☞ The first number of the Selma Press, comes to us from Selma, Alabama, where it is published by James Shaw & Co. Mr. S. was a graduate from the Chronicle office, and served in the War against the rebels, as a member of Capt. Thacher's company. He is a member of the Alabama Legislature. The paper looks well, and reads well.

☞ The Exeter News Letter says it has no soreness, but it don't enjoy nominations by acclamation, at Conventions. How is Charley Smith, Mr. News, and the Newmarket candidate for Councillor?

☞ Saturday morning was the coldest of the Winter thus far—3 or 4 below zero in exposed positions. Friday and Saturday were both cold days all through—at noon Friday, only 8 above.

☞ Mr. C. A. Ochl, of this city, formerly Draughtsman in the Steam Engineering Department at the Navy Yard, has secured letters patent for an improved lozenge and cracker machine. Mr. Ochl is a very ingenious mechanic, and we wish him the greatest success with his new invention.

☞ Showing proper resentment—stopping your own copy of the Chronicle in a miff, and stealing or borrowing the reading of your neighbor's, regularly.

☞ Haverly's Minstrels appear here, Jan. 29th. Charlie Pettengill and Charlie Reynolds are with them, and the two can make fun enough to last any reasonable person a week.

BENEFIT TO BARNABEE.—We hope the admirers of Henry C. Barnabee and all who appreciate the excellent series of concerts he has given us this winter will not forget that a subscription for a Benefit Concert has been started, lies on the counter at W. R. Preston's store, and is not yet filled. Portsmouth should honor her talented sons in whatever field, who do not lose their attachment to their birthplace, and Barnabee deserves a compliment that should dilate his heart and purse.

BUTLER & LAIGHTON.—By a card in our advertising columns to-day it will be seen that Mr. John Laighton, whilom a clerk, has become a partner with Jerome C. Butler in the grocery business at the popular store No 18 Daniel Street. For some months past Mr. Laighton has been employed in the wholesale business in Boston, and his many friends who were won by his attention and urbanity may now profit by the trade lessons he has learned by his city experience. The new firm have our best wishes for the success they richly deserve.

The following Resolutions were passed by the Middle Street Society.

WHEREAS, The Middle St. Baptist Society feel that they are under great obligations to those who have generously undertaken and nobly completed the work of remodeling, and beautifying our house of worship, and desire to express in a slight degree our gratitude therefor:

Therefore: RESOLVED, That we tender our warmest thanks to the Committee, Messrs. J. Chaplin Curr, Samuel Cleaves, Joseph D. Ackorman, Horton D. Walker, Frank Jones, George W. Plummer and Thomas S. Nowell, for the most acceptable manner in which they have performed the task; thereby both gratifying our taste, and adding much to our comfort. And while we recognize the hand of God in raising up men of means, and giving them the willing heart, we trust that they will enjoy therefor the reward of temporal prosperity together with the imperishable riches of His grace.

RESOLVED, That our thanks are due to Mr. Thomas S. Nowell for his generous donations, and earnest and successful efforts to secure the fine organ, whose rich tones we trust will long swell the anthems of praise to God! also for his long continued exertions and personal services to maintain an acceptable choir for church worship.

RESOLVED, That we gratefully acknowledge the presents for the Pulpit, of a very beautiful and choice Bible from Mrs. Rebecca Cleaves Hill, and of elegant Hymn Books, from Daniel W. Jones Esq., of Boston.

RESOLVED, That our thanks are hereby expressed to the Young People's Society of the Middle St. Church for their liberal donation to defray the expense of putting Gas into the church; and also to the Ladies who have furnished the carpets.

RESOLVED, That the thanks of the Middle St. Baptist Society be tendered to the South Parish of this city, for their great kindness and courtesy, in affording us the free use of their neat and commodious Chapel while our house of worship was undergoing repairs.

—Look out for those who boast of being discreet. They are the leakiest persons to whom you can intrust a secret.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM
IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.
Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

THE UNION PACIFIC
RAILROAD COMPANY
OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.
NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES
Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole
Grand Line to the Pacific
Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.
The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:
"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.
Besides a donation from the Government of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,188,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.
Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.
By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,670. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, nor equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. If a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.
The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—
JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,
And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.
Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.
A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

Morning Chronicle.

Written for the Chronicle and Gazette.

A BOAT EXCURSION.

Concluded.

It was after noon, perhaps about two o'clock, when the third mate descried a smoke to leeward. It was smoke, evidently a steamer coming to windward, probably a mail-boat from California or Panama bound to Valparaiso. The prospect of speedy relief galvanized us into something like life—even the midship-sarsman got his oar ready, to help pull alongside when the vessel got up to us. Our sail was rolled up, the mast struck, and the little blue flag, used to announce "a fast boat," was stuck up in the stern. All talked, or attempted to talk, at once; one would have ice-water—lots of it, too; another would have a few drops of vinegar in his drink—all were luxuriating in the anticipation of soon having something to drink—plenty to drink, and all were accordingly in high spirits.

A boat-load of hideous spectres we must have been, with our sunken eyes and hollow cheeks, and lips blackened and cracked and shrivelled until the teeth were exposed in a constant, ghastly grin, as we made ourselves merry with insane or childish glee, while waiting the steamer's approach. The after-oarsman and the third mate were able to speak plainly, their tongues not being swollen so much as to interfere greatly with speech; and as the hull of the advancing vessel rose above the horizon and we could see that she was not heading exactly for us, Mr. S. said, "Jog ahead gently, boys—let's not let him pass us now," and we settled ourselves to our oars, and pulled at right angles to the steamer's course with what speed we might.

As she came closer she seemed to be giving us more and more of a berth, and our remnant of strength was exerted to the utmost. Whether we had been mistaken as to her course in the first place, or whether she had shifted it, hauling more in for the land after we saw her, I cannot tell: but hope gradually receded as she steamed swiftly to windward, showing us more and more of her broadside, until she passed us at a distance so short that we could distinguish the people passing back and forth on her poop, and fancied we could hear the beating of her paddle wheels. Had she been a whaler we should have been seen miles before we were reached; but no lookout would be kept on board the steamer, and so she went away to windward, in spite of our prayers and curses and wavings, and the third mate's frantic yellings (which probably could not have been heard two hundred yards), and left us as completely disheartened as men could be.

The midship oarsman laughed and laid down in the bottom of the boat; Mr. S. sat down on the stern sheets and hid his face in his hands; while I, unable to bear the sudden destruction of my hopes of plenty of fresh water, and determined to have something to drink, picked up the boat piggin and filled it from over the side; but before I could take a mouthful the third mate struck the piggin a blow with a paddle which sent it flying twenty feet from the boat, and me on my back in the bow with my head under the line-box.

I remember but little more. Once I opened my eyes, and by the light of the moon saw Mr. S still sitting on the stern sheets with his face in his hands. The next thing I recall is the third mate and after oarsman (the only ones left on their feet) stepping the mast and setting the sail, after which all is blank for a time. As I afterward learned, Mr. S. had seen, at daylight, a ship laying with her main yard aback, full down to leeward, and the sail had been set and the boat kept away for her.—She was a whaler, and we had been seen probably before we raised the ship, for they had seen our sail when it was set. Mr. S. steered right down to the ship, but in attempting to round the boat to under her counter he fell down, and the whaler had to send a boat to tow us alongside. We were hoisted up, and humanity and skill saved every life, though the whole lot of us hadn't half enough left for one.

We were on board the whaleship N——for some ten weeks, and at last were taken into the port of Tumbez, in northern Peru, where the ship went to procure vegetables, give liberty, &c.—Here we were to leave her (as she was over-manned with our boat's crew,) and make our way to Payti, where there was an American consul. On what was to have been the last day of her stay another whaler hove in sight, and let go her anchor late in the afternoon about four miles off. Mr. S. had been looking at her for some time, and as she swung to her anchor and showed him her side he dropped the glass as if it had been red hot, and sang out "Clear away the boat! come on, boys, that's the old H——." It didn't take us long to reach her, and as we came near we could recognize one after another of the shipmates who had for three months mourned us (sailor fashion) as dead.

Our approach had been noticed, and the mate, Mr. C., was in the gangway to receive us, as we shot alongside.—The crew were aloft, furling sails, and the captain below, fixing up for shore on the morrow, when the mate, leaning over the side, recognized us. He turned pale for an instant, muttered an exclamation of surprise and pleasure, and then burst out with a shout; "Hurrah! here's the bow-boat back—all hands safe! Whoop!" and in another minute we were in a scene of most glorious confusion. The skipper ran up from below, and the men slid down from aloft; and shaking hands, laughing, hugging each other and all talking together, made quite a lively scene. I don't think any of us were quite so absurd as to kiss each other, but more than one blew his nose suspiciously; and if Mr. S. had not displayed so much cool courage and endurance while in the boat I should have been certain that I saw tears in his eyes: as it was, I was probably mistaken.

It would naturally be supposed that men who had suffered so much from the effects of one drunken spree would have forsworn liquor ever after. But we were sailors, and whalemen at that! and I don't think the boat excursion did us any good; for that same night ("refreshments" were distributed freely in honor of the joyful occasion,) one of the bow-boat's crew slept under the carpenter's bench in the waist, under the impression that he was snugly stowed in his bunk; and Mr. S. himself stuck on the booby hatch till daylight, singing remarkable selections of sentimental, drinking and sea songs, in a remarkable manner.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

THE COUNTY FARM.—We learn from Hon. John B. Emerson, chairman of the Committee on County Farm, that the new building on the County Farm in Brentwood, now in process of construction, will be completed in about two months. It will be remembered that the "Elder Tiling" Farm, containing about 175 acres, was purchased for the County Farm, of Mr. Gardner Sleeper of Brentwood, to which was added about 28 acres, purchased of Mr. Thomas Veasey, to connect the farm with one of the main roads, the whole costing $6500. The building of which we speak is made of wood, at a cost of about $12,000, besides which the expense of cellar and excavation has been $1085. The house is about the size of the Portsmouth Almshouse and has four stories. It is to be warmed by steam, the boiler having been put in the building this week. Seven large rooms are to be warmed by direct circulation; that is, by tubes running around the room. Sixty eight rooms will be heated by coils. The old farm house remains, and will probably be used for particular cases, or for some purpose in connection with the establishment.

WELCOME HOME.—A correspondent informs us that Rev. Mr. Robie and wife, who have been absent for a year past, had a cordial greeting by their Greenland friends on their recent return home, where an agreeable surprise awaited them. Their home had been aired, warmed, swept and garnished, their table spread for a repast, their larder well stocked with essentials, and a multitude of friends greeted with looks, words and songs of welcome. The occasion was a most happy one for pastor and friends, and one to be long and pleasantly remembered.

One of our Great Bay sneerers informs us that there are at present usually about 100 persons fishing, 8 or 10 of whom are from the vicinity of Boston, and the rest from Portsmouth and vicinity. The average catch per man is about 10 lbs a day, for which they obtain 10 cts. per lb. The best day's work was 95 lbs, early in the season. He estimates that the fishing at Great Bay is an income to Portsmouth people of about $7000 for the season. The catch this season is better than that of last year.

We understand that Eastern Star Division No. 5, Sons of Temperance recently organized in this city, is prospering finely. At the meeting held on Thursday evening last 17 were initiated, and quite a number proposed. The following lady visitors were elected as officers for the ensuing term. Miss Lottie E. Jones, Red; Miss Lizzie Whittem, White; Miss Fannie Deverson, Blue; Mrs. Theodore Deverson, Conductress.

The Division has under consideration the subject of inviting two celebrated Temperance lecturers who have never yet appeared before Portsmouth audiences.

WHIPPLE LODGE LYCEUM.—The Whipple Lodge of Good Templars in Kittery have inaugurated a Course of Lectures this winter, which are given weekly. A Kittery correspondent sends a highly laudatory report of the third and fourth lectures of the series, by N. Sewal Payne, Esq., of Charlestown, Mass., on "Village Life in the Country," and Mr. John F. Lock of Boston, formerly of Co. E, 20th Mass. Volunteers, whose subject was "Sunshine in a Rebel Prison." Mr. Locke was on parole of honor in Richmond at the time of evacuation and was occupied in distributing supplies sent by the Gov. of Mass. and other Northern States to the Officers and Soldiers confined in the rebel prisons. When the last squad of rebel Cavalry dashed down the street he remembered some Union flags hung, Union down, in the office of Libbey Prison and hurried to seize them. They proved to be the colors of an Illinois Regiment. One he nailed to the ridgepole of the building used as "Depot of Supplies for prisoners of War." This was the first Union flag raised in Richmond after its fall. An invitation having been extended and accepted, Post 14 of the G. A. R. were present and added much to the interest of the occasion many of the Post having participated in the same battles with the speaker. We are glad to learn that our friends over the river have been fortunate in their lecturers as well as in good audiences, but a moment's reflection will satisfy them that our space will not admit of detailed reports of such lectures.

CITY PHYSICIAN.—We observe that Dr. Brainard Dearborn has been appointed to this position. Dr. Dearborn has been a resident physician here for over a year, and makes many friends by his gentlemanly disposition and moral character. As a young physician just entering practice we wish him much success.

By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that one of the firm of Lazarus & Morris will be at Mr. Shores' Bookstore on Thursday, Friday & Saturday of this week, with a large stock of Spectacles & Eye-Glasses.

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips of checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, or twelve for fifteen, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the articles described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circulars. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the editor of the Northern Star, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as 'familiar as house-hold words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Dish system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past five years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, they are made to their order in Rhode Island, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours, S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO., No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston. JOHN E. ROBERTS, Agent for Portsmouth.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., PRACTICAL AND ANALYTICAL CHEMISTS, LOWELL, MASS.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by Druggists in Portsmouth & elsewhere.

HANNAH BINDING SHOES.

BY LUCY LARCOM.

Poor lone Hannah,
Sitting at the window binding shoes.
Faded, wrinkled,
Sitting, stitching in a mournful muse.
Bright-eyed beauty once was she,
When the bloom was on the tree;
Spring and winter,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Not a neighbor,
Passing nod or answer will refuse,
To her whisper,
"Is there from the fishers any news?"
O, her heart's adrift, with one
On an endless voyage gone!
Night and morning,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Fair young Hannah,
Ben, the sunburnt fisher gayly woos:
Hale and clever,
For a willing heart and hand he sues.
May-day skies are all aglow,
And the waves are laughing so!
For her wedding
Hannah's at the window binding shoes.

May is passing:
Mid the apple boughs a pigeon coos.
Hannah shudders,
For the mild southwester mischief brews.
Round the rocks of Marblehead,
Outward bound, a schooner sped:
Silent, lonesome,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

'T is November,
Now no tear her wasted cheek bedews.
From Newfoundland
Not a sail returning will she lose,
Whispering hoarsely, "Fisherman,
Have you, have you heard of Ben?"
Old with watching,
Hannah's at the window binding shoes.

Twenty winters
Bleach and tear the rugged shore she views.
Twenty seasons:—
Never one has brought her any news.
Still her dim eyes silently
Chase the white sails o'er the sea;
Hopeless, faithful,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

A man by the name of Tanner was arrested in Boscawen, on the morning of the 21st, by Detective Clark of Lowell, Mass. He was one of the six that broke jail at Chelsea Vt., some time ago. He had been at work in Suncook nearly all of the time since his escape, and had been in Boscawen but a short time previous to his arrest. Mr. Clark, by a little strategy, succeeded in getting him out of the State without incurring the delay usual in such cases He was taken directly to Chelsea, Vt.

Conductor Shea of the P. G. F. & C. freight train came near meeting with a fatal accident on Thursday of last week. While attempting to open the gate that admits the train to the Great Falls Factory Yard, it broke from its fastenings, falling upon Mr. Shea and inflicting a very severe wound upon his head.

On the 16th, Mr. Nathan Norton of Candia was in the woods alone, chopping, when a tree which he had cut lodged. He then cut off the spur, when it fell and the butt swinging and sliding on the snowcrust, caught one of his legs, and held it fast between a stone and the log. He was rescued by two neighbors. His leg is seriously injured.

The Nashua Gazette says that the earnings of the Worcester and Nashua Railroad for the past year was $479,787, about two thirds coming from freights. The net profits are $128,906.25. The corporation have un undivided surplus amounting to $490,625. The total liabilities are $68,608, and the total assets $155,034.31.

SMART WOMEN.—A friend of ours who formerly resided in Exeter, but now in Lee, has a wife that asks no odds of the sterner sex in matters of business. Late in the fall she sold the family horse for four hundred dollars, and started for Canada to buy another. After prospecting awhile she concluded she could do better to purchase on this side of the line, which she accordingly did, and buying a side saddle, she mounted her new horse and rode about half way home, when, getting tired of riding in this manner, she sold the saddle and bought a cheap wagon and harness, and returned safely to Lee.—News Letter.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,900,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give cause to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant, profuse, watery discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had never before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely fulfilled my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats ceased, and her appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more leucorrhœa, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved, so that other treatment was needless. The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my first attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wishes she wouldn't try to keep those again about it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organisation that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rate of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, on annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

The British barque Cadet from Liverpool arrived at Philadelphia on Saturday. She started with only 35 days' provisions, and the crew have been in a starving condition for a long time. On New Year's Day and afterwards they had only for fourteen men half a pound of rice and a pint of water every twenty-four hours. On January 14 they were within eighty miles of Cape Hatteras, but were blown far to the southeast by a tremendous gale. At one time, when their provisions were entirely gone except ten pounds of flour, they providentially spoke a vessel and received a small supply, or all would have perished.

Hernandez, the actor, has been sentenced, at Omaha, Nebraska, to 14 year's imprisonment for attempting to kill his wife.

Weston arrived at Concord at 3 o'clock, on Monday, and left for Hillsborough at a later hour.

GEN. GRANT AND BANKS.—No. 2.—In Saturday's Morning Chronicle, we began a compiled article, stating that while Banks was before Port Hudson, he was ordered to supersede Grant, who was before Vicksburg;—but we cut it short by a contradiction of the story, which contradiction purported to come from Sec. Stanton.

But in the papers of Saturday evening and Monday morning, the contradiction is contradicted, and the original statement reaffirmed, and in particular, the Lawrence American, in noticing the statement, says: "We happen personally to know, the official autographic orders are now in the hands of Gen. Grant."

Now, therefore, we resume the story, leaving the questions of veracity to be settled in due time.

It is stated that the order was imperative, but Gen. Banks did not obey. He replied, expostulating against it. He pointed out that for him to abandon his position at Port Hudson would be to give up the key of the Mississippi, imperiling New Orleans and every thing else in that quarter.

Then came from Washington a renewed command to supercede Grant, and when the impolicy of the step was again pointed out by Banks he was severely censured for disobedience of orders. The correspondence went on awhile, until one day suddenly Vicksburg fell and the project to supersede Grant fell with it, as flat as did the hopes of the rebels at the South, and ex-president Pierce's great speech at Concord the same 4th of July.

Every scrap of paper bearing on the subject was spirited away from the archives in the departments, while Banks putting the writings safely by, kept his own counsel. The secret of this passage in his life was until within a month never known even to Gen. Grant.

The whole transaction shows Gen. Bank's to be, not only a great man, but in several important respects, one of the wisest and most prudent. Those who should know do not hesitate to express the opinion, that had Gen. Banks given publicity to this particular correspondence, it would have changed the result of the election of 1864.

We do not pretend to know any more about this latter statement, than the reader:—but we most devoutly and gratefully acknowledge the Divine Providence that made both these Generals wiser and better, as well as more successful, than those who might have destroyed the usefulness of both, by changing their positions.

VELOCIPEDES are becoming very popular as a means of locomotion and amusement, and it will not be a very long time before they will be in general use. Wm. P. Sargent & Co. of Boston, who are among the most enterprising carriage manufacturers in the country, and always foremost in adopting latest improvements, have opened a school at their elegant ware rooms at 155 Tremont Street, Boston, for instruction and practice in the use of Velocipedes. The school has numerous patrons and a great many visitors. The rooms are open day and evening, and all of our friends, who are interested to know more of this novel machine, are invited to call and see them in operation. We are inclined to think that pretty soon, all Young America will be riding on Velocipedes.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

SPECIAL NOTICES.

"A LITTLE BILIOUS."

How often this is the response to the enquiry after a friend's health: as if to be bilious was a trifling matter, hardly worth thinking about. But let it be remembered that as "tall oaks from little acorns grow," so formidable diseases arise from being "a little bilious."

Severe bilious attacks are more common in Spring, Summer and Autumn than in Winter, but the serious disorders of the liver which so often occur at those seasons, might be traced, in hundreds of instances, to Winter indulgences and their neglected consequences. More highly-seasoned food is taken, more fiery drinks imbibed, in cold than in warm weather, and thus the biliousness is produced which, under a warmer temperature, culminates in remittent and intermittent fevers.

The very best medicine for persons who are either a little or a good deal bilious, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. No blue-pill or calomel is required in such cases. Those powerful mineral medicines cut two ways, like a double-edged sword. They act, it is true, upon the liver, but re-act most deleteriously on other parts of the system. They "stick" there, and cannot be got rid of. The Bitters contain vegetable agents of an anti-bilious tendency, that produce a specific and most genial effect upon the biliary organ, without entailing any evil consequences whatever. They are altogether wholesome, and act favorably and simultaneously upon the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the nervous system and the brain.

THE PLASTER OF THE "TIME,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these two medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, meets the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to grow in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

CERTIFICATE FROM A. F. STERLING, ESQ.:

For two years I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia in the head, and found only temporary relief from all the remedies applied. I at last tried, until I applied one of "ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS," cut it into three strips, placing one under each shoulder blade and the other over the small of the back, and for the past three months I have had scarcely a twinge of the old pain. I advise all who suffer from nervous diseases to lose no time in making a trial of the wonderful plaster.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

UNDER WHICH KING?—Many of us have on different occasions dreamed of the happy time when, if the lion and the lamb did not lie down together, at least all distinctions in politics might be forgotten in City matters. But this is quickly seen to be a fond delusion, on a moment's reflection as to the close and inevitable connection between Town and State or National matters. So much is this the case, that in Manchester, Portsmouth and other places, where the experiment of severing the municipal election from that of State officers has been tried to the satisfaction or disgust of the dominant party, it is now proposed to return to the old joint plan again.

For instance, Portsmouth is a Republican city, but by extraordinary and extraneous circumstances, the Executive officer is a Democrat. Now can anybody fail to see that in the coming contest for the Senatorial, as also in next year's City election, all the patronage and influence he can wield, will be given to the opposition?

It was in this view, largely, that the choice of Street Commissioner presented so strong an interest to many, even beyond the intrinsic importance attached to the office, which is by no means small. Mr. Haines, the old incumbent, is an estimable man, and generally regarded as an efficient and valuable Commissioner of streets. We are always strongly in favor of continuing such experienced and faithful men in charge of the public interests, other things being equal, in choosing between these and newer men. The reasons urged against his re-election were, that he has employed copperheads and foreigners in preference to, or at least in disregard of, Republicans, and the complainants insist that doubtless he will continue to do so; and that while claiming to be a Republican, he this year voted against a part of their ticket. But so did many other Republicans, so called, do the same, reply many who urged and defend his re-election. Very well, is the response of the strict constructionists, then he and all such forfeit any claim to be recognized as Republicans, in consideration for office or otherwise. And certainly all party usage, and all party interest and self respect, sustain this treatment of bolters.

Mr. Haines was elected last year, we believe, by a majority of a single vote, and this year by the Mayor's casting ballot—having the votes, it was said, of the Republican Alderman who has been most abused by the Mayor's party, and two Republican Councilmen, so called and elected. But for the unavoidable absence of Councilman Freeman, probably Mr. Ham would have been chosen for the position. But be this as it may, —it was certainly significant that at the caucus of the joint Councils, it was decided by the same three votes referred to, not to include nominees for Chief Engineer & Commissioner—so that on these points, the electing Convention met without absolutely knowing the relative strength of the respective candidates, or rather parties.

The voice of the siren, alias the Mayor, and his potent influence of a certain kind and in certain directions, was previously understood and reported to have probably secured in advance the result which ultimately transpired—as was foreshadowed in the choice of Chairman of the lower House, and the balloting for Treasurer, and also in the yea and nay refusal of the Convention itself to postpone the choice of Commissioner for a week.

We have been intending to speak of these matters before, but there is no hurry—and it is the principle, in its general application, which is important to be remembered. When Republicans find their opponents giving up one of their advantages, or surrendering an inch of their vantage ground, it will be plenty time enough to bury the local political hatchet and return the compliment or courtesy.

And this leads us to speak of one little incident which has caused considerable surprise and complaint among ardent Republicans—the allowing the City Book to be printed at the Copperhead office. This was the fault of the Aldermanic Committee on Printing, and was done by their inviting bids for the same from the various printing offices, after the Board had expressly voted not to do so, and supposed the matter would be decided by lot or other arrangement among the Republican offices only, as heretofore. Feeling that the job belonged to us this time, and that true Republicans ought to know how to distribute their own patronage, and knowing that the Opposition would bid at less than cost for the sake of getting the job, we declined to enter the lists against such competition, and so the matter went, rather by default, to the rebel hopper—but it is generally understood that it did not yield much direct profit, for the job, so we hear, was sent to Boston to be done, and cost the Copperhead office or its party leaders, $25 more than the City paid for it! But they must be pretty well used to this sort of amusements by this time, and so don't mind them, being for the good of the cause, and having rich owners.

This Committee on Printing consisted of one member of whom we shall say nothing, and another, a Union soldier, since a candidate for high office and defeated—whether in some measure by the effects or example of this very incident, we cannot say, though we know it did not lessen the heartiness of our support ultimately. As to the job itself, we would not have taken it a cent under the price heretofore; but we do not see why the City should not pay a fair price for work of any kind, like other fair parties. And wouldn't it do you good, to see the Opposition work things thus, were they reversed? No, no, encourage your own.

For ourselves, we regard the re-election of the old Commissioner in itself as no great calamity, though many Republicans complain bitterly of the defection from their ranks which promoted it—for, say they, he last year greatly gave the preference to copperhead workmen, contrary to his promise to do the opposite, and he will lean still more to the Mayor and do worse this year. And some even go so far as to say that it will seriously endanger the 1st Ward at next Election. But we hope no such evil effects will come, and that all will work harmoniously and for the general welfare. Let us have peace.

☞ As Mr. Stephen L. Lang was returning to his home near this city in his sleigh Saturday afternoon, his hands became chilled, and he laid down the reins to warm them, when his horse started to run, and turning swiftly in at the gate, threw Mr. Lang out, and broke his leg very badly; and he was obliged to lay where he fell, until neighbors came to carry him in. After driving to the residence of Dr. Parsons of Rye, who was not at home, a messenger was unfortunately found Dr. Hall of this city, who set the limb,—but not until three hours after the accident and on Monday the patient was doing well. A horse fit for a family would never have been guilty of such a trick as that.

☞ There was a very narrow escape from a serious fire, on Anthony Street, Sunday, at about midnight. The wife of Mr. Frank Corbett awoke and found the house full of suffocating smoke, (which proved to proceed from a defective chimney, and the flooring caught therefrom,) so that it was with great difficulty her husband could enter their children's room and remove them—and after one little fellow had been rescued, in his bewildement he ran back to his bed again. But all were saved; and by the efficient assistance of Gen. Hadley and other neighbors, the fire was extinguished without a public alarm.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, specdily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step; gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stage of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

THE UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD COMPANY

OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES

Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole

Grand Line to the Pacific

Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.

The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:

"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only the once incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered, to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for new track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $20,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $22,158,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.

Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,268,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. If a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.

The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents thro'out the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

By chemical process, knife-handles and fine tooth combs are made from potato pulp.

When the millenium of farming is reached, white clover will be valued equally with red clover.

Many value mules more than horses; they live longer, are tougher, require less food and a smaller harness, and can jump higher.

Many an unsightly slough-hole in the fields, if sodded, and seeded by young willows to catch and keep the rain-falls, would make a capital reservoir of water for the use of stock It is frequently done in England.

We know of no good reason why peas should not be more generally raised in the Northern States. They are a very common crop in Canada, and from thirty to forty bushels are grown to the acre, on good soil. They are much used in feeding swine and sheep, and make pork and mutton of the best quality.

A farmer, who has had large experience in feeding cabbage and turnip to cows, says his practice is to feed immediately after milking—never before—and he has never been troubled with the milk being flavored. He also says he feeds turnips whole, with the tops on, as there is no danger from choking when fed in this way.

Lime water is most beneficial for an occasional drink to fowls. It is a preventive of many diseases, and assists the formation of bone and eggs. It should be prepared as follows: Pour over quicklime some warm water, and when the lime is slacked and settled, draw the clear water off, which can be kept for a considerable time. The lime will be useful for whitewash.

If old hay is well stacked, or in the barn, is it worth about as much the second year as the first. It is a good plan to keep over a few stacks to meet the emergency of a short hay crop. It is a poor plan to buy hay when it bears the highest price. The most thrifty farmers have hay to sell in years of short grass crops, and the extra price pays very well for keeping.

President Starr of the Alton Horticultural Society says, to prepare new oak barrels for wine or cider, use one pound of alum and four or five pounds of salt, to four bucketsful of water; heat boiling hot, and put one bucket at a time in a barrel: rinse thoroughly; let it stand an hour, turn it out, and repeat the operation with another bucketful. Finally, rinse with cold water and fumigate with sulphur, and all will be right.

The Iowa Homestead gives a statement by Ruel Foster, Esq., of the production of two parts of the same field of wheat, both of which were prepared alike, and treated in the same manner, with the exception of the seed. On one portion very clean, plump, nice wheat, costing $2.25 per bushel, was used; on the other, ordinary wheat, worth $1.75 to $1.80 per bushel, was sown. The good seed averaged 23 1-6 bushels per acre; the poorer 18 2-4.

WASHINGTON SAVINGS BANK.—The annual report of the Trustees of the Freedmen's Savings Bank in Washington city shows that the colored people save some of their earnings. The amount of interest paid by the bank during the year 1868 to depositors is about $17,000. The assets are entirely in United States bonds and cash, and amount to $965,000. And these poor fellows, who recently were not allowed to own themselves, have now laid by, in very small sums, almost a Million of Dollars.

Something of the same kind is true in this part of the country, of such Irish and other Immigrants as are disposed to save some of their earnings, and come indirectly under the dreadful reproach of being "bloated bondholders,"—and perhaps even, on election days, voting against themselves as such, at the dictation of demagogues!

☞ It is said that a man by the name of Schofield committed suicide at Amesbury Mills Village, Thursday evening. Schofield was arrested for drunkenness in the afternoon, and about six o'clock was found hanging to the bars over the door of the cell in the lock-up, having used his neck-handkerchief for the purpose. He was about fifty years of age, and leaves a wife and several children. He hung himself while the officer in charge was at tea.

The Lancaster Republican says that Richard P. Kent's mare, Nelly, got loose one day lately and trotted to the blacksmith's shop where she was accustomed to be shod. She walked up to the anvil and held up a fore foot. The workman inspected it and found that the shoe was loose. The difficulty was remedied to the satisfaction of the intelligent animal.

Mr. Chase Fuller, of Danville, is 73 year old and has shod 60 pairs of oxen during the present season.

—More men are drowned in the bowl than in the sea.

—A long-headed man is never headlong.

A TON OF HAY BY MEASURE.—It is a matter of considerable dispute how much hay in the mow ought to be allowed, as a ton in weight. Some assert that a cube of ten feet; while others place it as low as six feet square and three feet deep, or only 392 cubic feet. Now both of these cannot be right, neither can any measure be fixed upon to hold good under all circumstances. Hay, at the bottom of the mow, will be more solid than at the surface, and the whole will be very much affected by the quantity of grain put on top of it, (if any) and the depth of the hay. But having occasion to sell a ton in my barn, to be sure of the quantity for future reference, I measured off a space of eight feet square on one corner of the mow, and cut down seven feet deep, and found the hay removed weighed 2020 pounds, thus making 448 cubic feet, a good measure for a ton of hay; it was taken from the surface, upon which 200 bundles of good oats had been stored. The hay was twelve feet deep.

Saved by clubbing together and buying COTTON CLOTH, DRESS GOODS, WOOLEN GOODS, HOSIERY, BLANKETS, SHAWLS, &c., &c., together with BOOTS and SHOES, BOOKS, OUTLERY, SILVER-PLATED WARE, CASTORS, FANCY GOODS, &c., of

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED BREAKFAST TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Republican) says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as 'familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best Houses in their own city. Their Ready-to-sell of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY, ($32.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving Oval Stand. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. A valuable white waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Flocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fine Gold Watch. Silver Plated Table Castor.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($10.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Dress Pattern. Pair Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. One pair good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's fashionable Double woolen Shawl. One large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 21 yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks or white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND DIAMOND EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE AGENCY'S OFFICE, 30 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO., No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.

JOHN E. ROBERTS, Agent for Portsmouth.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,

ON THE BEACH.

TO WHITTIER—BY LUCY LARCOM.

We stroll as children, thou and I,
Upon the sandy beach,
With younger children playing nigh;
The surf-boats dance, the ships go by,
Beyond the cape's vague reach.

It is a comfort once to be
Like those young hearts again;
To feel, O friend beloved, with thee,
The broad refreshment of the sea,
In weary soul and brain.

The white feet pattering on the sand,
The wings that dip and rise,
The mower's whistle from the land,
And girlhood's laugh, and murmuring strand,
All blend and harmonize.

And glimmering beach, and plover's flight,
And that long and sorge that rolls
Through bands of green and purple light,
Are fairer to our human sight,
Because of human souls.

Seest thou yon fleet of anchored isles
Upon the sea-line gray?
My thoughts o'erflout these murmurous miles,
To land where bygone summer smiles
On gorge and sheltering bay.

I wander with a spirit there,
Along the enchanted shore;
We breathe the soft, sea-scented air,
And think no isle is half so fair
As rocky Appledore.

She turns to me her large, dark eyes;—
Were ever eyes so true?—
The twilight flushes, fades, and dies;
The beacon flames; the white stars rise
Across pale gulfs of blue.

Those eyes on earth no longer shine;
And yet it seems to me
I see their light, O friend, in thine;
They add a tenderness divine
Unto this tremulous sea.

Seen and unseen are interblent;
The waves that hither roll
In whiter curves of foam are spent,
And deeper seems the green content
Of shore, for her sweet soul.

Can love be hid in funeral urn,
O shut within the grave?
Life passes, only to return,
In tints that glow, and stars that burn
Upon the refluent wave.

The land is dearer for the sea,
The ocean for the shore;
These sands of time too drear would be,
If heaven's ungussed eternity
Rolled not our feet before.

Josh Billings, a Real Estate Agent.

I kan sell for eighteen hundred and thirty-nine dollars a pallas, a neet and pensive retirement, lokated on the virgin banks ov the Hudson, kontaining 85 acres. The land is luxuriously divided by the hand of natur and art into paster and tillage, into plain and declivity, into stern abruptness, and the dallianse of moss turfted medder; streams of sparkling gladness (thick with trout) danse through this wilderness of buty tew the low music of the kricket and grasshopper. The evergreen sigs az the evening zephir flirts through its shadowy bozzum, and the serpen trembles like the lovesmitten harte of a damsel. Fruits of the tropiks in golden buty melt on the bows, and the bees go heavy and sweet from the fields to their garnering hives. The manshun is of Parian marble, the porch iz a single diamond set with rubiez and the mother ov pearls; the floors are ov rosewood, and the ceilins are more butiful than the starry vault of heavin. Hot and cold water bubbles and squirts in every apartment, and nothing iz want'ng that a peec could pra for, or art could portray.—

The stables are worthy ov the steeds of Nimrod or the studs of Akilles, and its henery was built expressly for the birds of paradise; while somber in the distance, like the cave of a hermit, glimpses are caught ov the dorg-house. Here poets have cum and warbled their laze; here skulptors have skulpt; here painters robbed the scene of dreary landscapes; and here the philosopher diskovered the study which made him the alkimist of natur. Next northward ov this thing of buty sleeps the residence and domain ov the Duke John Smith; while southward, and nearer the spice-breathing tropics, may be seen the baronial villy of Earl Brown and the Dutchess Widdy Betsy Stevens. Walls ov primitiff rock, laid in Roman sement, bound the estate, which upward and downard the eyecatches far away the magesta and slow grander of the Hudson. As the young morn hangs like a curting of silver from the blue breast ov the sky, an angel may be seen each night dancing with golden tiptoes on the green.

N. B.—This angel goes with the place.

Diagrams kan be seen at the offiss ov the broker. Terms flattering. None but principals deelt with. Titles as pure as the breth of a white male infant, and possession given with the lark. For more full diskription, read Ovid's art of Love or kal (in your carriage) on —The Empress of the French speaks and writes French quite incorrectly. Whenever she gets excited she uses a great many Spanish words in her conversation, and when really angry she will, at last, only speak Spanish. The servants at the Imperial Court, therefore, when saying, "The Empress has talked Spanish to me," mean "She has scolded me."

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give cause to remember that Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of self-control, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And how completely fulfilled my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains to be done?—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which and only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the sum of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 27, 1869.

The News.

The granaries of California are overflowing with the surplus product of 20,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Five persons have testified before a legislative committee at Harrisburg, that they voted twenty times each in Philadelphia at the last October election.

Another disastrous fire in Lynn, Mass., on Monday night destroyed $200,000 worth of property.

The riots at Havana continue and many citizens and a few foreigners have been shot down by the government troops. Samuel Capiner, an American photographer, has been assassinated. Ladies and children were shot while leaving the theatres.

There are 1000 distilleries in the United States.

Hon. John B. Stockton, Democrat, has been elected Senator from New Jersey.

The Dakota Legislature has passed the woman suffrage bill by four majority, and the question will be submitted to the people at the election in October.

Senator Grimes' bill for the re-organization of the Navy provides for the reduction of the number of corps officers by filling no vacancies until the number of commodores is 15; lieut. commanders 80; lieutenants 280; masters and ensigns 100 each,—the ensigns to be steerage officers unless especially assigned to watch and division duty.

The Medical Corps is to consist of 1 Surgeon General, 5 Inspectors, 10 Deputy Inspectors, 10 Staff Surgeons, 40 Surgeons, 40 Passed Assistants and 45 Assistants.

The Pay Department is organized like the Medical, except that the number of Paymasters is to be 25, passed Assistants 25, and Assistants 23.

The Engineer corps is to consist of 3 Inspectors of machinery, 5 Deputy do., 8 Staff Engineers, 30 Engineers, 60 1st Assistants, and 74 Second Assistants. The grade of 3d assistant is to be abolished.

Congress.

In the Senate, on Monday, Mr. Edmunds, from the Committee on Retrenchment, reported a bill repealing the Tenure of Office law, with an amendment leaving the heads of Departments in the Cabinet subject to removal at the will of the President during the recess of the Senate, and authorizing him to suspend all other civil officers during such recess, without having specific evidence to justify suspension.

Mr. Stewart, from the Judiciary Committee, made a report accompanied by the following resolution:

Resolved, That Joshua Hill, claiming to be Senator elect from Georgia, ought not now to be permitted to take a seat in this body.

Mr. Trumbull presented a dissenting minority report, which, with the majority report, was laid on the table and ordered to be printed.

The Senate resumed discussion of the bill relative to the Central branch of the Union Pacific Railroad.

The following bills were introduced in the House: To create a Department of Indian Affairs, and to provide for the consolidation, civilization and government of Indian tribes.

Making provision for the representation of the other two-fifths of persons heretofore held in slavery.

An interesting debate followed, on the bill granting land and right of way to the Denver Pacific Railway and Telegraph Company.

☞ The Saco Democrat reports the trial of the divorce case of Christina vs. John W. Stimson, was commenced in the Court at Saco, and was withdrawn from the jury, the parties having agreed upon a settlement which the Court directed to be entered upon the records as follows: that a decree of divorce be granted, that libellant have the custody of one child (girl), that libellee have the custody of the boy, and that the libellee pay to the libellant the sum of $240, being amount previously ordered by the Court to be paid the libellant to defray expenses during the pendency of the libel. No alimony was granted.—This case has been one of long standing, and has attracted much attention in Kittery, where the parties reside.

☞ By the breaking of a rail on the P. S. & P. R. R., near Brock's crossing in Eliot, the passengers of the evening Express train from Portland, Tuesday, had a narrow escape. The engine kept on the track, but the cars, in which were about 50 passengers, ran off the track, and were dragged an eighth of a mile, stopping within ten feet of a steep embankment, down which they must have rolled, had they kept on. No one was hurt.

New Hampshire Items.

Rev. Amos Blanchard, who was pastor of the Congregational church at Meriden, for twenty-six years, died at Morrisville, Vermont, a few days since, aged 68 years. Before entering the ministry, he served an apprenticeship in a printing office, and worked, subsequently, as a journeyman, in the office of Gen. Walton, at Montpelier. He received his theological education at Andover, working still, as opportunity offered, at his trade. He was an estimable man and a vigorous writer, both in prose and verse.

Mr. Jas. Bridges of Wilton, went to bed on Sunday night, with only a cold and was found dead in bed, Monday morning.

A laborer at Milford Depot, named Farnsworth, was crushed between two cars, Saturday afternoon, and died in the evening.

A poor man in Manchester, with poor relatives, plead guilty, a day or two ago, to a charge of drunkenness, and paid a fine and costs that would buy a barrel of flour.

Three Frenchmen hired a team in Hooksett, drank liquor, drove to Manchester, drank more liquor, upset their sleigh and broke it, and got into the lockup.

Colonel Pierce, a strong temperance man, (brother of ex-Pres. Pierce) recently delivered a temperance address in Manchester, which is highly spoken of in the papers.

Prescott & Dearborn are cutting some gigantic pine trees in Epping. Part of them to come to Portsmouth for masts.

Benj. Green, aged 73, died in the Asylum for the Insane, at Concord, Sunday night. He was in the British Army and Navy, joined the Shakers at Enfield, left them and married in Concord;—was once intemperate, but reformed;—and accumulated and left a small property.

Among the industrial pursuits in Claremont, is a linen-crash company, which does a good business.

New Ipswich Appleton Academy, founded in 1789, now has more students on its roll than ever before in winter.

The town library of Peterborough has twenty three hundred volumes.

The Government agricultural report for 1868 shows that in New Hampshire the increase of production of potatoes was about 10 per cent; the same on beans and peas; on hay 10 to 11; buckwheat 8 to 9; grapes 9 to 10, and about the same on apples and pears.

The Peterborough Transcript has a three column article on the proposed county of "Monadnock," arguing in favor of it. It urges, that "the selectmen of each town insert an article in the warrant for the annual election, 'to see whether the town will vote to petition the General Court for an act to form the county of Monadnock.' And by concerted, harmonious action, secure results so desirable and important to the towns interested; results that will be wholly lost if the Amoskeag bill is passed without the passage of the Monadnock bill." Speaking of the proposed county of Amoskeag, it says, "the subject will come up next session, and Manchester will be strong enough to carry her point."

BACHELORS AND WIDOWS.—Ten widows are now living in seven houses within one school district in North Barnstead, all of whom are in easy, if not opulent, pecuniary circumstances, and every one of whom has had, no doubt, abundant occasion to say "You can't come in." Ten old bachelors are now living within two school districts in North Barnstead, nine tenths of whom are comparatively intelligent or good looking; but a tenth (a crusty old fellow who lives alone and does his own work) on being asked why he did not marry made answer, "That the women were claiming the right to go to the polls and they would soon claim the right to go courting and that he was only waiting for a good offer."—Pittsfield Times.

LEE ON GRANT.—Lee's opinion of General Grant is pretty clearly shown by the Charlottesville Chronicle, which says that when some one spoke disparagingly of Grant's abilities in his presence, he shrugged his shoulders and said: "At all events, he seems to accomplish whatever he undertakes." We can hardly imagine how the "great chieftain" could say less of a man who so thoroughly out-generaled him, without self-disparagement.

—A man called upon a lawyer, and began to state his case in rather an abrupt manner. "Sir, "I have come to you for advice; I'm a husband-in-law!" "A what?" spoke out the learned counsel. "Husband-in-law, Sir." I have never seen that defined in domestic relations." "Don't you know what a husband-in-law is? Sir, you're no lawyer; you're an ignoramus! I am husband-in-law, sir, but not in fact, sir,—my wife's run off."

—It is equally necessary to avoid those who cannot amuse themselves without being amused, and those who weary themselves without being wearied.

The National Chronicle, published in Boston by M. Mort. Rogers, Chas. R. Byram and Ed. E. Rice, all well known in their specialties, is a weekly paper devoted to sports and amusements. With the first number comes a "picture gallery" of some of New England's famous ball players, among whom we recognize Messrs. Lowell, Lovett and Sumner of the Lowells' and three of the Harvard's best, Messrs. Ames, Sprague and Flagg. The Chronicle fits in just the place it was needed and is the recognized and authorized official organ and exponent of the National Association. We trust it will be liberally sustained, and the base ball players of our city will find it brim full of interest to them. $2 per year, in advance.

The Herald of Health for February, has a rich table of contents. There is an article in the Education of Little Children, by a lady teacher of a Kindergarten school in Boston; another by Henry Ward Beecher, on Work; and many more as valuable.

—Young Lady—"Oh! I'm so glad you like birds; which kind do you admire most?" Old Squab—"Well, I think the goose, with plenty of stuffing, is about as good as any."

TO FARMERS.

The Lodi Manufacturing Co. invite Farmers and others using Manures, to send for a pamphlet descriptive of their Fertilizers. They offer their Double Refined POUDRETTE as being equal to the best Super-Phosphate, at the low price of $30 per ton.

They also make superior articles of NITRO PHOSPHATE AND PURE BONE DUST.

We ask attention to the following Testimonials:

Prof. Geo. H. Cook, of the New Jersey Agricultural College of New Brunswick, says: "The Double Refined Poudrette and Nitro Phosphate of Lime paid us full 100 per cent. above their market value, in the increase of crops this year."

Dr. A. Slaughter, North Hadley, Mass., says: "I used it on my Tobacco plants (where no other manure had been used for years.) They came up strong and vigorous, and produced the best plants ever raised in this vicinity."

Dani. D. Beckwith, New London, Conn., says: "The Double Refined Poudrette is the best fertilizer I have ever used in the hill, taking the price into account. The Nitro Phosphate is ahead of anything I have ever used in producing a crop without the aid of Stable manure."

Abram T. Peckham, Newport, R. I., says: "I used the Poudrette on corn, side by side with Super Phosphate, and in every case it came out ahead."

Chas. Rowland, Weston, Conn., says: "It gave the corn as early start, ripened it early and increased the yield more than sufficient to pay all expenses."

Wm. S. Sheffield, South Lyme, Conn., says he found it superior to Super Phosphate or fish scrap. On Corn and Buckwheat it far surpassed any other manure.

Bradley Ingalls, Sheffield, Vt., says: "Your Double Refined Poudrette has been tried side by side with Cook's and Bradley's X X Super Phosphate, and one or two other kinds, and it has given as good satisfaction as any. My Uncle raised twenty bushels of corn from four rows with manure, three bushels from four rows with Poudrette, and only one and three quarters from Bradley's X I.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light there, because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her head on the door-sill, where we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unimarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

"A LITTLE BILIOUS."

How often this is the response to the enquiry after a friend's health; as if to be bilious was a trifling matter, hardly worth thinking about. But let it be remembered that, as "tall oaks from little acorns grow," so formidable diseases arise from being "a little bilious."

Severe bilious attacks are more common in Spring, Summer and Autumn than in Winter, but the serious disorders of the liver which so often occur at those seasons, might be traced, in hundreds of instances, to Winter indulgences and their neglected consequences. More highly-seasoned food is taken, more fiery drinks imbibed, in cold than in warm weather, and thus the biliousness is produced which, under a warmer temperature, culminates in remittent and intermittent fevers.

The very best medicine for persons who are either a little or a good deal bilious, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. No blue-pill or calomel is required in such cases. Those powerful mineral medicines cut two ways, like a double-edged sword. They act, it is true, upon the liver, but re-act most deleteriously on other parts of the system. They "stick" there, and cannot be got rid of. The Bitters contain vegetable agents of an anti-bilious tendency, that produce a specific and most genial effect upon the biliary organ, without entailing any evil consequences whatever. They are altogether wholesome, and act favorably and simultaneously upon the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the nervous system and the brain.

THE PLASTER OF THE "TIME,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, but his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel is deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and is the alkali in the blood, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and to make into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, all physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above medicines, and has enjoyed a recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICINE PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostate Gland, Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the age of 18 to 25, for any indiscretion; or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-Wetting in Children.

SELF-PRESERVATION, or the Results of Abuse. Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions are taken, and Tumoral Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of Urine, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposit, and Mucus or Milky Discharges, and for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Eruptions of the skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and cures all Diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life, Impurities of the Blood, &c., superseding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleets of long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in the Secretions, used in connection with HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. PRICE—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

For the Chronicle.

"Revenons a Nos Moutons."

Back again in Fogtown, with its mists, natural and social, breathing its quiet by day and sleeping to the melody of those morning bells. And back again to your friendly columns, where I hope I may be no less welcome than at first.

I understand that my debut made quite a stir among your readers; the "powers that be" bristled slightly a la Porcupine, but they didn't send a quill at me, probably in compliment to the intense good nature displayed in my "moan."

Our Union Brigade shouldered arms in defence of their rights, the only result, I believe, being a firm determination to stand by the platform, no husband, no membership, and a more numerous attendance at its dress parades. Of course we expected that "They would go who never went before,

And they who always went, would go the more."

That is human nature, and very lovely and lovable is the unadulterated article. I esteem it highly, and am proud of my share.

I have been censured severely, it seems, by many; and some sensitive natures are greatly displeased and mortified, that Parish affairs should have been thus brought before the public I crave their pardon most humbly, for I allow that it does seem somewhat like telling tales out of school. But why should we keep it to ourselves, thus hiding our light under a bushel? If we have a superior organization in our midst—if by any peculiarities of constitution or bylaws, we are enabled to accomplish a greater amount of good than any other—I think it ought to be known, that sister Parishes may go and do likewise.

If the contrary be true—if it respond to the calls from the destitute and suffering in distant homes, and yet shut out from this very avenue of usefulness, a class of persons who have every right to it, (save the marriage rite), thus virtually giving with one hand and rejecting with the other—if this be true, I say, why should it exist?

We outsiders have our little drops of consolation. Many gentlemen take sides with us,—to such a degree, in fact, that one of them actually asserted himself to be "Sub Rosa." Good for him! he has my warmest thanks. And then, as every thing is lovely or otherwise by comparison, so we are not in as bad a plight as some others. You shall hear. Away down East below sunrise, I think, where they never take the New York papers and have never heard of the "Sorosisters" and women's Convention,—there exists a Parish not so large and flourishing as ours—not so liberally educated and progressive as ours. Their church edifice is small, old fashioned and uncomfortable, while one generation after another have talked about something different, but died without the sight. At length some enterprising ladies who had read, thought and travelled to some purpose, became desperate, and determined to act. They formed themselves into a Society for the purpose of raising a fund, which should assist at least in remodelling the old structure.

After a few years of untiring effort and industry, they amassed a sum sufficiently large to warrant them in taking a second step. A meeting was called, and the advice and co-operation of the gentlemen asked.

"What answer?" Open hands and hearts, assistance, encouragement?—No; they were snubbed,—coldly, cruelly snubbed. One man "didn't want a church built by a parcel of women;" another gentleman thought "the ladies very officious; when they got ready for a new Church, they would build it;" a third old fogy thought "it was good enough for their grandfathers and it was good enough for them;" (he ought to wear his grandfather's hat.)

One can hardly imagine the wrath and consternation of that devoted band, —after months and years of effort and sacrifice, to be thus treated; not by an open enemy, but by their own familiar friends.

"Truth crushed to earth will rise again"

so the energies of these ladies, palsied for a little time, have revived with fresh vigor, and we shall hear of them yet in another and wider field of action. I, with my fellow-spinsters, wish them abundant success, and in the light of their painful experience, we rejoice together that we are Fogtowners, and congratulate one another that our lines have fallen to us in such pleasant places, albeit they are not marriage lines.

SUB ROSA.

☞ Sub Rosa, whoever she may be, is always welcome to our columns, as we know her communications are to our readers.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—On Monday evening, when returning from Kittery with a friend, at about 9 o'clock, we were more surprised than pleased to find a train of cars standing fair across the road, on the Noble's Island bridge, and the gate swung across and locked. We waited upwards of ten minutes for the train to start, and then crawled underneath, to find, when we emerged, that there was no engine attached. The train may be standing there yet, for it didn't start while we were in sight; and if we had had a horse, as we generally do when we are over in that direction, we might have still remained there, too. Had the train been left a few hundred feet nearer Portsmouth Bridge, (and there was nothing to have prevented its being done, that we could see,) the road would have been unobstructed.

Now, I should like to know whether the public have a right of way across the bridge, or whether they only cross on sufferance of the Eastern (or some other) Rail Road. If the bridge is a public highway, I don't think any man or body of men has any right to bar me, who am one of the public, from using it; and if we are only allowed to cross as a favor from some Rail Road Corporation, I would suggest the establishment of a ferry as quick as possible, or the building of another bridge where railroad trains can't get, to stop the passage.

PAKEHA.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS attracted a large audience to Corning Hall last evening, and the general opinion at the close of the concert appeared to be that it was the best company that had visited Auburn for a long time. It certainly shows great improvement since its last visit here under the name of 'Arlington's.' Charley Reynolds and Charley Pettingill as end men are perfectly immense, and not at all given to vulgarity of profanity. In fact, it is the great effort of Mr. Haverly to elevate negro minstrelsy from the slough into which some of its prominent members have sunk it. The performance of his company last evening shows that he has made a decided step in this direction. The quartette is very fine, while the instrumental music is all that can be desired. We have only to say to our brethern of the press that they may speak in the highest terms of this company without fear that they will fail to fulfill their expectations.—Aub. News.

WENT FOR WOOL, AND CAME HOME SHORN.—It is well known that our City Marshal Johnson is some hard on the horse-thieves and other scoundrels; but he rather got sold on Monday night. A fellow stole a livery team from Lewiston, and put up here on Sunday; and the Marshal drove his own trusty black horse to Exeter after him, Monday evening, but did not find him. On his return, an hour or two past midnight, Mr. Johnson left his team for a moment in the road, a short distance above Stratham Hill, and the horse left him in the lurch, for, on looking for him, he was missing,—and Mr. Johnson walked home, looking for his team on the way.

But not hearing anything further of it, on Tuesday he sent another to Newmarket for it, but up to Tuesday evening had heard nothing of its whereabouts.

☞ Conductor Philbrick, of the Eastern Railroad, who has been seriously ill for several weeks,—his numerous friends will be glad to hear is convalescing. Mr. Abiel Somerby, the veteran Ticket Agent at the station in Portland, has also become convalescent from his recent illness. Mr. W. D. Sanborn is officiating in Mr. Somerby's place as ticket agent.

☞ If everybody didn't already know that the weather has been very cold of late, the fact of the long continuance of our very thin sleighing, would prove it well enough. We hope the cold won't continue to strengthen, with the days' greater lengthening.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week is published to-day. It is the largest and cheapest paper in the County—containing all the reading matter from the Daily Chronicle for the week. $2 per year, 5 cents single copy.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM
IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.
Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

THE UNION PACIFIC
RAILROAD COMPANY
OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.
NINE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILES
Of the line West from Omaha are now completed, and the work is going on through the winter. As the distance between the finished portion of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is now less than 400 miles, and both companies are pushing forward the work with great energy, employing over 30,000 men, there can be no doubt the whole
Grand Line to the Pacific
Will be open for Business in the Summer of 1869.
The regular Government Commissioners have pronounced the Union Pacific Railroad to be FIRST CLASS in every respect, and the Special Commission appointed by the President says:
"Taken as a whole, THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD HAS BEEN WELL CONSTRUCTED, AND THE GENERAL ROUTE FOR THE LINE EXCEEDINGLY WELL SELECTED.—The energy and perseverance with which the work has been urged forward, and the rapidity with which it has been executed, are without parallel in history, and in grandeur and magnitude of undertaking it has never been equalled." The Report states that any deficiencies that exist are only those incident to all new roads, and that could not have been avoided without materially retarding the progress of the great work. Such deficiencies are supplied by all railroad companies [after the completion of the line, when and wherever experience shows them to be necessary. The report concludes by saying that "the country has reason to congratulate itself that this great work of national importance is so rapidly approaching completion under such favorable auspices." The Company now have in use 137 locomotives and nearly 2000 cars of all descriptions. A large additional equipment is ordered to be ready in the Spring. The grading is nearly completed, and ties distributed for 120 miles in advance of the western end of the track. Fully 120 miles of iron for our track are now delivered west of the Missouri River, and 90 miles more are en route. The total expenditures for construction purposes in advance of the completed portion of the road is not less than eight million dollars.
Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $29,000 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. The Company have already received $23,158,000 of this subsidy, of which $1,280,000 was paid Dec. 6th, and $640,000 Dec. 14th.
Government Aid—Security of the Bonds.
By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security. The earnings from the way or local business for the year ending June 30, 1868, on an average of 472 miles, were over FOUR MILLION DOLLARS, which, after paying all expenses, were much more than sufficient to cover all interest liability upon that distance, and the earnings for the last five months have been $2,386,870. They would have been greater, if the road had not been taxed to its utmost capacity to transport its own materials for construction. The income from the great passenger travel, the China freights, and the supplies for the new Rocky Mountain States and Territories must be ample for all interest and other liabilities. No political action can reduce the rate of interest. It must remain for thirty years—six per cent. per annum in gold, now equal to between eight and nine per cent. in currency. The principal is then payable in gold. If a bond with such guarantees were issued by the Government, its market price would not be less than from 20 to 25 per cent. premium. As these bonds are issued under Government authority and supervision, upon what is very largely a Government work, they must ultimately approach Government prices. No other corporate bonds are made so secure.
The price for the present is PAR and accrued interest at the rate of 6 per cent. in currency from July 1st, '68, and subscriptions will be received in
PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—
JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,
And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.
Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.
A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

An Affectionate Love Letter.

The following letter is said to surpass in eloquence and pathos anything of the kind ever written.

DYKESBURG, Aug. 6, '68.

MY OWN DEAR PEGGY;—Every time I think of you my heart flops up and down like a churn-dasher. Sensations of unutterable joy caper over it like young goats over a stable roof, and thrill through it like Spanish needles through tow-linen trowsers. As a goslin swimmeth in delight in a mud-puddle, so swim I in a sea of glory. Visions of ecstatic rapture, thicker than the hair of a blacking brush, and brighter than the hues on a humming bird's pinions, visit me in my slumbers, and borne on their invisible wings, your image stands before me, and I reach out to grasp it, like an old pointer snapping at a blue bottle fly.

When I first beheld your saintly perfections I was bewildered, and my brain whirled around like a bumble bee under a glass tumbler; my eyes stood open like cellar doors in a country town; and I lifted up my ears to catch the silvery accents of your voice. My tongue refused to wag, and in silent admiration I drank in the sweet infection of love, as a thirsty man swallows a tumbler of hot whiskey punch. Since the light of your face fell upon my life, I sometimes feel as if I could lift myself by my shoe straps to the top of a church steeple. Day and night you are my thoughts. When Aurora, blushing like a bride, rises from her saffron couch; when the jay-bird pipes his tuneful lay in the apple tree by the spring house; when the chanticleer's shrill clarion heralds the coming morn; when the awakened pig ariseth from his bed and goeth forth for his morning refreshments; when the drowsy beetle wheels his droning flight at sultry noontide, and when the lowing cows home home at milking time, I think of thee; and like a piece of gum-elastic, my heart seems to stretch clear across my bosom.

Your hair is like the mane of a sorrel horse, painted with gold, and the brass slide of your immaculate neck-tie fills me with unbounded awe. Your forehead is smoother than an old coat, and whiter than seventeen hundred linen. Your eyes are glorious to behold. In their depths I see legion of little Cupids battling and fighting like cohorts of ants in an old army cracker. When their fire hit me full in the womanly breast, it perforated my entire anatomy like a load of bird-shot would go through a rotten apple. Your nose is from a chunk of Parian marble, and your mouth puckers with sweetness. Nectar lingers on your rosy lips like honey on a bear's paw, and myriads of unfledged kisses are there ready to fly out and light somewhere like blue birds out of their parent nest. Your laugh rings on my ear like the wind harp's bleak hillside. The dimples in your cheeks are like bowers in beds of roses, or like hollows in cakes of home-made sugar.

I am dying to fly to your presence, and to pour out the burning eloquence of my love as a thrifty housewife pours out coffee. Away from you I am as melancholy as a sick rat. Sometimes I can hear the June-bug of despondency buzzing in my ears, and feel cold lizards of despair crawling down my back, uncouth fears like a thousand minnows nibbling at my spirits, and my soul is pierced through with doubts as an old cheese is bored by skippers. My love is stronger for you than the smell of old butter, sweitzer kase, or the kick of a mule. It is purer than the breath of a young cow, and more unselfish than a kitten's first caterwaul. As the song-bird hungers for the light of day, the cautious little mouse for the fresh bacon in the trap, as a lean pup hankers after new milk, so I long for thee. You are fairer than a speckled pullet, sweeter than a Yankee doughnut fixed in sorghum molasses, and brighter than the top-not plumage of a Muscovey duck. You are candy-kisses, raisins, pound-cake, and sweetened toddy, altogether.

If these few remarks will enable you to see the inside of my soul, and me to win your affections, I shall be as happy as a woodpecker in a cherry tree, or a stage horse in a green pasture. If you cannot reciprocate my thrilling passion, I will feel terrible bad, and I will pine away like a poisoned bed bug, and fall from the flourishing vine of life, an untimely branch. And in coming years, when the shadows grow long from the hills, and the philosophic frog sings his evening hymn, you, happy in another's love, can come and drop a tear and toss a clod upon the last resting place of Ecila.

EX-PRESIDENT PIERCE.—Hillsborough is the birth-place, and during half of his life has been the residence, of Ex-President Pierce. The horsebed, in the end of which was partitioned off his law office, still remains. He inherited a marked local popularity from his father—a genial, generous, sagacious, but uneducated farmer, who was Governor of the State in 1827 and 1829. Ex-President Pierce entered Congress at an early age, and winning no special distinction in either the House or Senate, resigned in 1841. He and Mr. Atherton, his colleague in the Senate, were known at that early period as the especial friends of the ultra pro-slavery party.

His nomination for the Presidency in 1852 took the country by surprise. In truth, few outside of New England had ever heard of him. Yet the nomination was the sequence of means which had been long and carefully employed. If not a statesman, Franklin Pierce was a tactician—the prince of wire pullers, and a shrewd judge of every grade of politicians. Of late years he has been unpopular, especially during the rebellion, when by no word or act did he aid in sustaining the Government. He seems never to have been able to forget that it was the slaveholding interest which gave him the Presidency. As a citizen he is esteemed for his liberality, his engaging manners, and kindly social qualities. He has neither wife nor children living, and of late his feeble health seldom permits him to pass beyond the outskirts of Concord.—Cor. Boston Journal.

"HOW DO YOU DO IT?" Such was the question asked us when we told a neighbor that we made our hens lay all winter. Our answer was briefly as follows; Keep them in a warm, light place; give them warm water to drink; change their food twice a week; give occasionally a feed of mashed boiled potatoes with meal and a little black pepper added, and throw into the pen once a week from the cellar, a cabbage head for them to pick upon.—Maine Farmer.

—Don't be too anxious to solve a conundrum: We know a man who got two black eyes in endeavoring to find out the difference between a man and woman fighting in the street.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BEE GUILT & STEEL TRAP DOUBLE ENTENTE TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade thinks of this popular house:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to agents for sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. [$3.] 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving coal hand. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane, 10 yards Calico. Alhambra Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. [$6.] 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen Blankets. 10 yards Alpaca Dress Pattern. 10 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Flocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Best Hat. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. [$10.] 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Silk Dress Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair o good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's fashionable Fine Wool Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street,
Boston, Mass.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO.,

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The Chronicle.

NEVER SATISFIED.

A man in his carriage was riding along,
A gaily dress'd wife by his side;
In satin and laces she looked like a queen,
And he like a king in his pride.

A wood-sawyer stood in the street as they pass'd,
The carriage and couple he eyed,
And he said, as he worked with his saw on a log,
I wish I was rich, and could ride.

The man in the carriage remarked to his wife,
One thing I would give if I could,
I'd give all my wealth for the strength and the health
Of the man who is sawing the wood.

A pretty young maid with a bundle of work,
Whose face as the morning was fair,
Went tripping along with a smile of delight,
While humming a love breathing air.

She looked in the carriage—the lady she saw,
Arrayed in apparel so fine.—
And said, in a whisper, I wish in my heart
Those satins and laces were mine.

The lady looked out on the maid with her work,
So fair in her calico dress,
And said, I'd relinquish position and wealth
Her beauty and youth to possess.

Thus it is with the world; whatever our lot,
Our mind and our time we employ
In longing and sighing for what we have not,
Ungrateful for what we enjoy.

How They Do it at Fairs.

A Kentuckian relates his experience at a Chicago fair as follows. It is pretty much the experience of every one at those conventicles everywhere:

I dropped into a fair held for the benefit of some confounded society or other. I thought I would expend a dollar or two, and see what was going on. So I bought myself a ticket and slid in. I went to a table where refreshments were sold, and called for some oysters, chicken salad, and coffee. A beautiful siren with big black eyes, little white hands, and a most bewitching mouth, spread the edibles before me.

I don't know how it was, but I felt a strong affinity toward that ministering angel at once. While eating and drinking, and devouring her with mine eyes in the meantime, we struck up a scattering conversation. At last I arose and handed her a five dollar bill. She put it in a little box, and forgot to give me any change, but instead thereof a sweet smile unto me, saying: "Are you a stranger to Chicago?" Yes, Madam, I am from Kentucky." "Is it possible? I am a Kentuckian also." "Ah! I knew it." The reply was whispered, but it produced a faint blush, a drooping of the beautiful eyelashes and a gratified smile.

"Would you like to walk around the room and look over our fancy articles?" quoth the siren. "If you will show me," quoth the spooney. She took my arm, and raising herself by it to her toes, she murmured, "We are not strangers, you know." Go away, Grant, with your presidency. I would not change places with you this minute. Nor with Colfax, who was married this morning. Go away, jacksrews, you can't raise me any higher.

We wandered through that room, talking—sweetly talking, of things that had been, of things that were, and of things that might be. Pretty soon we came to a silver tea-set that was to be raffled off. Would I take a chance? Of course I would. Then a wonderful cake, with a valuable ring concealed in it, appealed to the cupidity of the chance-takers. I was persuaded to take a chance in the cake. And so things glided on until I concluded that if I took many more chances my chances or getting home would be rather slim. So I refused to tempt fortune any further. Anon a costly workbox met our eyes, but I bravely resisted all appeals, until the little black-eyed scoundrel took me on a new tack.

Leaning heavily on my arm, and absolutely resting her cheek on my shoulder, with those wicked eyes and that silvery tongue, she said: "Won't you take a chance for me?" Oh, well, folks preach about the fall of Adam, but I never blamed him, though I don't think the old fellow had half the excuse I had. I needn't tell you that I took that chance for the unprincipled and beautiful wretch that had me in tow until I had not a dollar left. Yes, I was penniless, and then it began to dawn on me that the young lady was working for the success of the Fair, and that I had made a first-class fool of myself, as usual.

There I was, a bankrupt in money and in reputation, in self-respect. I had been robbed—yes, robbed. For where is the difference between a pair of Derringers and a pair of black eyes in a robbery? You part with your money because you can't help it. I know that society looks with lenient eyes upon these female guerrillas who haunt these charitable fairs, but it is my opinion, when all the robbers come to take their final trial and receive their final sentence, that little Chicago robber will take her place by the side of Jack Sheppard.

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is great usurpation of the rights of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

This Rest, which is received with great favor, fastens on the stove for the purpose of sustaining SHELVES, which can be Raised or Lowered at pleasure, either SEPARATELY or TOGETHER, and which are made to swing directly over the stove or behind it, entirely out of the way.
This INDISPENSABLE ARTICLE supplies a want felt in every family, being useful in raising Bread or yeast, for holding Dishes when cooking; for drying Tin, Wooden Ware and articles of every description; for keeping Drinks and Food Warm without injury to the dish or food. It is also convenient to place a Lamp upon while cooking, in fact various and numerous are the uses to which it is put, proving itself a blessing which every housekeeper appreciates.
PHYSICIANS RECOMMEND IT. One of the greatest sources of Consumption and Colds is wet or damp feet. Upon these Shelves Boots, Shoes, Stockings, Rubbers, Gloves, &c., are thoroughly Dried and Warmed, without danger of burning or scorching, as is often done for want of a suitable place to put either.
It is also of great advantage in Offices and Stores for warming and drying various articles without danger of burning.
Many are the TESTIMONIALS in its favor. It will speak for itself, and those who once have it will never be willing to part with it, and wonder how they ever did without it.

NATIONAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
Washington, D. C.
Chartered by Special Act of Congress.
APPROVED JULY 25, 1868.
CASH CAPITAL - - - $1,000,000.
PAID IN FULL.
Branch Office:
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA,
Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.
OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the sum of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

Gen. John Bedel has accepted the Democratic nomination for Governor.

The Maine State Temperance Convention met at Augusta, Tuesday evening.

Havana is quieting down.

Manzanilla rejoices on the departure of the cholera.

Alabama is negotiating for the purchase of that portion of Florida which lies west of the Mississippi river.

The Canadian lumbermen are in despair because of lack of snow. They can't get their timber out of the woods, poor fellows.

The Dakota Legislature proves to have adjourned without finally passing the woman suffrage bill. One branch passed it, but the other insisted upon an amendment submitting the question to the present legal voters in the Territory for decision, and between the two branches no final action upon the measure was taken.

The citizens of the First and Fifteenth Wards of New York city, have formed Vigilance Committees, for the purpose of punishing murderers, as life is insecure there.

Cincinnati is infested with thieves and burglars.

The velocipede mania is rapidly increasing at New York, and the demand for velocipedes is considerably in advance of the supply.

New Haven, Conn., voted by over 2000 majority, on Tuesday, to extend city aid to the New Haven and Derby Railroad.

John Howard, the oldest man in New London, Ct., died last Sunday. He commanded an American blockade runner in the war of 1812.

The jury in the case of Seddons (on trial at Boston), who was one of the principals in the last prize fight at Smith's Isle, disagreed.

There will be a March session of the new Congress.

Perley, of the Boston Journal, re-iterates his statement that Gen. Banks was twice ordered to supercede Gen. Grant at Vicksburg.

The Maine Farmers' Convention was in session on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Gen. Sheridan's troops are to be withdrawn from the plains, and the Indians are to go on the reservations set apart for them.

Ex-Gov. Pickens of Sumter notoriety is dead.

The American ship Alaska, built in Kennebunk, Me., was burned, with a cargo of cotton, at Havre on Wednesday. The vessel was owned by Lincoln & Thayer of Boston.

Dr. Mudd, one of the conspirators in the assassination of President Lincoln, has been pardoned by Andrew Johnson.

Gov. English of Connecticut has been nominated for re-election by the copperheads of that State.

BIRDS IN THE BELFRY.—The temples of worship, all the world over, and in all times, have proved safe resorts, and therefore favorite spots for the birds of the air.

As long ago as when the 84th Psalm was written, it was matter of record, that "The sparrow hath found an house, and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even thine altars, O Lord of Hosts."

The birds of this century, true to the traditions of their elders, resort to the temple and the belfry.

At Manchester, it appears that some of the officers of the Lowell Street Universalist Society, lately had occasion to go up into their belfry for the purpose of making some repairs there—a place where no one had been for several years previous; and on arriving at this spot, where the bell hangs, and which is open to the weather as well as the fowls of the air, to their surprise they found it had been occupied as a dove-cot by the whole family of the doves of the city so long that a considerable quantity of Dove Guano had accumulated. Mr. Fuller, of Bedford, a farmer, happening to be passing at the time, was hailed from the steeple, and invited up to see what the deposit was worth; and after examining it, he offered $8 for it where it was. The offer was gladly accepted, and on removing the mass, to the astonishment of buyer and sellers there was found to be somewhere in the neighborhood of forty bushels, worth 50 cents a bushel.

☞ A very beautiful Chromo, one of Prang's choicest, "Æsopus Creek in Early Autumn," may be seen in the window of the Bookstore of Mr. Foster, the agent, for a day or two—the tasteful and elegant frame being from the establishment of Mr. Montgomery on Daniel Street.

Union Pacific Railroad—One Thousand Miles Completed—The Year's Earnings Over Five Million Dollars.

The latest bulletin of progress upon the Union Pacific Railroad gives some remarkable facts. The first is that one thousand miles are finished and in operation west of Omaha, reaching across and beyond the Rocky Mountains and into the valley of Great Salt Lake. Great as is this fact, it can only be duly appreciated when we consider how short has been the time within which it has been accomplished. Three years ago only forty miles were built, two hundred and sixty-five miles were added in 1866, two hundred and seventy-five in 1867, and about five hundred miles in 1868. Such rapidity of construction has had no parallel in all the history of railroad engineering. But even these statistics, startling as they are in their magnitude, do not tell the whole story. It is when we bear constantly in mind the fact that the starting-point of this road had no railroad communication when the work was begun; that the road was built out beyond settlements or improvements; that it has carried its own resident population, and made its own business in a country totally devoid of developement before the locomotive penetrated therein, and that the greater part of its material has been carried more than one thousand miles before reaching the point of employment, that we get any clear idea of the vastness of the undertaking which has been carried on so wonderfully across the plains and mountains. Such great results could only be attained by the use of an army of laborers such as have been in the service of the Union Pacific Company, organized and managed with consummate skill.

An other fact, of still greater interest to the financier and to all who are concerned in the material growth of our western country, is that the Union Pacific road, as yet incomplete, and dependent, as we have said, upon the business it has itself created or stimulated, earned, in the year 1868, more than five million dollars, the details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,005.57
" Freight	3,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	31,826.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,170.99
" " material	938,430.32
Total	$5,986,651.61

It such amount of paying traffic can be derived from local business, upon an average distance in operation of less than 700 miles, there can be no possible doubt of the road having all its facilities taxed to the utmost, when the whole line is finished, to move the vast local and through freight which will then be offered. The work of construction is not stopped during the winter so that the gap of about 250 miles now remaining between the tracks of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific will be closed, and the whole line to the Pacific in operation by the early days of the ensuing summer. The project, which was so ridiculed during all the years when it was simply a proposal, so discouraged when its projectors urged it upon the attention of moneyed men in 1862-'65, and so maligned by those envious if its success was assured, will then be a magnificent fact, beyond contradiction or cavil.

The bonds of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, which are for $1000 each, paying 6 per cent, gold interest, and principal redeemable in gold, are, by act of Congress, a First Mortgage upon the entire line. The security is ample, the profit good, "specie payment" absolute, and it is not strange that more than twenty millions have been sold of these securities within the past eighteen months. Further information concerning them may be obtained in the advertisement of the Company in another column, who announce where subscriptions may be made.

The N. Y. Herald's Washington dispatch says: In the Alaska investigation Mr. Tossetro was examined, although very unwilling, as he said, to testify.—He stated that the Russian minister told him that Russia only got $5,000,000 for the possessions, and he believed that Secretary Seward and Generals Banks and Butler got the rest, because Seward and Banks paid up some old debts soon after, and Butler ceased agitating the claim of the Massachusetts arms manufacturers against the Russian government.

—Olive oil, administered internally, it is asserted by a prominent English physician, is an excellent remedy for gout. It is also highly beneficial in cases of paralysis and epilepsy.

—Gen. Sherman detests new uniforms, and is never, as to clothing, "all of a piece." The reason is said to be that, when a lieutenant, he was one day at Washington, sunning himself in a bran new outfit at the door of his hotel, where a crowd of boys gathered, and one of them inquired—"Mister, where's your engine going to squirt?"

New Hampshire Items.

By authority of the City Council of Nashua, Mayor Bowers has offered a reward of three hundred dollars for evidence that will lead to the conviction or the arrest of any parties setting incendiary fires.

The town of Sutton, in Merrimack county, has a Mutual Fire Ins. Co., mainly for insuring farm buildings within its own limits. The amount of property insured in the company is about $100,000; premium notes, $8,000. In twenty years the whole amount of losses has been only $26. The largest single loss has been $12.

The women of Freedom and vicinity make 1500 pairs of trousers every month for Boston dealers in ready made clothing.

The arrest of Keaney, the real murderer of Mr. Wardell at Claremont, relieves entirely from suspicion James Horton of Andover, who was arrested and detained on suspicion of being implicated in the affair. Horton was a soldier in the Union army and received an honorable discharge, and is wholly innocent of the Claremont murder.

BASE BALL.—Prominent among the opening contests of the coming season will be the grand matches which the Harvard and Lowell Clubs intend playing in New York and Brooklyn. Both these clubs are amateur clubs, and they purpose trying their strength against the strongest professional clubs in May next. They will each play the Mutuals, Atlantics, Unions, and Eckfords, and finish off with a grand match on the Capitoline grounds between their two nines.

The Lowell nine will probably be organized for the season as follows; Boyd, c; Lovett, p; Bradbury, 1st b; Sumner, 2nd b; Conant, 3d b; Jewell, s. s; Joslin, l f; Alline, r. f; Rogers, c. f.

—What a world of gossip would be prevented, if it was only remembered, that a person who tells you of the faults of others, intends to tell others of your faults!

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

NOT A BIT OF STAIN OR SMART will Wolcott's PAIN PAINT give; but it removes pain as quick as magic. Wolcott's ANNIHILATOR banishes Catarrh from the system, and all colds in the head. Recollect and get pint bottles, in white wrappers, $1, at druggists. j16 2weaw.

FRANCE SNUBBED BY AMERICA.—The universal opinion of the American people, that France has never produced a perfume superior to PHALON'S new perfume, "FLOR DE MAYO," has greatly mortified the amour propre of the great toilet chemists of France. Neither French-made perfumes nor French-made potentates are wanted on this side of the Atlantic. Sacree!! Sold by all druggists.

BY SAMSON'S strength actually lay in the length and abundance of his hair, a liberal use of the famous "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" ought to impart many times the strength of that doughty ancient warrior, for there is no limit it will not reach if properly applied.—N. H. Patriot. 23

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly broiled.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

"A LITTLE BILIOUS."

How often this is the response to the enquiry after a friend's health; as if to be bilious was a trifling matter, hardly worth thinking about. But let it be remembered that as "tall oaks from little acorns grow," so formidable diseases arise from being "a little bilious."

Severe bilious attacks are more common in Spring, Summer and Autumn than in Winter, but the serious disorders of the liver which so often occur at those seasons, might be traced, in hundreds of instances, to Winter indulgences and their neglected consequences. More highly-seasoned food is taken, more fiery drinks imbibed, in cold than in warm weather, and thus the bilious state is produced which, under a warmer temperature, culminates in remittent and intermittent fevers.

The very best medicine for persons who are either a little or a good deal bilious, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. No blue-pill or calomel is required in such cases. Those powerful mineral medicines cut two ways, like a double-edged sword. They act, it is true, upon the liver, but re-act most deleteriously on other parts of the system. They "stick" there, and cannot be got rid of. The Bitters contain vegetable agents of an anti-bilious tendency, that produce a specific and most genial effect upon the biliary organ, without entailing any evil consequences whatever. They are altogether wholesome, and act favorably and simultaneously upon the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the nervous system and the brain.

THE PLASTER OF THE "TIME," ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

Is lumbago the pain? like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

BUCHU.

(From Dispensatory of the United States.)

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-Wetting in Children.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous deposits and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of the Urine, Diseases of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposit, and Mucus or Milky Discharges, and for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Memory, Loss of Confidence, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and cures all Diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life, impurities of the Blood, &c., supersedding Copaiba in affections or which it is used, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleets of long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in these diseases, used in connection with HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. PRICE—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

Address H. T. HELMBOLD, Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, N. Y.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease, gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to digest the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint and Ulcerated Sore Throat, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs are wasting and diseased, there are tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying, in such cases what shall the patient do? not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power, the food does not make good blood, there is no chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 37 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. C. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1ya4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.—Section 6 of Chapter XL of the General Statutes of New Hampshire, provides that "The annual meeting of the inhabitants of each ward, for the election of city and ward officers, shall be holden on such day as may be fixed by law or by ordinance of the city council; and all ward, city, and town officers who are chosen by the people shall hold their respective offices for one year from the day fixed by law or ordinance, and until others are appointed in their stead, except where a different term of office is prescribed;"—and Section 3 of Chapter XLII provides that "The mayor, aldermen, and common council shall annually meet in convention, on such day as shall be appointed by law or ordinance, at ten o'clock in the forenoon."

A Radical urges that it is plain that the City Council can pass an ordinance for an election of city officials in March (or at any other time), who could be installed in office immediately afterwards by the passage of another ordinance to that effect. This would throw out all the present Aldermen, Councilmen and the Mayor, and might make martyrs of them all, inasmuch as it was popularly supposed that they were elected for a year. What a gentle breeze such action would create among the ins and outs, and the disinterested outsiders! And what a warning it should be to some people to be wary in their movements, lest they do themselves harm!

Again, Sections 8 and 9 of Chapter XLII provide that "The common council shall from time to time choose one of their members to preside at all meetings of the board, who shall have, for the preservation of order, the powers of a moderator in town meeting.—They shall choose a clerk, who shall hold his office during their pleasure, shall attend their sessions, and keep a record of their acts, doings, and proceedings, and perform such other services in his office as the said council shall require."

At the last meeting of the Board, Messrs. Thos. B. Gammon and Henry A. Yeaton, who had been chosen President and Clerk, respectively, were absent, and the Board chose Mr. James T. Gammon, President, and Councilman Alpha Senter, Clerk. An interesting question now comes up as to which of the brothers Gammon is the present President, James T. or Thomas B.!

Again, Section 13 of Chapter XLII declares that "No member of either branch, except the mayor, shall receive any compensation for his services, or shall hold any office or agency created during his continuance in office."

The Clerk is entitled to regular compensation, but Mr. Senter cannot draw the pay, being a member of the Council! Was he eligible to the office of Clerk, and if not, were the transactions of the Council, that evening, legal, without a proper recording officer? If he was eligible, is he not Clerk (without pay) until another is chosen, and is it necessary to re-choose Mr. Yeaton to make his future records legal?

☞ We are not in the habit of telling what we shall or should do in certain contingencies, and do not think we ever promised to vote for anybody, or informed any one whom we intended to vote for, at any time. And we know we did not agree recently to vote for a certain much discussed (not to leave off the first syllable of the word) City officer, though we did tell him we thought he would be elected—as he was, without our doing the least thing to promote or prevent, except throwing our vote, as is our wont. We have never been slow to acknowledge ability or merit in any public officer, of whatever party, —and have often been blamed for so doing; nor shall we do otherwise in the future. And if we seem to draw the political lines rather sharper than formerly, it is because we see the evils of too much toleration. We add that private matters are not always important to the public, nor do we feel so much concerned about these things as others, our friends, do, for whose satisfaction and information we print this item. F.

☞ We are informed that the Mr. Lang who was thrown from his sleigh and injured a few days since, was Thomas M., and not Stephen L. as stated, and as we questioned, but were assured was correct, when first told of the accident. We are sorry for our old friend the Surveyor of Highways of District No. 3, and hope he will speedily recover. Meantime, he was fortunate indeed, and not unfortunate, as our bungling types almost made us say in part of our Daily edition,—to fall under the charge of one of the most skillful and attentive physicians we ever had in the city.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS will not appear in this city Friday evening.

THE NEW CARRIAGE MANUFACTORY. Messrs. George B. and Samuel Came have nearly completed their new building, on Hanover, between Market and High Streets, for the manufacture of open and top Carriages of various descriptions. The building is of wood, three stories in front, and four in rear, —the side-hill location being selected as especially favorable in this regard, that they can thus enter the two lower stories from the ground, and the next by a brow from the outside, there being no stairway connection inside. The basement is fitted for the iron and steel department, the first floor for the woodworkers and trimmers, and storing carriages, the next story for painters, with a large attic for storage, &c. The cost of construction has been about $3000, and they will no doubt have very convenient and effective works.

The concern will probably employ about 20 workmen, when running full, —all work being done by hand, it being uncommon if not unknown, to use special steam or other power in this business. The Messrs. Came are natives of York; and one, Mr. G. B. Came, has for several years resided in this city, being employed in repairs of Portsmouth Bridge, and is generally and favorably known here; the younger brother, Samuel, has been for many years practically engaged in the fine carriage business in New Haven and elsewhere. We see no reason why they may not do a thriving business here, to the mutual advantage of themselves and the public; and while of course all live citizens will be ready to appreciate and encourage all such developments of mechanical industry among us, we bespeak for the proprietors of the new concern, all the consideration due gentlemen and estimable citizens.

☞ The Mechanics' Protective Union Association, at their annual meeting, on Tuesday evening, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Elijah Clough, Peter Pray, Reed V. Rand, Edward D. Coffin, Charles H. Downs, Wiley Coleman, Joshua Stackpole, Directors. O. H. Locke, Philip Mizener, Samuel Langdon, jr., Committee on Finance.

The annual reports exhibited a prosperous business, but no dividend was declared. Two years ago the Association was $1500 in debt, but under the efficient management of the Agent, Mr. Charles W. Gardner, the M. P. U. A. has cleared $1600 during the past two years.

ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Andrew H. Jones of this city slipped on the ice in the yard adjoining her residence, on Islington Street, Tuesday, about 5 o'clock, P. M., and fractured her thigh. She was unable to rise again, and as none of the family were at home at the time, she crept into the cellar kitchen, where she remained an hour and a half, when some of the family returned and found her.—The cold atmosphere chilled her until she was nearly insensible, and, had she remained there another half hour, death from freezing must have ensued. Mrs. Jones was still unable to move on Wednesday evening.

☞ A century ago or so, "people of consequence in this vicinity sent their children to the Shoals (Smith's Isles) to be educated." And Rev. Mr. Tuck received the largest salary of any minister in all this region. The population of the Islands was quite large and wealthy until driven inland by the British cruisers; and included the father of Sir William Pepperell, who laid the foundation of his great fortune there.

Newcastle was the first town incorporated by the State of New Hampshire.

MARSHAL JOHNSON'S team was found on Wednesday near Great Bay. The horse had cleared himself from the sleigh without doing any great damage to himself or it. He had been a half mile into the woods, and had managed in some way to get rid of his harness.—He then made his way to a farm house, and was taken in out of the cold.

FIRE.—The slaughter house on South Road, owned by Mr. Munroe Holmes, was burned to the ground, Wednesday evening. There is little if any doubt that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The building was insured, and the residents of that neighborhood are rid of a nuisance.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should aparoach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,005.97
" Freight	2,040,235.13
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,410.33
" Contractors' men	201,179 09
" " material	268,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

EXCELLENT SECURITY.

THE FIRST MORTGAGE,

THIRTY-YEAR, SIX PER CENT.

GOLD BONDS OF THE

CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.

These Bonds are the duly authorized and accredited obligations of one of the most responsible Corporations of the American Continent, and are secured by an absolute first lien upon the valuable grants, franchises, railroad equipment, business, etc., of the best portion of the extending eastwardly from the navigable waters of the Pacific Coast to the lines now rapidly building from the Eastern States.

They bear Six per cent. interest per annum, in gold, and both principal and interest are expressly made "payable in United States Gold Coin."

The semi-annual Coupons are payable July 1st and January 1st, in New York city.

The purchaser is charged the accrued interest from the date of the last paid Coupon, AT THE CURRENCY RATE ONLY.

The issue of Bonds constitutes one of the LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR CORPORATE LOANS of the country, and hence will be constantly dealt in.

The greater portion of the Loan is now in the hands of steady investors; and it is probable that before many months, when the Road is completed and the Loan closed, THE BONDS WILL BE EAGERLY SOUGHT FOR AT THE HIGHEST RATES.

They are issued only as the work progresses, and to the same extent only as the U. S. Subsidy Bonds granted by the government to the Pacific Railroad Companies.

Nearly FIVE HUNDRED MILES of the road are now built, and the grading is well advanced on two hundred and fifty miles additional.

THE THROUGH LINE ACROSS THE CONTINENT will be completed by the middle of next year, when the Overland travel will be very large.

The local business alone, upon the completed portion, is so heavy, and so advantageous, that the gross earnings average more than a quarter of a million in gold per month, of which 35 per cent. only is required for operating expenses.

The net profit upon the Company's business on the completed portion is about double the amount of annual interest liabilities to be assumed thereupon, and will yield A SURPLUS OF NEARLY A MILLION IN GOLD after expenses and interest are paid—even if the thorough connection were not made.

The best lands, the richest mines, together with the largest settlement and nearest markets, lie along this portion of the Pacific Railroad, and the FUTURE DEVELOPMENT OF BUSINESS thereon will be proportionately great.

From these considerations it is submitted that the

CENTRAL PACIFIC BAILROAD

BONDS,

secured by a First Mortgage upon so productive a property, are among the most promising and reliable securities now offered. No better Bonds can be made.

A portion of the remainder of this Loan is now offered to investors at

103 PER CENT., AND

ACCRUED INTEREST, IN CURRENCY.

The Bonds are of $1,000 each.

The Company reserve the right to advance the price at any time; but all orders actually in transitu at the time of any such advance will be filled at present price. At this time they pay more than eight per cent. upon the investment, and have, from National and State laws, guarantees peculiar to themselves.

The first Mortgage Bonds are of $1,000 each, with semi-annual gold coupons attached, payable in July and January. Both INTEREST AND PRINCIPAL ARE MADE EXPRESSLY PAYABLE IN UNITED STATES GOLD COIN. The back interest from July 1st is charged only at the currency rates.

We receive all classes of Government Bonds, at their full market rates, in exchange for the Central Pacific Railroad Bonds, thus enabling the holders to realize from FIVE TO TEN PER CENT. PROFIT and keep the principal of their investments equally secure, and receive the same rate of interest for a longer period.

Orders and inquiries will receive prompt attention. Information, Descriptive Pamphlets, etc., giving a full account of the, Organization, Progress, Business and Prospects of the Enterprise furnished on application. Bonds sent by return Express at our cost.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

Agricultural Notes.

The application of lime will destroy sorrel. So we see it stated.—It is said that butter from Jersey cows will not keep so well as other butter, but we don't know why says it.

A well known agricultural writer says: "Twenty pounds of good hay cut and steamed will keep a cow in better condition than thirty pounds uncut and uncooked."

We are among those who do not believe in attempting to raise grapes or peaches in New Hampshire, except perhaps in positions much protected.

Some writer says, very sensibly, that "the blanket should not be used at all upon a horse in the winter, unless it is used faithfully. The trouble arises in this way: when a team has been driven a few miles to market, or the same distance for pleasure, blankets or robes are put on, but when at work, often, horses after pulling until heated, stand uncovered until another load is put on. Blanketing at one time and omitting it at another is worse than not affording any protection at all." Sure enough, and for our part, we always have thought that one blanket, unless it be very large and heavy, is not sufficient to protect a horse when long exposed to cold, especially if it is windy,—and many a horse that is kept for hours gnawing a post to save the quarter that it would cost to stable him, loses in condition and temper, much more than that,—to say nothing of safety and humanity.

And we think in many cases, it is an excellent plan to keep a blanket on under the harness, in very cold or windy weather, if a horse is doing slow work or making frequent stops. The horse is a native of warm climates, and will flourish much better if kept warm,—all the idle talk of toughening him by freezing, to the contrary, notwithstanding.

And even neat stock, especially milkers, would look and feel much better than they do, if kept warmer. Many old barns are mere sieves for the wind to sift through, and chill poor animals to the bone, till their hair stands literally on end, and it takes much more food to sustain them; and even in many good barns, we frequently see doors and windows open which should be kept closed. There should be plenty of south windows for sun and light, and in cold weather there is little danger but there will be air enough in any barn in this region. Don't be afraid of keeping your animals too warm.

The Tobacco Antidote.

Without Money and Without Price.

FROM REV. GEORGE TRASK.

In our Anti-Tobacco labors, we see thousands whose Wills are paralyzed by Tobacco, who struggle to be free, but give up in despair. They need an Antidote for an insatiable appetite. Resolution must be armed, and Hope inspired. We have such, and gladly publish it to every sufferer and to the World.

To such as are utterly stupefied by the Drug, and such as revel in saliva and smoke—glorying in their shame—we make no appeal; but to such as "groan, being in bondage," longing to be free, we say, "Here is our Antidote, friend: try it. We ask nothing for it."

Make the most of your Will. Drop Tobacco, and resolve never to use it again in any form. Go to an apothecary, and buy ten cents' worth of Gentian root, coarsely ground. Take as much of it after each meal or oftener, as amounts to a common quid of "fine-cut" or "cavendish." Chew it well, and swallow all the saliva. Continue this a few weeks, and you will come off conqueror: then thank God, and thank us.

REASONS.—Gentian is a Tonic, bitter in taste, and will do much to neutralize and allay your taste for Tobacco. Gentian is a Nervine. It will brace up your relaxed and flabby nerves, and save you from the "awful goneness" under which victims agonize. Gentian, for a short time, is an innocent substitute for the quid or pipe. It employs the mouth, beguiles attention, and gives a helping hand to a drowning man.

Despise not our Antidote. Money-making men give us to understand, that, should we fill millions of little boxes with Gentian, mark them "Trask's Infallible Tobacco Cure," price one dollar, we should soon fill our empty coffers, and become a millionaire. We shall do no such thing. We shall continue to spread Tracts over the Nation, showing that Tobacco tends to ruin the body and the soul, and ruin Nations; and beg enslaved men to try our Antidote—Resolution, Gentian, and the Grace of God. Thousands will try it and be Free.—GEO. TRASK, Fitchburg.

—The Baltimore Gazette, which is a leading rebel organ, denounced the Peabody Educational Fund Trustees in general, and Dr. Sears in particular, for having ignored some of the States recently in rebellion in the distribution of the fund which they are using for educational purposes. The complainant would doubtless desire to have a generous share given to institutions avowedly for educational purposes, but really indirect asylums for rebel Generals and pirates.

TOO MUCH LAND.—We know a farmer who, ten years ago, owned 150 acres, and was doing well; he now owns five hundred, and is worse off than before. And why? Because this large farm is a great bill of expense to him; he can not afford to keep it up in good condition, and it hangs a millstone of care about his neck. His wife and children, both sons and daughters, are obliged to work hard to keep the great machine a running. We presume his boys declare they will leave home as soon as they are old enough; and the girls say they will die before they will marry farmers. Neither sons nor daughters are educated as they deserve to be; they can not be spared for this, from work on the big farm.

Now we declare that such a farm is a curse to its possessor and his family, and an injury to the whole agricultural interest. If that man wants to save himself and his household, he should sell at least one-half of his land, improve the remainder to make it more productive, release his children from bondage, and try to make his home a comfort. He will live longer, lay up as good a property, and will train up a more intelligent and a happier family.—American Agriculturist.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. And as a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE HEAR ABOUT A HUB.—Curiosity led us, while in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as 'familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. ($3.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving oval hand. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Alhambra Red Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. ($6.) 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Patern. 4 yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. 7 yards Furnerval god wool Frocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($10.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair o good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large Linen Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MONTHLY EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

apl1 eodly State Assayer for Massachusetts.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The Culture of Cattle.

From the report of the late New Hampshire Farmers' Convention, we take the following remarks of Dr. George B. Loring of Salem, on the breeding of Neat Stock:

Dr. Loring discussed at considerable length the subject of feeding according to animal structure, so that the animal would not become too fat for milk or too lean for butter, concluding which he said that a calf properly weaned, and fed after weaning, and furnished with a good pasture, will be carried through the first winter most satisfactorily on good sweet hay, especially rouen, with roots. In this way can a uniform well balanced animal be produced, which when put to dairy service will not become coarse nor take on fat at the expense of the milk pail.

Respecting the laws of reversion, he said, "I have endeavored, in these remarks upon feeding, with special reference to what is to be required of animal structure when brought to perfection, to impress upon your minds not only the importance of scientific rules, but also the power which every agriculturalist may exercise over the animal kingdom, which he has devoted to his purposes. The laws of variation are well known—those laws by which we have been able to produce so many varieties from one origin—the setter, the pointer, and spaniel, and shepherd dog from a single family—the Ayrshire and Devon, and Shorthorn from the same parentage in the beginning, and have secured from the original uniformity, every diversity that can please the eye, or supply the necessities of man. The most common observation and practice have taught us how to preserve and transmit acquired faculties and qualities until they become the fixed characteristics of a class. But there are certain tendencies of the animal kingdom which the ambitious farmer is obliged to resist with all his skill and watchfulness. Our domestic animals are entirely subjugated to our will. We control their increase and their physical condition. They are shut out by us from those conflicts which in a wild state enable the strongest of the herd to impress themselves upon the coming generations. And it is for us to say how largely their varieties may increase and how successfully they may resist the influences of climate and a tendency to revert to their aboriginal condition. I have already alluded to the effects of climate and soil upon the animal economy.

Against these effects the good farmer arms himself as best he may. And in a climate and on a soil like ours he resorts to every means in his power, by judicious breeding and good feeding, to prevent the degeneracy of his animals. It is by this same process that he resists their tendency to return to their original and uniform type. Let man be stricken from the face of the earth, and a few generations would melt all the herds of cattle which his skill has created, into a homogeneous mass, in which the characteristics of each would be lost, as they all returned with hasty strides to the condition of their common ancestry. Whenever man resigns himself to the hard conditions of nature about him, and provides himself and his animals with scanty food and indifferent shelter, the animal product of his locality will gradually approach what might be the native herds then. So true is this that I doubt not many of you can at this moment recall herds of cattle driven from bleak northern pastures, so aboriginal in all their qualities as to remind at once from your minds all thought of domestication.

Not only had it reduced their size, but their roving habits had brought them to the very verge of their brethren on the plains and pampas. It is the return of his animals to barbarism which man is called upon to resist. And in doing this he is not only called upon to raise and feed them properly, but to humanize them as far as may be the gentleness and intimacy of his association. Upon him and his wisdom and good judgement and good nature, they depend mainly for what they are in their scale of being. Let him see, then, that good physical qualities and faculties are transmitted in his herd. Let him see that a calm and quiet temperament is the inheritance of his young animals. Let him teach them that they are best fed by the hand of man, and that all his care for them and association with them will render them truly "domestic," and will enable them to resist the depressing influences of soil and climate by which they are surrounded, and to escape that return to barbarism which is the "second danger" of man and his flocks and herds.

If the hillsides and valleys of New Hampshire are to be pastured at all, they should be pastured to the best advantage and profit. The struggle which the farmer has here is, I am aware, not an easy one. But that progress may be made in this branch of agriculture no one need doubt, nor is there any reason why, with proper selection, feeding and care, the average yield of cattle here, of cows at least, should not be brought up to that of States considered more fortunate in soil and climate. A cow here should be worth as much as a cow in New York. I mean a source of as much profit to the owner.

In conclusion, (said the doctor,) it is the animal kingdom which forms one of the liveliest charms of a cultivated landscape, in motion or repose. And man never succeeds in subduing the earth, and its quiet domestic beauty, until he has enlisted those servants, without whose aid agriculture must fail, and whose value is commensurate with the progress made in the great business of applying all animate and inanimate nature to the necessities and adornments of civilized life."

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. When it is thus constitutional disease make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator, by its specific nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the circumstances demanded, but satisfied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to make a thorough examination, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its superiority, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the menses had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was nearly arrested, and sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her general health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE!
This Rest, which is received with great favor, fastens on the stove for the purpose of sustaining SHELVES, which can be Raised or Lowered at pleasure, either SEPARATELY or TOGETHER, and which are made to swing directly over the stove or behind it, entirely out of the way.
This INDISPENSABLE ARTICLE supplies a want felt in every family, being useful in raising Bread or yeast, for holding Dishes when cooking; for drying Tin, Wooden Ware and articles of every description; for keeping Drinks and Food Warm without injury to the dish or food. It is also convenient to place a Lamp upon while cooking, in fact various and numerous are the uses to which it is put, proving itself a blessing which every housekeeper appreciates.
PHYSICIANS RECOMMEND IT. One of the greatest sources of Consumption and Colds is wet or damp feet. Upon these Shelves Boots, Shoes, Stockings, Rubbers, Gloves, &c., are thoroughly Dried and Warmed, without danger of burning or scorching, as is often done for want of a suitable place to put either.
It is also of great advantage in Offices and Stores for warming and drying various articles without danger of burning.
Many are the TESTIMONIALS in its favor. It will speak for itself, and those who once have it will never be willing to part with it, and wonder how they ever did without it.

PHILADELPHIA,
Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.
OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

Rev. G. F. Clark of Castine Me., in a speech before the Maine Temperance Convention stated that alcohol affects the brain, and thought the finer the quality of brain and more genial the temperament of an individual, the more likely he is to be seduced and unable to resist the influence of intemperance.

The Governor of Florida is acquitted of the charge of high crimes and misdemeanors.

New Zealand is peace. The Maories have been heavily defeated.

Open hostilities have commenced in Havana between the Spanish and Cuban factions.

Enormous frauds to the amount of a million dollars have been discovered in the New York Custom House.

A compromise has been effected between the sailors and shipping masters of New York by the adoption of the following prices, and the strike is at an end: to all ports of Europe and east of the Bay of Biscay, $30 a month and $30 advance; to any port in the West Indies, Spanish Main, east coast of South America, or west coast of Africa, $25 a month and $25 in advance; to any port around the Cape of Good Hope, or Cape Horn, $20 a month and $40 in advance; coastwise, $30 monthly and $15 in advance; foreign vessels, $35 a month and $35 in advance.

Gautemala had earthquake shocks in December.

Congress.

In the Senate on Wednesday, Mr. Howe, to the great amusement of Senators, presented a memorial praying for the appointment of an able phrenologist, to examine all candidates for the Internal Revenue service, to see whether benevolence, conscientiousness, casuality and comparison be their most prominent protuberances, to the end that the Government may no longer suffer from the frauds now so common in that department. Referred to the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform.

The relief bill for the Central Pacific Railroad was defeated, 25 to 27. Senator Cragin voted for it and Senator Patterson against it.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

MARSHAL JOHNSON has now the satisfaction of knowing that the horse thief he was after, was arrested through his instrumentality, and that his horse knows a thing or two, besides. We don't think many horses could dash through the woods for a half mile, with such trifling damage to himself and sleigh, nor exercise his ingenuity so well, in getting completely clear of his harness without human aid.—The horse thief was surprised on reaching Lowell, at being intercepted by a telegram from Marshal Johnson to the police force there, to arrest him, and was dumbfounded at finding himself in the clutches of the law. — The Marshal's horse, it is believed, thought a little exercise would do his master good, and so left him in the lurch that he might walk home by moonlight—only ten miles. The horse, no doubt, indulged in a characteristic laugh at the trick, and the Marshal enjoyed it all hugely.

☞ The New Orleans Bulletin reports the trial of Capt. Magraw of this city, and two mates of ship Santee, for alleged cruelty to two boys, who are about 18 years of age. From the testimony it seems that Causeland, the chief mate, abused the boys shamefully, with the knowledge of the captain, while at sea. The boys were green hands, had never been to sea before and did not learn the ropes quickly. Causeland would beat them with his fists and frozen ropes, across the face and hands, bringing blood. He made one of them chew a plug of tobacco at one time and swallow it all, washing it down with salt water, which he would compel him to drink by the quart. This produced intense sickness and vomiting. Causeland was found guilty of inflicting cruel and unusual punishment. Captain Magraw had been sick and the Court discharged him from custody, the reasons given being that the evidence shows the Captain to be a humane man, and even that he was himself disgusted with the cruelties practiced on the boys by others. The evidence showing that he actually witnessed the acts was not strong enough to justify a conviction, and if he did see them, it was considered that either from his long sickness in the early part of the voyage, or natural want of force of character, he had allowed the mate, Causeland, who was a man of stronger build and will, to get the upper hand of him and in reality rule the ship.

THE LAST HERO OF LAKE ERIE.

Dr. Usher Parsons, the last surviving commissioned officer of Commodore Perry's fleet in the memorable battle of Lake Erie, died in Providence, R. I., Dec. 19th. Dr. Parsons was born in Alfred, Me., August 17, 1788, and was therefore over 80 years old at the time of his death. He was the youngest son of William Parsons, who was one of the pioneer settlers of that town.—His high reputation as a physician and scholar, and the great interest he took in his native State, and town, where he visited once or twice every season, make it appropriate that a brief tribute should be given to his memory.

Dr. Parsons' early education was obtained at the old brick town schoolhouse in Alfred, and at the Berwick Academy. He finished his medical studies under Dr. John Warren of Boston. At the age of 23 he entered the navy as a Surgeon's Mate, and immediately joined the frigate John Adams, at New York, soon after the declaration of war in 1812. The officers and crew of that vessel volunteered for service on the Lakes. Dr. Parsons left Black Rock, where he was first stationed, for Erie, with the vessel that had been formed and equipped, and reached that place June 14, 1813. As soon as Perry's whole squadron were ready for service they went to Put-in-bay. Great sickness prevailed in the fleet; the two senior medical officers were disabled, and the whole of their duties devolved on Dr. Parsons.

In the battle which ensued, September 10th, he was the only medical officer on duty, and was on board the flag ship "Lawrence," commanded by Perry, which bore the brunt of the battle. The floor of the room in which he received the wounded was at nearly the level of the water, so that they and the surgeon were exposed to the fire of the battle, and two were killed after passing through his hands. The slaughter on board the Lawrence was great; out of 101 men, 83 were killed or wounded. The following letter shows the estimate placed by the commander on his professional services. Addressing the Secretary of the Navy, he writes:

"Of Dr. Usher Parsons, surgeon's mate, I cannot say too much. In consequence of the sickness of Drs. Barton and Horseley, the duties of operating, dressing, and attending upon nearly one hundred wounded, and as many sick, devolved entirely upon him. I can only say, Sir, that in the event of my having another command, I should consider myself peculiarly fortunate in having him with me as surgeon."

(Signed) "O. H. Perry."

After the battle, the wounded from the other vessels were sent on board the Lawrence, and then to Erie, where the Court House was made a hospital, Dr. Parsons retaining charge of them. He was ordered to rank as full surgeon from the day of the battle, and received his commission as such the following April.

He remained in charge of the wounded until the following May, when he was ordered on board the Lawrence, which, with several other vessels, sailed to Mackinac, under Commodore Sinclair, to transport troops from Detroit, destined to capture that fort. They sailed early in June, landed and attacked Mackinac in August.

The army was repulsed with heavy loss and returned to Lake Erie, and the fleet was employed in transporting troops of the Northwestern army from Detroit to Buffalo, and also the British prisoners captured by Harrison, from Cleveland to Canada. In November, 1814, Dr. Parsons, at the request of Commodore Perry, was ordered by the Secretary of the Navy to the new frigate Java, at Baltimore, as chief surgeon of that noble vessel; he joined her in the following May, and sailed in January, 1816, for the Mediterranean.

He returned in her to Boston in February, 1817, and after a year's leave of absence he was ordered to the Guerriere, Capt. McDonough, and sailed in July, 1818, to Russia, and thence to the Mediterranean. He there obtained leave to travel for his health, and passed the following winter in the hospitals and medical schools of Paris and London; returned in the Spring, and was stationed two years in Charlestown navy yard. During that time he was appointed Professor of Anatomy in Dartmouth College.

After a year or two he settled in general practice in Providence, and was appointed Professor in Brown University. He gave great attention to private students in medicine, and had at different times more than fifty pupils. He has resided there ever since, excepting one winter spent in Philadelphia as Professor in the Jefferson Medical College, and one winter in Paris and London. He resigned his commission in 1823, having held it more than ten years.

He married, in 1822, Mary L., daughter of Rev. Abiel Homes, D. D., of Cambridge, who died in 1825, leaving one son.

Dr. P. was an industrious writer on professional subjects. His first book was the "Physician for ships," written in the last years of his service in the navy; it was extensively sold, and the fifth edition has recently been published. He wrote frequently for the premiums offered for medical dissertations, in Boston and Rhode Island; and published a volume containing successful Boylston and Fiske prize essays.

Dr. Parsons wrote many articles in surgical journals—one of them having a medical history of the battle of Lake Erie, and the last one a summary of his principal surgical operations. He wrote a work on the art of making anatomical preparations, and one on the lives of eminent physicians of Rhode Island.

He published several genealogical memoirs, and he also wrote the life of Sir William Pepperell, the conqueror of Louisburg, from whose sister he was lineally descended. He investigated the history and remains of Indians about Rhode Island, and printed a list of a few hundred Indian names of localities in that State. He wrote the History of the Battle of Lake Erie, which he read at a commemoration in Cleveland, in 1860, when a monument to Perry was dedicated. He also wrote an interesting history of Alfred, his native town, which will, no doubt, be published soon.

He received the honorary degree of A. M. from Harvard and Brown, was for three years President of the Rhode Island Medical Society; in 1853 was elected First Vice President of the American Medical Association, and at the meeting in St. Louis in 1854 he presided, and delivered the opening address. At his death he was Vice President of the New England Historic Genealogical Society. Dr. Parsons rose to a very eminent position, both as a physician and surgeon, and as such, his reputation for a long time after settling in Providence was superior to that of any other in Rhode Island.

His opinion, as well as his skill as an operator, was often sought in difficult cases, both in Providence and all the neighboring country, and sometimes in other states. His practice was large. While connected with Brown University, he became acquainted with many students, who looked upon him as their instructor, physician and friend, and will hear of his death with sincere regret. No medical man in Rhode Island was so well and so widely known throughout the country as Dr. P. His son, Dr. C. W. Parsons, shared with him many years in practice, and succeeds him.—Christian Mirror.

CATTLE MARKET AT BRIGHTON.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, JAN. 28.

[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

At market for the current week—Cattle 1902;—Sheep and Lambs 7,483; Swine —; number of Western Cattle 1427; Eastern Cattle 215; Working Oxen and Northern Cattle 250.

Prices Beef Cattle—extra $13 50 @ $14 00; first quality $12 50 @ $13 25; second quality $11 25 @ $12 25; third quality $9 50 @ $11 00; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $6 00@$9 00 lbs:—(the total weight of hides, tallowand dressed beef.)

Brighton Hides 10 @ 10½c ℔ lb; Country Hides 10 @ 10½c ℔ lb.

Brighton Tallow 8 @ 9c per lb; Country Tallow 7½ @ 8c ℔ lb.

Lamb Skins $1 75 @ $1 50 each; Sheep Skins $1 @ $1 00 each; Calf Skins 20 @ 22c ℔ lb.

The Cattle trains did not get in so early as usual this week. The quality of the Western Beeves was mostly ordinary. Prices upon the best grades of Beef are full as high as our last quotations, but upon the poorer grades we think there will be a decline in prices before the market closes. There was but a light supply from Maine, mostly Working Oxen. Many of the best Western lots were taken at a commission. There have been but few Cattle sold for more than 13½ ℔ lb this week.

Stores—Yearlings $18 @ $29; two-year olds $28 @ $45; three-year olds $45 @ $65 ℔ head. Most of the small Cattle that are in a fair condition are sold for Beef.

Working Oxen—There was a fair supply in market and a steady demand. We quote sales at $185, $200, $210, $230, $225 @ $248 ℔ pair.

Milch Cows—Extra $85 @ $110; Ordinary $50 to $80; Store Cows $35 @ $55 ℔ head. Most of the Cows brought to market are of an ordinary grade.

Sheep and Lambs—There was a good supply from the West, which were mostly taken at a commission, from the cars. Prices remain firm and the demand active. We quote sales at $2, $3 25, $4 25, $4 35 @ 5 12½ ℔ head, and 5½, 6, 6½, 7 @ 7½ ℔ lb.

Swine—None at market.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from his side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

NOT A BIT OF STAIN OR SMART will Wolcott's PAIN PAINT give; but it removes pain as quick as magic. Wolcott's ANNIHILATOR banishes Catarrh from the system, and all colds in the head. Recollect and get pint bottles, in white wrappers, $1, at druggists. j16 2wsaw.

IF SAMSON'S strength actually lay in the length and abundance of his hair, a liberal use of the famous "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" ought to impart many times the strength of that doughty ancient warrior, for there is no limit it will not reach if properly applied.—N. H. Patriot. 23

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane ran out of the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her head on the baby, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand as fair as unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

Try SMITH'S CATARRHSNUFF for cold in the head. Does not provoke sneezing nor clog the nostrils. Sold by druggists and others in this city and vicinity. Prepared by JOSEPH SMITH, Malden, Mass. 4m—6m

SPECIAL NOTICES.

What are you Taking?

Probably two-thirds of the adult population of the United States indulge, more or less, in barroom stimulants. Hot alcoholic beverages are habitually imbibed by thousands of people in the winter months "to keep out the cold." The alcoholic material of all these drinks is more or less poisonous, and is rendered all the more deleterious in consequence of being taken warm.

Avoid these dangerous excitants. Shun, as you would shun the deadliest drug, all tavern stimulants. They paralyze the digestion, congest the liver, disturb the natural action of the kidneys, irritate the bowels, shatter the nerves, and impair the reason.

The operation of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is diametrically opposite to this. They spur no organ into unnatural activity; but they tone and regulate all. If the digestion is feeble, they awaken the dormant energies of the stomach, and promote the work of assimilation. If the liver is sluggish and torpid, they regenerate it. If the kidneys fail to perform their functions properly, they are regulated without being irritated. If the bowels are constipated, the peristaltic action is moderately increased, and the discharges become natural and regular. If the nerves are tremulous, they are strengthened. If the mind is clouded, the BITTERS tend to disperse the gloom.

These are the effects of the great VEGETABLE TONIC AND CORDIAL, which for twenty years has been a staple medicine in this country, and the demand for which steadily increases in all parts of the Western Hemisphere.

It is not offered as a beverage, but as a medicine, nor will it ever be used to satisfy a craving for alcoholic stimulants, because its effect is to check, not excite, a taste for alcoholic excitants. The champions of temperance will do well to mark this peculiarity, and to recommend it as the only preparation containing alcohol, that can be used for medicinal purposes.

THE PLASTER OF THE "TIME,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At the same time he was troubled with a bad cough. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he threw away the second another plaster, in a few days the thing gave way—"snipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days later, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

BUCHU.

[From Dispensatory of the United States.]

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-Wetting in Children.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhea, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Dropsical Swellings and all Glandular Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Gravel to which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of the Urine, Enlargement of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposit, and Mucus or Milky Discharges, are for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the skin, Eruptions on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and all Diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life, impurities of the Blood, &c., superceding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gonorrhea, Gleets of long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in these diseases, used in connection with HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. PRICE—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

Address H. T. HELMBOLD, Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, N. Y.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relaxe the liver and put it to work; then was appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for, when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop the cough, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, or Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, and the bronchial tubes, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and foul decay. In such cases the patient must be told that not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. "Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets lively and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in New York city, night sweats, hectic fever, &c., six physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 25 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

NAVY YARD MATTERS.—The U. S. steamer Nantasket has been floated out of the Dry Dock and is now under the Shears receiving her boilers. Her engines are nearly completed and will soon be put aboard.

We understand the machine gang in the Steam Engineering Department is to occupy a smaller machine shop soon, in order to curtail the running expenses of the Bureau, and that work in the large shop is to be stopped.

The mechanics and laborers on the Yard have been reduced to about 400 men, and are to be further reduced by a discharge in the Department of Construction on Saturday; and we hear it rumored that the apprentices in the same department are to be suspended. It is reported that the Ordnance Department is to shut down altogether.

The plan of heating the buildings and workshops by steam has proved feasible; and now the Office Building and Navy Store, with most of the shops, are warmed in this way, so that the use of stoves on the Yard is almost dispensed with.

The Navy Department has changed the color of its vessels from the dingy lead to a sort of a buff; and the new frigate Minnetonka is being covered with the same, which will make her appearance rather showy.

TRIED IT.—The extract from Rev. Geo. Trask's tract, which we published on Thursday, led three Portsmouth clippers to try the tobacco antidote. Accordingly they invested ten cents in Gentian, the article recommended, with results satisfactory, in a measure. No. 1 was wary and took a small dose, swallowing the juice as per instructions. The root is bitter but not a disagreeable takative. No. 1 liked it, rather, and Nos. 2 and 3 took liberal doses, which made them sick unto throwitiveness. They then patronized a neighboring grocer and settled the Gentian with vinegar, which settled them a little more. No. 1, appreciating, locked on grinningly; No. 2 declared tobacco preferable to such sea sick sort of stupidity, and No. 3 clung to the antidote, resolved to conquer or perish in the attempt. Ere the dinner hour had sounded and the music of the gong gave notice of it, each and all of the trio were seized with craving hunger, and were unanimous in declaring that Gentian was not only a good antidote, but was also a good article for encouragement of butchers and grocers.

☞ The Mercantile Library Association has gained about fifty new members since its recent wake-up. It is the young men and school-boys who are wanted, and who need such an institution—and it would seem to be a pity, with all the scores of drinking saloons, and always gaining on every hand to allure the youth of the city from the path of rectitude and good morals,—that one literary and informatory hall cannot be kept open and made attractive, a single evening each week!

A GENEROUS SON OF PORTSMOUTH resident abroad, who has repeatedly performed like favors, but does not wish his name to be made public,) has presented the Girls' High School with a set of fine and valuable books, 83 in number, which are worth hundreds of dollars. We wish his worthy example would be followed by other wealthy Portsmouth boys, at home as well as abroad.

☞ Mr. B. F. Webster is preparing to build a dwelling-house, at the corner of Lincoln Avenue and Broad Street, at the West End, and there will probably be several others erected in that vicinity the coming Summer. Mr. W. has also a cellar laid for another house on Union Street, next Mr. B. D. Laightons.

☞ Rev. Samuel Hoyt of Newington, who has for four years filled the position of pastor to the Christian Church at Newcastle, to their good acceptance—was on Sunday morning last presented by Dea. Campbell, on behalf of the Society, with an elegant quarto copy of the Bible.

THE PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON, Wednesday evening, was viewed by interested spectators with and without smoked glasses. The sky was a little hazy, but the eclipse was plainly seen. The weather on Thursday was warm, and reminded one of the coming Spring.

☞ Haverly's fine Minstrel Troupe, —which is prevented by unavoidable circumstances from giving their Concert here at this time as announced—send us word that they will appear with a grand entertainment of the same sort ere long.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS will not appear in this city this Friday evening.

City Council, Thursday Eve. Jan. 28.

In Board of Aldermen, the Com. on Streets reported in favor of procuring a tip-cart or wagon for two horses, and one single cart. Adopted, giving said Com. power to act.

The same Com. reported in favor of thinning out and pruning the trees on Brewster St. near the Jail. Said Com. with the Mayor added given power to act.

Com. on Fire Department reported in favor of procuring several patent Fire Extinguishers, to be placed, two at the Almshouse and one at the Police Station—to be in charge of the Chief Engineer. Voted that the Com. on Fire Dept. with the Mayor added, purchase three of these articles.

A communication was read from Capt. John N. Frost, relative to his duties as Harbor Master, stating that he had not been able to collect any fees from vessels during his years of service, as there were none authorized by the Board, and asking that the Aldermen specify the same, as in other places. Referred to Com. on Streets, the Mayor added.

Petitions to accept Morning Street, (running west from Creek St., just above Fisher & Eldredge's Brewery) was referred to Com. on Streets.

The resignation of Mr. James D. Ackerman, Engineer of Steam Fire Engine Dearborn, and recommending the Fireman, Mr. Charles Manent, as his successor, was received. Mr. Manent was elected for Engineer, and Mr. George Jones for Fireman.

Mr. John H. Wells informed the Board that the Numbering of houses on Islington Street near Anthony, was very erroneous. The City Clerk stated that Cabot St. was likewise defective; and the Com. on Streets were authorized to examine and report on same. Yeas and Nays called, the said Com. on Streets alone voting no.

Adjourned, after a session of considerably less than an hour.

In Common Council, quorum, but no business. Perhaps they didn't know their officers for sure.

DIED, in Dorchester, Mass., on Wednesday evening, after a long and painful illness, MISS RUTH OCTAVIA PICKERING, aged 24 years, youngest daughter of the late Hon. James Pickering of Newington. Thus is one of the brightest jewels of earth plucked to adorn the diadem of heaven. Now shall the angels exultant sing, while the hearthstones she hath lighted are made desolate.

"Occa" was indeed one of the most adorable of women. Beautiful in person, charming in manners, and lovely in spirit,—her presence was ever like unto a sunbeam. Always delicate, and often a sufferer, from childhood; her friends have at least the consolation of the utmost devotion to her, and that the weary spirit is at rest.

She was possessed of great musical talents,—was a fine singer, and a most brilliant and accomplished pianist.—Though very slight and exceedingly spiritueel in appearance, yet her force and power, when called forth by the inspiration of her favorite art, were astonishing. Many of our readers will recollect the bright little blonde, performing on a grand piano-forte, in a concert given by a relative, at the Temple, when a mere child, but eight years of age,—so small as to appear hardly else than a baby, and so short she could not reach the pedals—but she brought out the powers and tone of the heavy instrument in a manner to astonish the previously-incredulous musicians and delight the audience. And so she went, all through life—ever ready to dispense her brilliant gifts for the enjoyment of friends.

But she has gone to join the heavenly choir, and leaves, ah! so sad a void for us. Of few mortals can it so truly be said, "None knew her but to love;" and while nothing of earth can be more earthy for any influence of hers, it must be that all who enjoyed,—but too little and too briefly, alas! her blessed presence, are more akin to heaven thereby. A hallowed peace to the loved one's memory. F.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, ON AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

EXCELLENT SECURITY.

THE FIRST MORTGAGE,

THIRTY-YEAR, SIX PER CENT.

GOLD BONDS OF THE

CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.

These Bonds are the duly authorized and accredited obligations of one of the most responsible Corporations of the American Continent, and are secured by an absolute first lien upon the valuable grants, franchises, railroad equipment, business, etc., of the best portion of the extending eastwardly from the navigable waters of the Pacific Coast to the lines now rapidly building from the Eastern States.

Great National Pacific Railroad Line,

They bear Six per cent. interest per annum, in gold, and both principal and interest are expressly made "payable in United States Gold Coin."

The semi-annual Coupons are payable July 1st and January 1st, in New York city.

The purchaser is charged the accrued interest from the date of the last paid Coupon, AT THE CURRENCY RATE ONLY.

The issue of Bonds constitutes one of the LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR CORPORATE LOANS of the country, and hence will be constantly dealt in.

The greater portion of the Loan is now in the hands of steady investors; and it is probable that before many months, when the Road is completed and the Loan closed, THE BONDS WILL BE EAGERLY SOUGHT FOR AT THE HIGHEST RATES.

They are issued only as the work progresses, and to the same extent only as the U. S. Subsidy Bonds granted by the government to the Pacific Railroad Companies.

Nearly FIVE HUNDRED MILES of the road are now built, and the grading is well advanced on two hundred and fifty miles additional.

The THROUGH LINE ACROSS THE CONTINENT will be completed by the middle of next year, when the Overland travel will be very large.

The local business alone, upon the completed portion, is so heavy, and so advantageous, that the gross earnings average more than a quarter of a million in gold per month, of which 35 per cent. only is required for operating expenses.

The net profit upon the Company's business on the completed portion is about double the amount of annual interest liabilities to be assumed thereupon, and will yield A SURPLUS OF NEARLY A MILLION IN GOLD after expenses and interest are paid—even if the thorough connection were not made.

The best lands, the richest mines, together with the largest settlement and nearest markets, lie along this portion of the Pacific Railroad, and the FUTURE DEVELOPMENT OF BUSINESS thereon will be proportionately great.

From these considerations it is submitted that the

CENTRAL PACIFIC BAILROAD

BONDS,

secured by a First Mortgage upon so productive a property, are among the most promising and reliable securities now offered. No better Bonds can be made.

A portion of the remainder of this Loan is now offered to investors at

103 PER CENT., AND

ACCRUED INTEREST, IN CURRENCY.

The Bonds are of $1,000 each.

The Company reserve the right to advance the price at any time; but all orders actually in transitu at the time of any such advance will be filled at present price. At this time they pay more than eight per cent. upon the investment, and have, from National and State laws, guarantees peculiar to themselves.

The first Mortgage Bonds are of $1,000 each, with semi-annual gold coupons attached, payable in July and January. Both INTEREST AND PRINCIPAL ARE MADE EXPRESSLY PAYABLE IN UNITED STATES GOLD COIN. The back interest from July 1st is charged only at the currency rates.

We receive all classes of Government Bonds, at their full market rates, in exchange for the Central Pacific Railroad Bonds, thus enabling the holders to realize from FIVE TO TEN PER CENT. PROFIT and keep the principal of their investments equally secure, and receive the same rate of interest for a longer period.

Orders and inquiries will receive prompt attention. Information, Descriptive Pamphlets, etc., giving a full account of the Organization, Progress, Business and Prospects of the Enterprise furnished on application. Bonds sent by return Express at our cost.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

IN THE GARDEN.

"I do wonder," said Miss Polly Whitlesea, suspending her knitting and her rocking, and sending an indignant gaze across the street, where a young lady, dressed in the cloudiest of white muslins and the bluest of blue ribbons, was being helped into a carriage by a young gentleman. "I do wonder what's the sense of a woman's getting married! making a slave of herself, when she might be comfortable,—and being dictated to by somebody in pantaloons! There's that Jenks girl," indicating the young lady before mentioned; "she had everything she wanted at home, and her papa was worried if she scratched her finger; she could dress as she liked, go where she liked, and do what she liked; and here she must up and marry that ridiculous snip of a clerk, who earns six hundred a year! Of all the foolishness! Six hundred! I wonder where she'll get her ribbons and her cologne! It's a melancholy example of blindness and perversity, and I hope you girls will profit by it."

But for Miss Polly's last remark the reader might have supposed she was alone in her shady parlor that afternoon. It would have been a mistake; her niece Jane, a tall, demure looking young lady of twenty-five, sat at the table near by, dotting an embroidery pattern. Her niece Molly, a curly headed damsel of seventeen years, sat in the open window, swinging the sprays of blossomy lilac abstractedly, and watching the couple who had excited Miss Whitlesea's indignation with envious eyes. It was a little, old fashioned parlor, with a high, gilded looking glass, a few quaint pictures, claw-footed chairs, sapre curtains, and a great vase of syringa set on the mantle. Miss Polly, an antiquated female of forty-five, looked quite as old fashioned as the room, as she sat vigorously in her starched cap and black silk apron.

"I hope," continued Miss Polly, after waiting a reasonable time and receiving no response to her former remark, "I shall never see either of my nieces making a fool of herself."

"No certainly, aunt," said Jane, bending down to pick up her reel of cotton.

"Oh no!" echoed Mollie from the window.

"As I have always said, I want to save you from the universal stumbling block of the sex. I want you to keep what health and happiness you have, and not slave yourself to death for other people."

"Yes," was the subdued response of her two listeners.

"I see you understand me. Why, Mollie, there comes Mr. Wilkins home to supper, and no fire made. Run, child—oh, stop a minute—I forgot to say that I am going out to tea to-morrow night, Mr. Wilkins and I, to Mrs Green's. She's been talking about having a tea-party for two years, and now it's coming off. It's a regular party. We're going at three, and stay till nine."

Mollie whirled about suddenly in the doorway, and there was a peculiar expression in Jane's gray eyes as she raised them to her aunt's face.

"Shall you stay so late?" she asked.

"I mean to, if I'm well. I don't go merely to get my supper; I go for the sake of social intercourse. What are you waiting for, Mollie?"

"Nothing," responded the damsel, dancing off with sudden light-heartedness. "Supper in fifteen minutes, auntie."

Miss Polly was a maiden lady with a moderate fortune, living in the village of Belton. Jane and Mollie were two orphan nieces whom she had educated, and whom she loved as if they were her own daughters. Like most of maiden ladies, Miss Polly disapproved of matrimony, and she had striven, with apparent success, to impress her own opinion on the minds of her two charges.

The Mr. Wilkins obscurely mentioned above was an elderly gentleman whom Miss Whitlesea was boarding for the summer, driven thereto by a scarcity of pocket money. He was a tall, spare man, a widower, with stiff gray hair, and a curious puckered face, which wore a perpetual feeble smile. He always had amazingly stiff shirt-collars, and the squeakiest boots in the world, and his whole conversation was a prolonged meander among words—a hopeless search for terms that should sufficiently praise Miss Polly. Perhaps this was the reason that the latter endured him with such wonderful patience, and reproved Jane and Mollie for laughing at his personal peculiarities.

If any one had been looking for Miss Jane Saunders immediately after breakfast the next morning, he would have found her in her chamber hastily scribbling a letter. Of course we cannot make her correspondence public, so we will merely watch her while she puts the letter in her pocket, dons a gray shawl and bonnet and starts for the village, walking gravely and innocently as if that pocket was empty. After doing one or two small errands she goes into the post-office. Now we are on the lookout; the letter is directed to Mr. Lyman Ellis. The postmistress smiles a little as she sees the name, and Jane turns away with flushed cheeks.

"She must have thought it a business letter," Jane soliloquizes, perturbedly; "but, to be sure, she must have wondered why I didn't call at his office. I don't care what she thinks! Surely it is not wrong. Aunt will never know it, and I have so few chances to see him."

But nevertheless, Jane's conscience troubled her a little, and she walked more slowly than usual, as she came near home. Mollie was out at the gate, looking as pretty as the morning, ostensibly occupied in breaking dead branches off the rose bushes with a reckless disregard of thorns.

THE CHICKEN'S MISTAKE.

A little downy chicken one day
Asked leave to go on the water,
Where she saw a duck and her brood at play,
Swimming and splashing about her.

Indeed, she began to peep and cry,
When her mother wouldn't let her;
"If the ducks can swim there, why can't I?
Are they any bigger or better?"

Then the old hen answered, "Listen to me,
And hush your foolish talking,
Just look at your feet, and you will see
They were only made for walking."

But chicky wistfully eyed the brook,
And didn't half believe her,
For she seemed to say, by a knowing look,
"Such stories couldn't deceive her."

And as her mother was scratching the ground,
She muttered lower and lower,
"I know I can go there and not be drowned,
And so I think I'll show her."

Then she made a plunge where the stream was deep,
And saw too late her blunder,
For she hadn't hardly time to peep
Till her foolish head went under.

And now I hope her fate will show
The child my story reading,
That those who are older sometimes know
What you will do well in heeding.

That each content in his place should dwell,
And carry not his brother;
And any part that is acted well
Is just as good as another.

For we all have our proper sphere below,
And this is a truth worth knowing,
You will come to grief if you try to go
Where you were never made for going.

Saved by clubbing together and buying COTTON CLOTH, DRESS GOODS, WOOLEN GOODS, HOSIERY, BLANKETS, SHAWLS, &c., &c., together with BOOTS and SHOES, BOOKS, CUTLERY, SILVER-PLATED WARE, CASTORS, FANCY GOODS, &c., of

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1854.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has been, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. ($33.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving Coral Band. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Alhambra Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. ($66.) 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 4 yards Paramore' good wool Flocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. ($110.) 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair o good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bonnet Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Table Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
29 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO.,
No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

A QUIET LIFE.

BY CHARLES G. STERNE.

I.

A little crib beside the bed,
A little face above the spread,
A little frock behind the door,
A little shoe upon the floor.

II.

A little lad with dark brown hair,
A little blue-eyed face and fair;
A little lane that leads to school,
A little pencil, slate, and rule.

III.

A little blithesome, winsome maid,
A little hand within is laid;
A little cottage, acres four,
A little old-time household store.

IV.

A little family gathering round;
A little turf heaped, tear-dewed mound;
A little added to his soul;
A little rest from hardest toil.

V.

A little silver in his hair;
A little stool and easy chair;
A little night of Faith-lit gloom;
A little cortege to the tomb.

TAKING IT COOLLY.—Squire Hopkins was a perfect picture of meekness and simplicity, and his stuttering seemed the effect of bashfulness rather than inherent physical defect. One day a neighbor came to buy a yoke of oxen of him. The price was named, and proving satisfactory, the cattle made their appearance.

"Are they breachy?" asked the buyer.

"N–n never t–t troubled me," was the reply.

The other paid the price and took the yoke. In a day or two he returned in a towering passion. "Confound these critters, Square—there ain't no fence that will keep 'em! They will break through stone walls, or jump over the moon. What the dickens made you tell me they wasn't breachy?"

"I didn't say n–n–no such thing."

"Yes you did—you said they never troubled you."

"Oh, w–well neighbor," said the Square, "I d–don't let such th–things as that ever t–t–trouble me."

The buyer sloped.

HOW MUCH, MARM?—A clerk in a dry-goods store retired one night, having for his bed-fellow an acquaintance dating back to school-days. Our informant slept in the next room adjoining, the door of which was partly open. In the middle of the night, he says he was awakened from sleep by hearing the clerk in a loud tone of voice, exclaim:

"How many yards did you say you wanted, marm? Three yards enough?"

The next thing was a tearing noise, and the bed-fellow of the clerk shouted out:

"What are you doing—you have torn my shirt from bottom to top!"

The poor dreamer imagined himself in his store, waiting on a lady customer who wanted three yards of calico. The shouts of merriment which the event created, can well be imagined.

—An Iowa editor takes pains to tell his readers that he has had an introduction to a young lady from Ohio, whom he mentions by name, and says she "is all sorts of a lovely girl, sharp as a frosty morning, full of tricks as a deer, and happy as a whole flock of snow birds. Welcome."

—The second part of Robert Browning's serial poem, "The Ring and the Book," has been out a fortnight. A sharp-eyed reader wishes to ask Mr. Browning what is a "peacock's egg?" The poet mentions the article, but he must have seen it in a vision.

—A country sculptor in England was ordered to engrave upon stone "a virtuous woman is a crown to her husband," but being pinched for room, it was contracted thus—"a virtuous woman is 5s to her husband."

—It was a Dutchman who said a pig had no ear marks except a short tail; and it was a British magistrate, who, being told by a vagabond that he was not married, responded, "That's fortunate for your wife."

—One of Josh Billings' maxims: "Rise early; work hard and late; live on what you kan't sell; give nothing away: and if you don't die rich and go to the devil, you may sue me for damages."

—"A Massachusetts physiologist asserts that there are no fine singers who use tobacco. It is proved in the dissecting room he claims, that tobacco injures the voice." No doubt of this.

—A man in Scotland, who had been ordered leeches for an injury, took them boiled with his gruel.

BARCAROLLE.

BY LILLY NELSON.

Quit, quit the oars, and let us float,
While stream and twilight ripple by.
Let drift, let drift where will the boat,
Under the tender, dreamful sky,
Earth seems not near, Heaven not remote.

With murmurous sound the water slips,
Vague, murmurous regret it seems,
As when a shadowy sorrow dips
Across the shadowy bliss of dreams.
Love! soothe it with thy finger-tips.

Quit, quit the oars; we drift to peace,
Unstirred by all the far world's din.
What is this new sense of release?
Drift—it is Heaven we drift within,
Through twilight's amber silences.

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES,
Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Flatulence, Loss of Appetite, Rearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give cause for remaining days. Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]

Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and prescribed my self to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark its healing in the early days, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometimes before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result fully realized my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was entirely diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since then I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine given her capable of such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made so favorable to the assured as to be one of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstanding which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

Lopez, President of Paraguay, having been defeated at Villeta, has fled into the interior with his army. Gen. McMahon, the American Minister, accompanied him.

Weston averages but 50 miles a day. He was at Bellows Falls, Vt., a few hours behind time, on Thursday.

The Alaska bribery case is simmered down to the creations of Louis Fitzgerald Tasistro, whose history in England and this country is well known to literary men, and who appears to have indulged in this revenge for having been discharged from a clerkship in the State Department.

Hon. James G. Blaine of Maine seems to be the most prominent candidate for Speaker of the new House of Representatives at Washington.

A clerk of Secretary Stanton's testifies to the truth of the statement that Gen. Banks was ordered to relieve Gen. Grant at Vicksburg, and refused.

The pressure brought to bear upon the proprietors of the Falmouth House, Portland, Me., by the State Constables, has finally forced them to close their bar, and notice is given that no more liquor will be sold in the house.

Congress.

The House, Thursday, took up the bill relating to pensions.

Mr. Perham of Maine undertook to explain and defend the second section, which had met with persistent opposition. He wished to say that the Commissioner of Pensions, in his annual report, had called especial attention to the subject. The Commissioner states that the number of widows having pensions who were cohabiting without marriage, refusing that solemn, legal rite, and living in open prostitution, was increasing, and that the Government should not be unwillingly placed in the strange attitude of offering a premium on immorality. He wanted the opponents of the section to see what they proposed to fight. Here, for instance, were two widows, living in the same community, both drawing pensions and both forming matrimonial engagements. The one goes and gets married honestly and forfeits her pensions; the other declines the marriage rite, but cohabits with the man and retains her pension.

Mr. Wood of New York said the gentleman from Maine is perpetrating a libel and calumny on the widows of soldiers. If he knew of such cases it was his duty to specify and not slander the whole.

The Speaker overruled the point of order, when Mr. Wood said he hoped the gentleman would name the parties to whom he referred.

Mr. Perham of Maine said he was not going to do any such thing. That was none of his business. If the gentleman desired to get the names let him go to the office of the Commissioner of Pensions and there he could have them.

The debate was continued until the expiration of the morning hour, when without action the bill went over till Tuesday.

☞ Rev. Jacob Hood of Lynnfield Center Mass., is supplying the congregational church near Lynnfield Hotel. Sabbath morning Mr. Hood walks to his church, three miles, preaches in the forenoon, superintends his Sabbath school and teaches a class at noon, preaches in the afternoon, and holds a meeting in the evening. Then he walks home, with but little fatigue, and the next morning is as good as new. And yet Mr. Hood is seventy-seven years of age. He preached at Nottingham a few years since, and was there ordained as an Evangelist, when over 70 years of age. He is a vigorous, active, healthy old man, as genial and friendly as he is vigorous.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Wednesday morning, about 10 o'clock, at Haverhill, Mass., Elder Henry Plummer, for more than forty years a preacher of good report in the Christian denomination, dropped dead in the door-way of his residence. He was to have officiated in solemnizing the marriage of a grand-daughter on the evening of that day; but by his death the house became a house of mourning, instead of joy and feasting. Elder Plummer was well known in this vicinity, living here when a young man, and paying occasional visits recently.

The mines in Warren are now worked by a New York company. Fifteen men are employed, but the number will be increased in a few days, and the mine worked night and day. It has heretofore been worked for copper and silver, but is now worked for zinc. The ore is crushed and put into bags, two hundred pounds in each and sent to Bethlehem, Penn.

Joseph H. Buckingham, Esq., of Lancaster, has bought the township of Dixonville, intending to build a Summer Hotel there. The land is heavily timbered. In 1810 it contained 12 inhabitants; in 1820 there were only two. In the census of 1850 and of 1860, the name does not appear. It contains 31,000 acres, of uneven surface well watered by several small streams.

A sad accident occurred at Milford on Saturday last, by which George Farnsworth, son of T. T. Farnsworth, Esq., lost his life. While shackling a car loaded with boards, which projected beyond the car, he was so crushed as to live but a few hours. His age, we believe, was 22.

Mr. James Bridges, of Wilton, retired Sunday evening in his usual health, except a cold, and was found dead in his bed Monday morning. It is rumored that a "cup of cold poison" was the cause of this sad event, and that a letter of explanation has been found.

The town of Mont Vernon on Friday reversed its decision and appropriated by a vote of 100 to 48, five per cent. of its last valuation to aid the Mont Vernon Railroad.

A NEW ENGLAND WINTER SKETCH.

While the first snow was mealy under feet,
A team crawled creaking down Qscompegan street;
Two cords of oak weighed down the grinding sled,
And cornstalk fodder rustled overhead;
The oxen's muzzles, as they shouldered through,
Were silver-fringed; the driver's own was blue
As the course frosts that swung below his knee.
Behind his load for shelter waded he;
His mittened hands now on his chest he beat,
Now stamped the stiffened cowhides of his feet
Hushed as a ghost's; his armpits scarce could hold
The walnut whipstock, slippery bright with cold."

GEN. GRANT is the youngest man ever elected to the Presidency.

YORK, Jan. 26.

Messrs. Editors:—I see by your issue of 25th ultimo, your correspondent "A Stranger" informs you that "Mr. William G. Varrell has sold store, &c., to Mr. Chas. H. Ramsdell;" but immediately after the sale, Mr. Ramsdell sold store and goods to Mr. Walker, on the opposite side of the Street. So that Walker has the whole trade for himself in this section of the town, having closed this store; and the transactions present the appearance of a pre-arranged move to this end. We learn by rumor that Mr. Varrell has been tendered a position on one of the Western Railroads, and will probably accept the position. Hastily, SQUIBB.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A DISTINGUISHED Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find PLANTATION BITTERS, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light but one, burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unhurted by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

What are you Taking?

Probably two-thirds of the adult population of the United States indulge, more or less, in bar-room stimulants. Hot alcoholic beverages are habitually imbibed by thousands of people in the winter months "to keep out the cold." The alcoholic material of all these drinks is more or less poisonous, and is rendered all the more deleterious in consequence of being taken warm.

Avoid these dangerous excitants. Shun, as you would shun the deadliest drug, all fusorm stimulants. They paralyze the digestion, congest the liver, disturb the natural action of the kidneys, irritate the bowels, shatter the nerves, and impair the reason.

The operation of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is diametrically opposite to this. They spur no organ into unnatural activity: but they tone and regulate all. If the digestion is feeble they awaken the dormant energies of the stomach, and promote the work of assimilation. If the liver is sluggish and torpid, they regenerate it. If the kidneys fail to perform their functions properly, they are regulated without being irritated. If the bowels are constipated, the peristaltic action is moderately increased, and the discharges become natural and regular. If the nerves are tremulous, they are strengthened. If the mind is clouded, the BITTERS tend to disperse the gloom.

These are the effects of the great VEGETABLE TONIC AND CORRECTIVE, which for twenty years has been a staple medicine in this country, and the demand for which steadily increases in all parts of the Western Hemisphere.

It is not offered as a drink or beverage, but as a medicine, nor will it ever be used to satisfy a craving for alcoholic stimulants, because its effect is to check, not to create, a false appetite for excitants. The champions of temperance will do well to mark this peculiarity, and to recommend it as the only safe preparation containing alcohol, that can be used for medicinal purposes.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a resistant cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick concussion or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

BUCHU.

[From Dispensatory of the United States.]

DIOSMA ORENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the age of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-Wetting in Children.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhea, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of the Urine, Diseases of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposit, and Mucus or Milky Discharges, and for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and cures all Diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life, impurities of the Blood, &c., superseeding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleets of long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in these cases, used in connection with HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. PRICE—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it up with an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxes the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop night sweats, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No man can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are wasting away with ulceration and decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole system. The stomach and liver have lost the power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to digest food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, gives no advice but what he knows is, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, when and where letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but our a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Communication.

THE FRANKLIN SCHOOL HOUSE NUISANCE.—The attention of the Honorable City Council and the public has been persistently called to the unsatisfactory condition of the rooms in the Franklin School House on Christian Shore, in which is kept the Primary School; yet notwithstanding the numerous petitions of citizens, and the reports of the decidedly unhealthy condition of the room, which have been made by the various School Committees for several years past, there still appear to be some of our citizens who are unacquainted with the disgraceful manner in which the teacher and from forty to sixty children are huddled into a room wholly unfit for the purpose for which it is used. The building is on a side hill.—The room (if it may be called such) is located in the basement of the building, and at the lowest point of the hill; and as a ledge underlies the whole building the water flows down from the hill, and usually under, though sometimes over the floor of the room where these infants are obliged to remain for 6 hours daily.

This room is very low studded, has no ventilation whatever, is damp, cold and disagreeable; the cellar is so damp that it is necessary to keep a large window open all the time, to prevent the decay of the floor timbers of the room above; this method, of course, admits more cold in winter than one small stove can expel, and as a consequence, colds, coughs and death are the immediate results. We can point to more than one case of disease contracted there which has terminated fatally, and can refer to several, both of teachers and pupils, who are still suffering from the effects of this charnel room. We know of parents who will not expose the lives of their children by sending them to this slaughter-pen, but teach them at home,—and these cases are frequent. One of our Honorable Aldermen said last year that the place was a nuisance, and that he would never send a child to school in such a damp and unwholesome cellar. We hope that every citizen will feel interested, and examine the premises for themselves; and we most respectfully request that the present Honorable City Council will make the addition proposed, which was only defeated last year by the "southern element." The tax-payers will sustain them, for money expended for educational purposes is capital well invested.

☞ The weather has been really Springlike for a day or two, and in fact many other people besides wild geese have for weeks noted repeated and continued indications of the breaking of Winter. But one swallow does not make a Summer; and although hope Springs eternal in the human breast, it is but reasonable, even if the heart of Winter does prove to be broken, to expect to hear more trumpetings from old Boreas, ere the vernal breezes shall softly sigh.

ASTRONOMICAL.—The planet Mercury will be visible this (Saturday) evening, 30th, setting at 8 h. 3 m., P. M., and will be seen after sunset, till Feb. 3d, when she will set at 7 h. 30 m., P. M. Those who wish to look at the Planet, must confine themselves to these evenings. After Monday next she will disappear, and be lost amid the rays of the sun, till May 24th, when she will again re-appear in the East, at 1 h. 30 m. before sunrise. TYRO.

☞ Hon. Frank Jones of this city has been unanimously re-nominated as the copperhead candidate for State Senator in Dist. No. 1. The Mayor will find it up hill work, for it will cost him more money than it did last year to get within a row of apple trees of of Hon. John H. Bailey, in the political race.

☞ The Cornet Band's Concert is to be given Feb. 8th, at the Temple. Besides a fine programme of new music by the Band; Prof. Wallach of Boston, the great Harmonica player; Mrs. Marcy, Mr. Chase and others, will present a choice selection of Vocal pieces.

☞ Mr. David Sawtelle, formerly of this city, is now engaged in a large country produce business in San Francisco, at No. 6, San Francisco Market, —Carman & Sawtelle being the firm name.

☞ The National House of Representatives has appropriated $50,000 to be expended at Portsmouth Navy Yard for the coming fiscal year. The Senate will probably concur.

☞ This is the last day to procure glasses of Lazarus & Morris, at Shore's Book Store, for the present.

☞ There is good skating on the South Mill Pond, in some places.

☞ We are indebted to Rev. Mr. Alden, of Newcastle, for the interesting article on Dr. Usher Parsons, which we published yesterday. The Doctor was named after a clergyman, Mr. Usher, formerly of Newcastle. Mr. Alden also informs us that the venerable gentleman visited him at Newcastle a year or two since, to procure information and assistance in the plan he then had, of writing a descriptive Guide Book for this region — Portsmouth, Rye Beach, Kittery, Newcastle, Hampton, the Isles of Shoals, &c. Such a publication, especially from his hands, would be not only locally and generally one of much interest, but it would be of great advantage to us all, in the way of exhibiting to the outside world the history and attractions of this whole beautiful section. It is not known here, whether the Dr. progressed with the work. We know of nobody else who could proceed with it so well as Mr. Alden himself, and we hope he will do so.

A LIVE PAPER, we think, should never have any dead pages; so we always put new reading matter, and often new advertisements, on all sides of the Chronicle. Among others, we yesterday gave Messrs. Butler & Laighton half a column of new announcements on the first page, of fresh and prime Groceries, &c.

There is really no "outside," or unfavorable position, for advertisements, in our columns, now that all are set in uniform style, without staring type or hideous cuts. And that the Chronicle is appreciated as an advertising medium, both at home and abroad, is shown by the overflowing condition of our columns.

A SMART OLD LADY.—Mrs. Ruth Odiorne of this city, 90 years of age, visited Davis' photograph rooms on Monday, for the purpose of having her photograph taken. She climbed two flights of stairs vigorously and seemed to gain a new lease of life from the exercise. Mrs. Odiorne has had 111 lineal descendants—13 children, (8 now living) 49 grand-children and 49 great-grandchildren. She is a living example of industry, constantly at work, and reads, sews and threads her needle readily without glasses.

☞ Wm. W. Henderson & Co., at their newly fitted store on Daniel Street, are offering cottons, and dry goods generally, very cheap. The store has been greatly improved since the fire and is as neat as a pin. W. W. is on hand, and says that by disposing of his goods at a fair profit he can sell cheaply and quickly. It's worth one's while to call there just for the sake of seeing the new store and new goods.

☞ The following gentlemen have been chosen members of the Republican Executive Committee of Ward Two, in addition to those already mentioned. Messrs. Albert L. Jones, Chas. Robinson, Marcellus Bufford, Rufus K. Oxford, Jos. P. Morse, Jos. B. Adams and Geo. E. Sides.

LAUNCH.—The new barque just completed at Messrs. Tobey & Littlefield's ship yard at Christian Shore, is to be launched at one o'clock, this (Saturday) afternoon.

For the Chronicle.

"PISCINE MARKET."—Uncle Ephraim says that the manipulation of the sign on the Fish Market at Liberty Bridge must be of a piscivorous nature and a piscatory Cus-k.

☞ Very fashionable at this season—paper callers, for signatures for office-seekers. A great many people wear 'em, and more want to.

☞ At a recent meeting of the New Jersey Historical Society, Mr. C. C. Haven presented an unpublished letter of George Washington addressed to Rev. Samuel Haven, D. D., of Portsmouth. It is as follows:

MOUNT VERNON, March, 10, 1787.

Rev. Sir:—Although I gave the greatest credence to your account of the talents and good behavior of Mr. Lear, yet before I subscribed to them I was desirous of a little time to form my own judgment of both. To this and to this only you will be pleased to attribute my not acknowledging the receipt of your favor of the 6th of May at an earlier period. It is with pleasure I now inform you that the deportment of this young gentleman since he has been a member of my family, has been so perfectly proper and pleasing as to render him highly esteemed. Sensible that saying this to a gentleman who has discovered an interest in his welfare, could not be unpleasing, is the cause of my giving you the trouble of this letter, at the same time that it affords me an opportunity of thanking you for the polite and affectionate wishes with which your letter is replete, and to assure you of the respect with which I am, Reverend Sir, Your most obt. hum. servant,

GEO. WASHINGTON.

GOOD TEMPLARS, Strawberry Bank Encampment No. 42, meet at their Hall, corner of Ladd and Market Streets, each Wednesday Evening at half-past 7.

PHILGARMONIC SOCIETY.—Rehearsal Tuesday Evening, Feb. 2nd, at Mercantile Hall, at half-past 7.

BOARD OF TRADE.—Meeting of Managers (and Members who desire) on the second Tuesday Evening of each Month, at half-past 7, at the Common Council Room.

THESPIAN DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION, every Monday and Friday Evening, at Good Templars' Hall, corner of Ladd and Market Streets, at 7½ o'clock.

TO FARMERS.

The Lodi Manufacturing Co. invite Farmers and others using Manures, to send for a pamphlet descriptive of their Fertilizers. They offer their DOUBLE REFINED POUDRETTE, equal to the best Super-Phosphate, at the low price of $30 per ton.

They also offer superior articles of NITRO PHOSPHATE AND PURE BONE DUST.

We ask attention to the following Testimonials:

Prof. Geo. H. Cook, of the New Jersey Agricultural College of New Brunswick, says: "The Double Refined Poudrette and Nitro Phosphate of Lime paid us full 100 per cent. above their market value, in the increase of crops this year."

D. A. Haughton, North Hadley, Mass., says: "I used it on my Tobacco plants (where no other manure had been used for years.) They came up quick and were pronounced the best plants ever raised in this vicinity."

Danl. D. Beckwith, New London, Conn., says: "The Double Refined Poudrette is the best fertilizer I have ever used in the hill, taking the price into account. The Nitro Phosphate is ahead of anything I have ever used in producing a crop without the aid of stable manure."

Abram T. Peckham, Newport, R. I., says: "I used the Poudrette on corn, side by side with Super Phosphate, and in every case it came out ahead."

Chas. Rowland, Weston, Conn., says: "It gave the corn an early start, ripened it early and increased the yield more than sufficient to pay all expenses."

Wm. S. Sheffield, South Lynne, Conn., says he found it superior to Super Phosphate or fish scrap. On Corn and Buckwheat it far surpassed any other manure.

Bradley Ingalls, Sheffield, Vt., says: "Your Double Refined Poudrette has been tried side by side with Coe's and Bradley's X L Super Phosphate, and one or two other kinds, and it has given as good satisfaction as any. My Uncle raised two bushels of corn from four rows with manure, three bushels from four rows with Poudrette, and only one and three quarters from Bradley's X L.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,

NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the practicability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected app lications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $20,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $25,600 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $20,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,026.37
" Government troops	104,677.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	291,179.00
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street.

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

IN THE GARDEN.

Continued.

"Why, where are your scissors and gloves?" inquired Jane.

"I don't want them," said Mollie, hastily. "I can work as well this way. Isn't there a prayer meeting to night?"

"Yes," replied her sister, feeling her cheeks grow hot again.

"You're going, I suppose?" questioned Mollie, becoming very busy with the rose bushes.

"I think so, if you're not afraid to stay alone."

"No, indeed," was the quick answer, delivered with unnecessary earnestness. "Don't think of staying on my account."

"Very well."

The instant Jane was out of sight, Mollie, after looking suspiciously at the front of the house, that looked back at her meekly with closed blinds, and a vacant doorway; and after peering down into the recesses of the garden on her right, called in suppressed tones to a tiny Irish child on the opposite sidewalk.

"Mick?"

"Yis'm."

"Going past Mr. Brent's store?"

"Yis'm."

"Give this note to Mr. Hall—remember to Mr. Hall. If you'll be back in ten minutes, and won't tell anybody, I will give you the biggest piece of cake! Will you?"

"Yis'm," and the small urchin was off in an instant. Mollie listened to the patter of his bare feet with a satisfied smile, then she went on trimming the rose bushes demurely.

Mick, having returned precisely in seven minutes, was duly rewarded with an immense bar of cake, duly cautioned never, never to tell, and dismissed well content. Then Mollie opened the letter; for of course, like all communications written by females her note required an answer. It ran thus:

DEAREST MOLLY:—I will be with you to-night at precisely half-past seven. I'm inclined to bless both the dragon and my stars. TOM.

At three o'clock that afternoon Miss Polly went into the parlor, where her nieces were sitting demurely, cutting bits of bright silk for patchwork. She wore a lace cap tied with yellow ribbons and a green silk dress. (Let the reader not be shocked, for Miss Polly was fond of bright colors and went to tea parties but seldom.)

"Be good children," she said patronizingly, regarding herself in the glass with great complacency. "Don't sit up for me. I shall take a key and we can let ourselves in. Does my dress look well, Jane?"

"Very well, aunt."

"What flowers shall I get for a bouquet? London pride is pretty, and Sweet-Williams—don't you think so?"

"I think smaller flowers would be better. I'll go and cut some," said Jane dutifully.

"No, sit still. I hear Mr. Wilkins on the stairs. I'll pick some myself as I go out."

You might have heard Mr. Wilkins at the other end of town, such amazing stiff boots had he seen fit to assume on this occasion. It was quite a wonderful thing to watch him as he stood in the little path, awkwardly holding the bouquet of clover pinks and corcorpsis that Miss Polly had given him, remarking every other minute that "the—hum—the flowers were—hum—excessively pretty," and finally offered his arm laboriously.

The two girls regarded this scene from the window and turned away without comment, only there was a good deal of wonder in Jane's eyes, and a good deal of fun in Mollie's. They sewed industriously the rest of the afternoon, scarcely once speaking to each other until the clock struck five and Jane went out to prepare supper.

"What a beautiful sunset!" said Mollie as she went from the table. "How long does the meeting last, said Jane?"

"Until half-past eight: but I may not be home then, for I'm going to carry old Mrs. Dobbs some medicine. Don't sit up for me. You can leave the back door open, or I'll take the other key of the front one. I shall be back before auntie," guiltily, seeing Mollie's surprised face.

"You'd better take the key. I think I'll go to bed early. Don't come into my room and disturb me, Jane. I never sleep well if I'm waked."

As Mollie put the last dish comfortably away in the closet she heard the clock strike seven, and saw Jane passing out the gate, basket in hand. Mollie felt very guilty. Jane was going to do good, and attend a prayer meeting, and she was going to disobey her aunt, stay at home and see Tom! But, somehow, Mollie thought the prospect was pleasant.

At half past seven she was stationed down by the gate. She had little time for anticipation, for somebody came up the street at a very quick pace, and sprang through the gate or over it, and greeted Mollie with the freedom of an old acquaintance. It was a merry-faced young gentleman with blue eyes and brown curls.

"My respects to the dragon," said the new comer, bowing to the house with great deference, "and my respects to Wilkins and your unfortunate sister. How have I become blessed with the opportunity of seeing you?"

"Auntie and Mr. Wilkins are at a tea party, and Jane's gone to a prayer meeting. Hurry, Tom. Come down in the garden, or somebody'll be sure to see you. I've locked up the house. You can stay till half past eight."

"One hour. Momently expecting that the dragon will fall upon me. I don't care if she does."

"Stop calling her a dragon. Tom; and don't talk so if you have any pity for me."

"Quite tragic! Excuse me for saying so, Mollie; but how ridiculous all this is! Here we have been engaged a year, and you frown if I bow to you on the street; you scarcely let me show my head near this house, and you won't hear of my speaking to your aunt. If I walk past here, I discover Miss Polly glaring out at the parlor window, or Wilkins squinting from the front door. If I look at you twice in the church, I'm the object of Miss Polly's furious attention. Now, I say it's ridiculous. I'm a respectable young man, at least I always thought so. Can't you go and tell your aunt that you want to get married, if you don't think I am competent to arrange matters?"

"You know I would if I dared, Tom, but aunt is dreadful. I do try sometimes, but I can't; really I can't."

"What's to prevent! Will she put an end to your existence, or shut you up on bread and water?"

"She'd disown me, Tom. She'd cast me off with a shilling, and never hear my name spoken again."

"Is that all? I'll own you, and give you twenty shillings for every one she won't give you, besides bestowing my name upon you. Come, that's an offer!"

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips on checks, which we put to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL. Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past five years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. [$3.] 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving oval band. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Autograph Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. [$6.] 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Fair, good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Frocking. Rosewood Stem Wind Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. [$10.] 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern, Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. One pair o. good white woolen Blankets, large size. Gentlemen's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen nat'ns linen Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and list of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY,

FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,

29 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO.,

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

AN AB-ORIGINAL TALE,

Displaying some Indian-uity.

BY A. SAVAGE.

Down in the eastern part of Maine,
Lived a Penobscot brave;
He was the pride of all his tribe,
Who named him Happy Dave;
Though of a barbarous race, yet he
Was never known to shave.

Now, David in his youth, was not
In ignorance kept dark;
He soon could read and write as well
As any parish clerk;
And yet his teacher said he would
Be sure to make his mark.

He loved the gentle Weeping-Cloud,
Who lived across the river;
His hand and home and all he had
He was resolved to give her.
When Cupid's dart had pierced his heart,
Of course 'twas in a quiver.

He met her in a field of corn,
In early autumn days;
And when he first declared his love,
She was all in a maize;
She hurried quickly home, because
She wasn't used to stays.

Unto his quiet wigwam, then,
With happy steps they went;
He thinking on the morrow's chase,
And she on love in tent;
And when he bowed to welcome her,
She saw her beau was bent.

One morning, David started out,
With arrows and with bow;
And Weeping-Cloud upon his hunt
Resolved with him to go.
Said she, "If there's no other game,
You'll have your dear, you know."

But she got lost, as on they sped,
Through field and wood and dale,
She was not looking for a storm,
And did not hear his hail;
She could not find her lover till
He was upon her trail.

But suddenly behind a tree
He drew his bow with care;
And straightway, with unerring aim,
His arrow cleaved the air;
He did not hit a rabbit, but
He shot his lady's hair.

"Alass!" he cried, "is all my joy
To end in woe like this!"
But soon he found she was not hurt;
She smiled to meet his kiss.
"I'm safe enough, my dear," she said,
"But 'twas an arrow miss."

And he resolved that she should be
His own, come woe or weal;
That soon before the altar they
Their vows of love should seal.
Oh, happy time, he thought, when she
Would share his Indian meal.

Their dream of love was soon dispelled,
Alas! by war's alarms;
For David joined the volunteers
From factories, shops and farms,
And Weeping-Cloud was left, although Accustomed to bare arms.

She saw her lover, as the troop
Went marching through the street;
And th' applause of thousands made
Her heart with gladness beat;
She knew that his small arms would soon
Accomplish some great feat.

And day by day our hero grew
In all the soldier graces;
He shunned the company of those
Who went to naughty places;
Who drank the sutler's whisky till
It made them have wry faces.

At last the eve of battle came,
That hour so still and solemn;
And David thought upon the foe,
And hoped that they should maul 'em;
I'll have my bullet in, said he,
Upon the leaded column.

He took the letters from his love,
And read them o'er and o'er;
He smiled at her endearing term,
"The flower of all the corps!"
"I ought to be," he said, "if I
Had only ten drills more."

She wrote to him of many thoughts
Her tenderness would utter;
And not a pang of jealousy
Her loving heart did flutter;
She knew that he, a soldier bred,
Would not have any but her.

And David served until he joined
The victor's joyous shout;
They clove the ranks of sinner men,
And put them to a rout;
The enemy were peppered well,
When he was mustered out.

The war was o'er—the purpose gained
For which the patriots rose;
And in the early Spring they turned
Their backs upon their foes;
Although the lilacs were put out,
They hadn't come to blows.

And now, on the return of peace,
Our lovers' hearts were gay;
The marriage was accomplished in
The good old fashioned way;
And they had many stable joys
Upon their bridal day.

And David to his daily toil
With cheerful heart did go;
The rising sun saw him employed
With plough, or spade, or hoe;
His happy wife would follow him—
She loved to see him sow.

A quiet and a peaceful home,
You may be sure, was theirs;
And Weeping-Cloud was happy, raised
Above so many cares.
She was a second Flora; they Lived up two flights of stairs.

Their joys and cares are multiplied,
As pass the years so fleet;
A sister in a nest of boys
Now makes their bliss complete;
Nor do they think more lasses would
Make their home-life more sweet.

Now that the clouds of poverty
Out of their skies have gone,
Their low estate they oft recall,
Ere fortune's smile were won,
When for their eventide repast
They had a skillet on.

In their surburban, quiet home,
The factory bell they hear;
And noise of the machines upon
The morning air so clear,
Of course 'tis a familiar sound
To every Indian ear.

For all their peace and happiness
They bless their lucky stars;
Rejoicing that no bitter strife
Their life domestic mars.
That they are not two martyrs, to
Be kept in family jars.

THE EQUITABLE
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,
Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,
The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)
Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Suppressed, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking in the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a temperament of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only occasionally, giving tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result can pletely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared and appetite began to grow. The cough became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was scarcely perceptible, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her former robust health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

In the Superior Court at Portland, Me. on Saturday, Samuel Hill was sentenced to death by hanging for the crime of arson. No one perished by the fire which Hill set, and the sentence is therefore considered severe, but it is very probable that it will be commuted to life imprisonment, as the public sentiment of Maine is indisposed toward capital executions.

Snow fell in such abundance in St. Petersburg and its suburbs in the latter half of December that in several streets it rose to twelve feet in hight. Accounts from the provinces state that whole villages are buried under the drift.

Details of news from Rio Janeiro show that the success of the allied powers in Paraguay has been most complete. All the Paraguayan forts are in their hands. They have captured the artillery and baggage of Lopez's army, and 2000 prisoners. The dictator Lopez was a fugitive in the forest, and was surrounded by the allied troops.

Cuban hostilities continue.

Count Valmazila entered Tannas with one hundred men wounded. He fought a desperate battle at the crossing of the river Canto, in which Lano was killed. Afterwards the insurgents ceased to oppose his march. The aggregate loss of government troops was eight hundred killed and wounded.

The Committee on Pensions in the National Senate have reported unfavorably on the bill allowing a Pension to the widow of President Lincoln.

☞ The S. J. Court, at Exeter, have had only two cases on since our last report. But for the unfortunate Deputy Sheriff's, there would have been no docket worth calling at this term. Wednesday was occupied in trial of case:—Edward H. Clark vs. Andrew J. Fogg. Said Fogg, in 1867, as Deputy Sheriff, in service of a writ from Alva Wood, (who is, in fact, the defendant in interest in this suit), took possession of certain goods in a refreshment saloon, in Exeter, as the property of Thomas E. Boutelle, which Clark, the plaintiff, contended were his goods by legal purchase.

The defence was, that the purchase was made with the knowledge of the insolvency of said Boutelle, and with intent to defraud creditors, which rendered the sale void.—The trial was continued Thursday morning and the case given to the jury in the afternoon.—Towle of Exeter and Frink of Portsmouth appeared as counsel for Clark, and Small of Newmarket for defence.—The jury failed to agree, and was discharged.

The case next on trial was: George Janvrin of Exeter vs. Fogg, Deputy Sheriff, in an action of replevin for goods attached by creditors of Albert Janvrin, and claimed by the plaintiff under mortgage from Janvrin. Fraudulency of mortgage is alleged in defence.

VOCALIZATION.—To have an easy, complete, and energetic control of the whole organic apparatus connected with the formation and use of the voice, in speaking and singing, is a great luxury, as well as a rare and beautiful accomplishment. A friend who is thoroughly acquainted with this subject, informs us that Mr. W. J. Parkerson of Boston has a method of teaching this art, which secures greater results in a quicker time than any other method can do. If this be so, as we doubt not it is, Mr. Parkerson deserves the attention of all who are interested in the subjects of reading, speaking, and singing. See his advertisement.

☞ Great excitement prevails at Kinston, N. C., on account of the lynching of five prisoners, one white and four negroes; and also on account of other outrages alleged to be committed by negroes elsewhere in the State. The whites in Kinston are said to be all armed to resist a siege by negroes.

New Hampshire Items.

Fred. Tibbets of Union, a young lad, broke one of his arms a few days ago, being thrown from a handsled while sliding.

In Rochester, at the house of James Canovan, an Irish man, a week ago last Sunday, a Frenchman named Lebec being drunk, a quarrel was picked between Canovan and Lebec, and Canovan came up behind him and struck him with a chair post, injuring him so much that it is doubtful if he will recover.

Mrs. Mary P. Harris of Manchester has lately given $1000 to Dartmouth College, to found the Harris Scholarship.

Deer were never more plenty in the northern part of New Hampshire than now. The law protecting them from hunters during a portion of the year has had a favorable effect.

Col. Joshua W. Pierce has been appointed a trustee of the Agricultural College, in place of Josiah B. Willey, who declined a reappointment.

Governor Harriman has received from Washington about $22 000, the same being the last of the war claims of N.H. against the General Government.

The woolen factory at Franklin was damaged by fire and water on Thursday forenoon to the amount of $2000.

Hosea Parker of Claremont, is the democratic party's nominee for Congress, in the 3d District.

Chronicle Correspondence.

BIDDEFORD Jan. 28.

Messrs. Editors:—The old year has glided down the stream of time, and the New Year's sun is already gilding the horizon of the future. Although long silent, yet we have not been unmindful of the readers of the Chronicle. Our winter has been one of a very mild character, the thermometer standing about 30 or 40, and has not yet been more than two below zero. The sleighing has been greatly impraired, and in many places bare ground has already became perceptible. The political struggle culminating in the election of Hon. Hannibal Hamlin as U. S. Senator, has subsided, and many of our business men, who took part with their special favorites, have returned from their visit at the Capitol.

Shaw's new Hall was opened last night for the first time by a Musical Festival. The hall has been fitted up in operatic style regardless of expense, scenery, drop-curtains &c., being stationary, thus relieving travelling companies from the disagreeable burden of freight.

The long need of a first class Eating House, has at last been supplied. The establishment, the finest in the state, has been gotten up by Messrs Lane & Young. The rooms are very convenient and spacious, beautifully frescoed, and furnished throughout, in the most substantial manner.

In about six weeks we shall enter upon our municipal election. The question of a citizens' ticket is being strongly agitated. The present Mayor has become quite unpopular, and will not be taken up again by the democrats. A year ago the democrats carried the city by about 150 majority. Last fall Grant had a majority of 18 against him, consequently there is not much prospect for the republicans, unless a citizens' candidate is put in the field. H.

FATHER SAWYER.—The Congregationalist informs us that Rev. Benj. Sawyer of Salisbury, celebrated his golden wedding, Jan. 12th. This was peculiarly a rare occasion, as for both Mr. Sawyer and his wife it was the fiftieth anniversary of a second marriage. Numerous descendants, even to the fourth generation, were present. The formal services were participated in by Rev. W. F. Bacon of Amesbury, and by other neighboring pastors, and Rev. Dr. Withington of Newburyport. Father Sawyer, as he is familiarly called, although in his eighty-seventh year, is hale and hearty, with his hair but slightly tinged with gray.

He is acting pastor of the Rocky Hill Church, Salisbury, and preaches almost every Sunday in the year, save during the vacations granted him in the heat of summer and the cold of winter. He is the oldest active pastor in the State, and was first settled at Cape Elizabeth, Me., in 1809. He has preached more than 6000 sermons; solemnized about 1,290 marriages and attended 1,100 funerals. He has had nine children, seven of whom are now living, seventeen grand-children and seven great-grand-children. The bridal pair were the recipients of generous gifts in gold, silver, and greenbacks.

The Meeting House in which he preaches, is of the old pattern, with the pulpit in the side, square pews, little balustrades above the pannels, and gallery on three sides. It has been so far, well preserved, and kept in repair. We hope it may be so still, without essential changes.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

DANIEL STREET.—Within a few years this street, which had before been considered as a by-way by business people, has been under the step of the march of improvement until stores line both sides to below the crossing of Penhallow St. Among those who have sought the eye of the public through the medium of the press are the dry goods dealers, George Henderson, Wm. W. Henderson & Co., Hartley W. Mason and Miss L. M. Beal; milliner, Miss Moores; groceries, Butler & Laighton and the M. P. Union store, and finally we have the new provision dealers, Lane & Hartshorn, on the corner of Penhallow street, who dispense the necessities and some of the luxuries of life to the lovers of a good dinner. Mr. Hartshorn has for years quit the business of shaving, and we are assured that he does not practice it in his new vocation.

MORE CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS.—We learn that the Methodist Society of this city, have under consideration the subject of making extensive improvements and alterations of their church edifice on State Street, early in the spring. To that end a meeting is called of the members of the church and congregation at their chapel on Daniel Street next Monday evening, Feb. 1st. Rev. H. L. Kelsey, their pastor is untiring in his efforts to have the church remodeled, and is supported by a large majority of the members.

SMALL FRUITS AND FLOWERS.—The annual catalogue of Grapes, Strawberries and other small fruits, roses and bulbs, by J. B. Cline of Rochester, N. Y. possesses many irresistibleattractions to men of taste who fawground o cultivate. The accompanying sheet descriptive of his famous varieties of grapes, blackberries and strawberries invokes an involuntary call for sugar and cream. Any one may obtain the catalogue by writing to Mr. Cline.

EXCELLENT FURNITURE ESTABLISHMENT.—Our readers have doubtless all noticed the advertisements of Beal & Hooper, those celebrated Boston dealers in furniture, which are constantly appearing in our columns. As a general rule our advice to all is to encourage home manufacture, and we know that the workmanship of our own artisans will compare favorably with any produced elsewhere; but as some of our readers both here and abroad are dealers who go to Boston for household furniture, we are happy to say we can confidently recommend them to the establishment of Messrs. Beal & Hooper, who by means of perfected machinery in a thoroughly systemized manufactory where two or three hundred workmen are employed, are producing parlor and chamber sets in black walnut and articles of furniture of all descriptions that are not excelled by any other manufacturers in the country. Their extensive manufactory is at East Cambridge, but their salesrooms are in Haymarket Square, Boston, where callers may always be certain of polite treatment and a view of a large stock of substantial, valuable and fashionable furniture. Mr. George K. Hooper is a Son of Portsmouth, well known to many of our citizens, who, without the advantage of wealthy or influential friends, but entirely through personal industry and energy, has attained a leading position in the first furniture firm in Boston; and we cannot feel that we are deviating from the rule to "encourage your own" when we bespeak for him the patronage of our readers.

The "BEAUTIFUL AND THE USEFUL," are seldom better combined than in the American Agriculturist. This Journal is adorned with a great number of the finest illustrations, of a pleasing and instructive character, while its columns are packed full of useful information, prepared by a large force of intelligent, practical, first class men. No man, woman, or child can peruse it without receiving benefit far beyond its cost. The subscription price is only $1 50 a year, or four copies for $5 00, which is remarkably cheap, considering the expensive character of the paper, and its real value; but a circulation reaching nearly 200,000 divides the expenses among so many, that the cost to each is very small. Numbers one and two of the 28th annual volume come to us in a new and beautifully illustrated cover, and the contents are quite as choice as usual, which is saying a good deal for a journal always good. Those who subscribe now for the new volume will make a valuable investment. The publishers are Orange Judd & Co. 245 Broadway, N. Y.

SAD CASUALTY.—We regret to learn that our venerable fellow citizen, John L. Bowles, last Monday evening, when on his way to attend a lodge meeting of the Odd Fellows, of which order he is a worthy member, while crossing the street near South Mill bridge was run against by a coasting sled, knocked down, and seriously injured. He was taken up in an insensible condition and conveyed to his home in a carriage. This coasting in the frequented highways is dangerous to the participants as well as to pedestrians; and although we would not rob the young of any harmless enjoyment, we must declare that this perilous pastime should be suppressed.

THE WEATHER still continues remarkably mild for the season, our thermometer not having as yet marked a zero temperature. Last Sunday (which was the anniversary of the cold day in 1857 when our river was frozen over and the mercury fell to 25 below zero) was mild and sunny, and snow and ice thawed sufficiently to make the walking "sloppy" where the sidewalks had not been cleared. On Thursday the mercury rose to near 50 in the shade, and water ran in our streets from the effect of the sun's rays. Our coldest days this winter were on Christmas, and on Friday and Saturday last. On all these days the thermometer ranged at the same points—from 2 to 6 above zero in various localities.

The saw and grist mill at "Pickpocket," occupied by Mr. L. G. Prescott for several manufacturing purposes as well as for grinding grain, was destroyed by fire, supposed incendiary, last Friday evening. Mr. Prescott's loss is about $1000, with no insurance. The building was insured.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

What are you Taking?

Probably two-thirds of the adult population of the United States indulge, more or less, in barroom stimulants. Not alcoholic beverages are habitually imbibed by thousands of people in the winter months "to keep out the cold." The alcoholic portion of all these drinks is more or less poisonous, and is rendered all the more deleterious in consequence of being taken warm.

Avoid these dangerous excitants. Shun, as you would shun the deadliest drug, all tavern stimulants. They paralyze the digestion, congest the liver, disturb the natural action of the kidneys, irritate the bowels, shatter the nerves, and impair the reason.

The operation of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is diametrically opposite to this. They spur no organ into unnatural activity, but they tone and regulate all. If the digestion is feeble, they awaken the dormant energies of the stomach, and promote the work of assimilation. If the liver is sluggish and torpid, they regenerate it. If the kidneys fail to perform their functions properly, they are regulated without being irritated. If the bowels are constipated, the peristaltic action is moderately increased, and the discharges become natural and regular. If the nerves are tremulous, they are strengthened. If the mind is clouded, the BITTERS tend to disperse the gloom.

These are the effects of the great VEGETABLE TONIC AND CORRECTIVE, which for twenty years has been a staple medicine in this country, and the demand for which steadily increases in all parts of the Western Hemisphere.

It is not offered as a beverage, but as a medicine, nor will it ever be used to satisfy a craving for alcoholic stimulants, because its effect is to check, not to create, a false appetite for excitants. The champions of temperance will do well to mark this peculiarity, and to recommend it as the only safe preparation containing alcohol, that can be used for medicinal purposes.

"Bitter Sweet"

Gave Timothy Titcomb the approval of a wide circle of readers. The most palatable and invigorating sweet-bitter known to the world—SONOMA WINE BITTERS—is gaining the approval of all who need a cordial tonic. Sold everywhere.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn thereby. This we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, and to aggravate. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another. Much to his surprise, the thing gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the absorption or lesion was found to be gone.

Sterling Silver Ware, and Fine Electro-Plated Ware.

THE GORHAM MANUFACTURING CO., of PROVIDENCE, R. I., having the Largest Manufactory of Solid Silver Ware in the World, with the most improved machinery, and employing the most skilled labor,—are enabled to offer an unequalled variety of new and beautiful designs in Dinner Services, Tea Services, and every article specially adapted for Holiday and Bridal Gifts.

They offer also their well known and unrivalled Nickel Silver Electro-Plated Ware, in which they have introduced new patterns of rare elegance.

The Solid Silver is guaranteed to be of sterling purity by U. S. Mint assay. The Electro-Plate is treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, or when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions; when the duct of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and as alkali in the food, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juices to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they destroy the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, that the digestive powers are destroyed, until liver is cerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decay. Now we know that no tissue can be cured, but only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the year—published on the 1st of February, and every month during the year. Subscription price per year only 50 cts. Specimen copies sent free to any address, on application to the Peabody Medical Institute.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the year—published on the 1st of February, and every month during the year. Subscription price per year only 50 cts. Specimen copies sent free to any address, on application to the Peabody Medical Institute.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Communication.

THE ROCKINGHAM BANK AGAIN.—Messrs. Editors:—A fortnight having passed since an article addressed to the Stockholders of the Rockingham National Bank appeared in your columns, and no reply having been made, it is fair to presume that the charges contained therein are admitted to be incontestably true. At the Annual Meeting referred to in that communication, the grave insults of the President and Cashier to the writer, culminated with the former (with the propriety and dignity so becoming his high office) accusing him of making a false statement; as that statement is embodied in the article referred to, and which he had not the temerity in cool blood to attempt to controvert—will he make the only amend open, and retract that charge as publicly as he made it? a charge which two persons present, besides the writer, knew to be utterly unwarranted, and a charge which any one associating with gentlemen should consider himself degraded by making.

One thing the President, with perhaps questionable politeness, did say, that the writer had every reason but one for believing expressed his true sentiments; and that was, that "he was glad when the writer resigned as Director"; the one reason why he couldn't quite believe that is, the possession of a very polite letter from him written on the day of that resignation, expressing "his sorrow," &c., &c. It occurs to the writer that the Cashier is the only person who could tell which of these opposite expressions was to be received as the true one, but then he is so in the habit of jumping at—things, that his opinion would scarcely be more reliable than some of his * * * * * * ——!

Messrs. Editors, "the game is hardly worth the candle," but one who has arrived at nearly three-score years, without having his word questioned, much less pronounced false, may be pardoned a little sensitiveness, and for pushing his resentment so far as to teach caution and repentance, if he cannot infuse manliness enough to produce retraction.

January 30. ☞

For the Chronicle.

DEARBORN S. F. ENGINE Co., No. 1. It will be seen by the report of the Board of Aldermen on Thursday evening last, that Mr. Charles Manent was appointed Engineer of this steamer in place of Mr. Jas. D. Ackerman, resigned; and that Mr. George Jones, the present Foreman, was appointed Fireman. This Company is now composed entirely of new members, young and active men, the old company having been disbanded. They have recently cleansed and beautifully re-fitted their engine room and Hall at their own expense, and have also furnished themselves with a new uniform. It will repay those interested in the Fire Department, to look into their rooms and see for themselves. And as handsome is that handsome does,—of course Dearborn 1 will be found always "Prompt when duty calls," as heretofore.

☞ The Communication vs, a Bank, which we publish this morning from ☞, is not exactly to our taste, but in accordance with our old rule of a free press and open columns, we insert it. To our suggestion that the writer should sign the first with his name, as we told him we should do if in his place,—he replied, very reasonably we think, that his authorship is as well known here at home, and to all whom he wishes to reach, as if he did so; and that it is only on account of the matter being bruited abroad by our circulation, and perhaps misunderstood by friends at a distance, that he did not attach his signature to the article.

☞ A correspondent wants to know what we have against Street Commissioner Haines? Nothing whatever, nor have we intimated or implied such a thing. We have, as boy and man, been intimately acquainted with him for more than a quarter of a century, and never disagreed with him yet, and we never shall. The sole and only report we ever heard to his discredit was that the Copperheads are in favor of him, and he of them somewhat—but we hope it will not prove true.

☞ Some people are born to honor, some achieve it, others have it thrust upon them. Mayor Jones must be one of the latter class,—for, in spite of his most persistent refusals and declinations of all offices, nominations are continually forced upon him. Nominations, however, are not always elections.

ERRORS.—The Mr. Usher for whom Dr. Parsons was named, was Lieut. Governor, not a minister. The planet Mercury will retire from exhibition on Wednesday, not Monday evening. Tobey & Littlefield build ships on Noble's Island, and not at the Raynes yard at Christian Shore.

☞ Mr. Wilber I. Trafton of this city has nearly completed a diminutive Steam Engine, which is to be named Gen. Grant, and will be in complete running order by the fourth of March. The Engine is gotten up in a somewhat novel style, being made principally of brass, with all the screws, pipes, couplings, valves, &c., &c., generally found upon all horizontal Steam Engines. The bed piece is 12 inches long, with a cylinder 1 inch in diameter, 2 1-2 inches stroke, with a fly wheel 7 inches in diameter. Judson's Patent Steam Regulator Valve in working order will be used, and a steam whistle and safety valve will be attached. The entire engine will be plated with a fine gold and silver plating, the whole resting upon a marble slab upon which is to be a small fence with six posts going around the entire engine.

Each post connects with a tank underneath filled with gas; from the top of each is a bulb from which protrudes eight small gas burners, with 48 lights in all. Under the marble is a black walnut and gold casing, 18 inches long, 12 inches wide, 8 inches high, which contains a copper boiler holding 4 quarts and a pint of water, for generating steam heated by six gas burners, one end of which is exposed to view, showing the steam and glass water guages. A small rubber pipe attached to any common gas fixture is all that is required to get the engine in working order in a few moments.

The machine is a great curiosity as well as a monument of industry and ingenuity, of which Mr. Trafton possesses no small amount.

☞ The Bark Clotilde was launched by Tobey & Littlefield, Saturday afternoon. Owned by E. Atkins & Co., West India traders, of Boston. The same builders have another on the stocks.

☞ Mayor Jones lost a valuable horse, one of his span of bays, by lung fever, a few days since.

☞ About 100 workmen were discharged from the Construction department at the Navy Yard, on Satuaday.

A GENTLE RAIN did the business for the sleighing, on Saturday. Some ice remains, but 'tis better wheeling than sleighing.

NEW HAMPSHIRE has not a single man of mark in Congress. It was not so in other days.—Boston Courier.

New Hampshire may have had men in Congress as able, and perhaps of more marked ability than any she has there now—but she is not ashamed of her present delegation there, nor is she likely to suffer by comparing them with the same number of Massachusetts men. Massachusetts has boasted of her Webster, her Mason and other "men of mark," but they went there from New-Hampshire, and if the Courier will visit its own State Legislature, it will find many of the men of mark in that body are New Hampshire men.—Manchester News.

True: but Mr. Mason was not a native of this State. Of our present delegation, Prof. Patterson is a most eloquent, graceful, classical speaker; a statesman, scholar, and gentleman, without reproach; an ornament to the Senate, of which he is a useful member. And our printer and former Representative, Ela, is making some marks, in the line of economy, retrenchment, and even-handed justice. The other days of the Courier, will never come back. It would be a great pity, if they could.

An unexpected compliment has recently been paid to New England manufacturers, and those of Rhode Island in particular, by an order for the shipment of "Elmwood" shirtings to Liverpool. The Providence Press, which notices the fact, says that the order was accompanied by an explanatory letter, from which it appears that the writer, while visiting this country last summer, had procured specimens of the best American fabrics to show to his English friends. A piece of Elmwood shirting which he had in his collection was examined with much interest by the Manchester manufacturers, who generally conceded its superiority over similar goods made in England. The result was an order for a case of American family shirting for distribution among English manufacturers.

These Goods are for sale by C. H. Mendum & Co.

A WONDERFUL REVIVAL.—The Newburyport Herald says a great revival of religion is now progressing at Seabrook, N. H., under the preaching of Rev. Elder Smith of the Advent Church. On Thursday evening last, some seventy-two stood up for prayers. There never was such a religious feeling manifested before in that locality. Besides leaving off profanity and other sins, they have agreed to leave off smoking and chewing—hear that, Bro. Trask—and to catch no fish on Sundays. The ordinance of baptism will be administered to six candidates on Sunday next, four males and two females.

LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED

PERFECTED SPECTACLES

and Eye Glasses.

The large and increasing sales of these

SUPERIOR GLASSES

Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

Mr. J. F. SHORES, Jr., Bookseller,

Has always on hand a full assortment, suitable for every difficulty.

TO FARMERS.

The Lodi Manufacturing Co. invite Farmers and others using Manures, to send for a pamphlet descriptive of their Fertilizers. They offer their equal to the best Super-Phosphate, at the low price of $30 per ton.

DOUBLE REFINED POUDRETTE,

They also make superior articles of

NITRO PHOSPHATE AND PURE BONE DUST.

We ask attention to the following Testimonials:

Prof. Geo. H. Cook, of the New Jersey Agricultural College of New Brunswick, says: "The Double Refined Poudrette and Nitro Phosphate of Lime paid us full 100 per cent. above their market value, in the increase of crops this year."

D. A. Haughton, North Hadley, Mass., says: "I used it on my Tobacco plants (where no other manure had been used for years.) They came up quick and were pronounced the best plants ever raised in this vicinity."

Dani. D. Beckwith, New London, Conn., says: "The Double Refined Poudrette is the best fertilizer I have ever used in the hill, taking the place into account. The Nitro Phosphate is ahead of anything I have ever used in producing a crop without the aid of stable manure."

Abram T. Peckham, Newport, R. I., says: "I used the Poudrette on corn, side by side with Super Phosphate, and in every case it came out ahead."

Chas. Rowland, Weston, Conn., says: "It gave the corn an early start, ripened it early and increased the yield more than sufficient to pay all expenses."

Wm. S. Sheffield, South Lyme, Conn., says he found it superior to Super Phosphate of fish scrap. On Corn and Buckwheat it far surpassed any other manure.

Benj. Ingalls, Sheffield, Vt., says: "Your Double Refined Poudrette has been tried side by side with Coe's and Bradley's X L Super Phosphate, and one or two other kinds, and it has given as good satisfaction as any. My Uncle raised two bushels of corn from four rows with manure, three bushels from four rows with Poudrette, and only one and three quarters from Bradley's X L.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $28,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,333.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,826 27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	443,410 33
" Contractors' men	291,179 99
" " material	963,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

IN THE GARDEN.

Concluded.

I will not give the conversation in full. Suffice it to say that it was nearly nine o'clock when Mr. Hall, having exhausted all his arguments without effect, finally became indignant, and determined to depart. He was making one final appeal to Mollie, who, still unconvinced, and still lacking in courage, sat sobbing on the bench before him, when they both heard the gate closed softly, and saw dimly two figures turning toward the garden.

"Mercy on us!" exclaimed Mollie, in in terrified accents. "Tom, the—pear tree!"

Before Tom knew what he was about, he had followed Mollie, or had been dragged by Mollie under the shadow of the trees, and was stationed behind a flourishing clump of rhubarb plants.

"This is a proceeding!" he began, then suddenly checked himself to listen.

The voices were very near them now, and a moment after, another miserable couple seated themselves on the same bench which the concealed pair had left so unceremoniously.

"Poor little Mollie," said Jane, mourafully, glancing back at the dark house, "she's gone to bed long ago. I dare say. I wish I was as happy as Mollie. Oh, what would she think if she knew?"

"Think!" replied the voice of Mr. Lyman Ellis. "I own it wouldn't be very agreeable to be discovered lurking about the house in this fashion, but if you will allow me to go to your aunt to-morrow morning and tell her I wish to marry you, she could think or say nothing unpleasant. You are sacrificing your happiness and mine to a miserable caprice. Your aunt happens to have a prejudice against marriage, and so you promise yourself to remain single till she dies."

"Oh, don't speak so. I love Aunt Polly everything, and her death will be the greatest misfortune in the world to me."

"All the benefits in the world give her no right to dictate in a matter like this."

"I know."

"Well, then, consider me a little—you consider her so much—let me come here to-morrow and speak to her plainly."

"Oh, I daren't! Oh Lyman, what shall I do? There she comes now."

In fact, two more figures were discernable coming through the gate, unmistakably the figures of Miss Polly and Mr. Wilkins. They seemed in no hurry to go in, but stood leaning in the moonlight and talking. Presently—oh disastrous movement!—they were seen slowly sauntering toward the garden.

"What shall I do?" gasped Jane, again, in the very extremity of terror.

"Come under the shade," said Mr. Ellis. "She won't perceive us."

In a moment they were crouching so close to the retreat of their fellow sufferers that recumbent Mr. Hall could have touched Mr. Ellis' coat tails.

"This moon is delightful!" was the first remark of Miss Polly's that reached their ears.

"It is!" responded Mr. Wilkins. "Hum—it is. Enchanting."

"I love to walk by moonlight."

"It makes me quite—hum—sad—lonesome."

"Ah!" said Miss Polly, sympathizingly.

"I—hum—feel as if I hadn't a—hum—friend in the world."

"That's strange"—Polly stopped to gather a rose—"when you have so many."

"You are—hum—mistaken. Hum—I haven't one."

"I'm sure I'm your friend, Mr. Wilkins," said Miss Polly, speaking lower, and putting the rose before her face.

Mr. Wilkins immediately became bewildered in a desert of "Hums," "he—hum—hum—he wished she would—hum—he wished he could—hum—believe it."

"I should think you might," responded Miss Polly, "when I say it. I suppose the thought of your past happiness is rather trying," she continued.

"Hum—no. I—hum—could be—hum—happier than I—hum—ever was."

"Indeed!"

"I—hum—assure you. If—if—you—hum—thought so."

"Don't!" exclaimed Miss Polly.—"Remember your—think of Mrs. Wilkins—dead and gone."

Mr. Wilkins was so abashed by this outburst that he said absolutely nothing for five minutes. Miss Polly got out of patience.

"You weren't congenial," she said. "I see. Ah, that is trying!"

Mr. Wilkins was betrayed again, and declared he—"Hum—never knew what—hum—congeniality was till—lately. Would she—hum—hum—let him say?"

"Don't speak to me!" exclaimed Miss Polly, sinking down on the much-endured bench. "I'm a disgrace to myself. Oh! if those girls should hear this, what would they say?"

Those girls! There was such a merry shout of laughter behind her! It pealed forth upon the startled ears of Miss Polly and Mr. Wilkins, almost frightening them into fits. When they recovered a little, there were Tom and Mollie on one side, Jane and Mr. Ellis on the other, the last two looking very much surprised.

In an instant Mollie's arms were round her aunt's neck, and she was crying.

"We'll say you're the dearest auntie in the world! Be good, now."

"Be magnanimous," put in Tom. "You see we've all found each other out."

"And are all equally culpable," subjoined Mr. Ellis.

Miss Polly Whitleses was a wise woman. And when she saw that Fate favored her desires, she did not try to undo the doings of Fate. For reasons of her own she had determined to try her fortunes matrimonially; and when she found her nieces inclined thus also, she agreed to let them go with her for shipwreck or prosperity, remembering that if she did otherwise her example and precept would contradict each other. Oh, acute Miss Polly! Thus it happened that three weddings took place in one day.

BASE BALL.—The National Chronicle of Jan. 16 has a comic sketch which appeals at once to the sympathies of the whole ball playing fraternity, and the unfortunate wight, who, in his unenviied position, may sing with the poet:—

"Thou art so near and yet so far,"

is in truth placed in a very unpleasant predicament, which will be best appreciated by a true base ball player. On the one hand is the player rapidly making the deciding run of the game, which he only can prevent; on the other is the article desired beyond all things else, the ball, securely guarded by a savage looking dog, whose looks proclaim that he is not to be cajoled or coaxed into friendship by "ye luckless knight of the bat." The picture presents one of the many humorous sides that once in a while will happen in playing Our National Game, and the air of comic seriousness that pervades the whole makes the picture all the more meritorious.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1861.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a club, the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER PLATED ENGRAVED TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Republican), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiously led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant Block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the Middle and Western States, and the prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most only goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, calicoes made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. [$3.] 31 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving oval hand. Silver-Plated Ice Table Castor, 6 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Glass Dress Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Alhambra Bed Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. [$6.] 62 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 31 yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Lady's Fashionable Cloak Pattern. Fair good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. 6 yards Farmers' good wool Cloaking. Rosewood Revolving Warm Clothes Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. [$10.] 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's Fine Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern. Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. One pair of good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large Extra Sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Bladed Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them in their club, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO CALL TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come safely.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

PURITY,

FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scaly skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
29 State Street, Boston,

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO., No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of soiling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

[From Skater's Text Book.]

SKATING WITH THE GIRLS.

BY "MARCIE."

Come, girls, get on your jockey-hats,
Dress in your skating-suits,
Be sure to lace up snugly
Your pretty little boots;
And we will all go skating,
For the ice is clear and bright,
The moon will soon be up, my dears,
We'll have a lovely night.

Then soon we're off, a little hand
Tucked snugly 'neath each arm,
While all the boys are making love
And keeping darlings warm.
Oh! don't you think its jolly,
Mixing up one's self with curls,
And going off on moonlight nights
Skating with the girls!

But when it comes to putting on—
Lord, love us ain't it nice
To hold the darling's pretty foot?
You have to be precise.
Oft the skate won't fit so snugly;
So with many twists and twirls,
How long it takes in putting on
The skates of pretty girls!

The foot's so small, so very trim,
The boot so high and neat;
Perhaps a glimpse of stockings white
May cause your heart to beat!
It takes so long to put on skates
Of pretty ones with curls;
And yet—we wish we always could
Go skating with the girls!

VENTILATION. A correspondent of the Springfield Republican, under the signature "Fresh Air," thus explains how he ventilates his house:

My house is warmed by a furnace. The air for the furnace is taken, not according to the common pernicious practice, from the cellar, but from out of doors. The warm air distributed in the usual way to all the rooms above and below, including the halls. The main hall has the usual rooms opening into it; an open stair case leads from the lower hall to the upper; the upper hall, running east and west, has my room, and "the boys' room" on the South of it, the "nursery" and an unoccupied room on the North.

At night the registers in all these rooms, above and below, except the unoccupied chamber, are left open, the doors of all of them are left open, a window in the lower hall is left open at the top, the north window in the "nursery," and the south windows in my room and "boys' room," are left open at the top, and, except on very cold nights, the south window in my room is left open at the bottom also, as is also much of the time the north window in the "nursery."

Whenever there is any motion whatever in the outer air, there is a current straight through the sleeping apartments, sometimes from north to south, sometimes from south to north. There is always at night a current of warm air flowing up the stairs, and a current of cool air flowing down them. I assure you, Mr. Editor, that we are never troubled by foul air in my house. I burn some coal, but the ventilation is thorough. Understand, that doors and windows are left in this way at night, whatever the weather may be, without regard to the state of the thermometer, the wind, or the heavens.

"But when the thermometer is below zero isn't it cold!" Well, coolish—sometimes. With the mercury at 20 degrees below zero, I have found the house actually cold in the morning. But then I have never yet this year, slept once with more than one blanket over me (comfortables are forbidden in my house;) and three of my children will never keep a blanket, or even a sheet over them at night. They will bear no bed clothing, whatever the weather may be. The prevalent notions about keeping warm in bed are very false and very absurd. Let any one who is in the habit of sleeping with the door of his chamber shut and locked, the windows hermetically sealed, and four or five blankets over him, just open door and windows (both) for a time, so as to have a current of air through his room, and, my word for it, he will soon find himself obliged to throw off some of his blankets. Opening door and window, or opposite windows of a sleeping room acts on the lungs and internal heat of the occupant precisely as opening the register of a stove or furnace acts on the fire within. I have induced many to try it with never varying result.

"How about colds? We are not absolutely exempt, but individual members of the family, I, myself, for one, sometimes go two or three years together without any symptom of a cold. I know no family less troubled with colds. All of us, from the father, now an old man, to the youngest child of a few months, sit in draughts, and go out in all weathers, without inconvenience or ill results. Many a time have I been remonstrated with by tender mothers; "Mr. Smith I am sure you cannot know how careless your nurse is. Yesterday I saw her out with your baby in a snow storm?" Dear, anxious souls! Their puny darlings are shut up at home with colds in their heads; my baby is out as fresh as hearty, and as sweet as the air he breathes.

☞ At an Advent Conference in Massachusetts recently, it was decided to discourage the preaching of time for the end of the world. Such predictions have been common for many centuries.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES. Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Sleeplessness, it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists the important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.

[Communicated by a Physician.]

Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and as except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional medicine, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, and no other medicine for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required. Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most emphatic. She tried before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She could not try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are safe in using it.—Sherman Stough.

NATIONAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
Washington, D. C.
Chartered by Special Act of Congress. APPROVED JULY 25, 1868.
CASH CAPITAL - - - $1,000,000.
PAID IN FULL.
Branch Office:
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA,
Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.
OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

Three men were killed and 5 others seriously wounded by an explosion of nitro glycerine at South Petersburg, N. Y., on Saturday.

Congress.

The Senate passed the Naval Appropriation Bill on Saturday.

Mr. Morton introduced a bill to enable the people of Montana to form a Constitution and State Government and for the admission of said State into the Union. Referred to the Committee on Territories.

The House passed a new Constitutional Amendment (150 to 42), which provides that the right of any citizen of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State, by reason of race or color, or previous condition of slavery, of any citizen or class of citizens of the United States.

There are a sufficient number of Republican Legislatures to place its ratification beyond doubt, unless it should be defeated through the faint-heartedness of a few week-kneed Republicans.

Bills were introduced in the House on Monday, to increase the President's salary to one hundred thousand dollars; and to pay $75,000 to the widow and children of President Lincoln.

U. S. Senate. — Members already elected to fill the vacancies that will occur on the 4th of March, are as follows:

California, Eugene Casserly, dem., gain; Connecticut, William A. Buckingham, rep., gain; Maryland, Wm. T. Hamilton, dem.: Ohio, Allen G. Thurman, dem., gain; Tennessee, Wm. G. Rice, reps.; gain.

Florida, and West Virginia have to elect Senators, as well as Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, when they are reconstructed. A full Senate would now contain seventy-four members.

☞ Rev. B. T. Clark of Chelmsford, Mass., has resigned his pastorship of the Congregational Society there, and has been dismissed and recommended by a Council, of which Dr. Blagden was Moderator. Mr. C. gave in writing his reasons for leaving, viz:—a disaffection towards him on the part of the minority of his parish, and an unwillingness in the members of the Andover Association, to which he belongs, to exchange with him, on account of his views and course touching the Liquor License question. The vote to dismiss was unanimous; the vote to recommend, was 5 to 5, and Dr. B. gave his casting vote in favor;—and the result finally affirmed, 7 to 4.

Eastern Railroad.—The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the stockholders of this company was held in Boston, on Monday.

Messrs. George M. Brown, Samuel Hooper, Nathaniel Thayer, Franklin Haven, Benjamin F. Bates, of Boston, Wm. L. Dwight of Portsmouth, and Henry L. Williams of Salem, were chosen Directors. The Directors were authorized to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding $1,000,000, in conformity with the statute, for the purpose of providing means to meet the indebtedness of the Company.

Educational.

The Rockingham County Educational Association met, in the town Hall, Raymond, on Tuesday, Jan. 25th, at 10 o'clock, A. M., according to previous notices. The Association was called to order by the President, Rev. James DeNormandie of Portsmouth. The exercies were opened with a prayer by Rev. A. Folsom. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The President occupied a short time in some pertinent remarks relative to the last meeting, and suggested some good ideas in reference to future meetings. By request, the Constitution was read.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction occupied a short time in giving the prevailing state of feeling in regard to the very important subject of popular education, and deprecated the apathy which seems to be so general. He spoke of the great importance of Institutes and Institute instruction, said he proposed to hold a session early in Spring at Exeter. He hoped that every person in the County who proposes to teach, would be present. He also spoke in eulogistic terms of Normal Schools; said that there are 38 in the U. S. He hoped New Hampshire would have the honor of establishing the 39th. He regarded Normal Schools as indispensable requisites to a high standard of instruction.

Rev. P. S. Burbank followed in a short speech, favoring the idea of erecting one or more Normal Schools; said our rallying cry must be the Normal School, and then we must agitate the public mind until we get it.

Hon. J. D. Lyman, Secretary of State, followed in an earnest and happy speech. He regarded a uniformity of books desirable; but what he considered as very much more desirable, was that the teacher should rise above books, and become the living book, from which his pupils should learn. He hoped our instructors would teach their pupils to be noble—noble in every sense of that term. Mr. Lyman spoke several times, and was repeatedly applauded.

Mr. Hadley occupied the remainder of the forenoon, on the subject of Reading and Spelling.

On motion of W. A. Currier, a recess of one hour was taken. On re-assembling, the President appointed W. A. Currier, J. C. Learned and J. T. Gibson a Committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year.

Hon. Nath'l Gordon of Exeter was called upon and made a good speech. He suggested some valuable hints for Teachers. The Committee to nominate officers made the following report which was unanimously adopted.

President, Rev. J. DeNormandie; Vice Presidents, W. A. Currier, P. S. Burbank, A. M. Payson, Rev. J. Fullonton, Wilson S. Abbott; Treasurer, Sperry French; Rec. Secretary, C. C. Hunkins; Cor. Secretary, A. J. Hoyt; Directors, Rev. J. C. Learned, Frank W. Miller, J. F. Gibson, Lewis E. Smith, W. C. Patten, M. Cotton, Rev. L. S. Parker.

Short and excellent addresses were made by Revs. J. C. Learned, J. DeNormandie, E. D. Chapman, G. N. Bryant, Wilson S. Abbott Esq. Mr. Hadley delivered his popular lecture on Horace Mann. Adjourned till 7 o'clock.

A very good number were present in the evening to hear Mr. Hadley's lecture on the Idea School. We regard this meeting of the Association a success. Of the time and place for the next meeting, due notice will be given.

Exeter, Jan. 26th. C. C. Hawkins, Sec.

☞ There are various ways to get the reading of men's papers, without paying for them. We have known men for years to stand on doorsteps regularly every morning, and read subscriber's papers taken from their doors. And many make themselves a nuisance to neighbors, by continually borrowing from houses, or visiting stores solely to read their papers.

Another plan, and one for which a gentleman who daily rides over the Eastern Railroad between Newburyport and Boston, whose profession is legal if his practice is not equity, and whose soul can hardly fill his ample body,—ought to have a patent, is, to borrow somebody's paper after declining to buy one of the boy, and to read and pocket it; and to pass through the train on arrival and pick up all the stray papers left on the seats. Whether he has a list of subscribers to supply at each end of his route, or furnishes a second-hand news-stand, we cannot say; but though a little more conspicuous, he is not a bit meaner than many others we know.

☞ Our item should have read we hope we never shall disagree with the Street Commissioner, not "we never shall."

—Mrs. Gen. Grant is said to have the smallest foot of any lady in Washington.

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. James Potter of Canaan went into the poultry business, Jan. 1, 1868, with eight hens and a rooster; she has sold $56 worth of eggs and poultry; her family has used $25 worth; and she has now fifteen hens. Cost of keeping not stated.

In a part of Lebanon called Scytheville, 20,000 scythes, 25,000 hay-rakes, and 12,000 snaiths, are made annually.

The Lebanon Free Press, drives its job press by water-power, with shafting connected with a grist-mill.

An Enfield item speaks of politics there as dull, and says, even the war ticket of the democrats inspires no enthusiasm,—the old liners didn't see it.

Vocalization.—To have an easy, complete, and energetic control of the whole organic apparatus connected with the formation and use of the voice, in speaking and singing, is a great luxury, as well as a rare and beautiful accomplishment. A friend who is thoroughly acquainted with this subject, informs us that Mr. W. J. Parkerson of Boston has a method of teaching this art, which secures greater results in a quicker time than any other method can do. If this be so, as we doubt not it is, Mr. Parkerson deserves the attention of all who are interested in the subjects of reading, speaking, and singing. See his advertisement.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A Distinguished Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find Plantation Bitters, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely, he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he himself had experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far to pleasant a tonic to trifle with. 13

Not a bit of Stain or Smart will Wolcott's Pain Paint give; but it removes pain as quick as magic. Wolcott's Anihilator banishes Catarrh from the system, and all colds in the head. Recollect and get pint bottles, in white wrappers, $1, at druggists. j16 2wsaw.

If Samson's strength actually lay in the length and abundance of his hair, a liberal use of the famous "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" ought to impart many times the strength of that doughty ancient warrior, for there is no limit it will not reach if properly applied.—N. H. Patriot. 23

France Snubbed by America.—The universal opinion of the American people, that France has never produced a perfume superior to Phalon's new perfume, "Flor De Mayo," has greatly mortified the amour propre of the great toilet chemists of France. Neither French-made perfumes nor French-made potentates are wanted on this side of the Atlantic. Sacree!! Sold by all drugists.

Magnolia Water.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly broiled.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SAVE YOUR CHILDREN!

Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Cholera Morbus, so frequent at this season of the year, are sure to be cured at once with SMITH'S CURATIVE COMPOUND. The Proprietor has it in numerous cases within twenty years past, never failing.

Also Diptheria and all cases of Inflammation of the Throat. Never failed in Croup. Perfectly safe in all cases. Try a bottle—only 25 cents—and thus save expense.

Try SMITH'S CATARRHSNUFF for cold in the head. Does not provoke sneezing nor clog up the head. Sold by druggists and others in this city and vicinity. Prepared by JOSEPH SMITH, Malden, Mass. s21—3m

SPECIAL NOTICES.

What are you Taking?

Probably two-thirds of the adult population of the United States indulge, more or less, in fermented stimulants. Hot alcoholic beverages are habitually imbibed by thousands of people in the winter months "to keep out the cold." The alcoholic material of all these drinks is more or less poisonous, and is rendered all the more deleterious in consequence of being taken warm.

Avoid these dangerous excitants. Shun, as you would shun the deadliest drug, all favorite stimulants. They paralyze the digestion, congest the liver, disturb the natural action of the kidneys, irritate the bowels, shatter the nerves, and impair the reason.

The operation of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is diametrically opposite to this. They spur no organ into unnatural activity: but they tone and regulate all. If the digestion is feeble, they awaken the dormant energies of the stomach, and promote the work of assimilation. If the liver is sluggish and torpid, they regenerate it. If the kidneys fail to perform their functions properly, they are regulated without being irritated. If the bowels are constipated, the peristaltic action is moderately increased, and the discharges become natural and regular. If the nerves are tremulous, they are strengthened. If the mind is clouded, the BITTERS tend to disperse the gloom.

These are the effects of the great VEGETABLE TONIC AND CORRECTIVE, which for twenty years has been a staple medicine in this country, and the demand for which steadily increases in all parts of the Western Hemisphere.

It is not offered as a beverage, but as a medicine, nor will it ever be used to satisfy a craving for alcoholic stimulants, because its effect is to check and to remove, a false appetite for excitants. The champions of temperance will do well to mark this peculiarity, and to recommend it as the only safe preparation containing alcohol, that can be used for medicinal purposes.

"Bitter Sweet"

Gave Timothy Titcomb the approval of a wide circle of readers. The most palatable and invigorating sweet bitter known to the world—SONOMA WINE BITTERS—is gaining the approval of all who need a cordial tonic. Sold everywhere.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challanged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn. Be certain this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regular ty.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to increase the pain and soreness. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

To Owners of Horses and Cattle.

Tobias' Derby Condition Powders are warranted superior to any others, or no pay, for the cure of Distemper, Worms, Bots, Coughs, Hide-bound, Colds, &c., in Horses; and Colds, Coughs, Loss of Milk, Black Tongue, Horse Distemper, &c., in Cattle.

They are perfectly safe and innocent; no need of stopping the working of your animals. They increase the appetite, give the best blood, cleanse the stomach and urinary organs; also increase the milk of cows. Try them, and you will never be without them.

Col. Philip P. Bush, of the Jerome Race Course, Fordham, N. Y., would not use them until he was told of what they are composed, since which he is never without them. He has over 30 running horses in his charge, and for the last three years has used no other medicine for them. He has kindly permitted me to refer any one to him.—Over 1,000 other testimonials can be seen at the depot. Sold by Druggists and Saddlers. Price 25 cents per box. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York

BUCHU.

[From Dispensatory of the United States.]

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

Properties.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

Medical Properties and Uses.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is used by persons from the age of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-Wetting in Children.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa, or Whites.

Diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, and Dropsical Swellings.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of the Urine, Diseases of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-Dust Deposit, and Mucus or Milky Discharges, and for enfeebled and delicate constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular system, &c.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and cures all Diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excesses and imprudences in life, impurities of the Blood, &c., superceding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gonorrhea, Gleets of long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in these diseases, used in connection with Helmbold's Rose Wash.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. Price—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and they throw it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use) that will move the bile as these Pills do, and yet not gripe the patient. Take a mild mercurial pill and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop the pain, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will stop of themselves of accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcers on the Lungs, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleurisy, or ulcers. The lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not enough to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y ja4

SINGING,

SPEAKING AND READING.

Mr. W. J. PARKERSON would ask the attention of all persons interested in these arts, to his SYSTEMATIC DRILL for securing the most pure, easy, energetic and prolonged use of the Vocal Organs.

This Drill, the result of patient study and varied experience, both in Europe and America, is based on an improved combination of the best methods for beautifying and perfecting the voice as exemplified by the great masters.

Mr. Parkerson claims that more solid and brilliant results can be reached in a shorter time by his peculiar mode of practice than in any other way.

Especially will Teachers of Vocal Music find the information he offers inestimably valuable to them.

He invites an examination of his system and of his testimonials.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—When I was an infant, several years ago, I frequently heard men and women speak of "happy childhood" and the "pleasures of youth," in a manner which led me to infer that they considered infancy as the only endurable period of life. I looked upon that belief, at that time, as being a popular delusion, and have never seen cause to change my opinion. Naturally observant, and with a vivid sense of the injustice with which children were treated, I often saw instances of favoritism to my elders and tyranny over the young, which made me long for the honors and immunities of manhood.

When, impelled by an ardent desire to improve my knowledge of natural history, I chased a brood of young ducks into a goose-pond and fell down therein, was not I severely punished? And yet my big brother, who fell from Long wharf into the Piscataqua, and was fished out of the water with a boat-hook, down at the Narrows, and brought home in a cart—was he "corrected?" Did he get whipped, and arrayed in a yellow flannel night-gown, and sent to bed before sunset? No, no! on the contrary,—was he not allowed to sit by the fire, and have unlimited peppermint, with as much sugar in it as he liked?

In later years, when, arrived at the mature age of six, I wended my way to the Temple of Learning in Cabot street, (not the proud edifice which rears its head there now, but a miserable old concern, in which the fire would only burn when the day was very warm, and the rain came down the chimney, washing the soot all over the floor, and making me sick,) and, elated by my fancied emancipation from the wrongs and miseries of home, repeated such words as I heard men use, within hearing of the teacher, did not that lady kindly give me a note to carry home, which had the effect of procuring me standing room in the corner, and a generous pinch of Cayenne pepper on my tongue? Happy childhood! Oh, yes, very much! Why, I've seen men, since that time, drink whole tumblerefuls of whiskey, or bitter, nasty beer, without apparently suffering half as much as I did from that fiendish red pepper, when I was a boy.

But why need I argue to prove what all must acknowledge to be a fact, would they but speak according to their convictions? Cannot every man recall a time when a rainy Fourth of July, the loss of a top, or getting caught hooking apples, or having a new coat built without tails, caused keener anguish than manhood feels when refusing to lend money or subscribe to a charity?—Pleasures of youth, indeed! Bah!

I know that 'tis the fashion to become ecstatic over the happiness and innocence of childhood, and that I am a "brute" for not doing so; but I don't believe in or care for anything just because others do. (I wouldn't give a cent to see the best man in the world hung,) and I am certain that juvenile sorrows more than counterbalance juvenile delights. With men it is not so: troubles are lighter, and there is more strength to bear up under them. To be sure, the first time a man hears a lady say "No" when he pops the question, he feels a little abashed, but after a few repetitions he don't care anything about it; duns are sometimes troublesome, but soon lose their terrors; and all other trials are the same,—man soon becomes habituated to and indifferent about them. But childhood never does; and consequently was, and is, and probably always will be, a season of tears and lamentations, as far as possible removed from the world's orthodox ideal season of unalloyed delight.

PAREHA.

P. S. Since writing the foregoing the belief of a life-time has been capsized and destroyed—I have become a convert to the faith in juvenile bliss.—Do you care to know what has effected the change? Come with me, and I'll show you,—come with me to the Post Office, some pleasant evening when the mails are being sorted, and observe happy childhood disporting itself: watch the troops of delighted boys as they play touch-and-run from end to end of the hall, making use of the coats and dresses of the amused spectators as swinging points to turn on, and cheering the exhausted Post Officials with imitations (superior to nature) of steam whistles, and fac similes of Comanche war-whoops; and then, with me, lament that you were young at a time when children were considered nuisances, (boys, I mean, — not girls — girls, young, old and intermediate, I regard as the nearest approximation to angels that we have,—or are likely to have, some of us,) and before a paternal government had built such a splendid playhouse, and common humanity had shortened the school hours so that the boys should have time to enjoy it. I scorn and defy any man who don't believe in happy childhood. P.

GRAND BAL MASQUE.—One of these interesting and unique entertainments is to be given at Congress Hall in this city on the evening of Feb 22d. Mr. M. Eldredge has the arrangements in charge, and of course nothing will be neglected that will render the affair successful and satisfactory. De Witt's Band of 6 pieces will furnish the music, with a prompter from Boston. Tickets limited to 50, and a Committee each of ladies and gents will see all comers unmasked before entering the hall, that there may be no intruders. Hot supper will be prepared at the Hotels for all who so order. Messrs. Curtis and Woodbury, the Boston costumers, will be in attendance previously, to furnish the fancy dresses and disguises.

Altogether, there will be great fun for those who enjoy such things, and the rare opportunity will of course be improved to the full number allowed.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.—A Convention of the Churches that have joined in the Union Prayer Meetings in this city, with Churches from the neighboring towns, will be held in the North Church to-morrow (Wednesday.) Rev. Mr. Langworthy and Judge Chamberlain of Boston are to be present. Services at 10 1-4 o'clock A. M., 2 and 7 1-2 P. M.

TO FARMERS.

The Lodi Manufacturing Co. invite Farmers and others using Manures, to send for a pamphlet descriptive of their Fertilizers. They offer their DOUBLE REFINED POUDRETTE, equal to the best Super-Phosphate, at the low price of $30 per ton.

They also make superior articles of NITRO PHOSPHATE AND PURE BONE DUST.

We ask attention to the following Testimonials:

Prof. Geo. H. Cook, of the New Jersey Agricultural College, New Brunswick, says: "The Double Refined Poudrette and Nitro Phosphate of Lime paid us full 100 per cent. above their market value, in the form of crops this year."

D. A. Haughton, North Hadley, Mass., says: "I used it on my Tobacco plants (where no other manure had been used for years.) They came up quick and were pronounced the best plants ever raised in this vicinity."

Dan'l Robbins, New London, Conn., says: "The Double Refined Poudrette is the best fertilizer I have ever used in the hill, taking the price into account. The Nitro Phosphate is ahead of anything I have ever used in producing a crop without the aid of Stable manure."

Abram T. Peckham, Newport, R. I., says: "I used the Poudrette on one side by side with Super Phosphate, and in every case it came out ahead."

Chas. Rowland, Weston, Conn., says: "It gave the corn an early start, ripened it early and increased the yield more than sufficient to pay all expenses."

Wm. S. Sheffield, South Lynne, Conn., says he found it superior to Super Phosphate or fish scrap. On Corn and Buckwheat it far surpassed any other manure.

Bradley Ingalls, Sheffield, Vt., says: "Your Double Refined Poudrette has been tried side by side with Coe's and Bradley's X L Super Phosphate, and one or two other kinds, and it has given as good satisfaction as any. My Uncle raised two bushels of corn from four rows with manure, three bushels from four rows with Poudrette, and only one and three quarters from Bradley's X L.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accep'ed, at the average rate of about $28,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $28,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,910,233.19
" Express	91,423.06
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	97,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' mat'l	391,172.69
" " material	988,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it strengthens the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

Morning Chronicle.

THE OLD FOGIES OF MAINE AND THE RAILROADS.—By the term "old fogy" we do not mean an old man, but we mean the man who is in every thing a drag-chain upon human progress.—There are those who predict ruin as the result of internal improvements. Start the idea of a Railroad, and they will attempt to frighten you with the fear that "it will not pay!"

We shall, sooner or later know, but we hope in the end to find no "old fogies" in the cities of the Saco. Benton and Douglas and Clay were not old fogies; Benton and Clay were young when they died, and if Douglas had lived long, long years he would have died young—that is, he never would grow old in spirit.

When John A. Poor started the idea of the Atlantic & St. Lawrence Railroad, some sleek, fat, "old fogies" reared their heads! The struggle was bitter, but the boys went to the polls and compelled these rich men to help a community which had given them wealth and comfort. The same struggle took place in Augusta, in Bangor, in Bath, in Rockland, and lately in Belfast.

The old fogies in Belfast who were rich, whose pockets were full of untaxed bonds, true to their insincts, began to fight this new Railroad. The boys voted city bonds, and then these pernicious "old fogies" applied to the Supreme Court for an injunction against the issue or use of these bonds! They have been beaten in the Tribune of their own seeking—and the people have made known their satisfaction by the firing of guns and ringing of bells.

The question of Railroad construction is passing into the hands of the voters; and not those who have "made their pile," but those who are to make their "pile" will triumph.—Maine Dem.

ANECDOTES OF BILLY HIBBARD.—From the Congregationalist.—It is told of Billy Hibbard, the Methodist preacher, that when roll was called in the Conference, his name was read "William." He rose at once and objected, saying that his name was not William, it was Billy. "But, Brother Hibbard," pleaded Bishop Asbury, "Billy is a little boy's name!" "Yes, Bishop," was the quick reply, "and I was a little boy when my father gave it to me!"

"Billy" was apt to be pugnacious in the pulpit. It was well nigh impossible for him to say "Amen" until he had given the Five Points of Calvinism a rap. Once after he had been thus freeing his mind, a good Presbyterian friend who had been listening said, "Brother Hibbard, you hurt my feelings by what you said about so and so"—some point of Calvinistic doctrine. "Oh," was the reply, "I am sorry you took that; I aimed that at the devil, and you stepped in and took the blow instead. Don't get between me and the devil, brother, and you won't get hurt!"

THE WIDOW OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN—"great only because she bears a great name"—is importuning Congress for a pension, on the ground that it is impossible for her to live on the income of $30,000. She implores the Senate to increase her yearly receipts, in a manner that would indicate that the nation had left her penniless, to starve in absolute neglect. No needy street beggar ever uttered so doleful a cry for immediate relief as does this woman, whose conduct, before and since the death of Mr. Lincoln, has been a public scandal. For her acts during the war and her indiscretions after it closed, Mrs. Lincoln merits anything but a complimentary testimonial from the people of the United States; but it is probable that gratitude to the man whose name she has degraded, and a deep respect, almost reaching reverence, for his character and deeds, will impel Congress, as representing the people of the Union, to silence her ridiculous pleas for aid by a donation such as may be regarded judicious, by those who believe that the applicant deserves rather severe rebuke than the indorsement of pecuniary assistance.—Boston Transcript.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY NEAR MANCHESTER.—The Mirror says that on Thursday evening as Mr. Rodney N. Whittemore was driving over the railroad bridge by the gas works, on his way home, with a pair of horses, on a sled, two men hailed him for a ride.—He took them on, found them to be strangers, but talked with them without any suspicion of danger. On reaching the watering place in the woods, he stopped to let his team drink. As he stepped off the sled, one of the men dealt him a blow on the side of the head which nearly knocked him down. He jumped upon the sled, seized a chain, and with it leveled one of the parties and was about to pitch into the other, when his horses started upon the run, taking him out of the reach of the villains.

A WARNING is given in last week's Exeter News Letter, as follows:

Mrs. Elizabeth Elliot, begs and prays that those persons selling intoxicating drinks to her husband, will sell him no more (unless they intend to kill him.) She has notified them all, time and again, but they heed not. He spends all his earnings, and stays out almost every night till midnight, which unfits him entirely for labor, and his family can endure it no longer. If the like is continued, legal measures must be taken to prosecute every person in town who sells intoxicating drinks.

—In a velocipede race at New Bedford Mr. W. N. Allen made a quarter of a mile in 37 seconds, winning a prize of a silver cup.

Raising Calves.

At a late meeting of the Franklin, Mass., Farmers' Club, the President, Phineas Stedman, Esq., after advising farmers and dairymen to raise their own calves, gave the following as his method:—

The calves may be most economically fed by taking them from the cow during the first week. Having learned to drink new milk readily, skimmed milk, warmed to the temperature of new milk may be substituted gradually until, at three weeks old, the new milk may be withheld entirely. Oil meal and wheat bran should now be given, commencing with a table spoonful once a day. This should be scalded and allowed to stand a short time to swell. After a few days, the provender may be given at each meal, and the quantity increased at discretion.

It is of the utmost importance that calves, and indeed all young stock be kept in a thrifty, growing condition. It is much easier and cheaper to keep a young animal growing, than to bring it again into a flourishing condition after it has, by want of care or proper food, been allowed to stop growing. I prefer to rear calves which are dropped in autumn or early winter. At this season they are likely to receive better care, are better prepared to bear the cold of the succeeding winter, and until they arrive at maturity, hold an advance of several months, in age and size, over those which are dropped the following spring, while always classed of the same age.

Saved by clubbing together and buying COTTON CLOTH, DRESS GOODS, WOOLEN GOODS, HOSIERY; BLANKETS, SHAWLS, &c., &c., together with BOOTS and SHOES, BOOKS, CUTLERY, SILVER-PLATED WARE, CASTORS, FANCY GOODS, &c., of

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any articles on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Send for the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

☞ WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are entitled to the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to break down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar traderione." 4w

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. [$3.] 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving oval band. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. [$10.] 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth, one yard wide. Lady's or Gent's New Silver Hunting Case Watch. Fashionable Thibet Dress Pattern, Elegant Black Alpaca Dress Patern. One pair o. good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, fine, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Ivory Handled Steel Blade Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other purpose, don't FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dealer houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
29 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

apl1 eodly State Assayer for Massachusetts.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it places not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

GONE BEFORE.

There's a beautiful face in the silent air,
Which follows me ever and near,
With smiling eye and amber hair,
With voiceless lips, yet with breath of prayer
That I feel, but I cannot hear.

The dimpled hands and ringlets of gold
Lie low in a marble sleep;
I stretch my arms for the clasp of old,
But the empty air is strangely cold,
And my vigil alone I keep.

There's a sinless brow with a radiant crown
And a cross laid down in the dust;
There's a smile where not a shade comes now,
And tears no more from those dear eyes flow,
So sweet in their innocent trust.

Ah, well! and summer is coming again,
Singing her same old song;
But O, it sounds like a sob of pain,
As it floats in the sunshine and the rain,
O'er hearts of the world's great throng.

There's a beautiful region above the skies,
And I long to reach its shore,
For I know I shall find my treasure there;
The laughing eyes and amber hair
Of the loved one gone before.

GONE BEFORE.—The parting tribute of affection to the memory of a loved sister,—a young lady of the most amiable character and finest musical ability and culture,—on departing to her long home, a few days since, near Boston,—consisted, instead of the usual services, chiefly of the most exquisite dirge or requiem performances by the Mendelssohn Quintette Club, with strings exclusively. The gentlemen comprising the Club were most of them well acquainted with the lovely, almost ideal being, whose early demise their speaking, living instruments so eloquently mourned.

They commenced the exercises, and in the most impassioned tones, told the whole brief story of that varied but stricken young life, in music wierd and plaintive, at times unutterably sad, and to the appreciative soul, far more expressive and affecting than any mere words; and ending with a glorious aria of triumph, as indeed all lives such as hers must close. Then came a brief exhortation from the clergyman, without text or sacred passage other than that presented by the not less divine and inspired musicians who preceded him; prayer, and closing piece by the Band. The services, amid a profusion of the loveliest flowers, were especially fitting for the farewell of the loved one mourned; and it were comforting indeed, for the bereaved, could they imagine the departed hovering near her late happy home, to restore that family circle, and enjoy, in her exalted state, the exercises she so delighted in when here below.

To have known that fair girl, is a continual beatitude. To all who participated in that service, it will remain a benediction forever. F.

NO HIGHT THERE.

No night in that fair clime!—no setting sun,
No gathering shadows, no declining day;
No long, dark hours of weariness and gloom,
No anxious watching for the morning ray.

No night within those bright, celestial bowers,—
There summer reigns, crowned with immortal bloom;
No blighting blight steals o'er the fairest flowers
Within those courts, nor sin no death find room.

Through earthly mists there gleam the sapphire walls,
There countless harps thrill all the heavenly air;
Nor tone of discord inharmonious falls,
Nor voice of grief, nor sighing of despair.

No night!—for in those regions of the blest
There shines th' effulgence of a perfect day;
O blissful haven! home of glorious rest!
My earth-worn spirit longs so flee away!

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—The Rockingham Freewill Baptist Quarterly Meeting has just been held at Hampton. The churches were represented by delegates chosen for the purpose. Rev. I. D. Stewart, of Dover, introduced a proposition that females be chosen as delegates. It was voted for—8 to 2. But as many did not vote, it was reconsidered and referred to the next session.

The women of the Universalist denomination in Illinois are pledged to raise fifty thousand dollars with which to erect a collegiate building for the accommodation of women students at Galesburg, Illinois. A vigorous canvass of the whole State is to be made.

A TRUE WOMAN.—One of the most opulent and cultivated ladies of Boston recently saw a man working a horse with a large and bleeding wound on his back. She ordered her coachman to follow the team and learn the driver's name. A complaint was made at the Municipal Court, the lady took the witness stand and gave her testimony. The offender was fined thirty dollars. "Our Dumb Animals" have a true friend in that humane and heroic woman.—Transcript.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES. Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Nervous Wk, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is the most unquestionable medicine make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She failed to attend insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then supplied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and except to mark the lessening of the ulceration, as the days began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more of the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What medicine was used?—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required.—Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally strong, and quite enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective for female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

SWETT'S PATENT
STOVE SHELF REST!
TO HOUSEKEEPERS:
Something New!
FOR YOUR
COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE!
This Rest, which is received with great favor, fastens on the store for the purpose of sustaining SHELVES, which can be Raised or Lowered at pleasure, either SEPARATELY or TOGETHER, and which are made to swing directly over the stove or behind it, entirely out of the way.
This INDISPENSABLE ARTICLE supplies a want felt in every family, being useful in raising Bread or yeast, for holding Dishes when cooking; for drying Tin, Wooden Ware and articles of every description; for keeping Drinks and Food Warm without injury to the dish or food. It is also convenient to place a Lamp upon while cooking, in fact various and numerous are the uses to which it is put, proving itself a blessing which every housekeeper appreciates.
PHYSICIANS RECOMMEND IT. One of the greatest sources of Consumption and Colds is wet or damp feet. Upon these shelves Boots, Shoes, Stockings, Rubbers, Gloves, &c., are thoroughly Dried and Warmed, without danger of burning or scorching, as is often done for want of a suitable place to put either.
It is also of great advantage in Offices and Stores for warming and drying various articles without danger of burning.
Many are the TESTIMONIALS in its favor. It will speak for itself, and those who once have it will never be willing to part with it, and wonder how they ever did without it.

NATIONAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
Washington, D. C.
Chartered by Special Act of Congress.
APPROVED JULY 25, 1868.
CASH CAPITAL - - - $1,000,000.
PAID IN FULL.
Branch Office:
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA,
Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.
OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstanding which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

O'Baldwin, the prize fighted, is to be tried at Salem, Mass.

The small pox is raging terribly in California. San Francisco suffers severely from it, and in San Juan 400 out of a population of 1000 were taken down with it, of whom 100 died.

It is thought at the Treasury Department that the Government will not lose anything by the failure of the Merchants' National Bank at Little Rock, Ark. The amount owing by that bank at the time of its failure was less than $220,000, and will be covered by the securities in the hands of the Treasurer.

The treaty of peace between Greece and Turkey is signed.

The Maine Legislature has extended the time for the completion of the Portland Rochester Railroad to Jan. 1870.

Austria now allows a trial by jury in all cases of violation of the laws for the regulations of the Press.

There is a strong feeling at San Domingo for annexation to the United States.

Vinnie Ream has finished her plaster cast of President Lincoln.

Robert D. Pyke, of Fitchburg, Mass., is in jail charged with murdering his wife by poisoning.—Mrs. P. fell on the ice, Jan. 16, injuring her hip. He prepared all her food, for two days previous to her death, and brought it to her, as she lay in bed from her fall,—not suffering her daughter, Mrs. Evans, to do it. This daughter of Mrs. P. by a former husband, now confesses a connection with her step-father, for the past ten years. The whole case is one of the most sickening displays of crime. Mrs. Pyke was 65 years of age (25 years older than her husband) and formerly lived in Portsmouth.

Wooden Car Wheels, costing four times as much as those of cast iron, are used on one car on the Hudson River Railroad. They purport to be safer than the common wheel, and much less noisy; also, to save the wear of the rails.

Member of the New York Legislature found on each of their desks the other morning a large cake of soap.

A celebrated cliff in Denmark, the "Queen's Seat," has just fallen bodily into the Baltic from a shock of earthquake. The rock, about four hundred feet high, was an object of great interest to tourists from the magnificient view to be had from it.

Great Britain had a great gale on Monday. Many marine disasters are reported and much damage was done on the land.

A battle has taken place between the Turks and Montenegrins. No particulars.

Only 29 more days of Andrew Johnson.

Congress.

In the Senate, on Monday, the Committee on Indian Affairs reported the bill to transfer the Indian Bureau to the War Department, and recommended its indefinite postponement.

In the House, Mr. Spaulding of Ohio proposed an amendment to the Constitution in reference to the mode of choosing Electors for President and Vice President, and for Representatives in Congress. It proposes the creation of electoral districts, by Congress, in each State and sub-district, to choose an elector for President and Vice President.

Mr. Orth of Indiana introduced a resolution admitting San Domingo into the Union as a territory. Tabled, 110 to 62.

The bill appropriating $300,000 for the relief of the poor and destitute people of the District of Columbia was passed.

THE RESIDENCE OF THE PRESIDENT.—The Washington correspondent of the Detroit Tribune writes as follows:

Mrs. Grant wishes the General to retain the house they are living in now through his term, making it his private residence, and using the White House only for business and receptions. This is not a bad idea, as it is well known that our Presidents have been dreadfully harrassed by constant business calls. Harrison and Taylor were killed outright by it. Mrs. Grant's plan is (as it has been reported to me) for the General to receive business calls from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M., and spend the rest of his time with his family, and out of his business hours to persistently and peremptorily refuse to see anybody. Reception evenings, of course, he would, with his ladies, repair to the Executive Mansion.

☞ A very large amount is said to have been paid in this city within a short time, on Life Insurance Policies. We have heard it stated at $75,000 for four months. Capt. N. G. Weeks is said to have had $5,000, and John C. Philbrick $8,000.

New Hampshire Items.

A young man named Albert Chase, belonging in Stewarston, was found dead in bed in his boarding house at Lawrence on Wednesday morning, under circumstances which suggested that he had committed suicide by poison. He had been desponding for some time past.

The Exeter News Letter says that one Thomas O'Conner was arrested on Monday and jailed till Tuesday, when he was brought before J. J. Bell, Esq., and sentenced to five days' imprisonment and the payment of costs. This man has been guilty of extreme cruelty to his family, often lifting the children by the hair of their heads and beating them severely. It is said he actually tore his wife's scalp from her head on the day of his arrest. [If this latter statement were correct, the mann should have gone to jail for five years.]

H. C. Dorsey of Pawtucket, R. I., has sent the Warden of the New Hampshire State Prison a check for sixty-five dollars, to pay for a turkey and mince pie dinner for the convicts and officers of the institution and their families on the 31st.

On Saturday, as Mr. Merrill from Dover, an old gentleman aged 83 years, was transporting ten bee-hives with bees and honey therein from Dover to Amesbury, Mass., he overturned his load on the road, near the residence of C. N. Healey, Esq., in Stratham, scattering his bees and honey, and putting his shoulder out of joint. A few of the bees took to flight, and the remainder were scooped up with most of the honey, and placed in the hives.—News Let.

Mr. John H. Pearson of Concord, who was a Senatorial candidate of the Democratic party last year, declines she honor this year,—mainly because he was cheated last year, as he says, "by the treachery of a man claiming to be a Democrat, and often honored by the party, the infamy of whose treachery was only equalled by the characteristic secrecy with which it was accomplished."

In the S. J. Court at Concord, the jury disagreed on the case State vs. Benj. Greene, et als., for assault committed on Town Meeting Day at Bow, on Perley S. Chase, a lawyer of Concord, who went there in the interest of republicanism, to look after the check list. In the Police Court, Greene, et als. were fined, —but appealed, with this result. Bow is a copperhead Sebastopol; — and it was very natural to make such an assault, and also for kindred spirits to disagree.

A LIVELY DEACON.—Friday morning the venerable Deacon Hosmer of Acton, went to his barn cellar as usual, for the purpose of letting out the fowls which are there sheltered during the night. On opening the door he discovered an unusual commotion within, and a strange looking customer in possession and apparently "ruling the roost." It proved to be "Reynard," an old acquaintance of our juvenile readers. The Deacon called his wife, who guarded the hole where the fox found entrance, and then went in himself with a hickory stick, and after a long and lively chase dispatched the animal, amid the general applause of the feathered spectators.

The Drying House, for lumber belonging to the Print Works in Manchester, was burnt last Saturday night, with its contents. The fire was probably kindled from the furnace, used for drying the wood.

— It was stated last week, in the trial, Bartlett vs. Hooksett, that the pen which contained the hogs that grunted at the horse that drew the wagon that contained the people going to Sandown, had been in the road since 1847. The verdict rendered for the plaintiff, last Saturday, in this action was large enough to keep towns upon the watch against defective highways, and so small as to afford little encouragement to commence actions unless all the circumstances are in favor of plaintiffs.

☞ The Dover Gazette states that $2000, in a bill of costs, are to be paid by somebody who wished to have Mr. Abbot preach in the Unitarian Church after he ceased to be a Unitarian; also, that the church will probably be opened for worship, as usual, after parish meeting.

AN EFFICIENT JURIST.—We think it would be well to leave the terminal letter off Judge Doe's name in future, for he often dispatches more business in a day than some others of the ermine can do in a week. The Exeter News Letter, after reporting that the Judge pushed through, in one day, the second trial of Kingston vs. Towle, which before occupied three days, remarks:

And here let it be said to the credit of Judge Doe (and we say it with all due respect), that he possesses a faculty for the prompt disposition of the public business, which as an example should excite the emulation of some of the older and less exacting members of the N. H. bench.

Monday week, on account of the illness of counsel (Mr. Hatch of Portsmouth) in the cases announced for trial, and no other cases being ready, Judge Doe, after stating to the bar that hereafter cases could not be postponed by reason of sickness of counsel, ordered the court to be adjourned till Wednesday morning, as before reported.

☞ Rev. T. H. Miller is to preach at Fremont next Sundsy.

NOBODY'S DAUGHTER.—Zion's Herald claims the Freewill Baptist Church, as the daughter of the Methodist; the Watchman and Reflector claims her as the daughter of the Baptist Church. But the Morning Star (Freewill Baptist paper) says she is the Daughter of Neither, but was begun, de novo, by Benjamin Randall.

WALTHAM WATCHES.—The superior value of American watches above all others is too well understood, in this country at least, to need further illustration. Foreign watches being conceded on all hands to have been fairly beaten, not only in the market, but in the pocket, the question now is, which of of the American-made watches is best and really cheapest?

The Waltham manufacture has deservedly made its way to an immense business, in the face of violent and persistent opposition. Through a period of fifteen years it has steadily and regularly advanced—the last year's sale having been considerably larger than those of any preceding year. The secret of this is that the watches have stood the test of enduring and general trial; they are found to be good in the long run as well as the short, and to be generally, as well as exceptionally, good.

No other establishment in the world ever sold in the fifteenth, or any year of its existence, seventy-five thousand watches, as this has done during the year just closed. The truth is, the Waltham Company began by resolving to make a first-class article, and they have continued to do so, and have spared no pains or expense to keep that fact before the public. For further information in regard to this subject, we refer the reader to the business card of the Company in another place.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may lead to fatal diseases. Bearing this in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antiseptic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more, perhaps, than is required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the daily tax laid upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material of the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome element. If, on the other hand, there is a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nineteen cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting fits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which humanity is subject, proceed primarily from derangements of the digestive organs; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual article, he does make more money on the sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual article, he does make more money on the sale, and is still the gainer through larger and liveller sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our interests, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, there have been made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask the owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those looking to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to sell our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the UnitedStates put together. We are, therefore, ENABLED TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we found on our hand, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for the trade, other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, speedily, when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to increase the pain and soreness. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"s ipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and cried out "every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the pail, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be cruelly burned.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease, and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the night sweats, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Catarrhal Consumption, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, and Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, cleansed from inflammation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what matter is it to Dr. Schenck if only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance left is to give Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient goes finally yard well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and many of his friends of many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 50 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale Agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y ja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?—As we have before stated, Hon. John Wentworth, of Chicago, has recently written a History of the Wentworth Family, which we have incidentally heard will be comprised in two elegant volumes of about 700 pages each; of which the cost is stated at $16,000 or $18,000—and this, we presume, is for a small edition for private and family circulation only.—Mr. W. is a gentleman of wealth and culture, and fond of genealogical research. In his ransacking of the ancient records, he ascertained the founder of the family to be Reginald Wentworth, in England, 800 years ago.

And just as he was closing his work, he was in correspondence with Col. Frank G. Wentworth of this city; and learning just in the nick of time, that there was an extremely juvenile—very youthful scion sprouted on that branch of the family tree, he immediately took the responsibility of bestowing the original cognomen of Reginald on the hope and pride of our old friends the Colonel and his estimable lady, and closing the book, wrote them what he had done!—stating that he wanted the record to close as it opened, with Reginald Wentworth.

It is singular enough, that the historian found no case of the name intervening between the first and last; but not more strange, perhaps, than that the baby should be thus named without any assistance from or trouble to his pa and ma—who we believe have concluded to let the little fellow carry this ponderous title down through the ages. With a vive for Reginald, we also close as we began, by asking, What's in a name?

THIEVES DETECTED AND ARRESTED. We are glad to hear and to record, that the perpetrators of numerous cases of stealing at Concord, have at length been secured. On Friday Officer Connell arrested William Kirley, only eighteen years old, at Manchester, on a complaint for breaking and entering the store of C. C. Webster in Concord. On Saturday Marshal Pickering went to Bow, and arrested, on a similar complaint, Samuel Shearer, a married man thirty-two years old. On Monday the two offenders were arraigned before the Police Court at Concord. Shearer acknowledged that he and Kirley broke into and robbed the stores of Mr. Webster, C. C. Flanders and E. W. Woodward & Co., all in Concord: also owned up to thefts committed at the Sherman House. Both were bound over for trial. It is expected that the above arrests will throw light on other cases of thieving at Concord. Kirley and Shearer both reside in that city. The former had recently been working on a railroad repair train. The latter is a laborer and an intemperate man, but had never before been suspected of criminal acts.—City Marshal Pickering and his associate officers are entitled to much credit for the skilful manner in which they worked up the cases.

We, in Portsmouth, must not forget, —when we please ourselves with the thought that stealing is a rare thing here,—that we have escaped this evil for a few past years, mainly because of the vigilance and skill of our Watchmen by night, and our Marshals and Police, and the U. S. Detective, both night and day. We think the cost of these officers, and of the City Mission, which is another great check on roguery, is well spent, as it no doubt prevents much evil. And of course we did not approve the penny wise and pound foolish economy which proposed last year to cut down and virtually dispense with both watch and police.

☞ The time for the grand Distribution of splendid Horses, Carriages, Harnesses, &c., by J. H. Ferguson & Co., of this city, is Feb. 18th. Tickets at $1 may be had of the managers, and we understand are selling very fast. Persons far or near may rely on all being done on the square, and somebody will get the superb Lady Palmer and Lady Cram for a dollar, each—the two being valued at $3,500.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.—A Convention of the Churches that have joined in the Union Prayer Meetings in this city, with Churches from the neighboring towns, will be held in the North Church to-day (Wednesday.) The Rev. Mr. Langworthy and Judge Chamberlain of Boston are to be present. Services at 10 1-4 o'clock A. M., 2 and 7 1-2 P. M.

THE COLD WEATHER following the thaw of Saturday, has made fine skating on both ponds, and the merry participants in this health-giving sport have found it out, and throng to the glittering ice by scores and hundreds, day and evening, making the air resound with their hilarity.

☞ Mr. Elihu Dennett, drover, of this city, was bitten by a hog a few days since.

THE EPISCOPAL CHAPEL, on State Street, which always was one of the most unique and beautiful buildings in this city exteriorly, is now being fitted in the interior in a very rich and tasteful manner. The vestibule at the front has been much lessened in size, and the space saved taken into the main room, giving a recess on one side for the stove, and on the other for the S. S. Library.

At the rear, the wall has been carried back several feet, to the extreme line of Hon. R. Jenness' estate,—which affords room for a chancel niche, with handsomely covered reading desk, &c., in the centre of that end; at one side of which is a recess for the famous ancient organ, long used here, which is now placed with one side to the audience; and on the other hand, is a like recess or room for the Parish Library.

The Chapel is to be furished with reversible S. S. settees of black walnut, similar to those in the Unitarian Chapel, for accommodation of classes; and when nicely carpeted, and with the new stained glass windows, the dado of walnut at the sides, and all complete, the effect must be pleasing indeed. At the rear, the splendid illuminated window of the chancel, which cost $250, is the gift of the Sunday School children, by penny contributions; as also, we believe, are the beautiful emblematic circles of bright colored glass, blue and crimson, over the side windows. Of these windows there are eight, of the French, or double sash pattern, all of stained glass, —which will be a most elegant and distinctive feature of this neat and stylish little Chapel.

The design of these improvements is largely that of Col. J. W. Pierce, senior Warden and Treasurer of St. John's Church, under whose personal supervision most of the work has been done, and of course in a thorough and reliable manner. We are pleased to know he has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness, to resume the oversight of the finish; and trust the Society may find much enjoyment and profit with their new Rector, both in Church and Chapel.

UNDER WHICH KING?—Biddeford has long been a Democratic city. But the same idle talk of high taxes, reducing expenses, Citizen's tickets, &c., obtains there as here and elsewhere. The fact is, it is rather difficult to make all the improvements desired, and spend a great deal of money, unless it be raised somewhere. The Biddeford Journal asks:

After Mayor Haines who? This seems to be a question already being agitated, as our local election approaches. A citizens' candidate has been spoken of, and if some good man could be procured to run upon that ticket, who would have in view a determination to conduct the interests of the city with honesty and economy, and identify himself with the external advantage which the city merits, he would no doubt receive a majority of the votes in the coming election. The exorbitant manner in which the expenses of the city are at present administered, should call for a careful consideration before the caucus sends the decision, as to who are to be the candidates.

☞ Whitmore and Clark's Minstrels, of whom notice will be found in our advertising columns, announce a Concert at the Temple for next Tuesday evening. This troupe is perhaps not very well known here, but throughout the country they are, and have a high reputation. An exchange before us from which we quote, says "their singing is of the first order, and their jokes original and pointed, and give no offence to the bluest descendant of the Pilgrim Fathers."

The non-appearance of Haverly's Minstrel Troupe last week, caused a break in the chain; but never before during a season, we think, have we had more good entertainments here, than this winter,—fully as many as would "pay," we believe, either for the exhibitors or the public.

☞ The first brood of Chickens in the State, probably, (9 Brahmas,) came to hand Jan. 29th, at a suburban residence near this city.

The Evening of the Regular Meeting of the MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION is changed to WEDNESDAY at ½ to 8 o'clock, by vote of the Association. E. WASHINGTON BROWN.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!
LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED
PERFECTED SPECTACLES
and Eye Glasses.
The large and increasing sales of these SUPERIOR GLASSES
Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.
With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.
Mr. J. F. SHORES, Jr., Bookseller,
Has always on hand a full assortment, suitable for every difficulty.
We take occasion to notify the public that we employ no peddlers, and to caution them against those pretending to have our goods for sale.

1000 MILES
UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD
ARE NOW COMPLETED.
As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but
267 MILES REMAIN
To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.
Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.
By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.
THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST
ARE
Payable in Gold.
Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.
SECURITY OF THE BONDS.
It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,900,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN
FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,
The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,977.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.
As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.
Subscriptions will be received in
PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—

And by the Company's Advertised Agents thro'out the United States.
Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.
A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM
IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Morning Chronicle.

Written for the Chronicle and Gazette.

A WHALERS' LAW-SUIT.

Among American whalemen in the Arctic and Pacific Oceans and the Ochotsk Sea, it is laid down as a law, that "craft claims whales": that is, that a harpoon in a whale gives the ship owning the harpoon the ownership of the whale—"craft" being the technical name for the harpoons, lances, &c., employed in fishing. Thus, if a whale should go adrift from alongside one ship and be picked up by another, the first one would be entitled to the fish, provided she could prove ownership of any iron or irons in his blubber. This is whalers' law—lawyers' law may be very different, for aught I know. I remember one case in which this law was most grossly defied, although, I am happy to say, the keen arguments employed by the aggrieved parties finally convinced the aggressors of their fault, and ended in a triumph for law and order, and the restoration of the whale.

In July, 1854, the bow-boat of the ship to which the writer belonged, and in which boat he had the honor to be bow-oarsman, killed a small bow-head (a species of right whale, but much thicker in proportion to its length, and of a more glossy black color,) in a little bay some twenty miles from the ship, late in the afternoon, and anchored it for the night, intending to return in the morning with other boats, and tow the whale to the ship. During the night however, the breeze freshened and drove us off shore, and we did not get back to our anchorage again until the evening of the third day following.—Next morning we were up at daylight, and away to see after our prize, carrying the bomb-lance gun to fire as a signal for the other boats to come and assist in towing, if we found it.

As we pulled down along the coast, looking for the entrance of the bay in which our whale had been left, we saw another whaler at anchor, though we could not see that any of her boats were down. We easily found the bay, and found the fish with less trouble than we had expected, for, as we rounded a bluff which projected on one side of the entrance, we came upon a strange boat, towing a whale which had certainly been dead for several days. This was pleasing. We were almost sure that the whale belonged to us, but we could not very well prove it. Our irons were in his back, which was under water, and if the anchor and rope were in the other boat they were concealed from us. We didn't like to lose this—the first prize our boat had taken—and if our feelings toward the interloping boat's crew had been analyzed, I suppose that Christian forgiveness would not have been found to predominate. We pulled up as close alongside the other boat as we could without fouling our oars, and, as her crew ceased pulling, we did the same, and the officers opened a conversation.

"What ship's boat's that?" said our enemy—for so we regarded him.

"H——'s, of New Bedford, —bow-boat," was the answer. "What ship's boat's that?"

"Tiger's, of Nantucket, —larboard (meaning the first mate's) boat," said the enemy—but he gave us a false name. "What luck has the H——— had?"

"Not very good; but I see you've commenced pretty early—got a forty-barrel fish there."

"O, I killed this fellow the other day, before this last blow came on—got blown off, and couldn't get in since."

"That's funny! I killed that same whale myself, four days ago, and anchored him at the bottom o' this very bay."

This last remark of our officer was the match in the magazine. The "Tiger's" mate flared up at once, and opened the case by calling Mr. S. a liar, to which Mr. S. retorted by calling him a "confounded sneakin' thief." The boatsteerers and boats' crews joined in the debate, which was quite animated, each one striving to shout louder and talk faster than the rest. Both boatsteerers were standing up, and one of our men, watching a chance when the rival boatsteerer was looking away, darted a paddle at him, which hit him under the ear.

This was the opening of actual hostilities, and the boatsteerer, enraged at what he considered an insult, poised his iron for a dart, and sent it at the fairest mark he could see—our boatsteerer, Bill. He made a good dart, and Bill had to spring back to avoid it, throwing up his arm as he did so, and receiving a slight cut from the edge of the harpoon as it passed over his head. This assault started Bill's wrath, and he returned the compliment in such good style that the opposition boatsteerer, in his endeavor to get out of the way, fell overboard. His officer was trying to get a lance clear of its hooks, to take a part in this new line of argument, but Mr. S. was too quick for him, and made a splendid dart with a boat-spade (a terrible weapon) at his opponent's breakfast, and he too had to take to the water to save his life.

Now was our chance. Mr. S. swept the stern of our boat towards the other, a few stern strokes of the oars ran the boats together, and while the other boat's crew were engaged in getting their officer and boatsteerer into the boat again, Mr. S. leaned over the side, cut the towline adrift from their logger-head and took it to ours, and by the time they had got their men all right we had got possession of the fish, and Mr. S. was flourishing the big lance-gun as a terror to all evil-disposed lawbreakers. Probably the Tiger's men would have had a little fun with their irons and lances before yielding to the fortune of war, had it not been for the big gun; to be sure, it contained only powder, but they didn't know but what there was a bomb-lance in the dangerous-looking weapon, and so they contented themselves with calling us thieving swabs, cursing us roundly, and pulling away for their ship.

A short tow took us out clear of the headlands, and as soon as we were in sight of the ship Mr. S. fired the lance-gun, to notify those on board to come and help tow. We were at least six miles from the vessel, but the day was cold and clear, and sound often travels a most surprising distance in that part of the world; and but a few minutes elapsed before we saw the boats coming down to lend a hand at the tow.—The other ship was not more than four miles away, but her mate had to pull clear aboard to get assistance. He set his "whift," (a small blue flag used to signal that a boat has fastened,) but it was not heeded by those on board his ship, for they were puzzled at seeing his oars going all the time. As soon as he reached the vessel more boats were lowered, and they came down for us, to persuade us to restore the whale; but our boats arrived while they were still a mile or more distant, and two of them joined the tow, (having first got irons, lances and boat-spades ready for use,) while the first mate, Mr. C., having loaded the lance-gun with a paper of tacks and a jack-knife, and collected everything that would answer for missiles, pulled a few hundred yards nearer the enemy, to give him a taste of our quality as soon as he was within range.

But he evidently didn't like the appearance of things, and, after apparently holding a short consultation, his boats separated and pulled for the shore, to try to get a fish in a more legitimate fashion,—Mr. C., hooked on to the head of our line of boats, to tow-ed the whale alongside, and before dusk we had got his jacket in our blubber-room, and found proof that we had right on our side in the dispute, in the shape of two irons stamped with our ship's name and the bow-boat's mark.

Several days after this occurrence our boat happened to be pretty near our neighbor, and Mr. S. determined to go for our anchor and rope. We pulled up to the ship and he hailed, enquiring for our gear; we were invited on board the N——, of New London, had a glass of grog and a friendly yarn, got our rope and anchor and a decided compliment for our moderate and forbearing conduct about the whale, and went back to our own vessel with a high opinion of the worth of our entertainers. We whaled in their company all the rest of the season, and had many a hearty laugh over our "Whalers' Law-Suit."

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Tea direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, A saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 10 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing, labor and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders.

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which we send to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WHITE HOUSE BLANKETS, or what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL. Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories of a large block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as 'familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are universally by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to advance, as for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

New is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CLUB OF THIRTY. [$3.] 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth. Photograph Album, 100 pictures, elegant Morocco Binding. Revolving oval band. Silver-Plated Table Castor, 5 bottles. Ladies' Dress Pattern. A Lady's richly-ornamented Black Walnut Writing Desk. Fancy Cassimere Pants Pattern. Large, White, all Linen Table Cover. White Lancaster Counterpane. 20 yards Calico. Albumbleed Gold Quilt. Ladies' Morocco Shopping Bag. Good Cottage Clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. [$6.] 42 yards Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. Fashionable Dress Pattern. 3½ yards wool Cassimere for Pants and Vest Pattern. Fashionable woolen Shawl. White Marseilles Counterpane. Ladies' large Genuine Morocco Shopping Bag. Ladies' Fancy Morocco Cloak Pattern. Pair good white woolen Blankets. Black Alpaca Dress Pattern. 4 yards double-width waterproof Cloaking. Partlets and Pattern of good wool Crocking. Rosewood Brass Alarm Clock. Lady's Fur Muff. Set Misses' Furs, Muff and Collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. [$10.] 65 yards good Bleached or Unbleached Cotton Cloth. One pair good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, thick, Bleached Linen Table Covers. One pair o. good white woolen Blankets, large size. Lady's Fashionable Double woolen Shawl. Two large, thick, Bleached Linen Table Covers, with one dozen large sized Dinner Napkins to match. 25 yards Hemp Carpeting. 7½ yards fine Cassimere for suit. One dozen Tempered Steel Blued Table Knives and Forks. One dozen Rogers' best Silver Plated Forks on white metal. Portable Sewing and Embroidering Machine. 7½ yards double-width Waterproof Cloaking. Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents dealing with us as named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for other houses, TO PAY FAIR TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND MAMMOTH EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their friends and foreign friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B. Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises. Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO.,
No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston,

JOHN E. ROBERTS, Agent for Portsmouth.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

THE DUTCHMAN'S HEN.

"If she will, she will—you may depend on't:
And if she won't, she won't—and there's an end on't."

Once with an honest Dutchman walking,
About his troubles he was talking—
The most of which seemed to arise
From friends' and wife's perversities.
When he took breath, his pipe to fill,
I ventured to suggest, that will
Was oft the cause of human ill,
That life was full of self-denials,
And every man had his own trials.

"'Tis not the will," he quick replied,
"But it's the won't by which I'm tried.
When people will, I'm always glad;
'Tis only when they won't I'm mad!
Contrary folks, like mine old hen,
Who laid a dozen eggs, and then,
Instead of sitting down to hatch,
Runs off into mine garden patch!

I goes and catches her and brings her,
And back on her nest I flings her;
And then I snaps her on the head
And tell her: 'Sit there, you old jade!'
But sit she won't for all I say,
She's up again and runs away.

Then I was mad, as mad as fire,
But once again I thought I'd try her,
So after her I soon makes chase,
And brings her back to her old place,
And then I snaps her a great deal,
And does my best to make her feel
That she must do as she was bid;
But not a bit of it she did.
She was the most contrariest bird
Of which I ever saw or heard.

Before I'd turn my back again,
Was running off, that cursed hen.
Thinks I, I'm now a 'used up, man,'
I must adopt some other plan.
I'll fix her now, for if I don't,
My will is conquered by her won't!
So then I goes and gets some blocks,
And with them makes a little box;
And takes some straw the very best,
And makes the nicest kind of nest;
Then in the nest the eggs I place,
And feel a smile upon my face
As I thinks now at last I've got her;
For to this little box I did
Consider I must have a lid,
So that she couldn't get away;
But in it, till she hatched must stay.

And then again, once more I chased her,
And catched and in the box I placed her,
Again I snaps her on the head,
Until I fear she might be dead;
And then, when I had made her sit down,
Immediately I claps the lid on.
And now, thinks I, I've got her fast,
She'll have to do his work at last,
No longer shall I stand the brunt
Of this old hen's confounded won't!

So I goes in and tells my folks,
And then I takes my pipe and smokes,
And walks about and feels so good
That 'wouldn't' yield at length to 'would,'
And he so oft I'd snapped the hen,
I takes some 'schnapps' myself, and then
I thought I'd see how the old critter
Was getting on where I had set her;
The lid the box so nicely fits on
I gently raised—dunder and blitzen!
(Give me more schnapps, and fill the cup!)
There she was sitting—standing up!

DAN'S DINNER.

A TRUE STORY.

Dan is a watch dog in an iron foundry, and is always fed by his master at one o'clock. Dan knows the time, and is as punctual as the clock, waiting in the appointed place with an air of calm satisfaction delightful to behold. The other day, his master came in with the meat, but was called away at the instant; and, as it was not quite time, he hung it up on a nail, meaning to return directly. Dan didn't like that arrangement; but sat down and waited, with a resigned expression, both funny and pathetic.

The clock struck, but no one came; and Dan barked, to remind his master that dinner waited. Master didn't hear; and there hung the delicious meat, just out of reach, in the most tantalizing manner. Dan bore it as long as he could; thought over his wrongs; and growled his opinion, that it was a mean shame to keep a hard-working fellow waiting when he was ravenously hungry.

Presently, he made up his mind that he wouldn't bear it. He had a right to that meat, and he would have it, in spite of other people's neglect. Up he jumped; took a good look; gave a spring, and—didn't get it. Over and over he tried, growling excited as he leaped up and bounced down, each time getting just one momentary sniff, as he snapped and missed.

One of the workmen, attracted by the noise, peeped in at a window behind him, and enjoyed the fun, wondering when Dan would give up. But Dan had no thoughts of giving up, for "Nil desperandum" was his motto; so, he jumped and pawed and snatched, till he was exhausted, then sat down to consider the matter.

Being a sensible dog, he soon had a bright idea, and astonished the watcher by dragging and pushing, with teeth and head, a chair to the wall, just under the meat. Having fixed it to his mind, he stepped into it, reached up, and with a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, brought down the meat. He surveyed it with an air of pride, as well he might, after such a struggle for it, and then devoured it with a relish which hunger and hard work always give one's meals; while the man went away to tell the story, and glorify sensible old Dan.—L. M. Alcott.—Merry's Museum.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.

(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever discovered, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Nervous Irritability, Sleeplessness, Painful Menses—all yield to its magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, bearing down the system, and give caste to remaining days.—Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, preserving the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination revealed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily fainting. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general system. It was inconvenient to see her frequently, and expect to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result was completely justified my expectations. In less than a month the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting fits became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminished, her sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued to use the Nervine for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required—since her recovery she has enjoyed perfect health, and seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never boasts of a medicine, but she does give her such cordial and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insured as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, FEB. 4, 1869.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.—The campaign of '69 (says a friendly cotemporary) is fairly opened. Both parties are in the field with their candidates and platforms asking for the approval and suffrages of their fellow citizens. In less than six weeks the decision must be made. The contest must of necessity be brief. — Whether it is to be an earnest one, determined and closely fought, remains to be seen. It is, however, always safe for the Republicans of this State to assume that their opponents will make a strong fight. We can promise ourselves nothing from their inactivity or want of enthusiasm.

Our opponents have grown wiser than they were a year ago. They have seen the necessity of concealing their true principles, and the hopelessness of success without new leaders. Hence the withdrawal from their ticket of their old disloyal and partizan candidates, to give place to men of far less ability yet better record. Hence a sugar-coated platform, as full of meaningless generalities as the Queen's speech, from which every distinctive characteristic of modern Democracy is studiously suppressed.

We have no objections, except of a public nature, against the candidates on the Democratic State ticket. We cheerfully concede their personal worth, and gratefully acknowledge their patriotic services in behalf of their country rather than party during the rebellion. As faithful and meritorious soldiers, Republicans honor them far beyond their appreciation in their own ranks. But their personal merits are not on trial.—If they were, there is no reason why Republicans should vote for them when their own candidates are equally patriotic and worthy, and of far greater ability for good.

Col. Stearns has a character for loyalty and integrity above suspicion. As a financier, he is immeasurably superior to Gen. Bedel. His experience and unequalled business characteristics will be invaluable to the State in its present exigencies. His competitor would only bring incapacity, or at best inexperience.

A year ago the Democracy refused to nominate Gen. Bedel on account of his Union sympathies. They take him now only as an experiment, hoping under a patriotic guise to win unthinking and surface-seeing dupes. With all their fair seeming, they are the same old proslavery, rebel-sympathizing party of the past. Mask their treason as they will, put forward what leaders they may, their success will be the triumph of the old Pierce-Buchanan Democracy that bro't the nation to the brink of dissolution.

It will be long before a party with such a record, unchanged and unrepentant, will find favor in New Hampshire. The people have tried them and found them wanting; and though they may individually esteem and honor the patriotic few who still adhere to their fallen fortunes, they never will risk the liberties and restored prosperity of the nation into the hands of these enemies to liberty and progress.

It is said that some of the leading copperheads in the party dislike the new nominations; it may be true; but we should not count too much upon it.

The News.

Mons. Chevalier, a Swiss aeronaut, is in New York making preparations for a balloon voyage to Europe.

There are 542 daily and 4422 weekly papers in the United States.

Arkansas is more orderly since it has been under martial law.

Mina Rausch, a German girl 12 years of age, has been in a trance for three weeks.

Hon. Marshall Jewell has been renominated as the Republican candidate for Governor of Connecticut.

The English army and navy are to be reduced.

Bangor is excited over velocipedestrianism.

Gen. Grant favors the proposed new Constitutional amendment.

The N. Y. Tribune strongly denounces the Alabama treaty, and says it subjects Reverdy Johnson at London, and Mr. Andrew Johnson at Washington, to the imputation of having agreed together to sacrifice at once American rights and American honor.

☞ In the S. J. Court at Exeter on Saturday, the case Janvrin vs. Deputy Sheriff Fogg was decided in favor of the plaintiff.

The next case on trial, Perkins of Exeter, vs. Blake of Kensington, to recover value of note which plaintiff bought of a third party, was given to the jury on Wednesday.

New Hampshire Items.

Mr. Loud, of Bethel Me., hung himself in his stable, Thursday. He was about 55 years of age, and had been for some time in feeble health and partially insane. He removed to Bethel from Dalton, a few months since.

A teamster in Nashua, named Allen, some years ago, while in California, invested a few dollars in a piece of land, never expecting to make a fortune from the purchase. He left in the hands of an agent, who has recently sent Mr. Allen ten thousand dollars as the first payment on its sale. It is reported the property brought $100,000.

At Gorham there are four brothers whose combined weight is 966 pounds.

On the 25th, the large two story house belonging to Nathan Pulsifer of South Deerfield took fire in some unascertained manner and was entirely consumed. Only a small portion of the household furniture was saved. Insured for $500; loss probably twice that amount.

In Warren recently E. B. Libbey, 2d, found a "yard" near the base of Moosilauk Mountain. There were three deer in it, all of which he captured, with the assistance of another person.

CONGRESSMAN ELA, is still at work unearthing the frauds which have been carried on at the Interior Department at Washington. Among other things 46 caveat books have been charged and paid for since February, 1868, at $40 and $41 each, while not one of them can be found in the office. This is a book of printed forms, which could be of no use outside the office, as testified to by all parties.

Five hundred and eighteen thousand printed blanks, consisting of letters, decisions, &c., were charged and paid for, when less than 200,000 could be accounted for by the requirements of the office.

Of file wrappers, 80,000 were charged and paid for at a cost of $57 per thousand, and after making liberal estimates for those used and on hand, 18,000 cannot be accounted for.

Of Manilla and large brown envelopes, 9 by 12, 145,000 were charged and paid for, while the quantity on hand and used could not exceed 40,000, leaving unaccounted for 105,000.

Of cards for models 150,000 were charged and paid for at $40 per thousand, while but 40,000 can be accounted for as used and on hand, leaving 110,000 unaccounted for.

The above articles could be of no use anywhere but in the legitimate business of the Patent Office, as sworn to by all parties.

Vast quantities of other articles cannot be accounted for in the office, but as they might have been made useful elsewhere may have been purloined.

Secretary Browning has endeavored to cloak this rascally system of plunder, but Mr. Ela persevered until he unveiled it, and has also shown how contracts have been made in the Interior Department. For example, a firm in Washington have been paid in advance $28,080 for 351,000 sheets of bond paper. The highest market value of this was $7020, leaving $21,060 profit. It is hardly probable that some one besides the stationers did not share these spoils. To prevent a recurrence of such wholesale plundering, Mr. Ela has prepared a bill which will secure the purchases of stationery for the Department by contracts awarded to the lowest bidders by the Joint Committee on Printing of Congress, as they now receive bids for and award the paper contract.

Congress.

In the Senate, on Tuesday, the Committee on Judiciary were discharged from the further consideration of petitions for woman's suffrage.

The Consular and Diplomatic appropriation bill was brought up.

An interesting debate on Senator Patterson's amendment to reduce the appropriation for the payment (annually) of Judges and Arbitrators appointed under the treaty with Great Britain for the suppression of the slave trade, from $12,500 to $450, resulted in the defeat of the amendment. A Senator stated that Hon. Truman Smith, the Judge resident in New York, was too aged and infirm, and Senator Davis brought down the house by stating that Judge Smith was recently the father of a pair of twins, and he regarded this as proof that the old gentleman was not dead.

LEGISLATIVE JOKE.—Last Friday the entire Chicago delegation of the Illinois House of Representatives (except two) went home to spend Saturday and Sunday, on the plea of "consulting their constituents about the lake front and the park measures;" whereupon a Mr. Cook introduced a bill "to incorporate the Farmers' Elevator Company, and to cede the city of Chicago to the States of Indiana and Wisconsin," which, "amid roars of laughter, was read a third time and passed—ayes 76 nays 9." Having accomplished this stroke of facetiousness, the House next incorporated the Illinois Elevator Company, with powers fully defined in section 2, namely, "To elevate the shirt collar of the gentleman from Pike."

—The customs of Chicago are peculiar. The Chicago Republican says: "A gentleman last evening, on an Indiana abenue car, sat composedly with his ar us extended at right angles from his body, and a female reposing gracefully upon each manly breast. Whether one of the ladies was his wife and the other his sister, or one his sister and the other his wife, or whether both were his wives, or both his sisters, or both somebody else's sisters, or both somebody else's wives, was not made apparent by the quiet conversation of the interested and interesting trio."

—Signor Romero, who was Mexican Minister for some years, has written to a friend that the Juarez government is becoming stronger every day, and that it is the firmest government that Mexico has had for over a quarter of a century.

—Southbridge, Me., has a schoolboy named Andy Johnson, who is regularly "licked" by his schoolmates on account of his name. Rather hard on the boy, but indicative of a healthy state of political sentiment in that school district.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antiseptic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more, perhaps, than is required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material or the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome element. If, on the other hand, there is a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nineteen cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting-fits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which humanity is subject, proceed primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that although the jeweler does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and ready sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale to such customers at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the uninitiated purchaser to buy other a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be deceived by such talk, the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and city of the country the careful wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: "HAS THIS WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer to this question. As to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell our productions at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL, TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY. AND PERFECTION. We have had the renewal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those that have shown themselves to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services have proved of importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country. In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

Our Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit which more reasonable by competition the Company invariably decline orders of a similar character.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some quotical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or Bowels, no matter how chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"
ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In dumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe it cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he thereon applied another. In a few days another thing gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. 4238

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, makes the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesions, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not right to think that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is personally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

BUCHU.

[From Dispensatory of the United States.]

DIOSMA CRENATA—BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish, and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate Gland, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-Wetting in Children.

In affections peculiar to females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulceration, or Cancerous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhea, or Whites.

DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, AND DROPSY.—In these diseases this medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions and all Morbid Material from the urine are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

CONTROVERSY, merely for the sake of a dispute, is undesirable; but when important truth is attacked or descried, the lovers of truth should defend; and generally some one or more of them will do so. When great falsehoods are told, against ourselves, or friends, or associates, political or otherwise, we may contradict, or disprove, if we please: but we may, also, in many instances, pass by such things without comment or notice; partly because to those who know us and ours, no contradiction is needful, and partly, sometimes, because the author may be so notorious a falsifier that his word weighs but little. True, some persons might like to see a sharp discussion on paper; but often, when we see a chance for such work, we raise the question, Cui Bono? and let it pass unnoticed. Because a blustering charge or challenge goes unanswered,—it does not follow, always, or generally, that it is unanswerable.—The ravings of a madman, and the babblings of a fool, are not always worthy of answer, tho' Solomon thinks the latter may be, in some cases.

STOLEN GOODS.—City Marshal Johnson, who is always on the watch for rascals, got on the track of a rough looking pedestrian who came to this city on Tuesday afternoon, with a pack on his back and his arms full of goods. The Marshal took the road to Greenland by way of Islington street, and missed the new comer, who took to the railroad at the Creek. He evidently got frightened or had warning of the intentions of the Marshal, for on arriving near the Kearsarge Mills the supposed thief rushed into a shed by the railroad, on McDonough street, and left all his plunder with the exception of the pack which he was carrying on his back.

He then made tracks for the State of Maine and was seen in Kittery on Wednesday. Marshal Johnson found and took possession of the articles in the shed spoken of above, on Wednesday morning, viz; an elegant lap robe, a splice-rein and eleven whips of various kinds and sizes. Having secured these he once more started in hot pursuit of the suspected pedestrian.

A BRISK SOUTH-EASTERLY SNOW STORM commenced in this city on Wednesday morning, and spoiled the excellent skating on Capt. Sangfroid's Skating Rink. 'Twas rumored previously that there was to be a match game of base ball there between a couple of muffin picked nines, but Jack Frost wanted to play short stop and the Clerk of the Weather got mad because he couldn't be umpire, so he spoiled the game and the skating, allowing none but the stable keepers to profit by scoring runs in their sleighs on the, snow which fell alike on the just and unjust. The muffins are disgusted, and threaten to have the snow shovelled off the Rink —next year, after those skates are mended.

The snow stopped most of the wheels and brought out the sleighs again, about noon.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL SOCIETY of this city are considering the subject of building a new church farther westward, the present building being too small for them. At a society meeting held Monday evening, considerable diversity of opinion was shown, some desiring to repair the present church and others wishing to build a new and handsome edifice. No action was taken on the subject and the meeting was adjourned for one week, to hear the report of a committee of five appointed to prepare plans for re-modeling the church and building a new one. It is said that the Catholics desire to purchase the old house, that they may convert it into a convent,—which wouldn't be quite so much of a conversion, after all.

☞ The Portsmouth Ice Company have stored about 2000 tons of pure crystal Ice, in their various houses in and near this city, and with a few days more of good weather, will complete their supply. They use none but the best quality; and although the cutting of ice is rather hard work, it is nothing compared to the freezing-roasting process of delivering it in summer.

☞ The Portsmouth Philharmonic Society, Mr. E. A. Tilton, Director, will give the Cantata of Esther, as an Opera, (with costumes, scenery, and action at the Temple.) in the course of a few weeks. It will doubtless be the finest thing of the sort ever brought out here. Rehearsal Friday Evening, Feb. 5th, at half-past 7.

☞ The Christian Union Meeting at the North Church, in this city, on Wednesday, was well attended by ministers and people of the several societies that were invited; and would doubtless have been a large gathering, had the weather been pleasant.

FAIR QUESTIONS AND PLAIN ANSWERS; A Brief Dialogue.—

Uncle Toby.—Much obliged to the Manchester News, for publishing our temperance statement correctly and in full.

Manchester News.—How many rum-sellers have you in Portsmouth?

U. T.—Between 90 and 100 persons and firms are taxed as sellers of spirits, in the U. S. tax list. This number includes the Public Houses, the Apothecaries who sell liquors for medicinal use, and grocery stores where liquor is sold to be carried away, as well as saloons and bars.

News.—And do they vote with your party or with some other?

U. T.—The sellers do not all vote with any one party, nor is drinking or drunkenness confined to one party, sect or nationality. About one quarter part of the sellers vote usually with the Republican party—the other three quarters with the Democratic. Of the dozen or so of large grocery stores which do not sell liquors, only one or two are attended by members of the Democratic party.

News.—Are you afraid of their threats and violent assaults?

U. T.—Personally, not much afraid; but having heard many of their threats, and seen and known some of their assaults, it is easy to believe and safe to say, that their reckless violence has a considerable influence in preventing good citizens from being complainants.

In one case, some time ago, where a premeditated and violent attack was made on a complainant, two of the conspiring spectators promised on the spot to swear to what they knew was false; they went to court and did so; and two more followed in the same way; but the court did not believe them. The assailants in this case, the confederate perjurers, and their learned counsel, were all voting, and still vote, with the Democratic party.

In another case of similar violence on the same account, only one witness perjured himself,—and he and the assailant were of the same party.

To be sure, it might have happened otherwise;—but this is the way it did happen.

DOG POWER.—At the Merrimack House, Newburyport, is a famous dog called "Darkness," who by turning a wheel with his feet running, (inside, tread mill fashion,) pumps all the water required by the establishment, and thus daily does the work of two men. On one occasion during the night the dog escaped from his kennel, got into his wheel and amused himself with pumping water until the tank overflowed. We have seen him work, and he seems to enjoy it highly. They have two of those working dogs at this hotel.

There are also two large canines that in the same way cut all the hay used at the Eastern Railroad freight stables in East Boston. Dogs are much used to run churns in New York State; and horse and dog power might be introduced to much advantage in this vicinity on farms.

☞ The third annual Charity Ball is to come off at Congress Hall, Tuesday Evening, Feb. 9. Those inclined to be charitable, or who wish to enjoy a good dance, can secure tickets at Mr. Foster's Bookstore, or of Mr. C. March, who as usual is manager general of this institution.

☞ We regret to learn that the wife of Albert Laighton the poet, of this city, who has been suffering from disease for several months, is now lying very seriously ill.

☞ Hon. John H. Bailey of this city was chosen one of the Vice Presidents of the New England Agricultural Society, at the annual meeting at Boston, on Tuesday.

POMEROY'S DEMOCRAT.—This new paper has a wonderful circulation. In nearly every town in the country the democrats and workingmen are getting up clubs for it. It is the boldest, sharpest paper published, and walks into Congress and the Bondholders regardless of results. The paper has over fifty thousand subscribers in the State of New York alone. Send for sample copies, which are sent free, and see it for yourselves. Address M. M. Pomeroy, Printing House Square, New York City. f4

SINGING,
SPEAKING AND READING.
Mr. W. J. PARKERSON would ask the attention of all persons interested in these arts, to his SYSTEMATIC DRILL for securing the most pure, easy, energetic and prolonged use of the Vocal Organs.
This Drill, the result of patient study and varied experience, both in Europe and America, is based on an improved combination of the best methods for beautifying and perfecting the voice as exemplified by the great masters.
Mr. Parkerson claims that more solid and brilliant results can be reached in a shorter time by his peculiar mode of practice than in any other way.
Especially will Teachers of Vocal Music find the information he offers inestimably valuable to them.
He invites an examination of his system and of his testimonials.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!
LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED
PERFECTED SPECTACLES
and Eye Glasses.
The large and increasing sales of these SUPERIOR GLASSES
Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.
With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

1000 MILES
UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD
ARE NOW COMPLETED.
As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but
267 MILES REMAIN
To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.
Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.
By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.
THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST
ARE
Payable in Gold.
Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.
SECURITY OF THE BONDS.
It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN
FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,
The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,940,233.19
" Express	51,423.06
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626 27
" Government troops	104 077.77
" " freight	449,449 33
" Contractors' men	291,179 09
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,056,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.
As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.
Subscriptions will be received in
PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—
JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,
And by the Company's Advertised Agents thro'out the United States.
Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.
A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a] report of the progress of the work to that date, and] a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM
IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.
☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.
Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

Morning Chronicle.

The Beginning of our Navy.

One of our exchanges gives the following reminiscences of the early history of our Navy:

It was toward the latter part of the year 1775 that Congress determined to fit out a naval force to assist in the defence of American Independence. John Paul Jones was appointed on the 22d day of December, 1775, first lieutenant of the Alfred, and on board that vessel, before Philadelphia, he hoisted the flag of independent America with his own hands, the first time it was ever displayed. The necessity of enlisting seamen was pressing, and was rendered particularly difficult from the fact that numbers of them, with that patriotism and courage for which they are distinguished, had already enrolled in the army. It is a fact that the seamen, almost to a man, had entered into the army before the fleet was set on foot, and that there were four or five thousand seamen in the land service at the time of the organization of the fleet.

On the 13th of December, 1775, Congress directed that thirteen frigates should be built, which were denominated the Congress, Randolph, Hanoock, Washington, Trumbull, Raleigh, Effingham, Montgomery, Warren, Boston, Virginia, Providence, and Delaware. Certain irregularities which caused the failures of one or more expeditions in the early part of the war arose from the omission of Congress to establish a due gradation of rank among the officers of the Navy. It was not until three months after the Declaration of Independence that the relative rank of officers in the naval service was established.

On the 10th of October, 1776, it was settled in the following manner, and a vessel assigned to each: James Nicholson, Virginia, 28; John Manley, Hancock, 32; Hector M'Neil, Boston, 24; Dudley Saltonstall, Trumbull, 28; Nicholas Biddle, Randolph, 32; Thomas Thompson, Raleigh, 32; John Barry, Effingham, 28; Thomas Read, Washington, 32; Thomas Grinnell, Congress, 28; Charles Alexander, Delaware, 24; Lambert Wickes, Reprisal, 16; Abraham Whipple, Providence, 28; John B. Hopkins, Warren, 32; John Hodge, Montgomery, 24; Wm. Hallock, Lexington, 16; Hoysted Hacker, Hampden,—; Isaiah Robinson, Andrew Doria, 14; John Paul Jones, Providence, 12; James Josia,——; Elisha Hinman, Alfred, 28; Joseph Olney, Cabot, 16; James Robinson, Sachem, 10; John Young, Independence, 10; Elisha Warner, Fly, —; Lieut. John Baldwin, Wasp, 8; Lieut. Thomas Alberton, Mosquito, 4. The uniform of the officers of the Navy had been regulated by the Marine Committee on the 5th of September, 1776. It is thus described in a resolution of the committee:

"Resolved, That the uniform of the officers in the Navy of the United States be as follows: Captain—Blue cloth with red lappels, slash cuff, stand-up collar, flat yellow buttons, breeches, red waistcoat with narrow lace. Lieutenant—Blue with red lappels, a round cuff faced, stand-up collar, yellow buttons, blue breeches, red waistcoat plain. Master—Blue, with lappels, round cuff, blue breeches and red waistcoat. Midshipmen—Blue lappelled coat, a round cuff faced with red, stand-up collar, with red at the button and button-hole, blue breeches and red waistcoat."

The national flag was not definitely established until June, 1777. On the 15th of November, 1776, the Congress granted a bounty to the officers and men for the capture of vessels of the enemy; established the relative rank of the officers in the navy and army, and fixed the pay of the officers and men in the navy. The relative rank of officers in the navy and army is thus settled: "The rank of the naval officers to be to the rank of officers in the land service as follows: Admiral, as a general; vice-admiral, as a lieutenant-general; rear-admiral as a major-general; commodore, as a brigadier-general; captain of a ship of forty guns and upward, as a colonel; captain of a ship of twenty to forty guns, as a lieutenant-colonel; captain of a ship of ten to twenty guns, as a major; lieutenant in the navy, as a captain."

How Much Better is a Man than a Brute? In cunning he undoubtedly excels all; but the dog certainly equals him in devotion—the dove in constancy—the ox in patience—the bee in architecture—the nightingale in music—the cock and bull in courage, and nearly all the animals in that unerring instinct—especial gift of God—which sometimes surpass reason.

Man, in spite of his reason, and the additional restraints which governments throw around him, falls into depths of degradation of which brutes are incapable. It is not a libel upon the latter, when depraved wretches are called brutes? Do brutes get drunk? Do brutes chew to tobacco? Do brutes abuse and torment and kill their mates, or make slaves and drudges of them? In all the annals of heroism can you find devotion more touching than that of the dog! In all history can you find a government so permanently successful as the bee's?—Our Dumb Animals.

—"Hallo, this house," yelled a man on the steps of an up-town mansion one cold night lately, at the same time ringing the door-bell violently. "What do you want?" asked the owner, cautiously thrusting his head from an upper window. "I'm your cousin from Sandusky, and I want to stay here all night." "Well, you may stay there and welcome, if you'll keep quiet, and let the door bell alone," said the hospitable fellow inside, as he shut down the window.

—The late elections of United States Senators should be called "The Slaughter of the Anti-impeachers."

Jersey vs. Alderney Cattle.—These are popularly considered to be one and the same—but in his recent able work on Jerseys, says the New England Farmer:

Mr. Allen describes certain cattle under the term Alderney, and all the class is frequently spoken of by this name. The cattle, however, which he has so accurately described, are in all respects the cattle from the Island of Jersey; and there is a marked distinction between those and any others.—The Guernsey cattle are somewhat larger than the Jerseys, are coarser in their make, usually of a much darker color, and the head thick and fleshy. The Alderneys, on the contrary, are much smaller than the Jerseys, and quite unlike them in several particulars. The Jersey breeders are just as watchful against the introduction of the Guernsey or Alderney stock into their herds, as they would be to keep out our "native" red cattle.

☞ The statement is made by one of the N. E. Farmer's correspondents, that the rich milk, cream and butter of the Alderney or Jersey cows is especially valuable on account of its superior keeping qualities. One milkman asserts that milk from his Jersey cows will keep sweet from ten to twelve hours longer than from any other cows in his herd.

To Cure a Dog of Sheep-Killing. Let him see the sheep he has killed; in his presence take off the pelt, fasten it tightly around him, and make him wear it from one to three days. We think you will never be troubled by his meddling with sheep again.

— Busbequius says that "there is no creature so gentle as a Turkish horse, nor more respectful to his master, because they treat their horses with great lenity."

—No one need fear getting out of the road in a dark night, if he finchecks his horse and permits him to pick his way. His scent is infallible.

— Bonner feeds his horses from a box on the floor, he believing it is natural for them to take their feed from a level with their feet.—Of course it is.

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to families, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, a saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to Fine Flavored Teas, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and if any find them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders.

Address all orders and communications to the

EASTMAN & KENDALL,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

Licensed Wholesale Dealers by the U. S.

Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a White Bed Quilt or a Silver-Plated Revolving Table Castor, with Five Bottles. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"What We Saw at the Hub.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar-establishment of Messrs. Eastman & Kendall.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as 'familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are adopted by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past five years, to put down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

THE LONG STORY.

The shadows of the little wood
Closed round us in the burning noon,
The lucent of shadows the leaves
Yet tender with the green of June.

And there, while in a happy dream,
We wandered inward from the sun,
Winding and turning at our will,
The famous story was begun—

A story prodigal of love,
Of youth, and beauty born of youth;
Of sorrow tempered by romance,
And trial glorified by truth.

Long, long ago it all had chanced—
Or was it haply passing then?
It might be true of any time
Since women were beloved of men.

I listened, yet I did not heed;
A rippling voice was all I heard,
That, softly cadenced, had for me
The music of a singing-bird.

The tale went on, the voice I heard,
Yet all that I recall is this.—
That earnest face, those dreamy eyes,
The little mouth too sweet to kiss.

The tale went on, with many a pause,
With frequent outbursts of delight,
As breaks and openings of the wood
Its hidden beauties gave to sight.

A pheasant gleamed across our path,
A squirrel shot a sudden turn,
And now the cuckoo sang, and now
We waded coolest breadths of fern.

The little wood was long to cross;
Its winding paths were hard to find;
And hours had fled ere we emerged.
And left its pleasant gloom behind.

And then beside the rustic fence,
Whence spread the meadows many a mile,
We linger idly hand in hand,—
And still the tale went on the while.

The evening shadows lengthened out;
The heavy rooks winged home to nest;
The little wood was fringed with light
Against the fiercely flaming west.

The sun set in a fleecy haze,
Through bars of crimson and of gold;
The sky grew cool, the stars come out,
And yet the story was not told!

GOV. SEYMOUR UPON CHEESE AS FOOD.—In a speech made a few days ago before the American Dairymen's Association, ex-Governor Horatio Seymour spoke as follows of cheese as an article of food:

"Cheese ought to be more generally used for food in this country. The American people have lost the cheese-eating propensities of their forefathers. Cheese is the cheapest of all articles of food that can be used. Compared with meat, there are very important economies connected with it. It requires no fuel to prepare it. It is more nutritious and we must look upon it as a substantial article of food. It is not a "cheap luxury," it is a cheap necessity. He hoped steps would be taken to present cheese as an article of common food to the favorable consideration of the poor people of our cities. The attention of our Government should be called to the value of cheese as food for our armies. There is no article so cheap for soldiers' rations; no article so nutritious; no article so easy of transportation."

THE "WAGON" CEMENT.—A new device for making a sensation, and "raising the wind," has recently been noticed in the streets of cities and large towns. A wagon loaded with hay or wood, is drawn about, covered over with placards extolling a wonderful cement, the practical value of which is proved by the fact that the leather traces by which the load is drawn, are held together by the cement. This cement is a well known and very simple article, made by taking the common fish glue, dissolving it in equal weight of warm water, and to each pint of this solution adding two fluid ounces of alcohol, and half an ounce of gum mastic dissolved in a little alcohol. Mix thoroughly and keep in a well stopped bottle. It is a good cement for many purposes, when continued moisture is not present, but it is much cheaper to make than to buy it of the wagon pedlers.

A WITNESS in a trial in Winchester, England, before Mr. Baron Martin, persisted in telling what other people said, and interlarded his testimony so often with "said I" and "said he" that the counsel was utterly bewildered. The Court attempted to set the man right; "My good man, tell us exactly what happened." "Yes, my lord, certainly. I said I should not have the pig." "Well, what was his answer?" "He said that he had been keeping the pig for me, and that he——" "No, no, he did not say that—he could not have said it; he spoke in the first person." "I was the first person that spoke, my lord." "I mean this—don't bring in the third person—repeat his exact words." "There was no third person, my lord; only him and me." "Look here, my good fellow—he did not say he had been keeping the pig; he said 'I have been keeping it.'" "I assure you, my lord there was no mention of your lordship at all. We are on two different stories, my lord; and if anything had been said about your lordship, I must have heard it."

—"John, John," shouted an old gentleman to his son, "get up; the day is breaking." "Very well," said John, "let it break; it owes us nothing." Interval of twenty minutes. "John, John; here the sun is up before you." "Very well," said John; "he has further to go than we have."

THE EQUITABLE
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,
Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,
The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.
All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed", and "Proprietary" Companies.
Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.
Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.
Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.
(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)
Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)
The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.
All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.
No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.
Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES, Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Restlessness, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to the magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give medical treatment a fair chance. Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.
IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, night-sweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by such active local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was incomprehensible to me why she should not, except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional invigorant, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or satisfactory in its probable effects. And the result completely fulfilled my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular in their movements, the night-sweats had ceased, and she began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and soon ceased altogether. In another fortnight there was no sensible vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal and refreshing, and the general health decidedly improved. Only a few weeks more elapsed. The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required. Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She seems perfectly well. Her joy over restored health is naturally most exuberant. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She would fain try to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that has ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice President.
EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.
This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Mutual Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

FRIDAY, FEB. 5, 1869.

LACK OF FAITH.—The Concord Patriot says, in an editorial:

The Democrats constitute a majority of the honest voters of the State. If these men will go to the polls on the 9th of March, they can make Gen. Bedel the next Governor of New Hampshire. They can do it and they want to do it; the only difficulty is to make them believe they can do it.

That is a great difficulty.—They don't believe they can do it,—nor do they believe (except the extreme fools) that they are a majority of voters, honest or otherwise. They know better.

Here is another extract from the same article:

In a word, there are reasons to believe that, but for the apathy and discouragement resulting from causes which need not be named, the Democracy of New Hampshire might now make a more vigorous and brilliant canvass than ever before. All that we need is the courage and the will to do it.

What?have the unterrified got frightened? or the old wheel-horses got fractious and balky? or the majority of honest voters got so disgusted with the false hopes held out by their democratic papers every year for the last dozen,—that they are indifferent and discouraged now! The Patriot did not use to talk in this way, when they had a majority.

The great difficulty is, that ever since the Democratic party in New Hampshire was sold out to the slave power, in Frank Pierce's presidency,—it has been in hard sledding. Its copperhead movements during the rebellion, especially the great 4th of July gathering, and their favoring of the rebels generally, are remembered, and justly operate against their success.

The News.

Congress.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, the proposition to strike out the appropriation of $12,500 for paying the Judges and Arbitrators under the treaty to suppress the slave trade, was again considered.

Mr. Sumner again urged the Senate to stand by the treaty, or, if the time had come for its termination, to terminate it in the regular way. He reminded the Senator from New Hampshire (Mr. Patterson) that before the treaty New York was a mere den of slave traders and, in conclusion, repeated the expression of his profound regret that any Senator should be found ready and willing to strike down a treaty made for so glorious an object.

Mr. Patterson of New Hampshire, said: if the Senator from Massachusetts had not treated us to another feast of empty eloquence, I certainly would not speak again on the subject. But that Senator persists in stigmatizing me as seeking to strike down a treaty which keeps the African slave trade off the sea. That is an entire misrepresentation of my purpose, and he must not expect me to sit here quietly and be abused and calumniated by him or any other man in this hall. I care not what his position; it does not justify him in such a course, and I will not patiently endure it. Calling names settles nothing.

Why, sir, I might select a Senator here and call him the most patient of animals with a parcel of books on his shoulder, deeming himself the national divinity, but that would not make him so. The slave trade is dead, and I know all the instrumentalities by which the great consummation was secured. I honor the efforts of the gentleman from Massachusetts in that direction, but I cannot quietly allow him to stigmatize me as a friend to slavery or slave trade, because I have made this motion in the interest of national economy. In our official position here we are peers, and I do not think it is in good taste for any man—I do not care what his position in the Senate or before the House is—to attempt to lord it over other Senators or to play the dictator, and I, for one, will not endure it.

An amendment, requesting the President to ask Great Britain to put an end to that part of the treaty which required each government to keep up mixed courts, and providing that if that government consent, the salaries of the officers of the United States, connected with said courts, shall cease, was adopted.

In the House, Mr. Ela of N. H., from the Committee on Printing, reported the joint resolution in reference to the stationery contract of the Interior Department with Dempsey and O'Toole. It directs the Secretary of the Interior not to receive or make payment for the 300,000 sheets of bond paper claimed to have been ordered at $24,000, and to withhold the payment of $238 for printing 17,000 patent heads, the work not having been performed; also to withhold the value of 40,000 sheets of bond paper, at 8 cents per sheet, now in the custody of the contractors; also to deduct from their unpaid bill the amount charged for goods not included in the contract above the ordinary market price. Mr. Ela made a brief explanation of the objects and reasons for the joint resolution.

After further discussion, the joint resolution was passed without a division.

Mr. Ela, from the same committee, reported a bill to provide stationery for Congress and the several departments. The bill provides that the heads of each of the Executive and Judicial Departments in Washington, and the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House, shall have estimates made quarterly, and at each succeeding session of Congress, of the stationery required for the year, and that the same is to be supplied by the Congressional Printer under contract. The bill was passed.

CATTLE MARKET AT BRIGHTON.

[FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, FEB. 4.

[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

At market for the current week—Cattle 1628;—Sheep and Lambs 6,308; Swine 150; number of Western Cattle 1262; Eastern Cattle 106; Working Oxen and Northern Cattle 225.

Prices Beef Cattle—Extra $13 50 @ $14 00; first quality $12 50 @ $13 25; second quality $11 25 @ $12 25; third quality $9 00 @ $11 00; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $6 00@$9 00 ⅌ 100 lbs;—(the total weight of hides, forward dressed beef.)

Brighton Hides 10 @ 10½c ⅌ lb; Country Hides 9 @ 9½c ⅌ lb.

Brighton Tallow 8½ @ 8c per lb; Country Tallow 7½ @ 8c.

Lamb Skins $1 @ $1 50 each; Sheep Skins $1 @ $1 50 each; Calf Skins 20 @ 23c ⅌ lb

The quality of the Beeves this week from the West was mostly of a common grade; a few of the best ones sold at 14½ @ 14½c ⅌ lb. Prices are not quotably lower than last week. The market last week closed dull, and several dealers held their stock over to this week, but they cannot obtain any better prices than they could have sold for the week previous. The advance on sheep was light, but enough for the demand, as Working Oxen are selling very slow, and in some instances at a loss from those who have purchased at the storm the trade did not open so early as it usually does when the trains get in early.

Working Oxen—Sales range from $118 @ $30; two-year olds $30 @ $45; three-year olds $45 @ $60 ⅌ head. Most of the small Cattle that are in a fair condition are sold for Beef.

Working Oxen—There was a fair supply in market, but the trade was dull. We quote sales at $180, $165, $200, $210, $220, $225, $240, $260 @ $275 ⅌ pair.

Milch Cows—Extra $85 @ $115; Ordinary $45 to $60; Store Cows $35 @ $45 ⅌ head. There were but few Milch Cows in market. Prices depend a great deal upon the fancy of the purchaser.

Sheep and Lambs—There was a fair supply in market. We quote sales of 100 Western Sheep, average weight 105 lbs, at 8c ⅌ lb; 200, average weight 150 lbs, at 7½c; 400, average weight 85 lbs, at 6½c ⅌ lb. Most of the Western Sheep were taken at a commission, costing from 6 @ 8c ⅌ lb.

Swine—But few in market. Prices—wholesale 11½c ⅌ lb; retail 11½ @ 13½c ⅌ lb.

AGRICULTURE feeds us; to a great extent it clothes us; without it we could not have Manufactures, and should not have Commerce. These all stand together like pillars in a cluster—the largest in the centre, and that largest is Agriculture.—Daniel Webster.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antisepetic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although it may be perhaps, than is required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material or the system as fast as it is required. The objects fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the bile, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into a mild and wholesome chyme. If, on the other hand, there is a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nineteen cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, flatulenfits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which mankind are subject, proceed primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the Jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not prefer the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches other than this, which is so well known, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy a watch other than a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of these unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

When the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some one or more Waltham Watches may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say.

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by a machine, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to all our products at the lowest possible price, in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together.

WE CAN THEREFORE AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, OF EQUITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the benefit of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have employed in our employment every head of department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other count y.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, and our gold cases are warranted, but for no other factories, our being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are sold by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a reduced profit, we have more reason to fear competition, the Company invariably declining offers of a retail character.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was said, but from the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something pushed or "slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning. "Because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. 1i25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To those three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, and hence throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw off the acids which ferment with the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, lectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to work for food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up. The patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was warned to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless those patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. 4iyjs4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE NEW SECRETARY OF THE NAVY. The Boston Journal says "It is said to be a fixed fact that New England will have but one representative in the Cabinet of President Grant, and in all probability he is not at present in public office."

This may or may not be correct, but should it prove true, we know of no public man in New England who would be more acceptable to the country at large in the position above named, than our honorable and honored, able and well-qualified fellow-citizen, Ex-Governor Ichabod Goodwin. In various positions of trust and responsibility, he has often been weighed, and never found wanting. Fortunate indeed would our navy and country be, could they secure so competent a Secretary.

New Hampshire is a small State, but her influence is always great. The Republicans of the State opened the grand Grant campaign last Spring, and in the initial contest bore proudly at their head the name of Gen. Grant for President. No harder and more bitter political campaign has ever been fought, at any time, in any State in this Union, and the triumph of the Republican ticket was the triumph of the great leader who is so soon to take the place of the recreant who now occupies the Presidential chair.

The first Grant Club in the country was organized in Portsmouth, and it would be peculiarly gratifying should our respected fellow citizen, (who, while Governor of the State, equipped the first three years' regiment of volunteers which marched to battle from New Hampshire, the gallant old Second, and personally advanced the funds from his private resources,) be tendered a portfolio in the Cabinet of Gen. Grant. Incorruptible, and untrammeled by any connexion with cliques or rings, energetic and efficient, as shown by his action in the past, our generous, noble-hearted Ex-Governor would have no superior in executive ability in the Cabinet of Gen. Grant.

DIED, in this city, on Wednesday evening, Mrs. HELEN MAR LAIGHTON, wife of Albert Laighton, and only daughter of Jeremiah D. Goodrich, Esq. An amiable and lovely woman, whose life was love, and who lived in and for her friends.

From long intimate acquaintance with both families, we may perhaps be permitted to say, that we have rarely known so real and true a marriage—so complete a blending of soul and heart, as this now rudely sundered; and the blow falls with almost overwhelming severity on both the husband and mother of deceased, between the latter of whom and her daughter there existed a sisterly sort of affection, very beautiful but rather unusual. The aged mother of the bereaved husband, now fourscore and three years, also sadly misses her dear adopted daughter; and all who are left have but to submit to the ways of that Providence, past finding out, with calls to their long home the fresh, young and beautiful, and spares the fully ripe yet a little longer to cheer and sanctify this earthly habitation. F.

KITTERY.—Rev. Mr. Goss, of Lynn, Mass., has accepted a call of the Christian Society at Kittery Foreside, to become their pastor, and will enter his new field of labor on the first Sunday in April.

One of Garibaldi's drummer boys, Rev. Antonio Arreghi, will lecture next Monday evening in the new Methodist Church, on Italy, her customs, scenery, &c., the proceeds to go towards the expenses of this new Society.

—Twenty-two dollars, in an Albany savings bank, has rolled up to one hundred and twenty-three in thirty five years.—N. Y. Paper.

$20 deposited in the Portsmouth Savings Bank in 1824, amounts now to $297,—which is more than twice the above rate of increase.

☞ After the snow and rain, and strong gale of Wednesday evening, we were visited with thunder and lightning, heavy and vivid, about midnight, continuing for half an hour or more. We have now the best prospect for sleighing, of the season, and things have more the appearance of Winter.

☞ We are gratified to learn that Wendell Phillips, Esq., has consented to deliver at the Temple in this city on the evening of February 17th, his interesting, beautiful and favorite Lecture on the Lost Arts. That will be a treat indeed.

NAVAL.—It is reported that Asst. Constructor Samuel H. Pook is relieved from duty at this Naval Station, and ordered to report at Pensacola.
